HUNGARY SEEKS PLEDGE IF IT RENEWS NEGOTIATIONS

Insists Prague First Accept Its Terms in Principle and Guarantee Troop Withdrawal From Area Involved If They Are Ceded

CZECH ARMY EARLIER REFUSED TO BUDGE

Meantime, Budapest Puts 500,000 Men Under Arms and Mobilizes Agricultural Workers to Provide Food.

By the Associated Press.

BUDAPEST, Oct. 15.—Hungary is ready to negotiate further with Czechoslovakia if its demands are first accepted in principle by the Prague Government, it was disclosed tonight.

An informed source said the Czechoslovak Government in addition would have to give sufficient guarantees that if an agreement were reached, Czechoslovak troops would evacuate the territories involved without resistance.

Hungary looked to Czechoslovakia to make the first move for any resumption of negotiations.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the Komaron conference did not break up Thursday so much because of differences over territories concerned as because Czechoslovak army general shortly before the last meeting indicated the Czechoslovak army would not yield any territory.

Army in the Way.

The spokesman cited an announcement over the Bratislava radio station on behalf of the Czechoslovak army, stating that Czechoslovak troops under no circumstances would permit Hungary to take possession of the territories it claimed.

The spokesman added that Hungarian negotiators not only regarded such statements as extremely serious but as making further negotiations at that time futile and as necessitating Hungarian mobilization as a precautionary measure.

Hungarian officials asserted no steps had yet been taken toward the resumption of negotiations.

Hungary's declaration that the four Powers of the Munich accord, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, should act to settle the Hungarian-Czechoslovak dispute apparently aroused little enthusiasm abroad.

Two Powers Uninterested.

The views of Great Britain and France as reported here seemed to be that such a conference was not needed—that Hungary and Czechoslovakia should find a way to settle their dispute themselves.

Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini told Hungarian representatives who arrived in Munich and Rome yesterday that they felt confident an agreement could be reached with Germany and Italy aiding Hungary and Czechoslovakia to resume negotiations.

The Hungarian Government was studying reports brought back from Munich and Rome, and it was said at 6:30 p. m. that no decision had been reached.

Differences of Opinion.

Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler seemed to approve the Hungarian claims, in principle, and strongly advised Czechoslovakia to come to terms with Hungary, it was stated at the Budapest Foreign Office.

However, Germany and Italy demanded that the city of Bratislava remain with Slovakia, whereas Hungary had demanded its cession.

Another difference of opinion seemed to prevail, this one between Chancellor Hitler and Premier Mussolini on the question of whether the Ruthenians of extreme Eastern Czechoslovakia should hold a plebiscite and, if their vote should favor union with Hungary, whether a common Hungarian-Polish frontier would be the result.

Germany was said to be strongly opposed to such a frontier because it would be against Germany's strategic economic interest. Premier Mussolini was said to be insisting on a plebiscite.

Internal difficulties which seemed to have developed this morning because of Hungarian Nazi attacks on the Government of Premier Bela Imredi were believed to have been shoved aside tonight in the interests of national unity.

Meanwhile Hungary speeded up defense measures by ordering mobilization of agricultural workers

Labor Board Examiner Rules for CIO in Western Union Case

Finds 20-Year-Old Employe Association is Company-Dominated, Recommends it be Disbanded and Dues Returned.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A Labor Relations Board trial examiner recommended today that the board order the Western Union Telegraph Co. to disestablish the Association Western Union Employes, which, he said, was company dominated.

The examiner, Alvin J. Rockwell, recommended also that the company restore to its employes all money now in its possession or control which it had deducted from their wages for dues to the association. Last year these deductions amounted to $67,004.25, he said. The company would not have to restore death benefits funds, which are administered by the association.

The board's investigation was based on a complaint by the American Communications Association, a CIO affiliate.

The examiner said that evidence indicated the company had aided the Association Western Union Employes in a variety of ways, especially by a policy of "watchful encouragement," free railway transportation for association officers to conventions, permission for the transaction of association business during working hours, distribution by company supervisors of association literature to new employes, and the collection of association dues.

Rockwell said the association's active membership in August, 1937, was stated to be 27,447, and that it purported to represent a clear majority of the company's land line employes. The organization is 20 years old.

MAN KILLED BY AUTO; DRIVER FAILS TO STOP

Anthony Schuck, Private Watchman, Struck at Marion Street and Broadway.

Anthony Schuck, licensed private watchman, was killed last night at 11:10 o'clock when struck by an automobile, the driver of which continued on, at Marion street and Broadway. Witnesess told police the car was a gray cabriolet and the driver was a uniformed Negro chauffeur.

After striking Schuck, who was about 50 years old and lived at 1559A South Broadway, the automobile was driven east in Marion street. Schuck, who patrolled a beat in the Lynch Street police district, was pronounced dead of a crushed skull on arrival at City Hospital.

Witnesses furnished police with two license numbers for the automobile. One number and a description of the car was broadcast over the police radio system.

ILLINOIS HUNTERS FIND DUCKS FEW, MOSQUITOES PLENTIFUL

Men Swathed in Netting in Peoria Region Report Shooting "Worst Ever Known."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Illinois duck hunters found mosquitoes plentiful and ducks scarce today, the first of the season.

From the goose country of the South to the marshes and waterholes of the North, thousands of sportsmen fought hordes of mosquitoes from their perches in blinds and skiffs.

The shooting on the Illinois River in the vicinity of Peoria was described by a veteran observer as "the worst ever known." Only young ducks came down in small flights, due to the prolonged mild weather. The same was true of the Belvidere area.

Hunters swathed in mosquito netting presented a ghostly appearance in the morning mists. The warm weather kept thousands of blue-winged teal in the State's northern waters. Those, together, with other varieties of ducks, snipe and mudhens, provided what sport there was.

FASCIST REXISTS ON BALLOT IN BELGIAN ELECTIONS TODAY

Party Puts Up Candidates for Communal Councils for First Time.

By the Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 15. — Belgium's communal electors will vote tomorrow in the "petticoat poll" held once every six years to choose members of the country's 2671 communal councils. The election is called the "petticoat poll" because women voters outnumbered the men by 161,379 on the lists of nearly 5,500,000 electors.

Voters will choose only the members of the councils, the Burgomasters being appointed by the King. The Fascist Rexists are among the candidates for the first time, and the possibility existed of a change in the existing party set-up, unaltered at the last three elections.

The communal election is restricted to local governments, but political observers said a sweeping Rexist victory might well cause dissolution of Parliament.

WPA ROLLS REACH NEW HIGH FOR 8TH CONSECUTIVE WEEK

Missouri's Total Work Relief Employment Declines, but National Figure Rises to 3,120,361.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Work relief enrollment reached a new high Oct. 1 for the eighth consecutive week. On the first of this month, officials said, the Works Progress Administration was providing jobs for 3,120,361 persons, an increase of 8802 over the number for the week ending Sept. 24. On Oct. 2 last year the enrollment was 1,448,000.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 15.—State Works Progress Administrator Matthew S. Murray said today that, while National WPA enrollment increased last month, Missouri's total employment declined from 113,507 on Sept. 1 to 112,113 on Oct. 1. The 1394 decline, Murray said, was due almost wholly to the closing of WPA projects to release workers for cotton picking ing in the southeastern part of the state.

LOUISVILLE ORDERS PHONE CO. TO STOP SERVING GAMBLERS

Southern Bell Manager Promises Co-Operation in Move to Stamp Out Handbooks.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 15. — Safety Director Sam McMeekin said today the Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. had been ordered to discontinue leased wire service to handbooks.

The announcement came a day after Police Chief John Malley ordered all handbooks to close by Monday or face a "thorough cleanup."

McMeekin said M. A. Erskine, general manager of the telephone company, had assured him of a desire to "co-operate 100 per cent."

The safety director said 65 bookmakers in the city subscribed to telephone distribution of race news.

The order to the telephone company, McMeekin said, was made pursuant to a city ordinance.

HONGKONG CUT OFF FROM CANTON BY JAPANESE THRUST

FIGHTING 25 MILES FROM CROWN COLONY

Disorganized Provincials Pushed Back by Spearhead of Troops Trying to Sever Arms Route.

By the Associated Press.

HONGKONG, Oct. 15.—All communications between this British Crown Colony and Canton were interrupted tonight as Japanese forces broadened their onslaught on the South China coast.

Railway and highway bridges had been destroyed at several points by the aerial bombardments which shielded Japanese expeditionary forces surging toward Canton and across its links with the coast.

Booms had been placed in the Pearl River to guard the city from direct naval assault. A Japanese landing on the west shore of the River Delta cut a highway connection between Canton and Portuguese Macao, opposite Hongkong at the river mouth.

The Japanese were reported to have struck on the west delta shore—apparently the second major landing operation of the week — under cover of an intense aerial bombardment. The highway was cut before provincial defenses in that sector could be organized.

Spearhead Thrust Westward.

A Japanese column, part of the army of 40,000 which landed Wednesday at Bias Bay, was thrusting westward from the captured and ruined village of Tamshui. One report placed this spearhead within 12 miles of the Canton-Kowloon Railway.

This railway is a lifeline link between Hongkong and Canton. The Japanese column was reported shoving its way through numerically greater, but still largely disorganized Kwangtung and Kwangsi provincial troops. This part of the invasion was taking place within 25 miles of Hongkong.

The Japanese Consul-General at Hongkong was notified by the Tokyo Foreign Office that severe fighting was expected within a radius of 125 miles around Canton and within a 60-mile radius of Swatow, Kwangtung province port about 225 miles east of Canton.

Representatives of foreign powers were requested to notify their nationals that to travel in these war zones was unsafe and that Japan could not guarantee their protection.

Capture of Waichow Reported.

The Japanese reported capture of Waichow, north of Bias Bay. Waichow was in the path of a separate offensive, either directly on Hongkong, 80 air miles away, or against the Canton-Hankow Railway and other connections with the interior north of Canton.

Chinese would not admit Waichow had fallen, insisting the provincial armies of several hundred thousand men were stiffening their resistance.

There were reports of an air raid on the Japanese fleet at Bias Bay. The reports lacked official confirmation.

There was a large naval concentration in South China waters, representing not only Japan, whose warships were strung out along the coast, but other powers with interests in China.

In Hongkong Harbor, base of the British China Squadron, there was a United States submarine flotilla with two destroyers from Manila, a French cruiser, and four British cruisers, six destroyers and two mine-laying submarines from Singapore, as well as numerous auxiliary craft.

Important Arms Route.

The Canton-Kowloon Railway has been a lifeline both for the Chinese and residents of the British colony, serving in the transportation of war material shipments reaching Hongkong ports from abroad and in the transportation of foodstuffs from Chinese territory to sustain Hongkong.

Japanese naval forces increased their efforts to blockade the South China coast. The landing of supplementary expeditionary forces was expected, if not already started.

A landing at Swatow, in easternmost Kwangtung, was foreseen as an effort to further the Japanese attempt to drive a wedge between Canton and Central China.

Chinese said the resistance in Kwangtung, where defense forces far outnumbered the attackers, was improving by the hour. Kwang-

PLANE PACT WITH GERMANY OPPOSED

Aerial-Attack Defenses Now in Mass Production; Air Frontier Still 'On the Rhine.'

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 15. — London's anti-aircraft defenses were criticised today by B. H. Liddell Hart, a military expert and writer, who asserted at the Emergency Youth Peace Conference that "barely 100 guns" had been available for the city's defense against air raids during the crisis over Czechoslovakia.

Comparing London's defenses with those of Paris, he said the latter was ringed with 700 guns and that, moreover, London's defenses were "improvised with various weapons much more dangerous to civilian life and property than to attacking aircraft."

Under the circumstances, he said, the surrender of Czechoslovakia at Munich was justified.

War Minister Leslie Hore-Belisha has announced a hope of doubling in the next year the nearly 50,000 men operating anti-aircraft guns and supplementary equipment, with the necessary guns now in mass production.

Meanwhile, the reaction in authoritative quarters to what was termed "feelers through press and otherwise" suggesting that Britain accept an air pact with Germany making the Nazis supreme in the skies was unfavorable.

Britain's Air Frontier.

These quarters said Britain's aviation policy was still based on the statement in 1936 of the former Prime Minister, Earl Baldwin, that Britain's air frontier is "on the Rhine."

A Britain's air fleet must be equal to that of any Power "within striking distance"—in other words, it must be equal to Germany's—was the opinion in these quarters.

Berlin dispatches said that when Chancellor Adolf Hitler was ready to discuss an air pact with other nations it was well understood in foreign embassies he would demand an air force sufficiently large to match the combined air fleets of England, France and Soviet Russia.

The Foreign Office at Berlin denied, however, that an air pact with Britain was now under consideration.

It was said authoritatively that editors of Air Minister Hermann Wilhelm Goering's Essener National Zeitung had no idea of intimating possible early denunciation of the British-German naval pact of 1935 when they wrote: "Responsible English circles should remember Germany might be compelled to revise the balance of power in case of a race for armaments."

Naval Pact With Germany.

The naval pact bound Germany to limit its navy to 35 per cent of the British fleet tonnage. Britain contended its extended empire demanded a vastly greater sea power than Germany required.

British official circles repeated that, while they were always ready to discuss air pacts and aerial disarmament, they would rule out at once a limitation of aerial armaments even on the basis of existing strengths. Such a basis would legalize Germany's supremacy for as long as such an agreement was in force.

To suggestions that Hitler might get his way in the air by threatening to denounce the naval agreement, authoritative sources intimated that such strategy would fail. These sources indicated they did not fear the outcome of a naval race with Germany.

Air Defense Projects.

Aside from War Minister Hore-Belisha's project for an "overalls army"—industrial workers wearing overall uniforms and assigned to operate anti-aircraft guns and other equipment to protect their own plants in time of air raids—it was expected legislative proposals to establish a national register for war duty would be announced in King George's speech reopening Parliament Nov. 8.

Informed quarters said a special department of national defense, responsible for all branches of civilian protection, was planned. All Britons would register for some sort of service in case of emergency.

HOLLYWOOD POSTERS FOR ICKES OFFEND HIM

Indicated Secretary May Cancel "$2.20 Chance to See Cabinet Officer."

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Secretary Ickes, reputedly offended at being advertised as the attraction at a scheduled Los Angeles meeting where admission was to be charged, passed up a speaking engagement at Boulder Dam today and came to San Francisco five days ahead of time.

Amid reports that the Secretary was ill and had been taken to a hospital, Ickes said he had been indisposed because of the high altitude at Reno, Nev., where he attended a reclamation meeting this week, but that he had not consulted a physician.

Ickes explained that he did not go from Reno to Boulder Dam, 400 miles south, because of the altitude there. Boulder City's altitude is 2400 feet but there are numerous high mountains nearby. Reno's altitude is 4484 feet.

The Secretary said he was leaving San Francisco tonight but did not disclose his destination. His itinerary called for an appearance in Los Angeles next Wednesday.

In Washington a colleague of Ickes said the Secretary took offense at reports that posters had been displayed in Hollywood advertising "a chance to see a Cabinet officer at $2.20 a ticket." He said the speech, "The Crisis of Democracy," was to be delivered under auspices of the Hollywood Council for Democracy. He said it had not yet been canceled but that Ickes might refuse to deliver it because of what might be considered an affront to his position.

The speech was advertised by the Hollywood anti-Nazi League as "The most important address Ickes ever has given." The League's organ, "Hollywood Now," described Ickes as "The liberal spokesman for President Roosevelt and the most quoted member of the Cabinet." It added:

"Tickets for the Wedensday night meeting are on sale at the Hollywood anti-Nazi League. They are priced 10 cents to $1.10."

46 KILLED, 116 MISSING IN SOUTH JAPAN TYPHOON

Many Small Boats Reported Lost After Storm on Kyushu Island.

By the Associated Press.

TOKYO, Oct. 16. (Sunday).—Forty-six persons were reported dead and 116 missing today by dispatches from Kagoshima which said a typhoon had swept in on Kyushu Island, the southernmost of the Japanese chain.

High winds and rain had continued since Friday.

POLICE TO DEFLATE RECKLESS DRIVERS' TIRES IN GERMANY

New Order Says Air May Be Let Out at Spot Where They Are Caught.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—A new order today said traffic police may deflate the tires of "road hogs" and reckless drivers at the spot where they are caught.

Authorities explained the need of severe measures by the fact that despite more stringent control, the annual average of 8000 persons killed and 175,000 injured on Germany's highways remains almost stationary.

The tire-deflation order will operate in cases where drivers pass on the wrong side of the road, neglect to slow down when approaching main roads, or turn corners at excessive speeds.

Offenders also may be fined or have their licenses taken away for a period of one week to three months.

20,000 SEE SCOTTISH PEER WED HEALTH-BEAUTY LEADER

Bride, Prunella Stack, Usually Seen in Shorts, Wears Five-Yard Train at Ceremony.

By the Associated Press.

GLASGOW, Oct. 15.—Police were required to control a crowd of 20,000 which milled about Glasgow's Cathedral as Prunella Stack, leader of the Women's League of Health and Beauty, and Lord David Douglas-Hamilton were married today. Several persons fainted in the crush.

The bride, who is 23 years old, stages mass demonstrations of setting-up exercises throughout the country in the Government's "national fitness" campaign, launched last year. The bridegroom is 26 years old and is the fourth son of the thirteenth Duke of Hamilton, premier peer of Scotland.

The bride, customarily seen in public in shorts, wore a gown of parchment velvet with a five-yard train. Today it was the bridegroom whose knees were exposed. He wore full Highland dress of the Royal Stuart tartan.

RIOTERS SMASH WINDOWS IN VIENNA SYNAGOGUE

Rabbi Reported to Have Been Roughly Handled; Gangs Break Fronts of Jewish-Owned Stores.

By the Associated Press.

VIENNA, Oct. 15.—The Schiffschul synagogue, attended by Orthodox Jews, was damaged tonight by rioters who smashed its windows and marched on to other synagogues for further demonstrations.

Jews reported a rabbi had been roughly handled by the mob.

Gangs of youths have paraded through the extensive Jewish quarter for several nights breaking synagogue windows and the fronts of Jewish-owned stores.

FOUR MAIL SCHOOL MEN CONVICTED OF FRAUD

Bernard F. Trattner of One-Girl "Faculty" Civic Service Institute and Three Aids to Be Sentenced Next Thursday.

JAILED, RELEASE ON BOND REFUSED

Maximum Penalty on Each Count Five Years and $1000 Fine—Farm Boys and Girls Enrolled Made Complaint.

Bernard F. Trattner, owner and chief salesman for the Civic Service Institute, and his three associates in the business of signing up country boys and girls for mail order courses, Al Trattner, his brother, Harry Harris and Clarence Libowitz were convicted of using the mails to further a scheme to defraud by a jury in United States District Judge Charles B. Davis' court yesterday.

Sentence was deferred until Thursday. The Trattners were convicted on each of the nine counts against them. Harris and Libowitz, or Libby, were convicted on seven counts. Judge Davis directed a verdict of not guilty on two of the counts against them because they were not employed by the "institute" at the time of the writing of letters on which those counts were based.

Maximum penalty on each count is five years in the penitentiary and a $1000 fine.

The jury, which had listened to testimony for a full week, deliberated two hours and 20 minutes. After the verdict was announced, Malcolm Frank, defense lawyer, indicated he would file a motion for a new trial and said he expected to appeal from the verdict.

In Marshal's Custody.

The four convicted salesmen were placed in the City Jail, in custody of the United States Marshal. Judge Davis declined to release them on bond, after Frank had said Bernard Trattner wanted to go to Chicago to make arrangements for the care of his two children. The Court explained such arrangements should have been made earlier, but added that the matter could be brought up again, presumably Monday.

Prosecution of the case against the correspondence school cost the Government more than $2700 injury and witness fees and mileages. Fifty-nine persons were subpenaed by the Government but about 20 were not called to testify after the Court had remarked that the evidence was becoming cumulative. Each witness got 5 cents a mile for transportation to and from his home and $4.50 a day for lodging and for his appearance in court. The jurymen received $288 for six days' service at $4 a day.

Most of the prosecution testimony was by farm boys and girls who enrolled for courses in the one-room "institute" in the hope that they would get Civil Service jobs on completion of their study. In almost all cases, they got the impression that the Trattners, Harris and Libowitz were connected with the Government and that the "institute" had advance information about jobs and the dates of civil service examinations.

Denial of Promises Made.

The four defendants took the stand to deny they had ever promised anyone a Government job or had implied they were employes of the Government. Most of the young people they called on, however, got a quick glimpse at a gold seal on "credentials" carried by the salesmen, which furthered the impression that they were dealing with Government men.

Two $15-a-week stenographers testified they prepared the course of instruction by copying material used by other correspondence schools or by borrowing it from library books. They also graded the papers. Each worked at different times so the "faculty" always was one person. The Trattners, Harris and Libowitz confined their efforts almost entirely to calling on prospects, driving over rough and muddy roads to reach them.

Bernard Trattner, who had only a grammar school education, testified he got his start as a correspondence school salesman by working for Clarence DeMontreville, when the latter opened his

CZECHS STUDY HITLER VIEWS IN SHAPING POLICY

DECIDES TO SEND DELEGATES TO BERLIN

Fuehrer Said to Insist on Applying Same Rule to Hungarian Areas as to Sudetenland.

By the Associated Press.

PRAGUE, Oct. 15.—Determination of the foreign policy of dismembered Czechoslovakia awaits full study of a report by Foreign Minister Frantisek Chvalkovsky on his conference at Munich yesterday with Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

As soon as Chvalkovsky returned, Premier Jan Syrovy called a night session of the Cabinet to hear his report.

It was learned at the close of the Cabinet meeting that a delegation of four ministers would go to Berlin early next week to resume discussions with Germany. The members of the delegation are: Vladislav Feierabend, Minister of Agriculture; Joseph Kalfus, Finance; Imrich Karvas, Commerce and Industry, and Dr. Hugo Vavrecka, Minister without portfolio.

The resignations of Dr. Vladimir Fajnor, Minister of Justice, and Dr. M. Parkane, Minister without portfolio, were accepted. They were said to have left the Cabinet "for reasons of health."

Priemier Syrovy, holding to a program of co-operation, urged divergent political parties to unite in common cause to promote development of a new independent state.

The Government placed high importance on a 900,000,000-crown ($30,960,000) public works program announced for construction of new railroads and highways to bind the three new autonomous sections of the country together.

Nazi Encroachments Alleged.

Reports of the Czechoslovak general staff continued to emphasize occupation by German troops of localities on what Czechs consider the Czechoslovak side of the new Sudetenland frontier.

They said a large section, including 21 communes (comparable to American townships), had been taken in the vicinity of Turnov. The Daily Bulletin cites particularly the occupation of Hodslavice, a village where Francis Palacky, famous Czech historian, was born in 1798.

The Bulletin attached great economic importance to the occupation of the town of Breclava where, it said, more than 80 per cent of the population was Moravian and Slovak. Breclava is on the direct rail line from Vienna to Bratislava.

Based on Census of 1910.

The occupation of Breclava, like that of other towns included in the fifth zone of German occupation, was based on the census of 1910. Czechoslovak authorities said all persons who in 1910 answered the census takers' questions in the German language were listed as German.

Soldiers of German origin in the Czechoslovak army were demobolized near Breclava and sent to Vienna.

The general staff bulletin charged the Sudeten German Free Corps was mistreating Czech residents in various regions of the occupation. Some of them, it said, were forced to do "heavy, humiliating work."

Complaints handed to district authorities at Roudnice charged Free Corps members with taking personal vengeance on members of rival organizations. Owners of large farms were said to have been forced to leave their properties and were forbidden to return.

An official commission pushed work on revision of the Constitution to meet new governmental conditions and on plans for election of a successor to Eduard Benes, who resigned the presidency to "facilitate" the country's rehabilitation.

Like Swiss Federation.

Indications were that the new Government set-up would be similar to that of the Swiss Federation. Bohemia was to take what was left of Moravia and Silesia after the German and Polish settlements to form an autonomous unit on equal footing with Slovakia and Ruthenia.

Each autonomous state would have a legislature which would send representatives to a national assembly. It was expected the Prague, or Central, Government would be made up of only the Ministers of Finance, Foreign Affairs, Defense and a President whose duties would include those of Prime Minister.

Germany Envisages Quick Czech Adaptation to Change.

By the Associated Press.

MUNICH, Oct. 15. — Germany looks forward to quick adaptation of Czechoslovakia to German hegemony and settlement of Hungary's claims for Czechoslovak territory on the same basis as Germany's claims to Sudetenland.

The German press suddenly ceased all attacks on Czechoslovakia today.

With the departure from Munich of Chvalkovsky and former Hungarian Premier Koloman Daranyi after conferences with Reichsfuehrer Hitler, Germans felt two things would happen in the immediate future:

Czechoslovakia would remold its political, social and military life to adapt itself to Germany's influence.

Hungary would receive all those sections of Czechoslovakia on the Hungarian border where the Hungarian race and language predominate.

Hitler's Proposals.

Hitler, according to Germans in touch with the situation, did not designate in his conferences yesterday which cities, towns and villages should be regarded as Hungarian, but insisted the same yardstick be applied to the situation on the Hungarian-Czechoslovak border as was used in the Sudeten district. In other words, he insisted contiguous territory in which more than 50 per cent of the population speaks Hungarian and is of Hungarian stock must be ceded to Hungary forthwith by Czechoslovakia.

With regard to sections with mixed populations, a trade might be worked out.

The Fuehrer also was understood to have insisted that persons living on "the wrong side" of the border after the cessions are completed must have the option of emigrating to the other side or, if they choose to stay, must be given good treatment.

That Hitler was satisfied with his talks with Chvalkovsky was indicated by the cessation of the press attack.

One prominent Nazi editor said: "We are giving Chvalkovsky the opportunity to translate into practical politics what he promised Hitler—to be loyal toward Germany.

"Actions must now follow words. We are confident they will."

LITHUANIA MOVES TO END 12 YEARS OF MARTIAL LAW

Parliament Approves, in Principle, Two State Security Bills Designed to That End.

By the Associated Press.

KAUNAS, Lithuania, Oct. 15.—Parliament today approved in principle two state security bills which would end 12 years of martial law. Under the bills, the Minister of Home Affairs and the Lithuanian Governor of Memel would possess almost the same powers which military commanders have had up to now. These include the right to control or confiscate printed material, forbid meetings and demonstrations deemed to be against the security of the state and send persons who menace state security from one district to another or to a labor camp.

A special parliamentary committee will elaborate the text of the bills.

Martial law has been in effect in Lithuania since 1926 when the Nationalist Party came to power. The law has been used since to bolster its semi-dictatorial government.

PRAGUE DENIES ANTI-NAZIS ARE REFUSED ASYLUM

Through Washington Legation Declares Only Refugees Not in Danger Are Returned.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — The Czechoslovakian Government, through its legation here denied today reports from Prague that German refugees from Sudetenland who fled to Czechoslovakia to escape Nazi persecution were in a desperate plight because of the Czech Government's refusal to allow them to remain.

The Government said that only those refugees "who are not threatened with any danger whatsoever are being returned to territory now occupied by Germany."

"Nationality or race are not deciding factors," the Government stated. "Jewish organizations are not being dissolved; the Freemasons are breaking up voluntarily."

Earlier this week it was reported from Prague, where news dispatches are censored, that the Czechoslovakian Premier had rejected a British proposal to allow such refugees to remain two months pending the organization of international aid for them.

HUNGARY WANTS CZECHS TO ACCEPT TERMS IN PRINCIPLE to insure an adequate food supply in any emergency arising from its dispute with Czechoslovakia.

The official gazette will publish tomorrow far-reaching decrees supplementing the calling to the colors of five army classes of about 200,000 men, which boosted the number of Hungarians under arms to an estimated 500,000.

These steps were taken for peace, not war, officials said. Hungary has no aggressive intentions, it was added, and has taken measures to strengthen the army to secure peace along the frontier in territories Hungary expects to get from Czechoslovakia.

Authorities were directed to muster all unemployed farm workers for transfer from farm to farm to insure continuity of agricultural output. Another decree will hold employers of agricultural workers responsible for payment of adequate amounts to safeguard the interests of families of those men called to arms.

Appeal for Funds.

Hungary generally was quiet as the "protective measure" mobilization proceded. Crowds gathered about bulletin boards in Budapest streets reading the mobilization orders, but there were no demonstrations.

Posters were plastered throughout the city bearing appeals of the wives of Regent Horthy and Premier Imredi to the people to contribute funds for the nation's poor and for refugees from Czechoslovak territory.

Military trucks and wagons and trains carried thousands of young Hungarians to military training camps. The mobilization of the five classes is scheduled to be completed by 8 p. m. Monday.

Hungarian newspapers continued to accuse Czechoslovaks with terrorism in Hungarian-populated districts, saying Hungarian flags were torn down and that the jails were filled with Hungarians who demonstrated for union with Hungary.

Paris Reports Hitler Refused to Back Increased Demands.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Oct. 15.—Hungary's plan to force another four-Power conference in the hope of gaining a larger piece of Czechoslovakia was abandoned, French sources said tonight, after Hungary discovered Fuehrer Adolf Hitler was opposed to the idea.

Britain and France also were opposed but Hungary had hoped Hitler would back it up as he had indicated he would during and immediately after the Munich conference at which Germany's claims in Czechoslovakia were settled.

Officially Hungary never sent its proposals for a four-Power conference to the four capitals, London, Paris, Berlin and Rome.

Hitler's talk with Czechoslovak Foreign Minister Frantisek Chvalkovsky ended with a communique saying Chvalkovsky had assured the Fuehrer of Prague's loyal attitude toward Berlin.

Hitler, already having gained his own desires in Czechoslovakia, was represented here as cold to the Hungarian request for support of a plan which might shut Germany's "gangplank" to Eastern Europe through "loyal Czechoslovakia."

The French press said that Italy alone of the four Powers supported Hungary's demands, and that Budapest, faced with three-Power opposition, was forced to abondon hope for "another Munich."

The French press emphasized that Italy's support for Budapest might mean a strain between Rome and Berlin.

NAZIS ARREST MONKS IN SALZBURG OUTBREAK

Four Accused of Smashing Furniture When Gestapo Took Over Building.

By the Associated Press.

SALZBURG, Germany, Oct. 15.—Four monks have been arrested, it was disclosed today, for a demonstration apparently in protest against an ejection order against their monastery.

The monastery building is state porperty and notice was served on the monks last July to evacuate the third floor, which was required for Gestapo (secret police) offices.

When the new occupants arrived to take possession yesterday, the monks hurled desks, cupboards, book shelves, chairs and other furnishings from the third floor into the courtyards, where they were smashed, officials said.

Authorities said the monks' action was an attempt to create an impression abroad that the monks were being brutally evicted. Authorities said they had offered the services of professional movers, but the brothers replied that they preferred to do the moving themselves.

today as Britain's air chief Marshal Sir Cyril Newall, and his staff departed for London from a six-day inspection of the nation's air force and aviation factories.

The independent newspaper Paris-Soir said that in the midst of the Czechoslovak crisis France had "only a few dozen modern bombers and even fewer modern fighting planes" to match Germany's powerful air fleet. The rightist weekly Aux Ecoutes advised the Government to order 2000 fighting planes from the United States to augment purchases already made in that country. It also called for mobilization of workers in French aviation factories to speed up production at home.

The Senate Aviation Committee threatened on Oct. 6 to resign in a body unless production of plane motors was accelerated.

CZECH LOAN OF $150,000,000 BY BRITAIN IN NEGOTIATION

Prague Agents Submit Memorandum of Financial Needs to England and France.

LONDON, Oct. 15.—The Government announced today that the Czechoslovak financial mission here arranging the terms of a £30,000,000 ($150,000,000) guaranteed loan had submitted a memorandum to Great Britain and France giving details of the republic's financial needs. The Powers will consult regarding a reply as soon as possible.

It was announced also that Great Britain's immediate £10,000,000 ($50,000,000) advance to Czechoslovakia would be used particularly for refugee relief and employment.

The Czechoslovaks promised there would be no political or racial discrimination in spending the money.

LATIN AMERICA UPSET BY FASCIST INROADS

Italian and German Penetration to Be Pan-American Parley Topic.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — Reports received here from Latin America suggest that this country's action in strengthening its whole defense system may be copied quickly below the Rio Grande.

More than six months before Hitler marched into Austria, Brazil, greatest and most powerful nation in Latin America, informed the United States of its "increasing concern with certain tendencies of the world political situation."

This advice was in connection with an effort to lease six old American destroyers to bolster Brazil's defense system, an undertaking which subsequently lapsed because Argentine suspicions were aroused by its neighbor's action.

"The desire on the part of some nations for access to raw materials and the forceful action taken by those nations to consummate these desires has made Brazil, a country of vast territory and relatively small population, particularly apprehensive," Secretary of State Hull informed the Senate in August, 1937.

This apprehension now has spread to almost every corner of Latin America, according to reports received here. It is said every country now is assembling the strongest delegation it can muster to attend the pan-American Conference in December at Lima, Peru, where the problem inevitably will be discussed.

Hull likely will head the American delegation.

Possible light was thrown on German-Brazilian relations today when the German Government requested Brazil to recall its Ambassador from Berlin. The Brazilian Government had objected previously to the return to Rio de Janeiro of the German Ambassador, Karl Ritter. He was believed to have been unwelcome in Rio since he protested last May at the arrest of a number of Germans in connection with an abortive integralist putsch.

It has been reported here that Italy has made determined efforts recently to sell military aircraft in Latin America in return for raw materials. Technicians and advisers have been provided in some cases to countries accepting this offer.

Germany likewise has recently been spreading its trade and influence in several Latin countries, taking in return for goods large quantities of agricultural products and raw materials which would be difficult for the United States to absorb. Improved communications with Latin America also have been established, a measure now being challenged by the inauguration of fast American steamship service between New York and East South American ports.

NORTH IRELAND MINORITY GROUP ASKS HITLER FOR AID

BELFAST, Oct. 15.—J. M. Andrews, Northern Ireland's Finance Minister, warned Britain today against union between Northern Ireland and Ireland, the former Irish Free State.

After a mass meeitng in Armagh County, a group sent a message to Reichsfuehrer Hitler yesterday, asking him "to use all endeavors to persuade Premier Chamberlain to bring about freedom for the minority in Northern Ireland." . . .

The Finance Minister, speaking before a Unionist (British loyalist) meeting at Duncairn, said: "Our opponents' one hope is that some day there may be a government in power at Westminster weak enough or foolish enough to attempt to coerce Ulster (Northern Ireland). Any British Government which made such an attempt directly or indirectly would be doomed to fail."

10,400 ITALIAN SOLDIERS LEAVE SPAIN FOR HOME

Four Shiploads of Troops Who Fought for Rebels Escorted by Warships—Part of Promised Withdrawal.

By the Associated Press.

CADIZ, Spain, Oct. 15. — Four ship-loads of Italian troops—10,400 Legionnaires who fought with the Spanish insurgents—sailed tonight for Italy convoyed by three Italian cruisers and eight destroyers.

They formed the major part of troop withdrawals ordered by Premier Mussolini. Unofficial estimates have said 12,000 men who have fought in Spain for 18 months will be withdrawn.

Cadiz was gaily decorated in honor of the departing Italians with the colors of insurgent Spain entwined with those of Italy along the principal streets.

Loyalists Report Repulsing Rebels South of Madrid.

HENDAYE, France, Oct. 15.—Spanish Government dispatches today say a sudden insurgent effort to break through long-established Government lines in the Aranjuez region south of Madrid has failed.

After the insurgents were reported defeated in a battle for the town of Borox, nine miles northwest of Aranjuez yesterday, they attempted several other minor thrusts over a front extending 12 miles to the northeast. The Government says, however, that all of these attacks were repulsed.

This front has been virtually dormant for a year and a half.

The only other important development reported in today's dispatches is the bombing of the eastern port of Valencia by 10 insurgent planes this morning. Some 50 bombs were dropped on the port section, destroying several buildings and injuring five persons.

OHIO TOLD IT MUST CONFORM TO GET U. S. PENSION FUNDS

Gov. Davey's Request for Continuation of Grants Answered by Altmeyer.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer of the Social Security Board told Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio in a letter made public today that the board would not authorize further grants to Ohio for old age assistance until the State takes steps to bring its old age pension plan into conformity with the social security act.

The letter was in reply to one Gov. Davey had written Altmeyer Oct. 4, asking the board to rescind its action in suspending the Ohio grants.

"As you know it has always been the policy of the board to make available to the responsible Ohio officials the services of its staff," Altmeyer wrote. "In pursuance of this policy the field representative of the Bureau of Public Assistance, Mr. Robert C. Goodwin, called upon Mr. Wray Bevens, the present chief of the division of aid for the aged, immediately upon his appointment to offer assistance. Mr. Goodwin has been and is still available at any time that Mr. Bevens may desire to confer with him.

"Under the social security act this board may not authorize further grants to Ohio for old age assistance until you and Mr. Bevens take the necessary steps as set forth by the board in its finding to bring the State plan into conformity with the Federal law.")

Tropical Storm Off Florida Keys.

By the Associated Press.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Oct. 15.—Weather conditions remained unsettled over much of Florida today as a moderate tropical disturbance virtually stood still out in the Gulf of Mexico. The storm was centered about 175 miles southwest of Tampa, with "possibly a slow movement northeast or north," the Weather Bureau said.

WOODRING'S PLAN TO SPEAK IN JERSEY DRAWS PROTEST

Tantamount to White House Approval of Hague Machine, Congressman Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 15. — Republican Representative Fred A. Hartley telegraphed Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring today that the latter's scheduled speech in Jersey City Monday night would be tantamount to giving White House approval to "the reactionary record of the New Jersey Democratic machine."

Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, State Democratic leader, announced yesterday that Woodring would speak at a Hudson County rally for William H. J. Ely, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, who is opposing Republican W. Warren Barbour. The announcement, issued through the office of Donald C. Fox, campaign manager for Ely, said Woodring's address was expected to place the New Deal "squarely behind" Ely's candidacy.

"It must be clear to you that if you come into Jersey City on Monday night you place upon Mr. Ely and Mr. Hague the indorsement of the Democratic national administration," Hartley, who is seeking reelection, wired Woodring.

Nazi Official Visits Belgrade.

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Oct. 15. German Economics Minister Walter Funk, touring Southeastern Europe on an economics mission, paid a short visit today to Premier Milan Stoyadinovich. It was reported the German explained the results of his negotiations at Sofia, Bulgaria, and Ankara, Turkey. For the last fortnight a German delegation at Belgrade has been trying to negotiate an economic treaty.

DANES IN GERMANY COMPLAIN TO HITLER

Quote Him on Minorities and Ask That He Improve Their Status.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—The Danish minority in Schleswig-Holstein, quoting Reich Chancellor Hitler on the treatment of minorities, has made an open request to the Fuehrer for an improved status for Danes living in Northern Germany. The letter, was printed in Der Schleswiger, a monthly publication at Flensburg, mouthpiece for about 5500 Danes living in Germany.

Most of the minority lives in the lower section of the peninsula, between the Baltic and North Sea, of which Denmark forms the tip. Part of Schleswig-Holstein voted in 1919 to merge with Denmark and the rest decided to stay in Germany.

The letter quoted excerpts from Hitler's pronouncements on self-determination, and continued: "We know that you, acclaimed by your people as creator of the new Reich, love your people above everything else and that we especially are certain to find your sympathy for the fact that we also (quoting Hitler) 'cling to our own racial nationality in unbounded love and faithfulness'."

Acknowledging that the Danish minority is small, the letter declared nevertheless the minority "defends and will be alert for the future of its proud tradition and high ideals." It complained of "over-zealous" local officials who, prejudiced against the Danes, are "degrading a neighbor people in contradiction to authoritative statements from the tongue of Hitler himself." It charged that members of the minority were cut off from social benefits such as aid for large families and that Danish "living possibilities are being restricted."

The appeal closed with a "confident expectation" that orders would be given to those responsible, declaring: "The words of the Fuehrer regarding neighbor peoples and national minorities are to be taken to heart in every respect along the north border of the German Reich."

7 YEARS FOR TIBBETT ROBBERY

Man Sentenced for Jewel Theft From Singer's Wife.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—Meyer Sopher, 23 years old, was sentenced today to seven years' imprisonment for theft of jewels from Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett, wife of the singer, aboard the liner Monterey Oct. 2.

Jewelry worth $19,000 was recovered from hiding places aboard the ship. Federal agents expressed the belief $24,000 worth remained in the jewel case Sopher tossed overboard. Sopher served a sentence in Maryland in 1936 for larceny.

TERMS ARRANGED IN NEW YORK TUG CREWS' STRIKE

WAGE DEMAND CUT IN TWO BY WORKERS

Several Trans-Atlantic Steamers Dock or Depart Under Own Power—Some Sailings Delayed.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—An understanding which conferees said would release 75 per cent of the tonnage tied up by the tugboat workers' strike which threatened to halt all traffic in New York Harbor was reached tonight by union officers and a group of towboat operators.

The terms of the agreement, made after the union reduced its wage demands, will be submitted tomorrow night to the general membership of the United Marine Division, Local 333, of the International Longshoremen's Association, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, which called out 2000 men.

Pending the membership vote, the union continued the strike, which delayed the docking of several trans-Atlantic liners today and forced others to pull away at sailing time without the customary aid of tugs.

An operators' spokesman estimated the strike would cost owners $35,000 a day and workers $7500 daily in wages.

Wage Demands Reduced.

Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Longshoremen's Union, said he would recommend that the union accept the operators' terms of a $5-a-month wage increase for licensed men, captains and engineers, and $7.50 for unlicensed men, firemen, deckhands and cooks. The former now receive $200 a month, the latter $95 to $100.

The union originally had demanded an increase of $1 a day for all its men, but cut this to $15 and $10 a month before calling the strike at midnight last night.

James G. Conway, president of the Towboat Exchange, Inc., representing the owners, said a closed shop clause for the workers also would be recommended to the operators.

Ryan expressed belief that signing of contracts by owners of 75 per cent of the towboat tonnage would force the remaining operators to sign.

William V. Bradley of the union said 2000 men on 225 of the 300 tugboats operating in New York Harbor and adjacent waters answered the strike call. Even garbage scows were moved only at Mayor LaGuardia's request.

The only tugs moving in the harbor, Bradley said, are those serving coastwise ships, railroad tugs, self-propelling oil tankers and tugs from the Erie Canal which happened to be in the harbor when the strike started. The strike does not affect them.

Liner Docks Unaided.

The Nieuw Amsterdam of the Holland-America Line docked at Hoboken without the assistance of tugs this afternoon after spending most of the day lying at anchor in the lower bay.

The Cunard-White Star liner Queen Mary is due next Tuesday, and the Italian liner Conte di Savoia Wednesday. Both are bigger ships than those which docked today and some difficulty was expected to attend any attempts to berth them under their own power.

POLICE WON'T RAID BOOKIES WITH AXES

Glassco Rejects Baptists' Suggestion—"No Authority to Destroy Property."

The suggestion of the St. Louis Baptist Association, advanced Friday at its annual meeting, that St. Louis police follow the example of ax-swinging Chicago officials and smash handbooks and other gambling establishments was rejected last night by Chief of Police John H. Glassco.

"The law gives police no authority to destroy property," he said to a Post-Dispatch reporter. In Chicago the raids were undertaken by special squads directed by the State's Attorney.

The report which the church group adopted declared, "The 'smoke houses,' where slot machines, roulette wheels, all sorts of card games and the iniquitous race-track pools are constantly in operation, could be closed out, and we should set ourselves resolutely to the task of doing it."

Arrests to Continue.

Chief Glassco said the police would continue to arrest all the gamblers they find. He pointed out that in the year which ended last April 1, a total of 13,279 persons were arrested in the city on gambling charges.

Employes in St. Louis smoke shops are picked up by police occasionally (about 2000 such arrests were made last year) but most of the cases are dismissed for want of evidence. When indictments on felony charges are returned against handbook operators and their clerks, the defendants are usually permitted to plead guilty of misdemeanors and pay fines of $500.

The Baptists said of the smoke shops: "Into these gambling hells men take their small pay checks, earned doubtless with great effort, and toss them away on such uncertainties as horse and dog racing, while their children go hungry." Commending the action taken in Chicago, they declared, "The same thing could be done in St. Louis.

MAN IDENTIFIED AS ROBBER IN $55 HOLDUP 10 YEARS AGO

Former Oil Station Proprietor Says He Remembers Face of One Who Pointed Pistol at Him.

A 36-year-old laborer, arrested for questioning, has been identified by Diamore Addison of Normandy, former proprietor of a filling station at 4945 Page boulevard, as one of two men who robbed the station of $55 Oct. 24, 1928, police announced last night. The prisoner denies complicity.

The arrest was made by Detective Sergeants James McManus and John Sinclair, who were patrolmen in the Deer Street District at the time of the holdup in 1928. Because the man now identified as a participant left town shortly after a companion was questioned about the holdup in 1928, Sinclair and McManus had to wait 10 years to question him.

Recently the man appeared in the show-up at police headquarters when Sinclair and McManus were there. They took him to the Deer Street Station, where he was confronted by Addison, who said he was positive in his identification because the suspect was the one who threatened him and pointed a revolver at him during the robbery.

$73,505 of $391,708 Exempted From State Levy; Sister Was Named Beneficiary.

A State inheritance tax of $37,364 was assessed yesterday against the estate of Miss Lucy H. Blewett, a sister of the late Ben Blewett, superintendent of public instruction of the Board of Education. She died last April, leaving property which is appraised at a gross value of $391,708.

The appraisal was made by former Gov. Elliott W. Major, appointed by Probate Judge Glendy B. Arnold to assess the inheritance tax. Deductions are shown amounting to $73,505, which are exempt from the State tax.

Miss Blewett bequeathed her estate to a sister, Miss Alvis H. Blewett, 3405 Hawthorne boulevard, whose interest is found to be $317,598. She and the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. were appointed co-executors.

TWO GET $35 IN STORE HOLDUP

Young Men Face Grocer and Clerk to Wall, Then Escape.

Two young men armed with revolvers entered a grocery at 3507 North Broadway last night, held up the proprietor and a clerk, and escaped with $35 which they took from the cash register.

The proprietor, Eli Tzinberg, told police one of the robbers forced him and the clerk, Charles Mullahy, to stand facing the back wall while the other got the money.

SECOND PROTEST OVER METHODS OF UNITED CHARITIES

Four Hospitals That Do Not Share in Funds Criticise Basing of Allotments on Deficits.

E. E. King, chairman of a committee representing four Protestant hospitals which do not share in the distribution of United Charities funds, charged in a letter to the charity organization that other hospitals were receiving their allotments on the basis of deficits enlarged by the care of patients sent from outside St. Louis and St. Louis County.

The letter, addressed Sept. 22 to Oliver F. Richards, president of United Charities, Inc., and made public with other correspondence yesterday by King, was the second protest made this week. A resolution, adopted at a meeting of 50 representatives of Evangelical and Reformed Protestant churches, which also criticised the United Charities method of distributing funds among hospitals, was announced Friday.

King's letter protested against the practice of the United Charities in basing allotments to hospitals on the size of their deficits, rather than the volume of their charitable service, under which system hospitals which have large endowments or considerable income from fees may receive less from United Charities than other hospitals, the charitable service of which is no greater, or even less extensive.

Discrimination Charged.

The letter pointed out that the four hospitals, which the committee represents, namely the Christian, Deaconess, Lutheran and Missouri Baptist hospitals, received nothing last year from United Charities, were rendering a proportionate amount of free service to the indigent of St. Louis and the county, but were "discriminated" against, because they had no deficits last year.

"Peoples of St. Louis and St. Louis County subscribe to United Charities, Inc., largely on the theory that they are helping care for the indigent of the city and county, yet the so-called deficit rule does not pay for service rendered those indigent," the letter declared, "but pays the participating institutions for deficits created, which are enlarged by the care of patients sent to these institutions from all over the State and even from Illinois and Arkansas.

"We further protest the method whereby it has been possible in the past for some institutions to include in their deficit computation, interest on bonded indebtedenss and receive monies therefor, while other institutions were denied this privilege."

Replying to King, who is superintendent of the Missouri Baptist Hospital, Richards explained that the question of change in the method of allotment to hospitals "is still a live subject," being studied for the last year by a committee which is not yet prepared to submit its report and recommendation.

Latest Reply of Complainants.

Apparently not satisfied with the Richards reply, the committee in a letter to him last Friday said: "The failure of your organization to give us the assurance that you will change your present method so that all may share equally in the funds you are now planning to raise in the coming campaign, leaves us but one recourse: to appeal directly and immediately to the spirit of fairness of the citizens of St. Louis."

The United Charities campaign to raise $2,495,170 is scheduled to begin Nov. 1.

The letter declared that several committees and "experts" already had recommended a change in the basis for fund distribution.

BRICKEY ASKED ABOUT MISSING $291 TUITION FEE

Festus (Mo.) School Board Questions Its President About Money That Disappeared.

Norville W. Brickey, president of the Festus School Board, which recently ordered an audit of all its accounts, has been asked by the board to explain what happened to $291 which had been sent to the board by a neighboring school district in payment for tuition for children of that district who attended the Festus High School.

Brickey also is Mayor of Festus and presiding judge of the Jefferson County Court. He recently resigned as Democratic candidate to succeed himself in the latter position and soon thereafter stepped out as president of the Citizens' Bank of Festus.

W. L. Pulliam, superintendent of Festus schools, said that the missing money was in two vouchers, one for $256 covering 1936 tuition and a second for $35 covering 1937 tuition, sent to the board by the Hematite School District. He said the money "seemingly did not find its way into the tuition fund," which is kept at the high school.

Brickey Has Not Explained.

The matter came to his attention, Pulliam said, after he had sent a statement to the Hematite district for back tuition and had been informed by Mrs. Katherine Stis, clerk of the district, that the tuition for 1936 and 1937 had been paid. Pulliam said he went to the office of the County Clerk at Hillsboro last May and found the two vouchers.

The one for $256 had been indorsed by Brickey and by H. E. Vaughn, treasurer of the School Board, Pulliam stated, and the other voucher had been indorsed by Brickey alone.

Pulliam said he asked to take the vouchers out of the files and that at a School Board meeting last Sept. 19, at which the audit was ordered, he showed the vouchers to Brickey and asked him what had become of the money. He said Brickey took the vouchers, saying he would explain it in time. Brickey has made no explanation to date, Pulliam said. Brickey said yesterday he was still checking the matter.

The usual procedure, Pulliam added, in the matter of tuition vouchers is for the vouchers to be sent to him as they are received by the board. They are then indorsed by himself and by Vaughn, he said, and the money put in the tuition fund.

Cause of School Audit.

Vaughn has made public a communication dated Sept. 19, which resulted in the calling of the board meeting, at which the audit of the books was ordered. It was in answer to previous statements by Brickey that he, Brickey, had originally requested the audit.

As has been told, the cause for the audit was the discovery that $10,000 in Festus school bonds which had been replaced by refunded bonds in 1935 and should, therefore, have been destroyed, were still in circulation. The worthless bonds were bought up by Brickey and had been turned over to Vaughn by a third person on Sept. 17.

The bonds which should have been destroyed kept drawing interest after they had been replaced by refunded bonds and the School Board continued to pay that interest. It was learned yesterday that $5000 in such bonds were part of the assets of the Citizens' Bank of Festus, the town's only depository, until they were sold last April.

Charles England, who recently replaced Brickey as president of the bank, said that the bank had never been notified that its school bonds had been refunded. He said he did not know to whom the bonds which the bank owned were sold.

Congressman's Anti-CIO Speech Ends in Uproar

Hoffman's Attack at Crystal City Republican Rally Cut Short by Heckling and Fighting.

An anti-New Deal speech by Congressman Clare Hoffman at a mass meeting at Crystal City ended prematurely last night when 200 unidentified members of the C I O precipitated a near-riot after one of their number had heckled Hoffman almost from the beginning of his address.

The meeting, arranged by the Republican State Committee and attended by about 700 persons, was resumed after the heckler was ejected by police at Hoffman's request, and after the chairman, William Fuetterer, requested that Hoffman not continue his speech, "for the sake of preserving order."

The remaining speakers, all Republican office-seekers, were received enthusiastically by the erstwhile hecklers and the meeting ended with everybody joining in the singing of "America."

Hoffman's prepared address, copies of which were sent to newspapers in advance of the meeting, was a bitter attack on the C I O, which he characterized as Communist-controlled, and on President Roosevelt, who, Hoffman said, had aided C I O leaders in their "drive against the contented, satisfied, law-abiding worker."

Boos and Foot Stamping.

Hoffman's attempt to speak met interruptions almost from the beginning. Every utterance in criticism of the New Deal, the C I O or the National Labor Relations Board was met with a chorus of boos and heavy stamping of feet.

Finally the C I O spokesman got to his feet and began putting questions to the speaker. Hoffman answered several, until the heckler inquired, "Did you come here to make a Republican speech or to attack the NLRB?" Hoffman retorted that he saw no point in the question and then asked that the questioner be removed.

A hubbub immediately arose and Sheriff Arch R. McKee, Constable S. J. Papin and other officers moved toward the heckler. Many in the audience started for exits, while others crowded toward the center of the hall, where the heckler was surrounded by his companions. Blows were exchanged freely, women screamed and several persons were knocked down in the melee which followed.

Disorder Lasts 15 Minutes.

The uproar lasted 15 minutes, until the officers reached the unscheduled speaker and escorted him out. It was sometime before order was restored and Fuetterer was able to request that Hoffman not attempt to continue.

The meeting, held on the second floor of the City Hall, was attended by many employes of the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., where the CIO Federation of Flat Glass Workers and the Crystal City Glass Workers' Union, an independent group, recently have sought recognition as bargaining agent for the workers.

TWO MEN TALKING TO CHICAGO UNION BUSINESS AGENT SHOT

Police Suspect Racketeers Are Trying to Take Over Before Work on Subway Starts.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15. — Frank Delondi, 21 years old, and Gabriel Garo, 27, who have applied for membership in Local No. 2 of the Sewer and Tunnel Miners' Union, were shot and seriously wounded last night by a gunman in South Halsted Street. Jerry Sasso, 45, business agent of the local, escaped injury by dropping to the sidewalk when the shooting began. He had been talking with Delondi and Garo.

Police Captain Patrick Collins said an investigation was being made to determine whether racketeers had started a campaign to take over the union, whose membership of 2000 is expected to be doubled when operations begin on the projected $38,000,000 subway system.

Police are looking into reports that many former members of the union have been incensed at high reinstatement fees demanded. Sasso and other officers are being questioned.

$150 SHOE SHOP ROBBERY

HEARING ON NEW RECEIVER TO TAKE WACHTER'S PLACE

Judge Sartorius Asks Interested Persons to Appear in Matter of Damhorst Beverage Co.

An application for a successor to Armin Wachter, removed as receiver for the Damhorst Beverage Co. by Circuit Judge John W. Joyne on Friday, will be heard tomorrow by Circuit Judge Eugene J. Sartorius, who has requested all interested persons to appear before him then. Judge Sartorius said he was informed negotiations were under way for purchase of the company's assets, valued at about $8000.

Wachter is the druggist who was arrested recently under a Federal warrant charging him with possession of tobacco stolen from an interstate shipment. In removing Wachter, his own appointee, Judge Joyne ordered him to file a final report.

Arthur Whittaker, operator of the Snapi-Cola Co., which shares premises at 2907 Washington boulevard with the Damhorst company, filed a reclamation petition yesterday for return of certain property which he alleged belonged to the Snapi-Cola Co. and had been taken by Wachter as assets of the Damhorst company. The property claimed by Whittaker, who was a chemist for the Damhorst company, comprises office furniture, a small motor, and 1500 cases of soda water.

POLICE NAB THREE AFTER HOLDUP FAILS

Officers in Scout Car Hear Shout of Victim in East St. Louis.

Two robbers and a third man who waited in an automobile were captured at 8:30 o'clock last night near a drug store at 1401 Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, after their intended victim's shout of "holdup" was heard by police in a cruising scout car.

Homer Heid, one of the proprietors of the drug store, was alone when two men, one of them armed, entered the store and told him to put his hands up. The armed man ordered him to walk to a back room, but as they started to the rear, Heid's father, Gustav Heid, entered. Becoming frightened, the robbers ran past Gustav Heid and out the front door.

Homer Heid ran to the door and shouted, "Holdup." He was heard by Detective Sergeant Anton Hylsky and Detective Peter Iwasyszyn, who were passing in a police car. They got out and captured an 18-year-old boy, who was unarmed and who gave his name as Rexford MoHoney.

He was identified by Heid as one of the robbers. Then the police asked about his companions. He directed them to an automobile parked a half block away. In it was a 16-year-old boy, who gave his name as Leonard Godbois.

Police then obtained a description of the third youth from those under arrest. The description was broadcast on the police radio and at Sixteenth street and Broadway, four blocks from the scene of the robbery, two Negro detectives in a scout car caught a young man who was running. He gave his name as Charles Hansen, 23. In his pocket was a .32-caliber automatic pistol. He was also identified by Homer Heid.

Police quoted all three as admitting their parts in the attempted robbery. All said they were from Chicago. Nothing was taken in the holdup.

In 1928 a druggist who operated a store at the same location, Charles C. Ladrick, was murdered by holdup men.

GREEN AND LEWIS SILENT ON PLAN FOR LABOR PEACE

Miss Perkins Proposes Committee of 13 to Settle Differences Between CIO and A. F. of L.

GROUP'S AGREEMENT WOULD BE BINDING

Secretary's Suggestion Is First Definite Step by Administration to End 3-Year Split.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — The Roosevelt administration's first concrete proposal for ending labor's three-year-old civil war failed today to produce any immediate signs of acceptance by either the American Federation of Labor or John L. Lewis' CIO.

Secretary of Labor Perkins advanced the proposal in an address before a labor audience at Columbus, O. She suggested that the A. F. of L. and the CIO each select five representatives, that these representatives in turn choose three disinterested persons, and that the committee of 13 thus formed proceed to mediate the controversy.

No Comment From Lewis or Green.

Neither Lewis nor William Green, president of the federation, would comment at once on the proposal.

In an interview just prior to Miss Perkins' address, on the occasion of the third anniversary of the CIO's conception, Lewis said the Committee for Industrial Organization would continue as "labor's most progressive and active force."

"The progress we have made from a comparatively small beginning has proved conclusively that we have filled the tremendous void that existed in unionization of industry until a few years ago," he said, "and, at our convention in Pittsburgh next month, we will lay a permanent foundation for industrial unionism which will not be swept aside by short-sighted opposition."

Secretary Perkins, in her address at a joint celebration of the seventieth anniversary of the Order of Railway Conductors and the fiftieth anniversary of its ladies' auxiliary, said:

"I have great faith in the capacity of people on both sides of this controversy to make a fair and workable adjustment, and the desire for it from the membership and from the public is intense."

Favors Full Power for Group.

If representatives of the A. F. of L. and the CIO could not agree on three "disinterested persons" to join them in a mediation effort, she continued, some trusted "outside" person could be asked to select them. The labor representatives should be empowered, she said, to bind their organizations to any agreement reached.

Miss Perkins said the three disinterested persons to be on the commission should be "informed about labor matters and sympathetic to labor organization."

"Let them be persons of conciliatory, dispassionate disposition, if possible with some experience in the art of mediation," she said.

The labor secretary's statement was the first definite suggestion from the administration for settlement of the controversy, although President Roosevelt appealed to the federation convention in Houston, Tex., recently to leave open the door to peace.

Lewis' Proposal That Both Resign.

Lewis himself proposed this week that he and Green retire from the leadership of the two organizations so that the remaining officials could "conclude a peace pact."

Subsequently, the A. F. of L. convention re-elected Green by acclamation.

The CIO News, weekly publication, contended editorially today that federation leaders "do not yet share the desire of the CIO and of most of their own members for restoration of a unified labor movement."

"The forthcoming convention of the CIO, however, so far from being an obstacle in the path of unity, is likely to be a most effective step in that direction," the publication said.

"For, once it is conclusively established that the CIO is a firmly grounded movement with the organized power as well as the right to protect the interests of its affiliated unions, the A. F. of L. leaders will have to forget their foolish hopes of dividing and destroying the new movement."

Three-Year Dispute.

Three years ago today, Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and heads of eight other unions decided at Atlantic City, N. J., that they would conduct an industrial union organization campaign. They favored organizing all of the workers in each mass production industry into one big union, instead of organizing them along the craft lines of dominant A. F. of L. unions.

In November, 1935, the Committee for Industrial Organization was formed officially with 10 international unions of the federation as a nucleus. Later the federation began suspending them.

The breach between the two organizations led to a wild scramble for membership and footholds in new as well as old fields, and to frequent quarrels as to which faction had the right to represent workers in a given plant or industry.

Representatives of both sides met in a futile peace conference a year ago. Discussions ended when the conferees could not allocate industries for organization purposes satisfactorily and when Lewis insisted that the 40-odd CIO unions be taken back into the A. F. of L. as a self-governing department.

Factors for Peace.

Some labor experts here say the present chances for peace are strengthened by these factors:

1—The possibility that David Dubinsky, president of the CIO-Affiliated International Ladies' Garment Workers and a leader in peace overtures, may not attend the CIO convention in Pittsburgh.

2—The insistence of Daniel J. Tobin, head of the Teamsters' Union, at the A. F. of L. convention, that no effort be spared to bring about resumption of peace negotiations as soon as possible.

The convention's formal opening will be at 2 p. m. tomorrow when Clayton Rand of Gulfport, Miss., president of the National Editorial Association, will speak on "Business at the Crossroads." Elbert R. Fitch of LaSalle, Ill., president of the American Institute of Laundering Club, also will speak.

Past and present directors of the institute will meet tomorrow evening for an annual dinner and reunion. Others who are speakers at one of the convention sessions include Senator Edward R. Burke of Nebraska and Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, a representative of the National Association of Manufacturers.

FEDERAL OLD AGE AID AGAIN WITHHELD IN OKLAHOMA

Social Security Board Orders Another Investigation Into Way State Handles Cases.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A representative of the Social Security Board said tonight Oklahoma's old-age assistance allotment for October was being withheld pending a report by investigators studying the State's compliance with board requirements.

Several months ago Oklahoma's Federal grants for old age assistance were stopped. The board directed reinvestigation of all cases. Later the grants were restored on a 75 per cent basis, the board spokesman said, until all cases could be reinvestigated by the State.

Since that time, he said, sufficient complaints were received to justify a second investigation. Investigators, he said, were directed to learn if Oklahama's old age assistance division had kept "certain agreements" under which the State was receiving assistance money.

LAUNDRY TRUCK SET AFIRE

Burned With Its Contents on Street in Madison.

A laundry truck was set afire and its contents destroyed yesterday afternoon at Fifth street and Highland avenue, Madison, while the driver was making a delivery. Firemen found a can which had apparently contained gasoline in the back of the truck after they extinguished the blaze.

The driver, William Troyer, 2158 Grand avenue, Granite City, operator of a laundry agency, told police he had been asked to join a chauffeurs' union recently but declined to do so because he was in business for himself. He said he had not been threatened.

WALLACE QUESTIONS SENATOR VANDENBERG

Secretary, Speaking in Dakota, Puts Farm Problems Up to Michigan Man.

By the Associated Press.

MITCHELL, S. D., Oct. 15.—Terming the European situation, with dictators on the ascendency, a challenge to the United States to prove the efficiency of the democratic form of government, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace cited a solution of the farm problem by democratic methods as one answer to tolaitarianism in a speech here this evening.

Wallace replied to recent discussion of the farm problem by Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg by asking thet Michigan Senator a series of questions.

"I have noticed in the papers the last few days that the Republican Senator from Michigan, Arthur H. Vandenberf, has been touring the corn and wheat states prescribing for ills of agricultur," he said. "He has come out for what he calls the two-price system. He calls for the discussion of it with 'open minds.'

"Open-Minded Questions."

"Now it happens that I have spent a little time studying farm problems myself and I would like to address a few open-minded questions to Mr. Vandenberg.

"Do you propose to assure the farmer an American price for his American market by subsidies or by fixing the price outright?

"If you propose to do it with a subsidy, do you propose to raise the necessary revenue through taxes on the commodities affected as I have advocated?

"If you do not favor such taxes, do you have any other source of revenue to suggest? If you do not favor raising any revenue for this purpose, how do you reconcile your position with your demand for reducing Federal expenditures to a point 25 per cent below 1932?

"If you propose to fix the price outright, how do you expect to avoid licensing or otherwise regimenting the handlers and processors of farm products? If you do favor licensing or otherwise regimenting these handlers, how do you reconcile your position with your expressed horror of autocracy and totalitarianism?

"Mountainous Surpluses."

"When mountainous surpluses had piled up, as they inevitably would under your plan, and farm prices had collapsed, as they would ust as jinevitably, what would you say to the millions of farmers that had been ruined? What would you say to the business men who had been dragged down with them?

"These questions I am asking of the Senator are not idle ones. They are questions any responsible person must face when he starts to consider agricultural problems.

"We in the Agricultlural Department are facing them every day. We don't have all the answers. But I can tell you one thing—we do know some of the things that ought to be done, we do know that Mr. Vandenberg's plan, which would soak the consumer and sink the farmer, is one of them."

Miners, Trapped by Fire, Escape.

TAX THREAT RETARDS BUSINESS, C. OF C. SAYS

U. S. Chamber Bulletin Reports Progress Held Up by Fear of Higher Levies.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States said today that the "threat of higher taxes and still higher taxes is a major deterrent to business progress."

In its bi-weekly survey, the chamber contended Congress could relieve apprehension by setting up an orderly fiscal program designed to avoid further budgetary deficits. This could be done, it said, through the reduction of expenditures rather than through new and increased levies.

By correcting "obvious defects" in existing regulatory laws and by adopting a "more prudent" governmental fiscal policy, Congress at its forthcoming session could make a positive contribution to enduring business recovery, the chamber asserted.

It enumerated these as subjects with which business would like to see the next Congress deal promptly:

Reduction of Government expenditures, revision of the National Labor Relations Act, easing of restrictions governing the flow of investment capital and a change in the Social Security Act to eliminate the next scheduled increase in payroll taxes.

CLIFTON, N. J., Oct. 15.—John K. Fayko Sr., 50 years old, had been out of work for a year. Yesterday the Clifton Paperboard Co. gave him a job. He was overjoyed. Two hours later, while pushing a handtruck laden with bales of waste paper, he fell dead of a heart attack.

ARABS CUT OFF PALESTINE'S WIRE SERVICE 19 HOURS

SABOTAGE, MURDER ARSON CONTINUE

British Increase Troops to 20,000 — Jews Forced From Wailing Wall; Jerusalem Under Patrol.

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 15.—Palestine, torn by Arab rebellion, re-established more communication with the outside world today after 19 hours of isolation. Telephone and telegraph facilities were broken between 7 p. m. last night and 2 p. m. today after rebellious bands had brought down virtually every wire in the country.

Repair squads worked throughout the day to replace poles, slashed wires and broken insulators.

The third battalion of the Coldstream Guards and the first battalion of Northumberland Fusiliers arrived in Haifa from Egypt and reinforcements were dispatched immediately to centers of disorder.

Widespread Sabotage.

There were murder, arson and sabotage in various parts of the country.

Mustafa Darwish, an Arab police inspector, was shot and killed by an unidentified assailant outside the Jaffa central police station.

Jerusalem itself was being patrolled by troops, armed with machine-guns and reinforced police.

All the gates of the old city except the Jaffa Gate were closed. Jews worshipping at the wailing wall were forced to leave.

Stores Are Closed.

The old city fell prey to wild rumors due to the sudden closing of Arab, Jewish and Christian stores which followed intermittent shootings and bombings at the police and military since last night.

British troop reinforcements brought the total security forces in the Holy Land to approximately 20,000 men.

The Acre-Safad road, the main military highway into the northern district, was made almost impassable by bands of men who blew up several culverts and tore up several miles of roadway.

Sir Harold MacMichael, High Commissioner for Palestine, was due in Jerusalem today but was delayed by airplane engine trouble.

WALTER FREUND URGES AID FOR NEGRO Y. M. C. A. WORK

Hebrew Association Official Praises Organization, One of Nine Seeking Funds.

The Pine Street (Negro) Y. M. C. A., one of nine local Y. M. C. A. agencies participating in the campaign to raise $161,000 for current expenses, was characterized as doing "one of the finest character-building jobs in St. Louis," in a statement yesterday by Walter Freund, board member and a former president of the Young Men's Hebrew Association.

"Negro Y. M. C. A. work should receive much more recognition than it does from citizens," Freund asserted. "Its physical, educational and recreational programs are second to none. Its staff workers are considerably above average and a high standard of efficiency is maintained. A tremendous amount of good is done on a comparatively small budget."

The drive for funds, which began Tuesday, has netted $62,924 to date, slightly more than 39 per cent of its goal.

TAXPAYERS' SUIT TO VOID SCHOOL BOND ISSUE VOTE

Total Number of Ballots Alleged to Exceed Registration in East Side District.

Suit to void a recent election in School District No. 182 of Centerville Township, St. Clair County, at which a $39,000 bond issue was voted for an addition and repairs to the district's Lafayette School, was filed in Circuit Court at Belleville yesterday by five taxpayers.

The petition alleges that the total number of votes cast, 1627, exceeds the number of legally registered voters in the district; that certain voters who were challenged were permitted by the two judges and clerks to vote, and that certain Negro voters were intimidated by one of the judges.

A recount would not show "the true will of the voters," the petition states, and it therefore asks that the court declare that the bond issue was defeated.

Army Surgeons Elect Dr. Parran.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Dr. Thomas Parran Jr., Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service, was elected president of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States at its closing convention session here today. Washington, D. C., was chosen as the 1939 convention city.

AIRLINER BUMPS ACCIDENTALLY INTO ARMY WAR GAME

Chased by Pursuit Planes Near Fort Bragg, N. C., on Civilians' Warning.

By the Associated Press.

FORT BRAGG, N. C., Oct. 15.—An unwary air line pilot learned today about the efficiency of the civilian warning net tested in air defense maneuvers here. During today's exercises warnings began to pour into defense headquarters of a strange craft entering the defense net from the north and heading toward Fort Bragg.

The leader of a pursuit squadron on day patrol north of Fort Bragg was ordered to intercept the stranger on the supposition that the invading forces were attempting to sneak a bomber through the net.

About 30 miles north of here the airliner suddenly found itself surrounded by 250-mile-an-hour pursuit planes.

The army pilots soon discovered what had happened, while the air liner pilot flew full speed ahead out of the area, his every move traced by the civilian observers until he disappeared.

The defense maneuvers ended tonight.

CAULFIELD TO SPEAK IN 20 COUNTIES DURING WEEK

Republican Candidate for Senator to Campaign in Northern Part of State.

More than 20 speeches will be made by former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, Republican nominee for United States Senator, this week in 20 counties in the northern part of the State.

Caulfield yesterday spoke at Warrenton in Warren County and Wellsville in Montgomery County. Mrs. Caulfield, who again will go with her husband on the week's tour, will be guest of honor Friday at a meeting of the Grundy County Republican Women's Club at Trenton.

The Republican nominee's schedule for the week is: Monday—Herman, Linn and Tuscumbia; Tuesday—Versailles, Warsaw, Clinton and Warrensburg; Wednesday—Excelsior Springs, Cameron and Hamilton; Thursday — Gallatin, Maysville, Savannah and Maryville; Friday—Princeton, Trenton and Carrollton; Saturday — Brookfield, Milan and Unionville. Caulfield will appear at night at the last city mentioned for each day.

CHURCH 100 YEARS OLD; CELEBRATION BEGINS TODAY

The Rev. W. C. Covert of Philadelphia to Conduct Service at Second Presbyterian.

Members of the Second Presbyterian Church, Taylor avenue and Westminster place, will begin today a two-week celebration of the hundredth anniversary of its founding.

In connection with the celebration there will be a campaign to raise a $100,000 endowment fund for future support of the church's educational, social and missionary activities. Pledges payable in five semi-annual installments will be sought.

The Rev. William Charles Covert of Philadelphia will conduct a communion service and reception of new members at 11 o'clock this morning. A pageant depicting the history of the church will be presented tonight at 8 o'clock. The pageant will be given again next Friday night. The celebration will close the following Friday with a dinner at Hotel Jefferson.

JOHN HAY BIRTHDAY APPEAL FOR JEWS

Oppression Denounced in Broadcast on Statesman's 100th Anniversary.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Henry Monsky of Omaha, Neb., international president of B'Nai B'rith, Jewish fraternal organization, denounced German oppression of minority peoples tonight and questioned whether democracy could be preserved "if we stand by and give silent acquiescence."

He spoke with Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States Commission of Education, in a radio broadcast observing the hundredth anniversary of the birth of John Hay, Secretary of State under Presidents McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt.

Monsky asserted it would have been difficult for Hay to have reconciled Germany's interest in the Sudeten minorities "with Germany's brutality and long continued persecution and oppression of hundreds of thousands of minority peoples in Germany and Austria."

In Camp and Prison.

"To observe nuns and clerics of the Catholic church and Jews by the thousands languishing in prisons and concentration camps; to observe the devastation of all things sacred to mankind, would have been to John Hay an inconceivable tragedy," he added. "Perhaps the spirit of John Hay will yet prevail."

Monsky spoke from Washington, introducing Studebaker. Dr. Studebaker spoke from Des Moines, Ia.

"The statesmen of the world should give heed to the teachings of John Hay, the great peace-maker, who worked and hoped for the time when all nations would settle their differences peacefully in conference and not in blood on the battlefields of death," he said.

Telegrams on Palestine.

Jewish leaders who have been active in Washington this week reported, meantime, that more than 64,000 telegrams had been sent to the White House and State Department urging the Government to use its influence toward keeping Palestine open to Jewish refugees.

The telegrams urged intercession against the British Government's reported intention to halt Jewish immigration into Palestine because of troubles there between Arabs and Jews.

CHINESE TO TELL ABOUT WAR

Visitors to Address Meetings Tomorrow and Tuesday.

First-hand accounts of the Chinese-Japanese War will be related by Miss Yang Hui-min and Lo-shan Peng, two of China's foremost young leaders, at a mass meeting tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Third Baptist Church, Grand and Washington boulevards. The meeting is sponsored by a local committee headed by Dr. Harvey J. Howard and is open to the public without charge.

The visitors are on a good-will tour of American cities as personal representatives of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese military leader. They will leave for Chicago Tuesday afternoon after addressing the Washington University student body at Brown Auditorium in the Social Science Building at 2 o'clock.

Beale Streets Elects a Mayor.

By the Associated Press.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 15. — Matthew Thornton, postoffice letter carrier, was elected "Mayor of Beale Street" today, polling 12,000 out of 33,000 votes. There were 11 other candidates. Thornton's principal duties will be to greet distinguished guests and serve as official spokesman for "the street where the blues began."

HUMANE ASSOCIATION STAFF REACHES CITY

Officers Arrive for 4-Day Convention Starting Tomorrow at Coronado Hotel.

The sixty-second annual convention of the American Humane Association will open tomorrow at the Coronado Hotel and continue through Thursday. The staff from association headquarters at Albany, N. Y., headed by Eric Hansen, secretary and general manager, who formerly was managing director of the Humane Society of Missouri, arrived at the hotel yesterday.

The final meeting Thursday afternoon will consist of an informal discussion of problems of humane organizations, arising with the depression and intensified by the recession. Hansen said there would be no scheduled speakers, so that delegates will have an opportunity to explain their current problems and permit others to aid in arriving at a solution.

The convention will open at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning with reading of the report of the president, Sydney H. Coleman of New York City. A tribute will be paid to the late Dr. William O. Stillman, former president, with Miss Florence N. Maher, formerly his secretary, reading a paper, "Dr. Stillman, as I Knew Him."

Monday afternoon and Tuesday, sessions will be devoted to children, and on Monday night, motion pictures will be shown on wildlife and efficiency innovations by various local humane societies.

There will be a sightseeing tour Tuesday afternoon, and at 6:30 p. m. the annual banquet will be held at the Coronado. Speakers will include A. G. Eberle of St. Louis University Law School and Richard G. Craven, Albany, N. Y., field secretary of the national association.

Sessions on animals will begin Wednesday morning with a meeting of the American Red Star, animal disaster relief organization formed during the World War. Following this meeting, there will be a discussion of how to build a humane society from a small beginning. The Midwest Humane Conference will hold its annual luncheon and election of officers at noon. The conference represents Iowa, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Missouri.

PRINCE LOEWENSTEIN VISITS FRIENDS IN ST. LOUIS

Exiled German Writer and Lecturer to Give Talks at University of Mississippi.

Prince Huburtus zu Loewenstein, exiled German writer and lecturer, came to St. Louis yesterday to visit friends whose acquaintance he made on previous trips here. He is stopping at Hotel Chase.

Prince Loewenstein will leave tonight for the University of Mississippi, where he will give a series of lectures on Central European culture under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace. Recently he completed a course of lectures at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.

BURIAL OF MARCUS E. CAPELLE

Born in St. Louis 86 Years Ago; Died in Detroit.

Marcus Eugene Capelle, born in St. Louis 86 years ago, was buried yesterday in Bellefontaine Cemetery. He died of heart disease Wednesday in a Detroit hospital. In recent years he had made his home in Marquette, Mich.

Mr. Capelle left St. Louis about 50 years ago to engage in the jewelry business in Chicago. His father, John Porter Capelle, after going to California from Delaware in the gold rush of 1849, settled in St. Louis about 1850 and operated a jewelry store here. Surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Austin Farrell of Marquette, Mich.; Mrs. I. D. Kingsbury and Miss Bertha Capelle, both of Rochester, N. Y.

BARUCH PROPOSES SPECIAL TAX FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

SUGGESTS USING PWA, WPA FUNDS

Cost of Preparedness Program Should Not Be Passed on to Future Generations, He Says.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Bernard M. Baruch, in an interview today, advocated a special tax to meet the cost of increased armaments.

The financier who, as chairman of the War Industries Board, was in charge of mobilizing industry in the World War, said the levy "should be heavy enough to meet the cost of preparedness, whatever the cost may be."

"We should not pile the burden of paying for these armaments on to the shoulders of coming generations," he contended. "We should pay the bill ourselves. Congress, I believe, should enact whatever form of levy it thinks best to pay for the new expenditures.

For Using WPA and PWA Funds.

"I am not prepared, nor is it my business, to say how all of this money shall be raised. All of it may not have to be raised by taxation. But certainly we must provide for interest and amortization of the cost.

"Some of the expense possibly can be met by transferring expenditures from PWA and WPA to the defense program. This would give great numbers of people employment instead of relief.

"The cost of building up our national defenses will be high, but we should build to such an extent that the aggressive nations will know we are prepared to defend our political and economic ideals against all odds."

German Press Attack.

Referring to the statements in the German press that he was mixed up a "Jewish plot" to influence President Roosevelt, Baruch said:

"At Versailles, I fought consistently for better terms for defeated Germany. England and France showed a complete lack of wisdom in trampling Germany underfoot then and in failing, later, to ameliorate the uneconomic terms of the peace imposed."

All of this, he said, "is beside the point."

"The big thing is this—after Munich, what do we face?

"Germany, Japan and Italy are thoroughly armed, or as well armed as their resources permit. They are looking around the world, and have been for some time, for new fields of resources to control.

"It is in the Americas—North and South—where the great future development of the world will take place."

Attack on Baruch Spreads in German Press.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Oct. 15.—German press attacks on Bernard Baruch, former chairman of the United States War Industries Board, reached the semi-official Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz today.

A DNB (official German news agency) dispatch from New York, quoting Baruch as warning that the United States would have to take immediate steps "to prevent Hitler from occupying part of South America," was headed:

"American Jew Baruch Climbs Peak of Ridiculousness With Grotesque Armament Agitation — Loud Laughter Assured Him in All Germany."

"Baruch's charges," Diplomatisch Politische Korrespondenz said, "are along the same lines as efforts of the bellicose clique unfortunately existing in England."

NEW YORK-BUCHAREST FLYERS ARRIVE IN MIAMI, FLA.

Expect to Continue This Week to Brazil Whence They Will Cross South Atlantic.

By the Associated Press.

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 15. — Capt. Alex Papana, Rumanian stunt pilot, and Max Constant of Burbank, Cal., arrived here today after a seven-hour flight from New York on the first leg of a trip to Bucharest.

They plan to remain here until Monday or Tuesday before continuing to South America. From Natal, Brazil, they will fly the South Atlantic to Dakar, French West Africa, and expect to reach Bucharest in a week.

Man Dies at 105 in New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — William Henry Eves, grandson of the head groom of King George IV of England, died today at the age of 105. A retired maker of custom shoes and lasts, he came to the United States shortly after the Civil War.

MEMBERSHIP IN PLAYGOERS OFFERED ON TIME-PAY PLAN

Privilege Extended to Balcony Customers; Fourth of Price to Be Paid Down.

Membership in the Playgoers, the group through which season tickets to performances at the American Theater are offered, may now be purchased on the installment plan.

M. E. Holderness, president of the organization, said last night the time-payment privilege would be extended to those reserving balcony seats. One-fourth of the full price is required as a down payment, and the rest may be paid in three equal installments.

The Playgoers' membership for the coming season, Holderness said, now exceeds 1100.

FLYER MOLLISON TO REWED

Widow of Former Commander to Be Bride.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 15. — James A. Mollison, the Australian airman, today filed notice at the Caxton Hall Register Office of his intention to marry Mrs. Phyllis Hussey, former wife of Commander Thomas Hussey, next week.

Mollison's marriage to Amy Johnson, also a flyer, ended in divorce, which was made final Aug. 24. Mrs. Hussey owns plantations in Jamaica.

RAILROADS REPEAT THEY MEAN TO PUT PAY CUT IN EFFECT

'Nothing Can Be Done for Industry to Obviate Necessity' for 15 Pct. Reduction, Leader Says.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A repetition by management of its intention to put through a 15 per cent reduction in railroad wages marked the end today of testimony-taking by President Roosevelt's emergency fact-finding board.

The board, which is attempting to avert a nation-wide strike by almost 1,000,000 railroad workers opposing the proposed cut, will hear concluding arguments Monday. Then it will have until Oct. 27 to submit a report to President Roosevelt. Both the wage reduction and the workers' strike have been deferred by law until after this report is made.

J. J. Pelley, president of the American Association of Railroads, was the final witness for the carriers. He told the board:

"There is nothing that can be done for this railroad industry that would obviate the necessity of prosecuting this wage reduction to the last. . . .

"We went through this thing one end to the other before this wage movement was started, and I know from my own knowledge that this is the only way out for us."

Speaking for almost all the major railroads in this country, he denied testimony by Chairman Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, that railroads were wasting $1,000,000 a day.

Pelley asserted that railroads were pleased by legislative relief programs offered by labor and congressional leaders, then added:

"But what I want to say to the board is that there is no plan, there is none that can be made, there is none that can be put in effect, that will meet this emergency we are in now."

Senator Wheeler, criticising Pelley's testimony in a statement issued several hours after the hearing ended, said the railroads were "likely to postpone cleaning house" so long as they could "go with their hats in their hands to the shippers and consumers of this country and to the employes of the railroads and get relief."

U. S. Eucharistic Congress In New Orleans Tomorrow

Broadcast by Pope to Be Heard Tuesday—Cardinal Mundelein to Celebrate Mass at City Park.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—The greatest religious gathering in this city's history—the eighth National Eucharistic Congress—will open Monday and last through Thursday. A broadcast by Pope Pius will be heard Tuesday.

Tomorrow, national Holy Communion day, Catholics of the country, as a preliminary to the congress opening, will receive communion for the welfare and intentions of the Pope.

The purpose of the congress essentially is to honor the Blessed Sacrament, but the religious and the laity will spend many hours in discussion of their faith and its application to their daily lives.

There will be singing in the streets, at the pontifical masses at the outdoor altar in City Park stadium and in St. Louis Cathedral, named after the patron saint of Bourbon France.

On Tuesday, in the park where seats have been built for 65,000 persons, George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, papal delegate to the congress, will celebrate mass surrounded by a hundred Bishops and Archbishops.

The Cardinal will wear gloves signifying purity, the Bishops will wear their embroidered mitres symbolizing the old law and the new, and among them in silence will walk the Right Rev. Frederick M. Dunne, of the Order of Cistercians of Strict Observance, Abbot of Our Lady of Gethsemane monastery in Kentucky, where the Trappist monks live.

The Trappists, among the strictest of all penitential orders, observe a rule of perpetual silence and sleep in their robes on wooden boards.

On Thursday afternoon 100,000 men, women and children will march to the park, where Cardinal Mundelein will give solemn benediction.

SIX REPUBLICAN MEETINGS IN COUNTY THIS WEEK

Party Members Also to Attend City Gathering of Fourteenth Ward G. O. P.

Six Republican political meetings will be held in St. Louis County this week, it was announced yesterday by C. Wheeler Detjen, chairman of the Republican Central Committee. County Republicans also will attend a meeting of the Fourteenth Ward Republican organization Friday night at Alhambra Grotto, Grand boulevard and Magnolia avenue.

The Clayton Township Republican Women's Club will have a luncheon meeting at 12:30 o'clock tomorrow at the Claymo Hotel, Clayton. J. Grant Frye of Cape Girardeau, chairman of the Republican State Committee's speakers' bureau, will speak. Tuesday night the Richmond Heights Republican Club will meet at Bellevue School, and the St. Ferdinand Township organization will hold a rally at the Ferguson High School auditorium, 200 Church street.

A meeting of the Meramec Township Republican Club will be held Thursday night at the Eureka High School. Members of the Jefferson and Clayton Township organizations will hold a joint meeting Thursday night at Douglas School, Rock Hill. Candidates will address a Republican meeting Friday night at Grange Hall, on Highway 66, a quarter-mile south of St. Charles road.

OWNER PAHL REMOVES SIGN FROM BOMBED CLEANING SHOP

It Had Painted on It, "Come on in, You Racketeers; Biggest Pineapple Wins."

Edward Pahl, owner of the nonunion cleaning establishment at 4510 Page boulevard, bombed early last Wednesday, has removed the large sign he hung out after the explosion, which carried the invitation, "Come on in racketeers."

The sign added that, "The one with the biggest pineapple wins." Police said they did not know why Pahl took down the sign, which was 14 by 5 feet with black and red letters.

Pahl, frequently in trouble with the cleaners' union, told police and reporters he attributed the bombing to his persistent refusal to sign a union agreement. He said he was warned by union business agents that it would be "too bad" if he continued to refuse. Six men, including three union business agents, were questioned by police, but were released on bond when they denied knowledge of the bombing.

WASHINGTON U. HOMECOMING

Program Opens Friday; Missouri Game Saturday.

The annual homecoming celebration at Washington University will open next Friday night with a football game between the Washington freshman and the freshman team of Washburn College, following a pep session, which will include music by the band, bonfires and the burning of freshman caps.

Saturday morning there will be a parade downtown of decorated automobiles, followed by the football game with the University of Missouri in the afternoon and the homecoming dance in the Field House at night.

STARK TO SPEAK AT RALLY FOR GASOLINE TAX INCREASE

Campaign for Constitutional Amendment Providing for One-Cent Rise to Open Tuesday.

Gov. Lloyd C. Stark will speak in favor of State Constitutional Amendment No. 6 providing for a one-cent increase in the gasoline tax to pay for a 10-year road program at a rally Tuesday at Municipal Auditorium opening the campaign in St. Louis for passage of the amendment.

Sponsor of the meeting is the St. Louis Campaign Committee of the Citizens Road Association. Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann and former Mayor Henry W. Kiel also are scheduled to talk.

The amendment, designed to make possible a highway modernization program, provides for liquidation of outstanding road bonds and includes a provision preventing additional increases other than one for one-cent incorporated in the amendment. The present rate is two cents a gallon. The proposed legislation will be voted on in the November election.

MEHLVILLE CHURCH OPENS CENTENNIAL WEEK TODAY

St. John's Evangelical to Have Regular Morning Service; Homecoming in Afternoon.

The centennial of the St. John's Evangelical Church of Mehlville, Mo., will be celebrated with a week's activities, beginning today.

The program will open with regular morning services, at which the pastor, the Rev. A. F. Alberswerth will preach, followed by a homecoming this afternoon. On Tuesday there will be a banquet by the St. John's Brotherhood, and on Wednesday services commemorating the organization of Evangelical Synod in 1840.

Next Sunday, the closing day, there will be tree-planting ceremonies and a dinner for youths of the congregation.

WHEELER PROPHESIES INDEPENDENT SENATE

Montanan Thinks Failure of Roosevelt Purge Will Encourage Spirit.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Senator Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, predicted today a majority of the Senate would vote "independently" on administration measures in the next session.

He said that as a result of the failure of President Roosevelt's efforts to defeat Senators George of Georgia, Tydings of Maryland and Smith of South Carolina, he believed that many other Senators would feel free to be independent and these independents will outnumber the Senators who are 100 per cent behind all Roosevelt measures.

"We're going to vote our own independent judgment," Wheeler said, "and because of the way the WPA has been used in the premaries for political purposes, I think there will be a determined effort made to pass laws which will tend to take the WPA out of politics and perhaps take it out of the control of the present setup. There ought to be a housecleaning in WPA."

Wheeler, who has been in the Senate since 1922, said he had not decided yet whether he would run for re-election in 1940. He said that four years ago he had decided not to be a candidate, but was induced by friends and colleagues to seek office again.

Wheeler said he was not considering retiring from the Senate because of the possibility that an effort might be made to "purge" him in 1940. He said he could be elected by as wide a margin as in 1936, when he got 73 per cent of the votes cast.

Regarding his own independence in the Senate, Wheeler said:

"I will vote with the President on all measures which I believe to be right. I have supported most administration proposals in the past. I still am a progressive and a liberal, but I hope I'm not crazy."

Wheeler said he had no control over patronage in his State now. This, he said, was handled principally by Representative O'Connell, a Democratic member of the House who has been a strong supporter of the administration.

ROOSEVELT GOES TO THEATER SECOND TIME IN FIVE YEARS

President Laughs at Mention of His Family Name in "Knickerbocker Holiday."

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — A musical comedy which makes fun of the Government in early New York drew President Roosevelt to the National Theater tonight. He had attended only one other play in more than five years. The comedy, "Knickerbocker Holiday," was written by Maxwell Anderson, with music by Kurt Weill.

Peter Stuyvesant, played by Walter Huston, is the Governor of the early Seventeenth Century city. The peg-legged Peter assumes the role of a dictator, agreeing with his council that the purpose of government is to "keep the people down." Members of the council, which Peter describes as "stupid," include a "Roosevelt" and a "Vanderbilt."

The President laughed heartily at mention of his family name in the play. He applauded also for a tune entitled "How Can You Tell an American?" which explained that Americans refused to be regimented or "live by a book of rules."

WPA Concert Oct. 27.

The first of a fall series of four WPA concerts will be given Oct. 27 at 8 p. m. at the Y. M. H. A., Union boulevard and Enright avenue. The orchestra will be under the direction of Frank Panus.

MAN HIT BY DOOR DIES

Wind Slammed It, Knocking Tavern Keeper Down.

Matthew Novosal, a tavern proprietor, died at City Hospital yesterday of a fractured hip suffered Wednesday night when he was knocked down by the door of a garage in the rear of his home, 6245A Gravois avenue.

Novosal had told police that he had started to open the door when a strong gust of wind threw it back suddenly and it struck him. He was 65 years old.

REPORT ON CITY PARKS AND LAMBERT FIELD

Volume of Air Mail Doubled in Year—Improvements at Forest Park.

Volume of air mail handled at Lambert-St. Louis Field in the fiscal year which ended last April was more than double that of the preceding year, it was stated in a report by Ralph W. Page, airport manager, included in the annual report of Park Commissioner Joseph J. Mestres, issued yesterday.

The mail amounted to 741,000 pounds in the last year, or slightly more than a ton a day.

Air lines carried 26,000 St. Louis passengers in the year, an increase of 10 per cent, and 140,000 pounds of air express matter. There were 46,600 takeoffs from the field in the year, averaging 127 a day, an increase of 15 per cent, 28,000 short local flights being included.

Once more Page calls attention to the 52-foot grain elevator near the north corner of the field, a flying hazard which he declares should be removed. More fire-fighting facilities are needed to protect the $2,000,000 in property at the airport, he adds.

The following plans for relieving traffic congestion at the airport are under process of development, Page says: Road paralleling the Wabash Railway, to connect with airport road; 60-foot lighted gateway between the administration building and Lindbergh boulevard; paving of St. Thomas street, Bridgeton, to connect this building with Natural Bridge road. Property owners have donated a 40-foot strip for widening the latter route.

River des Peres Parkway.

Planting in the new River des Peres Parkway is listed as follows: 800 American elm trees along the roads, 2539 other trees, 12,335 assorted shrubs, 347 climbing rose bushes, 5800 vines and 61,000 square yards of blue grass sod. In a 10-acre plot east of the Jewel Box, Forest Park, this planting is noted: 188 deciduous trees, 20 broad-leaf evergreens, 62 flowering trees, 42 evergreens, 2000 deciduous shrubs, 800 hybrid tea roses, 2500 perennials.

Establishment of three new rosariums or rose gardens in Forest Park is reported, with a total of 14,100 bushes. Two adjoin the Jewel Box and one replaces an old athletic field opposite Barnes Hospital. The Park Division's 18 greenhouses, says the commissioner, propagate 500,000 blooming plants annually but two more greenhouses are needed.

The Jewel Box, he notes, attracts 500,000 visitors a year to its floral displays.

An increase in vandalism in the parks is remarked, one manifestation being the burning of benches in fireplaces. Fifteen hundred new benches were put in place in the last year. Value of all park property is given as $91,000,000.

Attention is called to landscaping going on at a hitherto unsightly 20-acre tract north of Jefferson Lake, along Wells drive, Forest Park. A lake 18 inches deep, suitable for skating in season, will be made there.

Forester Ludwig Baumann suggests equipment of the larger park trees with lightning rods, as the result of the destruction of a third of the attractive crown of a 150-year-old oak tree in Francis Park. This tree, with a four-foot trunk, is the finest in that park.

Golf Receipts Over $35,000.

Receipts from golf permits for the year were $29,160, an increase of $5880, but expenses of the municipal links were $31,389. However, the city received in addition $6450 for permits of players on the Triple A course. Tennis permits yielded only $8516, a decrease of $2085, while expenses were $10,601. The report suggests that the $1 annual tennis fee be increased.

Park refectory receipts were $49,542, with a profit of $3770, and the city's 10 per cent share of income from the Forest Park boat concession was $1851.

The year's expenditures on the parks by the city included $536,974 for labor and $77,765 for materials, a total of $614,739. The report said the annual maintenance cost was $194.44 per acre for the 3213.17 acres of city parks.

Disgruntled Captains To Race Schooners Today

Bluenose and Thebaud Skippers Dislike Sailing Course Out of Turn to Provide Boston Sunday Show.

By the Associated Press.

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 15.—Two fishing schooners, the Bluenose of Nova Scotia and Gertrude S. Thebaud of Glocester, Mass., will race over the Boston course tomorrow. Capt. Angus Walters of the Bluenose and Capt. Ben Pine of the Thebaud were both disgruntled over the order of the racing committee headed by Capt. Charles M. Lyons. The order requires them to race over the long Boston course — 12 miles to each leg—for the international fishermen's title. Each schooner has won one race in the three of five series—the Thebaud last Sunday and the Bluenose Thursday.

The eagerness of the race committee to deliver a good show to Boston on a Sunday brought about a situation in which the race courses were sailed out of turn. Otherwise, the race to be sailed tomorrow, under rules made by the committee, would have been the short course off Gloucester, twice around a triangle with six-mile legs.

The Bluenose left Gloucester for Boston today without its skipper. Capt. Walters was at the Harvard-Army football game in Cambridge. However, before he left here, Capt. Angus expressed himself as utterly weary of the backing and filling of the race committee, with its contradictory orders.

The Thebaud will go down to the Nahant course from Gloucester tomorrow, in time to stand up toward the starting line at 10 a. m.

YOUNG ISRAEL CONVENTION HERE FROM NOV. 24 TO 27

Midwestern Division for Furtherance of Traditional Judaism Will Discuss Plans for Year.

The eighth annual Midwestern convention of Young Israel, an organization devoted to the furtherance of traditional Judaism, will be held at the Coronado Hotel Nov. 24 to 27.

The convention will open with a Thanksgiving dinner for the 200 delegates and 400 members of the St. Louis branch. Kosher food will be served at the dinner.

During the meeting representatives will discuss plans for their program of the coming year and will discuss inclusion of the organization of new branches. William Cherrick is president of the St. Louis branch.

HATTERS UNION HEAD TO SPEAK

Max Zaritsky in St. Louis to Address Mass Meeting.

Max Zaritsky, international president of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers, is in St. Louis after attending the A. F. of L. convention at Houston, Tex., to address a mass meeting of the 2500 local members of the union tomorrow evening at Hotel Jefferson.

Zaritsky said there were no issues involving the four local unions, which have collective bargaining agreements with employers, and that his address would be of an educational nature. He will speak, he said, on political and economic conditions in the United States and Europe, and will touch on Nazism. Zaritsky is stopping at Hotel Statler.

CAULFIELD CHARGES WASTE IN NEW DEAL

In Campaign Speech Alleges Clark Broke Faith With Electorate.

By the Associated Press.

WELLSVILLE, Mo., Oct. 15. — Former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield in a campaign speech tonight assailed the New Deal as the "most extravagant government that has ever existed in the history of the world." Caulfield is the Republican nominee for the United States Senate.

Caulfield asserted that United States Senator Bennett Champ Clark, his Democratic opponent, had broken faith with the electorate by disregarding promises to reduce governmental expenditures made in the party's platform.

"Clark and his associates traipsed all over Missouri denouncing the Republican administration for what they called an excessive and extravagant number of bureaus, commissions and special agencies," he said. "They stated time and again that they would cut them down in accordance with the solemn promise of their platform. What have they done? They have not done any abolishing or consolidating whatever, but instead have created 70 per cent more bureaus, commissions and special agencies than existed when they went into power."

Clark Promises Aid in Keeping Country Out of War.

By the Associated Press.

KAHOKA, Mo., Oct. 15.—Senator Bennett Champ Clark told a Democratic meeting here today he was "resolved to do everything in my power to prevent another involvement of the United States in wars which do not concern us."

He declared "I disagree entirely with the view of some of our citizens, supported by a richly financed propaganda, that it is the duty of the United States to act as the policeman of the world, more particularly to protect the investments of a handful of adventurers abroad."

Clark, seeking re-election over the Republican nominee, former Gov. Henry S. Caulfield, said he was "proud to have been one of the sponsors and active proponents of the declaration of policy which led up to the enactment of the present neutrality law—imperfect as it is. I am one of the authors of the drastic bill for taxing profits in time of war. It is my belief that one of the greatest deterrents to war would be the certainty in advance that there would be equality of sacrifice, at least of wealth as well as blood."

LORD STANLEY OF BRITISH CABINET DIES AT AGE OF 44

Secretary for Dominions and Heir to Earl of Derby Had Been Ill Several Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 16. (Sunday).—Lord Stanley, Secretary for Dominions in the British Cabinet and heir to the Earl of Derby, died at 3:30 a. m. today. He was 44 years old.

Lord Stanley died in a London clinic following an illness of several weeks.

He underwent an operation on his return from Canada last month.

Lord Stanley was promoted from the post of parliamentary secretary for India and Burma to head the Dominions Ministry last May. Malcolm MacDonald at that time moved from the Dominions post to become colonial Secretary.

Eldest son of the seventeenth Earl of Derby, Lord Stanley was educated at Eton and Oxford before serving in the World War until he was wounded. He was first elected to Parliament in 1917 as a conservative.

FUNERAL FOR JOHN J. M'GLYNN TO BE AT 9 A. M. TUESDAY

Retired Principal of East St. Louis Grade Schools to Be Buried at Litchfield, Ill.

Funeral services for John J. McGlynn, principal of East St. Louis public grade schools for more than 50 years, who died of uremia Friday night at St. Mary's Hospital, will be at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning at St. Joseph's Catholic Church, 400 Columbia place, East St. Louis, with burial at Litchfield, Ill.

Mr. McGlynn, 74 years old, had been ill for several months and had not resumed his duties this fall. HONGKONG CUT OFF FROM CANTON BY JAPANESE THRUST tung provincial forces, drawn in large part from the rice fields, were said to have been strengthened by thousands of troops from neighboring Kwangsi Province.

The Kwangtung Government appeared determined on an unreserved defense.

Refugees Blocking Roads.

Canton, river city normally populated by nearly 1,000,000 Chinese, was a scene of excitement and misery. Mostly women and children blocked roads into the interior or tried to fight their way aboard ships to escape. It was estimated that 200,000 had fled in three days.

An important factor of the southern invasion was the proximity of large-scale warfare to Hongkong with the constant threat of international complications.

Dispatches said Hongkong remained outwardly calm, but food supplies had diminished and prices were rising. Not only food supply but the economic existence of the colony was threatened by the Japanese operations.

The invasion of the region is a test of the loyalty of South China for Generalissimo Chiang.

There has been resentment in Canton over the fact that energetic defense of the city against air raids has not been forthcoming, although South China has aided the Central Government.

But this resentment apparently has been superseded by the new nationalism.

The Kwangtung forces undertook to oppose the Japanese almost unaided, but Hongkong dispatches have said that Chiang was reliably represented as having dispatched large numbers of troops and detailed one of his ablest generals to South China.

Japanese Operations on Largest Scale Since War Began.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 15.—Japanese army and navy spokesmen said today Japanese operations in China have reached the greatest dimensions since the undeclared conflict started July 7, 1937.

The South China drive, started Wednesday, appeared to be developing fast, promising a Japanese overlordship for 70,000,000 Chinese in southern provinces while armies, warships and planes hammered closer to Hankow, Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's capital in Central China.

Moreover, the Japanese army in North China was reported prepared to enlarge operations westward into the untouched provinces of Shensi and Kansu or southward to the Yangtze valley to assist the Hankow campaign, if necessary. The Northern command reported that its anti-guerrilla campaign had reduced Communist fighters, organized around the famous Eighth Army, to impotence.

The Yangtze invaders were reported within 80 miles by river of Hankow. The Chinese said today that their shore batteries in that sector, southeast of Hankow, had sunk a Japanese munitions transport.

The Yangtze River fighting was in but one sector of a vast front arching from the Peiping-Hankow Railway north of Hankow, cutting across the great waterway above Kichun and terminating in the vicinity of Yangsin, about 80 miles southeast of the Japanese goal.

Japanese recently reported cutting the Peiping-Hankow Railway about 100 miles north of Hankow, and a fierce and successful attack on Chinese positions at Kichun on the river.

Forces massed before Yangsin apparently still were blocked from a westward approach to cut the Canton-Hankow Railway.

A great obstacle for the left flank of the drive on Hankow is the Chinese resistance at Teian, 130 miles southeast of Hankow. To remove this, Japanese forces for weeks have been trying to advance southward along the Kiukiang-Nanchang Railway to its southern terminus, 60 miles below Teian.

The Chinese reported a great victory last week at Teian, asserting two Japanese divisions were scattered by Teian's defenders.

The Japanese thrust southward toward Nanchang has been carried far beyond the range of naval guns, about 30 miles south of the river base of Kiukiang, and the Chinese are fighting in a terrain better adapted to their comparative lack of motorized and other equipment.

DRUGGIST CITED FOR SALE OF BEER BY SINGLE BOTTLE

Package Liquor License Bars Distribution in Quantitier of Less Than 3.

Irwin Kreisman, druggist at 1100 North Sarah street, was cited yesterday to appear before Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel Oct. 31 to answer charges to selling a single bottle of beer under a license allowing him to sell not less than three at a time.

The citation was issued after John Reiner, chief inspector in the excise office, told of going to Kreisman's store and buying one bottle of beer for 10 cents and a 2-cent deposit. City and State laws prohibit the holder of a package liquor license such as Kreisman's from selling beer in quantities of less than three bottles for consumption off the premises.

ANTI-CATHOLIC LITERATURE DISTRIBUTORS FINED $100

Leaflets Promoted Fascism, Too, Police at Alexandria, La., Asserted.

By the Associated Press.

ALEXANDRIA, La., Oct. 15. — City Judge Gus A. Voltz today fined four men $100 each and sentenced them to 90 days in jail on charges of "peddling and selling without state licenses" literature which police said promoted Fascism and attacked the Catholic Church.

The judge suspended the jail sentences on condition the men pay the fines and leave town. The four were listed as Eric W. Ruckman, Los Angeles; Clement Mathis and Robert Graham, Baton Rouge, La. and Carmen Golden, New Jersey.

Considers Rescinding Allotments in Case of Delay.

The Public Works Administration is considering rescinding allotments for undertakings where applicants delay acceptance of the offers and do not proceed with all possible speed to get the work under way, Regional Director Robert A. Radford of Omaha, Neb., announced in a telegram sent yesterday to Henry S. Miller, PWA engineer and former St. Louisan.

The PWA program could not be penalized by waiting for applicants who cannot or will not act promptly, Radford said, adding that construction had to start by the date stipulated in the offer of funds. His announcement was made on advice from Washington. The region embraces eight states, including Missouri.

TRUSTEE FOR OIL FIRM NAMED

Refining Company at Centralia, Ill., Seeks to Reorganize.

A petition for reorganization under the amended bankruptcy act was filed in United States District Court at East St. Louis yesterday by the Power Oil & Refining Co. of Centralia, Ill. The petition, signed by M. N. Cohen, president, said that, while operation of the plant had not proved profitable, it was thought that increasing oil production near Centralia would make successful operation possible.

Judge Fred L. Wham appointed Vol E. Richardson of Mount Vernon, Ill., as trustee, and instructed him to file a report on the company Nov. 1. In its Aug. 31 statement assets and liabilities balanced at $191,728.

ZUPPKE'S MEN SCORE AFTER BLOCKING AN IRISH PUNT

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct. 15.—Two spectacular maneuvers, one a sudden bid through the air and the other a breath-taking thrust on the ground, carried Notre Dame's football legions to a 14-to-6 victory over Illinois today.

Before the 45,000 spectators hardly had settled into their seats, Notre Dame scored a first-period touchdown on a long pass from Harry Stevenson to Earl Brown. In the third period, fleet Ben Sheridan brilliantly returned a punt 68 yards to score.

Illinois got its touchdown shortly afterward by recovering a blocked Irish punt a yard from the Notre Dame goal line—but didn't have quite enough left for a serious threat to the Irish triumph.

Playing at Notre Dame for the first time, Illinois depended on a line which had whipped Indiana a week ago. Today the Illini forwards were outplayed from start to finish. Illinois, stopped on the ground, took to the air only to encounter an alert Irish secondary which permitted only three completions in 12 aerial attempts.

Great Finger-Tip Catch.

The game was barely five minutes old when Notre Dame scored. Taking the ball after an Illinois punt, Notre Dame failed to move the ball from the Illini 35-yard line on three running plays. Then Stevenson faded back and shot a 47-yard pass into the end zone, Brown making a great finger-tip catch for the touchdown.

After a hard-played second period, highlighted by strong play of the Irish forwards and Sheridan's handling of punt returns for consistent gains, the throng was treated to two scoring thrills. Rettinger, Illinois fullback, got away a long punt which Sheridan took on his own 32.

Twisting and dodging from the entire Illini team, the little speedster from Havana, Ill., streaked down the field for a touchdown.

Illinois, after several nice runs by Bob Wehrli, a 10-yard pass and a 15-yard penalty on Notre Dame, drove 50 yards to the Notre Dame 10. The Irish line held for downs, Stevenson's punt was blocked by Phillips and several Illinois players recovered on the one-yard marker. Ralph Ehni, reserve quarterback, hit center for a touchdown, but his try for point was blocked.

81-Yard Run Wasted.

Early in the final period, Phil Pezzoli intercepted a Notre Dame pass on his own 10 and returned 81 yards to the Notre Dame nine, but Longhi intercepted a pass to ruin that Illinois chance and the battle was over.

Notre Dame, using numerous sets of backs and giving first string linemen repeated rest periods, gained 2[illegible] yards by rushing to 70 for Illinois. In first downs the Irish, winners of three starts this season, had a 15-to-9 margin. That Notre Dame did not score on sustained ground drives was due more to the inability of Irish backs to hang onto the ball than to Illinois' defense.

GOPHERS COME FROM BEHIND TO BEAT MICHIGAN

By the Associated Press.

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 15.—Minnesota's mighty men of the gridiron, their powerhouse dynamited today by a scrappy Michigan wrecking crew, unveiled a puzzling passing attack to come from behind with six minutes to play and win, 7 to 6.

Some 55,000 homecoming fans saw the Big Ten champions retain the historic Little Brown Jug in a game in which Coach Fritz Crisler's Huskies gained the edge in everything but the final score.

In the last quarter, with Michigan holding a 6 to 0 edge after a great 90-yard march up the field, Coach Bernie Bierman's squad called on the injured Harold Van Every, triple threat halfback, to search for success through the air.

Van Every, out of action since the opener against Washington, shot a perfect strike from his own 48-yard line to Bill Johnson, substitute right end, who caught the ball on the Michigan 18 and plunged to the 14 with three Michigan players taking a ride.

Two plunges took the ball to the 10. Then Van Every stepped back and pitched another strike to halfback Wilbur Moore. He grabbed it

Football Official Dies During Game At Yankee Stadium

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.

HARRIS MORIARTY, one of the leading football officials in the South, died of a heart attack during the fourth period of the North Carolina-New York University football game at the Yankee Stadium today, in which he officiated as umpire.

Moriarty, a graduate of Mount St. Mary's College, was vice-president of the First National Bank of Birmingham, Ala.

He collapsed during a play late in the fourth period and the game was held up several minutes until physicians arrived. They said the official died immediately, although first reports said he was conscious until carried on a stretcher to the dressing room under the grand stand.

Carnegie Scores One-Point Victory

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—Carnegie Tech edged out Holy Cross 7 to 6 today in a thrill-packed game watched by 30,000. Ray Carnelly's 42-yard touchdown run and placement point in the second beat Bill Osmanski's 92-yard return of the second half kickoff when Jim Turner missed the extra point. Both teams were undefeated and untied prior to today.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Manager or Traffic Cop?

NEITHER of our local major league baseball clubs has yet chosen a manager, if we believe official statements on the subject. Nor are they likely to—at least not a real manager, one able to lift his voice with an effect in the shaping of the club's affairs.

In fact what most baseball clubs want is not a manager but a sort of traffic cop. A man to put into motion the players chosen by the front office. He is supposed to tell the players on the field what to do and that's something more or less superfluous.

For, if you have good ball players they don't have to be told very often what to do; and if you have bad ball players they can't do it even when you tell them.

IN FACT, the baseball manager of today, if we except Connie Mack, who owns as well as manages his team, is something like a cross between a nonenity and a scapegoat. He has little voice in the selection of the material, which the management hands him. And if these materials fail, then he becomes a mere angora for the team's flop.

Just another Charley McCarthy who yaps when Bergen pulls the strings and says whatever his employer wants him to.

McGraw was a manager of different type. He had wide powers and really assembled the personnel of his team. Connie Mack today enjoys the same privilege and Bill Terry comes closer to having the destiny of his club in his own hand than any other National or American League pilot.

THE MANAGER today is in a very false position since he has his head lopped off for the failure of his employers to provide him with suitable material! Whenever a big league club flops it's the manager's head that rolls into the basket—guillotined for other people's mistakes, too often.

It's Not All Bad.

HOWEVER, MANAGERS who have experienced bad breaks of the kind don't always suffer. Sometimes in being kicked off the club they are kicked upstairs.

There's the case of Joe McCarthy, who was ousted from the Beshara Passes to Hayes for Three Scores; Iowa Team Counts on 91-Yard Gain by Moon.

By J. Roy Stockton

Jimmy Conzelman's Bears went over the mountain at almost a two-points-a-minute pace for two quarters against Simpson College at Francis Field yesterday, and when a long afternoon of too much football had sagged into the dim twilight of evening, Washington University was on the large end of a 58 to 6 score, the biggest score a Hilltop team has registered in too many years to remember. It was too much football because there was a doubleheader and there were 14 touchdowns.

During the first half the fast-stepping first-string ball carriers and the stalwart linemen were on duty, and Conzelman's well-drilled machine marched down the field with a regularity that soon became monotonous. Fifty-eight seconds after the first kick-off thud of toe against pigskin the Bears had a touchdown. Twelve seconds more and they had another and in less than five minutes the score was 18 to 0.

Conzelman then sent in his preferred substitutes, and they, too, were far too much for the inexperienced and over-matched enemy. Before the quarter ended there was another touchdown and in the second period touchdowns were registered after 30 seconds, five minutes, eight miutes and 10 minutes.

So smoothly and efficiently did the Washington attacking machine function through the air and on land that only 45 seconds of the first half remained when for the first time in the game the Bears felt they had to resort to the punt.

Different in Second Half.

It was different in the second half, but it was also duller. After the spectacular and quickly recurring bursts of power by Conzelman's No. 1 warriors, it was not entertaining to see the down-the-list reserves held virtually even by the hard-fighting but outclassed Simpson boys from Indianola, Ia., and if there are any references above to minutes and seconds it is because everybody was watching the clock, which finally signalled for the kindly pistol bark that ended the tedious thing.

When the too-long-lived second half was still young, hundreds of spectators were leaving the stands and those persons who in the past have fretted at defeats at the hands of teams of too much brilliance, probably will not again criticize Coach Conzelman for preferring to send his team against stiff competition.

It took only 58 seconds, as told, and two plays, to produce the first Washington touchdown. Bill Ferfecky took the Simpson kick-off and ran it back to his 46-yard line.

Colgate Stops Luckman and Beats Columbia

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Colgate's Red Raiders threw up an air-tight defense against Sid Luckman's passes when it was necessary today and in so doing handed the Columbia Lions their first setback of the season, 12 to 0, before 30,000 fans at Baker Field.

Not only was Luckman throttled in the pinches, but one of his aerials was intercepted and run back by Howard Herman 50 yards for Colgate's second touchdown in the final period. Out of the 16 passes attempted by Luckman only five were completed for a total gain of 48 yards.

Kansas State Runners Win.

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 15.—Kansas State College runners won a two-mile race from the University of Nebraska here this morning, 36 to 19. Charley Mitchell, Big Six two-mile champion, ran a dead heat with his teammate, George Hofsess, for first place. Their time was 9:57.6.

Tortorello Goes Over for Two Touchdowns, Turley and Purvines Get One Each; Schwenk Stars.

Showing real power, the Washington University freshmen defeated the Drake freshmen yesterday afternoon at Francis Field, 26 to 0. The young Bears scored single touchdowns in the first and second periods, went scoreless in the third and then got together for a pair of touchdowns in the fourth and final quarter.

Drake never really threatened to score against the young Bears. Andy Tortorello made two of the touchdowns, Turley and Purvines each one as Wilson Schwenk, former Beaumont High star, did some beautiful passing to his eligible receivers.

91-Yard March.

The Washington Cubs marched 91 yards for their first score. First Schwenk, Tortorello and Nelson rushed for two first downs and then Schwenk threw a pass to Tortorello, who ran to Drake's 10-yard line. Nelson plunged to the four-yard marker and Schwenk threw a pass to Tortorello in the end zone. Blades place-kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, after each team fumbled, it was the young Bears' ball on their own 34-yard line. Schwenk began his twisting runs and Nelson began to show his rating as a real plunger and the ball advanced quickly into Bulldog territory. After a fumble, Schwenk gave Washington a first down on Drake's 15-yard line and Tortorello raced around end for the remaining distance to the goal line.

That was all the scoring until the final quarter, when Schwenk threw another pass to Tortorello, which was good for a 66-yard gain, and brought the ball to the Drake 14-yard line, from where the former Beaumont High star threw to Turley in the end zone. Lutz place-kicked the extra point.

Another Touchdown Pass.

The final score also resulted from one of Schwenk's passes, this time to Purvines, with the pass and run being good for 55 yards. Drake passes gave the young Bears a brief scare in the final minutes, but the Bulldog first-year men lacked the final punch to tally points.

The first three quarters were played as a preliminary to the Washington-Simpson varsity game and the final period was contested between halves of the varsity runaway.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Oct. 15.—Iowa State's Everett Kischer was the fly in the ointment for Missouri here today as the Cyclones defeated the Tigers, 16 to 13, in a Big Six football game.

Eight thousand shirt-sleeved football fans watched as the 155-pound Iowan led his teammates to a victory which kept them at the top of the conference standings.

Kischer spun through the line and passed when the occasion demanded. He played 59 minutes of the contest and at the end was still directing his mates in a successful effort to protect their narrow margin.

Sharing the spotlight with the Iowan was Paul Christman, the nonchalant Missouri sophomore, who did the Tiger's passing.

Although the Iowans scored the most points, Missouri chalked up 22 first downs to five for their opponents. Missouri plays worked well in midfield but the Tigers encountered determined opposition every time they approached the goal line.

Missouri's aerial attack connected in 14 out of 28 attempts for a total of 218 yards—110 yards more than the Iowans were able to accomplish during the entire game by all methods.

Mixed among the Missouri plays was a quadruple lateral midway in the third quarter.

Now for a Quintuple.

Christman casually stepped back, cocked his right arm and fired the ball to Jim Starmer. Starmer took but a step before whirling and tossing to Bob Orf who carried on for a second then handed the ball to his twin brother, Roland. Roland Orf, surrounded by a horde of red-shirted Iowans, lateralled to Notowitz. The entire play netted 26 yards but went for naught when the victors took the ball on downs two plays later.

Iowa State's contribution to the aerial circus was a triple lateral following a forward pass from the irrepressible Kischer—but it was good for a touchdown.

Kischer spotted Chuck Heileman in the open on the Missouri 11. The towering end snared the ball and heaved to Co-Capt. Ed Bock, a guard. Bock whipped it to Henry Wilder who used his 193 pounds to worm through a fast-gathering army of white-shirted Missourians.

The touchdown and conversion placed the Cyclones in the lead which they never relinquished.

Not content, however, they added two more points in the same period when Ed Bock, guard and co-captain, hurtled the Missouri line to block Porter Robb's punt. The ball sailed high in the air and landed behind the goal posts for an automatic safety and two points.

A break of the game helped the Iowans to their third and winning touchdown. Kischer punted from deep in his own territory to the Missouri 26 where the ball bounded crazily and struck the ill-fated Robb on the shoulder.

Starmer and Christman.

Martin Boswell, an end, fell on it. On the next play Wilder went far around his own left end for the remaining distance to the goal line. Kischer converted both the Cyclone tallies.

BUCKEYES ARE OUTGAINED BY WILDCAT TEAM

Ryan Stopped on Five-Yard Line — Attempted Field Goal by Ohio Fails in Last Two Minutes.

By the Associated Press.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 15.—Northwestern, braked down by forward pass interceptions, was held to a scoreless tie by a dogged Ohio State eleven before 38,000 spectators at Dyche Stadium today.

The result settled nothing at all about the aspirations of both teams for Western Conference championship consideration.

The outcome was indicated on the first play of the second period. Jack Ryan, Northwestern's brilliant halfback, failed to dent the Buckeye line from the five-yard mark. It was almost a duplicate of the situation at Columbus a year ago, when the Buckeyes stopped Don Heap on the four-yard line.

Northwestern had the decided edge in the offensive for most of the game, but the Wildcats escaped defeat only by the narrow margin that kept Center Charley Maag's attempted field goal from whizzing over the crossbars in the final two minutes of play.

The Buckeyes had intercepted a pass and Maag came back into the game to try to break the deadlock. With Quarterback Jimmy Sexton holding the ball on the 22-yard line, Maag was rushed hard by the Wildcat forwards and the ball sailed to the left of the upright.

Ohio had been outplayed for nearly three-quarters of the game, but fought savagely when its goal was threatened.

Northwestern's superiority showed up clearly. The Wildcats rushed the ball for 12 first downs for a total of 193 yards, as compared with Ohio State's three first downs and 126 yards. Northwestern struck through the air with 19 passes, completing five for 64 yards, against 43 yards netted by the Buckeyes on the three passes in 10 attempts.

A penalty gave the Bears five yards and Jack Frost, a fine-looking youngster who probably will develop into a valuable man before he says goodbye to the Hilltop campus, shook his sophomore legs until he had advanced 34 yards. Dick Yore then hit off tackle for the necessary remaining yardage and inquiring eyes saw that the minute hand of the clock had not made one turn around the dial.

Perfecky then broke through, behind splendid interference, for a second and a third touchdown, running 69 yards for the latter. Tommy Hayes then grabbed a pass from bouncing Ed Beshara for a fourth score and the ball was Washington's on the enemy 10-yard line when the quarter ended.

The Sun Fades and Moon Shines.

It then took only 30 seconds of the second period to put it over, Shakofsky crossing the final line. Then Duncan went over from the two-yard line, Shakofsky made the final two yards for another and Hayes took another pass from Beshara to raise the score to 51 to 0.

As the second half dragged toward the finish it seemed that the score would end that way, but with about four minutes remaining Beshara threw a long pass and then a short pass to Hayes, and there was the score at 58 to 0. Ears were itching to hear the final bark of the timer's gun when Lounsberry of the Simpson eleven lateraled to Moon, probably because there was no longer any sun and the moon was all he could see. Perhaps the Bears were in the dark, too. At any rate Moon soon was in the clear and raced 91 yards to give dear old Simpson its first touchdown of the season and its third in three years of many beatings.

Charley Dee, the extra special point-after-touchdown kicker, was introduced by Coach Conzelman. He missed his first try in the opening period but he kicked one after the first score of the second quarter and also booted one between the uprights after the Bears' final touchdown. Beshara and John Spafford also gained some distinction by kicking one each.

It would have been a good show if it hadn't lasted so long, but the consensus, after the darkness of night had engulfed the gridiron historians, was that football double-headers probably would never become popular. It seemed for a time that nobody would get around to home-going in time for next week's home-coming. It was great experience for Simpson, however, or will be after the boys shake from their heads the cobwebs of rather vigorous body contact.

First Down for Missouri—By Jack Whalen

Twenty-two times, Missouri's Tigers accomplished a first down against Iowa State at Columbia yesterday, but lost the game, 16 to 13. The ball carrier in this second quarter play is Jack Whalen, former Maplewood High player.

Cubs to make room for Rogers Hornsby, in mid-season 1930. Joe landed with the Yanks and now look at him! He gets a salary of about $35,000 a year, has won four world championships (three in succession) and picked up close to $25,000 in world series money.

Almost any manager would enjoy being kicked off a loser and into a winner.

And what a revenge McCarthy had for the Cubs' dismissal of him! Twice the Chicagoans have won the National pennant the same year that the Yankees captured the American League flag. And in the resulting world series between them, the Cubs lost every game, establishing the world's new low among major league clubs of having lost two world championships in four straight games each.

Costly Temperamant

ONE OF THE SUPER-TEMPERAMENTAL guys of the diamond was Wesley Ferrell; but aside from a few fines, his disposition was not costly. In fact, he too, was rather booted upstairs when Cleveland let him go to Boston.

But it's different with Pitcher John Allen, now with the Indians and formerly of the Yankees. Allen, who last season suffered a fine of $250 for refusing to remove a shirt with a ragged pitching sleeve, had similar outbursts while with the Yankees and finally got in the doghouse to such a degree that he was traded, although he is a really great pitcher.

His whimsies have kept him out of three world series splits and therefore he suffered a direct financial loss of almost $18,000.

It's all right to have your own way, but you must be prepared to pay for it, sometimes.

More About Managers.

WELL, AL SOTHORON'S official head is still on his shoulders this morning, despite rtories that he was scheduled to feel the ax as manager of the Milwaukee club.

Al apparently hasn't deserved decapitation because he has done well with the team since he took hold of it. Before they can fire Al they will have to buy his stock holdings, reported to be one-seventh of the club's total.

And if he holds out for a price they may kick him upstairs, just as they did Rogers Hornsby when he was let go by the Cardinals in 1926. Rajah had purchased Branch Rickey's stock for something like $40,000. When it was ordered sold it was bought back for more than $100,000.

GRIMES WAS SUPPOSED to take Sothoron's job, but here's what R. G. Lynch of the Milwaukee Journal has to say about his and other managers' prospects:

"Grimes, it is understood, is slated to manage Rochester in the International League.

"Ray Blades, pilot of the Red Wings, will remain with the Cardinal chain and may turn up next season as the St. Louis manager.

"At any rate, it is safe to say that the Milwaukee club has done nothing about hiring a new manager, because Manager Sothoron is still in charge."

Whiter Than Snow.

TULSA UNIVERSITY'S Missouri Valley championship team has steam-rollered two of our candidates—Washington and St. Louis University—and probably could give almost any team in the Big Six plenty of excitement.

And the eleven has been built up entirely within the law and under the rules of the conference, we are told. Time was when this outfit was considered in the wildcat class but now it's whiter than snow. At least it's pure, as modern football outfits go. The standing of its players no longer is impugned.

There are institutions like Nebraska where the football talent annually comes in without having to be handed a cash salary, board, room, tuition and an automobile. But even in these there is some bartering done in jobs, scholarships and "inducements."

But that's as old as college football.

REVOLTA TIED FOR LEAD IN WICHITA GOLF

By the Associated Press.

WICHITA, Kan., Oct. 15. — Mike Murra, home-town stylist, came through with a three under-par-68 in today's second round to draw even with Johnny Revolta, Evanston, Ill., professional and former P. G. A. champion, at the halfway stage of the $1600 Wichita Open golf tournament.

Revolta, who carded a record 65 Friday, slipped two over par to a 73 today.

Two strokes behind was E. J. Harrison, lanky clouter from Oak Park Club, Chicago, with a 140. Leonard Dodson, Springfield, Mo., an dGeorge Matson, Wichita, were tied at 143. Dodson added a 75 today to Friday's 68.

Ky Laffoon, Chicago ace, picked up on No. 14 today after experiencing considerable difficulty with his shots. He had a two-under-par-69 yesterday, but was four over par when he withdrew.

WHAT WASHINGTON AND ST. LOUIS U. OPPONENTS DID

Following are the scores of games played yesterday and Friday night by teams on the schedules of Washington and St. Louis universities:

IOWA STATE DEFEATS MISSOURI, 16 TO 13

opened the drive by returning an Iowa State punt 12 yards. A 12-yard Christman to Starmer pass was ruled complete on the Cyclone's 13-yard line. Jim Starmer ripped his way to the six and on the next play Christman bounced over right tackle for the marker.

The Tigers' last period score was featured by a 34-yard pass and run play in which Starmer carried the ball across the counting station. Christman stepped back to his own 40-yard line before hoisting a high one to Starmer on the seven. He charged the remaining distance without incident.

Shurtleff Beats Principia College

Shurtleff College defeated the Principia College eleven, 6 to 0, at Elsah, Ill., yesterday afternoon, the winners scoring in the second quarter.

The first quarter was a punting duel, neither team being able to get within scoring distance. A pass from Bradbury to Gordon gave Principia the ball on Shurtleff's 30-yard line as the second period opened. Several end runs by Bob Mitchell, halfback, advanced the ball to the 11-yard line, but there Shurtleff held and later kicked out of danger.

Later in the period, Principia fumbled in midfield and Shurtleff recovered. Ken McConathy then passed to Ben Moore, who raced 41 yards for the touchdown. Gearing's place kick missed the goal post by inches.

Early in the final quarter Tom Jones, Shurtleff substitute, raced 60 yards to the Principia 14-yard line, but there Principia held for downs.

PITT ROLLS UP 4 TOUCHDOWNS ON WISCONSIN

By the Associated Press.

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 15.—Nothing Wisconsin could do was good enough today to stop the victory march of Pittsburgh, which defeated the Badgers, 26 to 6, and extended its victories to four this season.

Playing on a dry, firm field before a crowd held to only 26,200 by threats of rain, Pitt ran, passed and intercepted its way to touchdowns in the last three quarters, picking up seven points in the second, six in the third and 13 in the fourth.

Wisconsin's six points were scored in the last 10 seconds of the game by second-string reserves against Pitt's third team.

Marshall Goldberg, fast-stepping fullback, started the Pitt drive for points midway in the second quarter after Coach Jock Sutherland had held his veterans on the bench for rest and instructions. Halfback Richard Cassiano sparked the drive with a 22-yard run to the one-yard stripe, from where Goldberg easily stepped through a big hole in the line. William Daddio, end, kicked the extra point.

In the second half, Cassiano, Goldberg and Harold Stebbins, right half, made big gains on running plays. Wisconsin backs chose not to kick several times when backed to their own goal line and Stephen Petro, guard, finally capitalized on the practice by intercepting one of Halfback Roy Bellin's passes in the end zone for the second touchdown. Daddio missed the kick.

Several wobbly kicks by the Pitt quarterback, John Chickerneo, kept the Panthers in a hole until the fourth period. Then Cassiano intercepted Bellin's pass and set the stage for a 71-yard touchdown run by Chickerneo, who scampered along the sidelines behind an impregnable group of blockers. A holding penalty spoiled Daddio's kick and the pass play for the point was incomplete.

Pittsburgh's reserves came in for their share of glory on Halfback Emil Naric's pass to Robert Thurbon, who ran 70 yards for the final touchdown. Lawrence place kicked the extra point.

The victory ended a jinx that had pursued Pitt for five years. It was the first time since 1932 that Pittsburgh had scored a clear-cut victory in the fourth game of the season's schedule.

Howard Weiss, Wisconsin fullback, was the mainstay of his team. Loss of Jack Murray, star center, on the third play of the game because of a twisted ankle was a severe blow to Wisconsin.

DRAKE AND CREIGHTON BATTLE TO 7-7 TIE

By the Associated Press.

DESMOINES, Ia., Oct. 15.—Drake and Creighton, traditional Missouri Valley Conference foes, fought to o 7 to 7 stalemate here tonight under the lights at the Bulldog stadium.

Drake scored in the second quarter when Fullback Pug Manders plunged for a touchdown after Underwood's dashes put the ball in scoring position.

Creighton evened the count in the third period when Engelbritson made a circuit catch of a pass from Knolla.

Head linesman, Henry.

Touchdown, Moore.

NEBRASKA AND INDIANA PLAY SCORELESS TIE

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 15.—Opportunity knocked repeatedly for Nebraska's Cornhuskers, but their interconference football game with Indiana here today ended in a scoreless deadlock. A crowd of 31,000 persons watched the tussle.

The result left each team still gunning for its first victory of this season.

The Huskers were in scoring position six times, but their attempts seemed to lose force when the goal line was close at hand.

Sophomore Halfback Herman Rohrig made four gallant attempts to score for the Huskers by way of field goals, but each effort was wide or short. Nebraska's most serious bid for victory came late in the third quarter.

Capt. Paul Graham, Indiana halfback, fumbled on his own 21-yard line and Center Charley Brock recovered for Nebraska. Halfback Harry Hopp punched the line on the fourth down with a yard to go, ending up with a first down on the Indiana 10.

Rohrig plowed through for four, and Fullback Bill Callihan added another yard to place the ball on the Indiana five. Hopp lost two, and his pass to Rohrig was complete but fumbled. Indiana recovered to end the threat as the quarter ended.

The first downs were five for Nebraska and four for Indiana. Nebraska made 109 net yards by rushing and Indiana 53.

3 Touchdowns In Last Period Defeat Cornell

By the Associated Press.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Wilmeth Sidat-Singh, lithe halfback from New York, threw three touchdown passes in the last nine minutes of play to turn defeat into victory as Syracuse knocked Cornell out of the ranks of the unbeaten with a 19 to 17 triumph today.

A crowd of 25,000, drawn by clash of Central New York's two major unbeaten elevens, went absolutely wild, in the final period in which, just to make it difficult, Ken Brown, Cornell back, took the kick-off after the first Orange score and dashed 92 yards to put Cornell into the lead, 17 to 6.

It wasn't enough. Sidat-Singh returned the kick-off to the Orange 49-yard line, and a moment later passed to Phil Allen to put the ball on the Cornell 16-yard mark. Then the Orange lost the ball—and apparently the ball game—on a fumble.

McCullough kicked magnificently to Ruth and the Orange hit the road from its own 31-yard line. Sidat-Singh took the ball from Ruth, dashed back and passed over his shoulder to Ruth. The ball was on the Cornell 26-yard line.

On the next play the pair worked again. Ruth caught the pass on the six-yard line, galloped over and Syracuse was only five points behind, 17-12, for the kick was no good.

Then came the break. Cornell was moving smoothly in its own territory when Vin Eichler lateralled as he was being tackled. Allen grabbed the ball out of the air. Syracuse lined up on the Cornell 33-yard line and again it was Sidat-Singh back. He took the ball, eluded the great Brud Holland and drove the pass fast and true to Allen on the five-yard mark. He juggled it, gripped it and went over with the winning touchdown with three minutes to play. This time Jim Bruett kicked the point and Syracuse went out ahead for the first time.

Soccer League Is Cut to Two Clubs; Opens Next Sunday

THE St. Louis Soccer League has consolidated its forces, reduced its teams from four to two and will open its weekly schedule next Sunday, Oct. 23, with an intercity game, it was announced late yesterday by Charles DeWitt, president of the league. The clubs will be known as the Burkes of East St. Louis, and the Lindell Trust.

Chicago's strong Manhattan club will oppose the Lindell club in the opening match while the Burkes will probably play out of town. On Oct. 30, the Burkes will be at home and the Lindells away.

Players of the St. Matthew and South Side clubs have been given their releases and will be available to fill gaps in the ranks of the Burkes and Lindells, assuring St. Louis of two good clubs. The Burkes are managed by Emil Cueto and the Lindells by Andy Fredrick.

HARVARD FORCES ARMY TO RALLY FOR DECISION

By the Associated Press.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 15.—The Army's stout-hearted Cadets rallied three times today after being mowed down by terrific aerial blasting to gain their seventh consecutive victory over a much improved Harvard team, 20-17, before 45,000 football fans, largest the stadium has housed this season.

With five minutes remaining, Charles (Huey) Long prevented a third Harvard touchdown by intercepting a pass on his one-yard line and running it back to his 20-yard mark. There he launched an aerial that Woody Wilson caught in midfield and carried it to within 12 inches of Harvard's last line, where he was over-hauled by Torbie MacDonald. Long then crashed inside his left tackle and Army banners were raised on high for the first time.

Twice before the Cadets pulled into deadlocks but Harvard appeared to have them beaten, after the injured Clarence (Chief) Boston broke a 14-14 tie by place-kicking a 20-yard field goal.

The two other Army touchdowns were turned in by Quarterback Art Frontczak on 27 and 80 yard runs, the second coming on the kick-off after Harvard had pulled ahead, for the second time, in the third quarter.

Harvard, with Fullback Ben Smith ploughing in magnificent fashion, first scored on an eight-yard pass that Don Daughters received from Frank Foley in the Cadets' end zone.

The slippery Frontczak scored on the sixth play of the second half, after he had returned the kick-off to Army's 30-yard line. Harvard set up its second touchdown when MacDonald rolled a punt to Army's three-yard line and Wilson returned it to his 45-yard line. Bobby James, in for Foley at the time, passed 35 yards to Capt. Bobby Green through the air and then aimed a perfect pass at MacDonald in the Army end zone.

WINNERS' FIRST BIG TEN VICTORY IN THREE YEARS

Score Is 27-14 — Maroons Aerial Attack Is Strong but They Are Outrushed, 265 Yards to 63.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15. — Iowa's Hawkeyes broke their co-lease with Chicago on the Big Ten cellar spot today by out-pointing the Maroons, 27 to 14, before a crowd of 8000 at Stagg Field.

The victory was the first Western Conference triumph for the Hawkeyes since they walloped Illinois, 19 to 0, in 1935. The Maroons haven't won a Big Ten game since nipping Wisconsin, 7 to 6, in 1936.

The Maroons, heavily outweighed, were helpless on the ground but they produced a sparkling aerial display which had the Hawkeye secondary yelling for help. They struck through the air in the second quarter after Iowa had built a 14 to 0 lead. Lew Hamity faded back to his own 45-yard line and got off a tremendous toss to John Davenport, the Big Ten spring champion, for a touchdown.

The Iowans, their starting lineup drastically revamped following defeat by Wisconsin last week, scored in the first five minutes. After grabbing a punt to place the ball on the Chicago 39-yard line, the Hawkeyes, led by Jerry Niles, the crushing sophomore fullback, pounded to the four-line where Ed McLain skipped around end for the touchdown.

The Hawkeyes were down to the Maroon 21 as the gun sounded for the first period. Shortly after the second quarter opened, Ray Murphy, a sophomore substitute back, broke away on a 13-yard touchdown jaunt. In the third period, Quarterback Russell Busk intercepted a long Chicago pass and twisted his way to the enemy 25-yard line. Iowa immediately turned on the power, Niles plunging for the touchdown from the two-yard line.

Murphy again furnished the scoring play with a 11-yard cut-back in the final period.

Iowa made 15 first downs to 10 for the Maroons. The Hawkeyes gained 265 yards by rushing, against 63 for Chicago.

The Maroons attempted 32 forward passes and gained 190 yards through the air.

Bowling Meeting.

The thirty-seventh annual meeting of the Greater St. Louis Bowling Association will be held at the North Side Y. M. C. A. this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Officers will be elected and final arrangements made for the annual tournament to open at the Rogers Recreation, Feb. 17.

GOPHERS COME FROM BEHIND AND DEFEAT MICHIGAN, 7 TO 6

on the Michigan three and, with a trio of Wolverines hanging on, hit the goal at the extreme corner of the field. Quarterback George Faust placekicked the extra point, something that Dan Smick, Michigan end, had failed to do in the first few minutes of the last quarter.

'Moore, smothered behind the Michigan goal line on the winning touchdown, was carried from the field. His ankle was seriously sprained.

The last-minute Minnesota victory broke the hearts of Michigan's cagey outfit. They outgained the Gophers from scrimmage almost two to one, completed seven out of 16 passes and flashed a terrific ground gaining attack behind a hard-hitting line.

Using a plain old-fashioned delayed buck, with Harmon and Kromer feeding Purucker the ball, Michigan slashed straight up the field in the third quarter.

They went into the fourth quarter with the ball on the Minnesota 21-yard line and fourth down. Here Harmon crossed up the Gophers and shot a short pass to Smick on the Minnesota seven. Three plunges got six yards and then Kromer shot over his own right tackle to score.

Michigan got 13 first downs to Minnesota's six.

SEABISCUIT IS BEATEN BY FILLY JACOLA IN RECORD TIME

C. S. Howard's Champion, Carrying 126 Pounds to 102 on Jacola, Breaks Slowly, Runs Wide.

By the Associated Press.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 15.—Seabiscuit, the great, ran into his old jinx of younger horses again today and was forced into second money in the twenty-fifth running of the Laurel Mile before 20,000 fans.

The C. S. Howard horse, making his last start before his meeting with War Admiral at Pimlico and an odds-on favorite, finished two lengths behind Edward Friendly's Jacola, winner of the Selima Stables here last year. And another jinx worked magic against the son of Hard Tack, for Jockey Nick Wall, who rode Stagehand in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap and Esposa in the Bowie Handicap, both of which downed Seabiscuit, wos in the saddle of the winning daughter of Jacopo today.

It was in the track record-breaking time of 1:37 that Seabiscuit was forced to bow, apparently with no excuse except the 24 pounds' difference in weight and the fact that he wasted much ground. Jacola's time was a fifth of a second under the mark set here by Jack High a few years ago.

Third money in the field of 12 went to Maxwell Howard's The Chief, which finished two and a half lengths behind Seabiscuit, with Aneroid, in the J. A. Manfuso colors, fourth.

For the first time, Seabiscuit's equipment included spurs on Jockey George Woolf. They did not help him get away, for he was well back as the field dashed for the clubhouse turn. Finance set the pace, accompanied by Aneroid and Accolade, with Jacola nearby. Seabiscuit was sent wide to improve his position entering the back stretch. At the far turn he moved up briskly and seemed on his way to victory.

Finance, Aneroid and Accolade began to tire leaving the back stretch and Jacola suddenly bounded to the front. Woolf urged Seabiscuit, but he could not cope with the lightly weighted filly, and she actually drew out on him approaching the wire.

Day Holds Lead In National Bowling Event

Ned Day of West Allis, Wis., held his lead in the 120-game match for the national individual bowling championship last night at Feuser's Del-Mar Recreation, beating Lowell Jackson of St. Louis in the second block, 2425 to 2277.

Day's points in the scoring system now total 110 16-50 against Jackson's 100. In total pins Day leads 4866 to 4650.

Day's average last night was slightly under that of Friday's opening block—242 as compared to 244.

Two more blocks are scheduled today, the first at 2:30 and the second at 8:30 p. m. Next Friday the match will be resumed at Des Moines, Ia., where 40 games will be played over the week-end. Then the match ends at West Allis, Oct. 28-29-30.

Last night's scores:

PRINCIPIA 'A' TEAM AND CLAYTON TIE

The Principia "A" and Clayton High School football teams battled to a scoreless tie yesterday on Taylor Field in St. Louis County.

The Blue and Gold advanced 40 yards on a return of a punt to Clayton's eight-yard line. On the very first play through the line Principia pushed up to just a few inches of the goal line where they were stopped three times.

Play was on even terms except late in the fourth quarter when Clayton's running attack led by Ed Donk brought the ball from midfield down to Principia's 10-yard stripe where they lost possession on downs.

JOHNSTOWN IS EASY WINNER IN JAMAICA STAKE

By the Associated Press.

JAMAICA RACETRACK, N. Y., Oct. 15.—Scoring his second straight smashing triumph since proving the big disappointment of the Belmont Futurity, William Woodward's Johnstown today captured the twenty-sixth Remsen Handicap, which featured the final program of Long Island racing for 1938. Fresh from victory in Laurel's Richard Johnson Stakes, the bay son of Jamestown carried 126 pounds and won by a half dozen lengths in 1:11, fastest six furlongs of the meeting.

Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's two-time winner, Lovely Night, was second by five lengths over Warren Wright's Beau James. Book Plate was fourth, followed by Hants, which broke badly from outside the stalls, and Paddy, a Wheatley Stable representative that was coupled with the winner.

Johnstown's backers got odds of 4 to 5 at closing time. The Belair colt, in chalking up his sixth success out of 11 starts, earned $7100 to make his total winnings amount to $22,085.

Taking advantage of their last chance to see the horses perform on the Island, the biggest crowd of the meeting was on hand, estimated at close to 15,000.

Johnstown's time was the best ever made in the stake. Master Charlie, winner in 1924 under 130 pounds, made 1:11 3-5.

Michigan State Wins 26-0, From West Virginia

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 15.—A smart Michigan State eleven scored on a break early in the first quarter and rolled up the count on intercepted passes today to defeat West Virginia University, 26-0.

Dave Diehl, the Spartan's great left end, recovered a blocked punt for the first marker, Halfback John Pingel scored the second on a one-yard thrust in the third period after a pass carried the ball to scoring position. Diehl and Pearce, substitute back, added the other touchdowns on intercepted passes, Pearce racing 66 yards to score.

Bert E. Fenenga's whirling dervishes are at it again. Cleveland High School, equipped with a new repertoire of razzle-dazzle, surprised a strong Soldan eleven, 20 to 6, yesterday afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium in the opening game of the City High School League football season for both schools.

Aided by Lee Tevis' 101-yard run for a touchdown, Beaumont defeated McKinley, 12 to 0, in the second contest.

Tevis was standing behind his own goal line in a punt formation. Instead of kicking he ran with the ball and behind splendid interference ran the length of the field and a yard besides.

Beaumont scored its first touchdown in the opening quarter when Keller ran around left end for 15 yards and the score. Kuelker's place kick for the extra point was wide.

The victory put Beaumont at the top of the league.

All the scoring in the opener was done in the first two periods before Soldan had a chance to fathom the tricky Cleveland attack which produced results twice in the first quarter on forward passes and again in the second period on a play which caught the Soldan defense flat-footed.

Miller to Huether.

A 25-yard pass early in the first period set up the opening Cleveland touchdown. Two line plays netted seven yards and then Ray Mills faded back and flipped his first of two touchdown passes to Don Huether. The yardage on the play was 20. The try for extra point failed.

Later in the session, Mills punted to Soldan's three-yard line. Dowdy punted out from behind his goal line. Again Mills passed to Huether for the touchdown. Mills tossed to Warren Meadows for the extra point.

Cleveland was the victim of its own aerial circus near the end of the quarter. Tom Lombardo, Soldan back, intercepted one of Mills' heaves and ran 61 yards for the touchdown. The West Enders failed to convert the extra point.

Tackle Scores on Play.

The Carondolet school virtually clinched the contest with a trick play in the third period which left Soldan gasping. On the play Ray Brauns, tackle, pulled out of the line and ran 30 yards for the score. Meadows carried the ball over for the extra point.

Four fumbles in the first half hurt Soldan's chances to score.

In the second half Cleveland was content to protect its lead, and Mills' kicking kept Soldan from doing serious damage.

AMERICAN DENTAL ASSOCIATION TO HOLD GOLF TOURNEY HERE

The eighteenth annual tournament of the American Dental Golf Association will open here Oct. 24, over three local courses.

The tournament players have been assigned to three classes. Class A players, zero to eight handicap, will play over the Algonquin Country Club course; Class B players, with handicaps from nine to 16 inclusive, will play at the Sunset Hill Country Club, and Class C golfers, with handicaps from 16 to 24 inclusive, will shoot the Glen Echo Country Club course. Prizes will be awarded to winners in each class.

The tournament is held in connection with the annual convention of the American Dental Association.

Big Guns of the Gunners

OKLAHOMA WINS FROM KANSAS U. BY 19-0 SCORE

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 15. — Weight, speed and power, wrapped in the colors of the University of Oklahoma, smothered a willing but wanting University of Kansas football team, 19 to 0, today in the season's first Big Six game for both.

Approximately 12,000 spectators sat in 88-degree temperature as the Oklahoma Giants stymied every offensive thrust of the Kansans and pushed over touchdowns in the first, third and fourth periods.

The only blot on the Sooner record was that Raphael Boudreau, senior kicking specialist who had never missed a try for point after touchdown in his college career, muffed his only chance.

The lineups:

Roosevelt Scores Late To Defeat St. Louis U. High

An alert Roosevelt football team scored in the last three minutes of play to defeat St. Louis U. High, 13 to 7, last night at Walsh Stadium. It was the Rough Riders' second victory of the season.

The winning break came when a fumbled ball rolled over the Junior Billikens' goal line. Herb Weaver, Roosevelt guard, downed it for atouchdown and Frank Brown passed to George Seith for the extra point.

St. Louis U. High had held a 7-6 lead after scoring earlier in the fourth quarter. Vinnie Eberle took a punt on his own 40 and ran it to the 17-yard line. He went to the seven on a double reverse, then swept right end to the one-yard mark. Earl Peterman carried the ball over the goal line, and Eberle ran right end for the extra point.

Roosevelt's first touchdown came in the second quarter. Tom Hughes intercepted Saey's pass and ran 70 yards to score.

TULANE 26, RICE 17 IN THRILLING CONTEST

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—Tulane University's Green Wave rose to the heights today and passed and ran its way to a magnificent 26to 17 victory over an ever-threatening Rice squad in a hair-tingling contest.

Bulldogger Injured.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Joseph McMacken, 32 years old, co-holder since 1936 of the world championship for "bulldogging," was seriously injured in a rodeo performmance tonight when a Mexican longhorn steer fell on top of rim. Suffering from internal injuries, McCracken was taken to a hospital. McCracken lives in Mobridge, S. D.

Yale, Scoreless for Three Periods, Beats Navy, 9-7

By the Associated Press.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 15.—Sparked by Gil Humphrey, who labored for two years in the shadow of Clint Frank, Yale's twice-beaten football team today put on a second half rally that panicked the 55,000 customers in the Yale bowl and gave the Elis a 9-7 decision over heavily favored Navy.

All of the drama and all of Yale's scoring were packed into that second half, for the first half was a two-sided exhibition of inconclusive attacks and feeble defenses. Its lone bright spot was a forward pass from Lem Cooke to Ulmont Whitehead that covered 41 yards and, with Emmett Wood's successful conversion, gave the Midshipmen a 7-0 lead.

Humphrey had been considerably less than sensational for thhose 30 minutes, when Navy blanketed his receivers and draped tacklers all over him. But he came back in the last half to figure in 20 of Yale's 30 plays, set up the touchdown with passes and line bucks, pitch a short one to Fullback Bill Snavely for the touchdown, and then boot the winning field goal from Navy's 17-yard line after the Midshipmen had stiffened and halted another Eli drive.

When Humphrey's placement for the extra point went wide it looked again like Yale's finish, but the Bulldog had another drive left, came 46 yards, 30 on two Humphrey passes, in eight plays for a first down on the Navy 14-yard line and, when the Middie defense tightened, sent Humphrey back for the game-winning kick.

In the final minutes Cooke's passes brought Navy down to Yale's nine-yard mark and Wood tried a field goal from the 15-yard line but fell short of the mark.

ALABAMA BOWS TO TENNESSEE

By the Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 15.—Tennessee shattered the championship hopes of the Alabama Tide today with a stunning 13 to 0 victory.

A jammed stadium that held close to 26,000 spectators saw George Cafego, the West Virginia flash; Len Coffman and other scrapping backs battle to a comparatively easy triumph behind a line that opened big gaps in the husky Alabama forward wall and consistently outcharged the opponents.

Only four times did the Crimson Tide penetrate Tennessee territory, the chief threat being checked at the Volunteers' 22-yard line in the closing minutes after Alabama had resorted to a passing attack.

Tennessee drove 68 yards on straight running plays to score after 12 minutes of play in the opening period and counted again in the third on a drive of 51 yards, featured by a spectacular 33-yard dash by Cafego.

With Cafego, Coffman and Sophomore Box Foxx alternating on picking up yardage through the tackles and around the ends, Tennessee counted its opening score on a determined drive. Coffman vaulted across from the one-foot line for the touchdown. Capt. Bowden Wyatt missed the extra point.

Cafego, picking up 145 yards on 19 trips with the ball to grab individual gaining honors, set the stage for the second score when he reeled off 33 yards before he was pulled down at the Alamaba one-yard line by Tackle Fred Davis. Coffman went through a big hole in the line to score on the first play. Wyatt added the extra point.

German Crowd Thinks American Outpointed Eder

By the Associated Press.

HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 15.—Izzy Jannazzo of New York and Gustave Eder, German welterweight champion, battled to a 15-round draw tonight in a fight at Hanseaten Hall. Eder was seeking revenge for a 1936 defeat by Jannazzo.

Jannazzo piled up a considerable advantage over Eder through the first seven rounds, using a fast left to keep Eder away. The German began connecting with powerful rights to the head and body after the seventh, however.

The decision was unpopular with the crowd which, attracted by Jannazzo's classy boxing style, felt the American should have been awarded the victory.

Eder left the ring with a badly swollen face. Jannazzo's nose was bleeding as the fight ended.

GUNNERS MEET NASHVILLE IN LEAGUE GAME

A strengthened Nashville football team will make its bow here this afternoon against the St. Louis Gunners, at 2:30 o'clock. at Walsh Stadium, in an American League game.

According to reports the Rebels have added seven stars to their roster and will present a more formidable front than had been expected. But while the Nashville aggregation has been building, the local professionals have also. "Red" Sauselle, a former Washington University backfield ace, who starred with many Gunner elevens in past years, is back and his return is expected to add considerable strength to their aerial defense. Don Philpot is another notable hereabouts who has rejoined the squad, and he looked well in every scrimmage.

All of the local boys who suffered injuries during the week's tough scrimmages, which Coach Wayne Grone prescribed as a cure-all, are once again able-bodied and are physically fit.

The St. Louis coach said after yesterday's light workout that his team "if the men play as they are able to play, should roll up a good score against the Rebels." "The boys are clicking now," Grone continued, "and I think we have as good a team as there is in this American League."

The new players Nashville added during the week are: Wayne Underwood, former Marshall (W. Va.) College guard; Bob Mergenthal, from Miami, O., University, tackle; Marty Slovak, a quarterback from the University of Toledo; John Popadak, tackle from St. Bonaventure; Bill Raszik, also a tackle from the University of Cincinnati; Wes Phillips, a star fullback from North Dakota State, and Louis Chumich, tackle, also from North Dakota.

CLEVELAND HIGH LEADS IN LEAGUE GOLF TOURNEY

Cleveland's four-man squad surprised local interscholastic fans by taking the leadership in the annual City High School League golf tournament with a team total of 327 points at the conclusion of 18 holes played yesterday morning at Forest Park. The second and final 18 will take place next Saturday morning.

Soldan, defending titleholder, finished in second place with 334, while three points behind came Ben Blewett with 337. Beaumont was next in line with 342, while Southwest's golfers accumulated 352 points. Central had 382 and Roosevelt 442.

Robert Henry not only proved to be the individual star of the Cleveland team, but also set the pace for the entire field by touring the Forest Park 18-hole course in 77 strokes, five above par figures.

Warren Saunders of Soldan, Edward Ruler of Cleveland and Carl Reinecke of Beaumont shared the second-place low gross honors with an 80 each. Ted Winthers of Soldan and Clarence Hartwig of Ben Blewett were next in line with an 81 each. Among the 82 shooters were William Hrostich of Cleveland, Edwin Waechter of Central and Charles Moser of Beaumont.

Purdue Scores on a Late Drive to Tie Fordham

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Fordham's Rams took Purdue's Boilermakers for a ride at the Polo Grounds today but all they got was a tie 6-6 score that amounted to a stunning upset viewed by 31,000 frantic spectators.

Fordham, victimized by three gallant goal line stands in the first half during which the Ram backs, led by Sophomore Leonard Eshmont of Atlas, Pa., piled up 251 yards from rushing, scored on a 49-yard sprint by Eshmont in the third period only to have Purdue come back to tie the score. Hero of the Boilermaker return drive was Lou Brock, who capped a great day of running and kicking with a 17-yard touchdown rush early in the final period.

Both teams, badly rushed by lines that reared to superb heights in the crisis, missed chances for victories with placement kicks. Pete Holovak's try for Fordham was wide and high and so was the desperate try made by Brock.

Purdue, back from Minnesota where they held Bernie Bierman's forces to one touchdown last week, would have lost the game by at least two touchdowns today had it not been for a magnificent secondary when the goal line was threatened by the hard-driving enemy backs. In the second period, the Rams lugged the leather to Purdue's one-inch, two-yard and 13-yard lines only to fail.

With Eshmont, a human bolt of football thunder, sweeping the ends behind four to five man interference, the Rams came back early in the third period, however, to spoil the Boilermaker goal line charm. Eshmont, aided by Mike Hearn's 20-yard sweep around his left end, took the pigskin on the Boilermaker 49, slid through the right center of his line and raced the distance for the Fordham score.

Eshmont's touchdown dash looked more than enough as the game entered the final period. The Boilermakers, sluggish with their blocking all afternoon, seemed hopelessly beaten.

Suddenly, the situation changed. Failing in one drive, Jack Brown kicked out at the Ram 11 and Steve Kazlo's return boot went to Brock, who returned 23 yards to Fordham's 37. Five plays later, Purdue was over for the score. Brock started and finished the drive.

Getting a chance when Brock's kick for the winning point failed, the Rams came back with another whirlwind attack, again led by the speedy Eshmont, but it was broken up. The game ended in a Fordham fumble on the Purdue 40.

MUNY FOOTBALL LEAGUE BEGINS SEASON, TODAY

Managers of the four teams in the Municipal Football Association announced their probable starting lineups for tomorrow's first-round games to be played as a double-header on the Drill Grounds near the Jefferson Memorial tennis courts in Forest Park.

In the first game, at 1:30 o'clock, the opponents will be the Massaras, managed by Paul McKee, and the Ikens, led by Les Haney. In the second contest, at 3:30 o'clock, the Food Centers of Bill Montgomey will oppose the champions of last year, the Joe Lennemanns, piloted by Bob Alexander and Carl Wood.

The Lennemann lineup will be the same as that which won the title a year ago. Most of the alternate players are also back in uniform and the team appears the club to beat if a new champion is to be crowned when the season ends in two months.

The Food Centers constitute an improved team over last year, and in the contest with the Lennemanns will pick up exactly where the season ended last year when the two clubs fought it out for the title.

The Ikens have been organized around a nucleus of last year's Weber-Deibel players, plus the addition of several high school stars of last year. The Massaras include many of the Stockholm athletes of a year ago. This team, too, has signed up a number of players to bolster its roster.

The Curtain Goes Up.

THE CURTAIN was lifted on the 1938 duck season yesterday. Providing the coming weather is ideal for ducks and not for sunbathing the longer season, from October 15 through November 28, will mean a great deal to local nimrods.

Last year's shooting was restricted by consistently balmy weather during the entire period. This year's season is extended two weeks, but the extra days come at the front and warm end of the calendar, as compared to the opening date of Nov. 1 last year.

All bordering states except Arkansas, which is in the Southern instead of the intermediate zone, have the same opening date and season as Missouri, Arkansas hunters will have their inning just one month from yesterday and will be allowed to remain there until Dec. 29.

Inasmuch as the weather this season has been very warm, no great flights of migratory birds have taken place, although large numbers of fowl are feeding on the upper Mississippi and Missouri rivers. Until cold snaps occur, no big flights will come in.

Missouri hunters are in a rather peculiar position. When the ducks fly there is no incentive for them to tarry long in this vicinity because of the inadequate feeding grounds. Therefore it is necessary to rely on cold waves in the north and west to keep the ducks and geese continually passing over.

Retrievers in St. Louis.

The Mississippi Valley Kennel Club, with President John K. Wallace supervising, held interesting trials for retrievers at the Dardenne Shooting Club, Peruque, Mo., last week-end, which brought the best dogs of the country to compete for the A. K. C. titles. Retrieving is very interesting. As pets, the dogs are friendly, playful and nice appearing. When it comes to working in field and blinds they are intelligent, obedient and willing.

For the average spectator, retriever trials are much more easily watched than are the field trials for bird dogs. In the latter, many miles must be covered in order to watch six brace of dogs at work. These miles are not easy ones, with hills to climb and creeks to ford.

In contrast spectators first go to the site of the field trials where they can watch the retrievers without moving over 300 yards during the afternoon.

For the water trials all dogs work from the same blind. For this day and age, when demand is keen for ringside and 50-yard line seats, these advantages cannot be overlooked.

A rosy future for retrievers in St. Louis seems likely. Rumor has it that several sportsmen are uniting to bring one of the top-notch handlers here to train their dogs. This means that within two or three years St. Louis will have a group of excellent dogs and more trials.

Wildlife Clubs in Action.

Fred Timmermann, president of the Wildlife Conservation Organization of Missouri, presided over the regular meeting at the Gambrinus Hall, 3638 Wisconsin, Thursday night. Over 150 members were present as the club formally adopted a constitution and by-laws.

The club has as its executives the regularly named officers plus a board of directors composed of six members, two being elected each year.

The purpose of the club is to provide improved facilities for the middle class sportsmen through proper education and legislation.

It is designed primarily for those who cannot afford to shoot over leased lands or private clubs. Inasmuch as nearly 90 per cent of our population is composed of the great middle class, this club may come close to its goal of 100,000 members within two years.

A letter from Conservation Commission Director Bode was read, expressing his pleasure at the work being done by this group and hoping that they would organize in every county in the State.

Beagles to Run.

George Wollmershauser of the St. Louis Beagle Club announced yesterday that an anonymous friend of the rabbit dogs has donated a trophy to be awarded the winner in the St. Louis Beagle Club Trials to be held Nov. 3, 4, 5 and 6 at the Von Hoffman Farm, Bourbon, Mo. There will be classes for 13 and 15-inch males and females.

Prior to the St. Louis Club Trials will be the Mount Vernon (Ill.) trials, beginning next Thursday and lasting through Sunday. Both of the above trials are very large from the standpoint of the number of entries. Both are run under the rules and regulations of the American Kennel Club.

Missouri Gets Forest Money.

A total of nearly two million dollars will be spent in Missouri during the next 10 years for the building of truck roads, highways and foot trails through national forests, according to a report recently received from the U. S. Forest Service.

A total of a little over a million has been appropriated for similar work in Illinois. Altogether, in the United States there will be 24,173 miles of highways, 113,396 miles of truck roads and 152,840 miles of foot trails built in national forests throughout the country.

Call of the Wild.

If you think you are one of the most adept at calling ducks within gunshot why don't you plan on taking in the National Duck Calling Championships at Stuttgart, Ark?

This year's events will be held Monday, Nov. 14th. The contest is sponsored annually by the Daniel-Harder Post No. 48 of the American Legion. Last year's champion is Harry G. Wieman, who used a manufactured instrument. Second and third-place winners used no instrument.

More Restoration Area.

A tract of 1118 acres of land near Ashburn, in Pike County, Mo., was donated by E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. to the Conservation Commission for a wildlife restoration area. Under the deed "the land shall be forever used for a public demonstration area for a combined forest preserve and wildlife restoration and control project." It will bear the name "Du Pont Reservation." The tract, which fronts the Mississippi River, will be suitable for raising quail and wild turkey and the upland area for deer.

Hark! Hark! the Dogs Do Bark And Call All Owners to Shooting Stake at Sturgeon This Week

Did you ever see a bird dog talking? Well, you will, or almost, if you can put aside everything and go to Sturgeon, Mo., for the four-day Missouri State Field Trial Association, opening Thursday.

There'll be an open stake for dogs of all ages, with one-hour heats on Thursday; an open Derby, 45 minutes, Friday; amateur all-age and amateur derby on Saturday and then the Shooting Dog Stake on Sunday when anybody who has a good shooting dog can take him out in the field and work him on birds.

The Shooting Dog Stake is dangerous, though, if you don't want to get mixed up in the field trial business. Your dog doesn't have to run wide, or be so steady to wing and shot as the field trial dogs. In other words the setter or the pointer that you follow through the weed patches and among the scrub oaks, may have just what it takes to win that Shooting Dog Stake, and once you've seen the competition, you'll probably be in the game for keeps.

Setters and pointers that can trace their blood back to the Mayflower of the canine world will be among the competitors at Sturgeon. If you know your dogs you'll recognize some of the names—Trainer Tom Lunsford's string, including Dr. Walker, Maryland Boy, Opekasit, Roy Kelly III, Nola; Jack Harper's Gold Dot and Smokey Ginger of Yates Center, Kan.; John Parker's Tallegar Sam and Tallegar John. John won the Chicken Championship in Canada this year as a Derby. John Gardner will be in the trials with Monie Ferst's Joe Snow II, from Atlanta, Ga., and he will show Asa Wallace's Joe of Ladue and Ladue's Tennessee Chimes and Mahlon Wallace's Ladue's Boston Saddle. John Dawson will show the dogs of Ed Pugh of Kansas City—Edmont Peggy and Edmont Joe—and Claude Beek's setters, Gentleman Ginger's Bob and Ginger's Duchess.

Praither Robinson will bring a string of dogs from the East and John Martin of Alma, Mich., will have his Pal Hansen II and Ten Ike. Dr. Roy Johnson of Ferguson will run his new pointer, Peagrim's Sue and Hugh Scott of St. Louis his Ellenwood Fritz.

Clarence V. Walker's dog, Mack's Lady Glory, won the open stake last year, with Asa Wallace's Joe of Ladue second and Edmont Joe, third. In the 1937 amateur stake M. A. Ferst's Roy Hays was the winner, with Joe of Ladue second and Loyal Wonneman's Wonnie's Pippin, third. All of these dogs, with the exception of Roy Hays, are expected to run at Sturgeon.

The State Conservation Commission has co-operated with the Missouri Association, helping in leasing the land and stocking the course. The association has 10,000 acres under lease for five years and this spring 164 mated birds were released and last month 500 young birds.

The public is welcome at the trials, without charge.

"We're glad to have the public," Asa Wallace, chairman of the association's board of directors, explained. "That's where we recruit new members. That's the way I became interested. I had a bird dog, I saw a field trial, and I was in the game. Field trials give you an opportunity of enjoying ownership of a bird dog through most of the year, whereas the hunting season lasts only 50 days."—J. R. S.

BURKES PLAY SPARTA TODAY IN CHICAGO

St. Louis soccer fans must turn their eyes to Chicago to find a professional game today in which they are interested. No professional match is scheduled here, nor has the Municipal League opened. But, at Chicago, the Burkes of East St. Louis oppose Sparta on one field and a half dozen St. Louis players line up with the Manhattans against a Milwaukee club at another field.

In the Manhattan team (formerly the Maccabees) will be Bill Gonsalves, Eddie Begley, Art Garcia, Werner Nilsen, Walter Ebinger and Bill Rogles, all of St. Louis. Nilsen and Garcia will be playing for he first time with the Chicagoans, but Gonsalves, Begley and Rogles have been conspicuous in recent victories.

At Sparta stadium the Burkes, who represent the Spanish Colony here and are sponsored by an East Side undertaker, have their lineup of last season almost intact for their match with the national champions. At outside right, in place of Art Garcia, will be Henry "Six" Vasquez. Jack Simmermann is scheduled to play center forward.

The North Side Sodality League will play a doubleheader this afternoon at Penrose Park, on North Kingshighway, and the St. Francis de Sales League will play two games at St. Louis Softball Park, Ohio and Shenandoah avenues.

Flyers Likely To Do Training At Champaign

The Flyers are virtually certain to do their fall ice-hockey training at the University of Illinois rink at Champaign, it was stated yesterday by President Ed Steffen upon his return from there. Only a few arrangements with university officials remain to be completed before a definite announcement can be made.

Steffen has ordered players to report here in St. Louis next Sunday and the plan is then to start training at Champaign a week from tomorrow. The Flyers would remain in Champaign until Nov. 1, when an effort will be made to play the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League in an exhibition game at the Arena if a new floor there is ready by that time.

If the Arena isn't ready by Nov. 1, the game may be played at a later date, but the local American Association season will definitely get under way Nov. 8, when Tulsa calls for a game with the Flyers.

Defenseman Ralph Taylor of the Flyers has been in the city all summer and Manager Johnny MacKinnon and Left Wing Bobby Burns are due to return from a Canadian scouting trip tomorrow. Leo Carbol, veteran defenseman, is on his way here, along with Bill Hudson, a center, and Fred Hergerts, purchased last week from Cleveland.

Others ordered to report are Hub Nelson, goalie; Cliff Purpur, Walter Brenneman, Billy Kendall and Ollie Mulvihill, forwards, and Joe Matte and Jean Pusie, defensemen. Pete Palangio, high-scoring left winger, who has served a stretch with the Black Hawks, has been offered a contract to play with St. Louis, but has not yet been heard from.

COMMUNITY CENTER SOCCER ENTRIES TO CLOSE WEDNESDAY

Entries in the Community Center Soccer League, under the direction of the City Recreation Department, will close at each of the centers on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, according to Superintendent Robert D. Turner. Vacancies exist in several of the leagues. It is planned to open the schedule next Saturday.

CALIFORNIA AND STANFORD WIN ON WEST COAST

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 15.—University of Oregon was toppled from the Pacific Coast Conference lead today as the Far Western football season neared the half-way mark with California, Stanford and Southern California unbeaten in league play.

While Oregon lost a thriller to Stanford, 27 to 16, at Palo Alto, Cal., the California Golden Mears displayed the form that carried them to conference and Rose Bowl triumphs last year as they overwhelmed the stubborn University of California at Los Angeles Bruins, 20 to 7.

The day's largest crowd on the coast—some 45,000 fans—saw Southern California defeat the Cougars of Washington State College, 19 to 6, at Los Angeles with two touchdowns in the final period.

At Seattle, Oregon State College broke into the victory column with a 13 to 6 decision over University of Washington. It was the second conference defeat for Washington.

In a non-conference game at Moscow, University of Idaho bowled over Gonzaga, 26 to 12.

Country Day Ties Milwaukee Eleven, 12-12

The St. Louis Country Day School, which for 10 years has tried to defeat the Milwaukee Country Day School, almost realized its hope yesterday afternoon when it battled the Milwaukee eleven to a 12-to-12 tie on the St. Louis field.

St. Louis took the lead early in the first quarter when Carl Lawton ran 55 yards for the score after receiving a short, flat pass to the left from Henry Carter on the Country Day 45-yard line. Stewart's attempted place kick for the extra point was short.

Bobby White, flashy Milwaukee halfback, tied the score in the beginning of the third quarter on a wide end run from the Milwaukee 21-yard line. The run was a culmination of a 55-yard goal-line drive.

On the third play in the fourth quarter a short lateral from Charlie Edison to Carter and a flat pass from Carter to Lawton netted the St. Louis team its second score. The attempted kick for the extra point was blocked.

Milwaukee received the kick-off following the St. Louis score and carried it to the Milwaukee 25-yard line. Off tackle plays by White and Carpenter moved the ball to the Milwaukee 37-yard mark. Harry Merwin then smashed off left tackle and drove to the St. Louis 10-yard mark before he was stopped. On the next play a pass from Bill Allis to Hack Noyes tied the score. White failed in his attempt to run the extra point over.

MUNY SOCCER LIST CLOSES WEDNESDAY AND PLAY STARTS OCT. 30

The Municipal Soccer Association entries will be closed Wednesday at 5 o'clock in the office of the City Recreation Department, 330 Municipal Courts Building, it was announced by Superintendent Robert D. Turner.

The final organization meeting of the team managers has been called for Thursday night, Oct. 20, at the Sherman Park Community Center, Kingshighway and Easton avenues, at which time officers will be elected and rules and regulations for the season will be voted upon. It is planned to open the season on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 30.

Openings exist in a majority of the senior, intermediate and junior leagues, it was stated. The age limits in the latter two divisions provide that no player may be more than 18 years old in the junior group and no one more than 20 in the intermediate group before Nov. 1 of this year.

The new scale of entry fees put into effect this year by the Central Council of the Municipal Athletic Association provides for a $25 fee for senior teams, $12 for intermediates and $5 for juniors.

MISS VINSON ARRIVES FOR ICE REVUE OF 1938

Maribel Y. Vinson, nine times United States ice skating figure champion, twice North American titlist and three times a point winner in the Olympics, arrived late yesterday from New York to begin rehearsals for Earl Reflow's Ice Revue of 1938, to be presented at The Arena, Nov. 4, 5 and 6. She was accompanied by her husband, Guy Owen, Canadian champion, who will be starred with her in the revue.

Vashon Held Scoreless.

Vashon and Lincoln of East St. Louis, Negro high school football teams, battled to a scoreless tie in the latter's homecoming game yesterday afternoon. Lincoln once drove to its opponents' 10-yard line, but Vashon was never within the Lincoln 30-yard marker.

DUCK HUNTING OVER FLOODED GRAIN BARRED

Federal Authorities Reverse Former Interpretation of Regulation.

Reversing a former interpretation of regulations, Federal authorities have ruled that it is illegal to shoot ducks over flooded fields of unharvested grain, on the ground that such fields amounted to baited areas. This ruling was issued here yesterday as the 47-day duck season opened in Missouri and Illinois.

It was held to be permissible, however, to hunt the birds over harvested grain fields, even if flooded, on the theory that a proper harvest would leave little spilled grain as bait.

This decision was given in a letter to P. A. Noble, 1521 Delmar boulevard, secretary of the Missouri Duck Hunters' Association, from George Tonkin of Des Moines, Ia., regional director of game management for the United States Biological Survey, made public by Harry Barmeier, Federal game management agent here.

Prevoius Interpretation.

In a previous interpretation, Ira N. Gabrielson of Washington, chief of the Biological Survey, wrote to Missouri inquirers last November that it was not contrary to regulations to plant duck foods on a lake bed and kaffir corn in another part of the lake and afterward hunt there. Incidentally, at that time, Gabrielson held it was permissible to hunt water fowl over an unharvested corn field, if the grain was not shaken free.

There has been no change in the regulations, but the interpretation has changed. Early this month the Federal authorities called attention of hunters throughout the country to the drastic sentence given a resident of Ohio in Federal Court at Toledo on conviction of baiting wild ducks on a commercial hunting tract on the Lake Erie shore, by flooding a rice field to create a marsh. He was fined $1500 and sentenced to a year and a day in prison, but placed on probation from the prison sentence on his agreement not to use this or any other marsh for three years.

Form of Baiting.

"We have an opinion from the bureau's legal department," Tonkin said in his letter to Noble, "to the effect that it is not illegal to shoot ducks in harvested grain fields where in harvesting only such grains or seeds fall to the ground as cannot be avoided in prudent and economical harvesting, and flooding a field so harvested does not make illegal the shooting of ducks coming to such flooded field.

"But when grain crops are not harvested and water is turned upon the crops so as to bring the unharvested grain in reach of the ducks sitting on the water, such manipulation is equivalent to putting out grain to attract ducks, and shooting will be illegal. Of course, you can see that flooding a grain field just before shooting would be equivalent in hunting results to dumping grain in a barren pond; in other words, it would be just another form of baiting."

Reminding Noble that the Federal regulations were necessary for perpetuation of the sport, Tonkin explained that they were designed to give each zone a chance to get some ducks and to leave other ducks for breeding stock.

Season to Close Nov. 30.

"While each area," Tonkin added, feels it has a particularly aggravating problem, I believe that if the hunters will look at the situation as a whole they will see it is the endeavor of the Biological Survey to give all the sportsmen in the whole United States insofar as it is possible, an equal chance to obtain some of the wild water fowl."

The season will close Nov. 30 in Missouri and Illinois. Last year there was only a 30-day season. A change in regulations now permits hunters to have two days' kill in possession instead of one day's.

Congressman C. Arthur Anderson, in a letter to Lieutenant-Colonel P. S. Reinecke of the Army's Corps of Engineers, said Friday he had received many complaints from hunters unable to get authority to build duck blinds on Government owned land on the banks of the Alton Dam lake.

Anderson, who departed Friday night for Washington, said he would appeal to army officers there for a ruling.

Ruling on Hunting at Alton Dam.

Reinecke notified Agent Barmeier on Oct. 8 that he could not grant permission for the construction of blinds on property acquired by the Governemnt or in process of being acquired. The notification did not prohibit duck hunting on the lake and had no application to property still privately owned.

Permission to build blinds, Reinecke explained, could not be given until other Government agencies had decided what use they intended to make of the land. If the land becomes available for duck hunting, the Government probably would advertise the letting of leases for blinds by competitive bidding, Reinecke said.

SPY TRIAL IN NEW YORK ON AGAIN TOMORROW

Government Case Strengthened by One Defendant Who Has Pleaded Guilty.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—With a jury selected and a guilty plea from one of four defendants, the Government prepared today to start presentation of testimony Monday in the trial of two men and a woman charged with selling United States military secrets to a foreign Power.

The opening of the trial yesterday provided the Government with a new and important witness by the unexpected guilty plea offered by Gunther Gustav Rumrich, 32-year-old Chicago-born son of Austrian parents.

His plea was offered two minutes after United States District Judge John C. Knox mounted the bench to direct selection of a jury of 10 men and two women, together with two alternates.

Paul G. Reilly, lawyer for Rumrich, in announcing his client's plea said Rumrich would testify for the Government.

The remaining defendants are Johanna Hofmann, former hairdresser aboard the German liner Europa; Erich Glaser, 28, a naturalized German and one-time United States army private who was attached to the Eighteenth Reconnaissance Squadron, at Mitchel Field, Long Island; and Otto Hermann Voss, 36, also a naturalized German, formerly employed at the Seversky airplane factory at Farmingdale, Long Island, where new pursuit ships are under construction for the army.

Each defendant faces a possible maximum penalty of 20 years in prison if convicted.

NEW JOB FOR PERSHING EX-AID

Brig.-Gen. Marshall Named Deputy Chief of Staff.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The War Department made Brig.-Gen. George C. Marshall, former aid of Gen. John J. Pershing, a deputy chief of staff of the army today. He has been in charge of the War Department's war plans division.

Gen. Marshall will be succeeded in his old post by Brig.-Gen. George V. Strong. Marshall succeeds Maj.-Gen. Stanley D. Embick, who on Oct. 1 became commander of the Fourth Corps Area, Atlanta, Ga.

Tennessee Will Spend $2,000,000 On State Game Farm; Raised 30,000 Incubator Quail This Year

Partridges, Pheasants and Wild Turkeys to Be Produced—Big Spring Will Supply Pools for Fishermen.

By SAM J. SHELTON

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Oct. 15.

PROPAGATION of quail and other game birds is getting under way on a large scale at Tennessee's Buffalo Springs game farm near here, where work is progressing on a modern, scientifically designed plant. Already more than half a million dollars has been spent on the undertaking and ultimate cost is estimated at $2,000,000.

About 30,000 young quail were raised on the farm this year. When old enough they will be released at places in the State where cover and feeding conditions are favorable for their survival.

One objective is to restore abundant stocks of game birds throughout the State and to so encourage their propagation in natural surroundings that there will be adequate supplies for farmers and other hunters.

Much of the rough, hilly land not profitable for farming can be turned into a valuable resource when well stocked with quail and other birds, in the opinion of backers of the State Game Farm.

Site Presented to State.

The pioneer promoter of the farm is Lynn W. Hoskins, a Knoxville manufacturer, with a broad interest in conservation of wild life and natural resources and a special interest in providing good bird hunting. Officials of the State Department of Conservation give him full credit for getting the project started. He picked out the site, a 420-acre farm, of high, rolling ground, considered to be ideal for the purpose. Through his efforts and with the co-operation of the owner, Will Massengill, the site was presented to the State.

An attractive physical feature is a large spring rising on the north side of the tract and sending a strong stream of cold, clear water in an irregular curve along the north and east boundaries. The flow of this spring is said to average about 15,000 gallons a minute, sometimes reaching 30,000. It is used as a source of water supply for all the farm activities. An electric pump is used to fill a large concrete storage tank erected on the highest part of the farm.

Developing Fishing Stream.

The stream is being developed for fishing and recreation. CCC workers are constructing low dams of stone and concrete at intervals to form a chain of small lakes. These lakes will be stocked with small mouth bass and it is expected that fees from fishing permits will aid substantially in maintaining the farm. Cottage sites along the lake chain probably will be leased. An old water mill on the property, now in poor repair but still operating, will be restored and will be a picturesque feature.

Hoskins accompanied the correspondent to the farm and explained the extensive plans for its improvement. A new headquarters building, stone and frame, has just been completed. On the ground floor are the offices, and in the basement are the electric incubators. Five long brooder houses extend southward from the main building. These have both indoor and outdoor pens for the baby quail.

Near by a resi[illegible] under construction for th[illegible] superintendent. A shop [illegible], has been finished and [illegible] small building housing an e[illegible]ic power plant. This plant is equipped with two [illegible] horsepower Diesel engines, providing current for all the farm requirements, including heating the incubators and brooders. It is expected that soon TVA current from nearby Norris Dam will be available, but the farm management intends to keep the Diesel plant for stand-by service.

Built by CCC Workers.

[illegible] of the construction work is done by the young men in CCC camp which has its quarters on the property. The National Service has assisted in drawing up plans for the complete project and is directing the construction work. Hoskins proudly re[illegible] how he had salvaged lumber from abandoned CCC camps, thereby making possible much more construction than otherwise would have been possible with available funds.

Various departments of the Federal Government have provided approximately $500,000 for the improvement of the farm, but much of this has gone for construction of roads and drives, building dams, and clearing and beautifying the grounds. Materials must be provided by the State or private agencies. The Game and Fish Division of the State Department of Conservation spent about $22,000 last year for operation and maintenance of the farm and $5000 for construction. It is expected to make somewhat larger expenditures this year.

Revenue Increased.

New sources of revenue and better enforcement last year increased the revenues of the Game and Fish Division to $230,000 compared with $120,000 the year before. Hunting and fishing licenses produced $131,000 compared with $90,000 the year before, a new special fishing license tax produced $21,000 and a new shell tax $30,783.

Howell Buntin, director of the Game and Fish Division, said the game farm probably would be completely equipped by next spring, but more time would be required for the completion of the chain of lakes and the recreation area.

The output of the farm will be about 60,000 birds a year when it is fully equipped. Most of these will be bobwhite quail, but the farm also will produce wild turkeys, chukar partridges, ringneck pheasants and Hungarian partridges.

700 Wild Turkeys.

Last year the farm released about 700 wild turkeys in the wooded areas of the state. Turkey production is carried on in a segregated section of the farm. There the breeding stock of about 75 birds roams the fields, but with wings clipped to prevent flight.

About 500 pairs of quail are kept for breeding stock. The hens have their nests in well-constructed laying pens. The eggs are collected regularly and during the summer the electric incubators are kept going. The incubation period is about 23 days. When hatched the baby quail are very small—"about like a bumble bee," said Hoskins. They are cared for tenderly at first and for the first week the temperature in the electrically-heated brooders is kept at 95 degrees. For six weeks the chicks are kept in the brooder houses. After that they are placed in outdoor pens, about 25 to a pen. These holding pens are placed in rows on the rolling slopes of the hilly farm.

Everything Sterilized.

The brooders and pens were designed and constructed at the farm. They are made so as to be easily cleaned. All equipment is sterilized frequently and extreme precautions are taken to avoid the outbreak and spread of disease.

Some of the special advantages of the location were pointed out by Val Solyom, game technician of the Division of Game and Fish. The fact that long, gentle slopes extend both to the south and the north

“WE OR THEY”

TWO WORLDS IN CONFLICT

By HAMILTON FISH ARMSTRONG

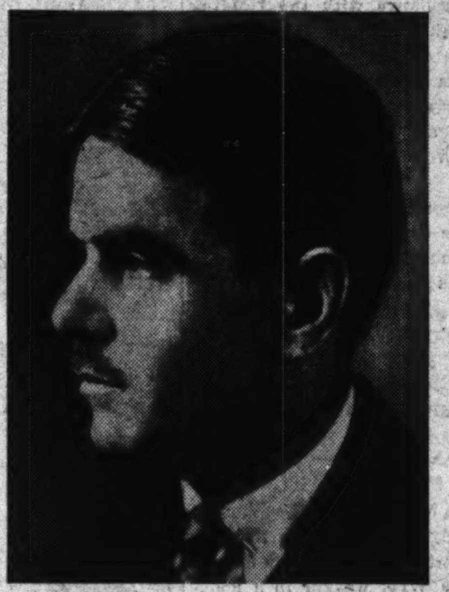
EDITOR OF "FOREIGN AFFAIRS"



HAMILTON FISH ARMSTRONG.

Editor's Note

IN this hour of Adolf Hitler's triumph in Czechoslovakia, where the German army has occupied large sections of Sudetenland as the result of the historic four-power parley at Munich, the Post-Dispatch today begins publication of a brilliant book which is especially timely in that it contrasts democracy and totalitarianism—Nazi, Fascist and Communist.

"We Or They" was the title chosen by the author, Hamilton Fish Armstrong, editor of "Foreign Affairs." His comparative study of dictatorships and democratic states takes its title and text from these words of Mussolini in October, 1930:

"The struggle between two worlds can permit no compromise . . . Either we or they! Either their ideas or ours! Either our state or theirs!"

This sense of struggle to the bitter end, in the writer's view, possesses all apostles of dictatorship. As confirmation, he cites a passage from Hitler's "Mein Kampf" that shows the Nazi leader holding a point of view identical with Mussolini's:

"Either the world will be governed by the ideology of modern democracy, in which case every issue will be decided in favor of the numerically stronger races; or it will be ruled by the laws of force, when the peoples of brutal determination, not those that show self-restraint, will triumph."

As another parallel, Mr. Armstrong presents two quotations from Lenin's works, in which the original Communist attitude is set forth as follows:

"The existence of the Soviet Republic side by side with the imperialist states for any length of time is inconceivable";

"An obituary will be sung either over the death of world capitalism or the death of the Soviet Republic."

Although Mr. Armstrong's book was first published two years ago, the subsequent course of events has more than borne out his views on the innate struggle between the two systems. Since the validity of his premise is thus confirmed, there is sound reason to believe that his study continues to hold a prophetic quality, in that it may cast light on developments that still lie in the future.

The book is printed in the Post-Dispatch by arrangement with the Macmillan Co., New York.

Since the end of the World War, Mr. Armstrong has spent a part of each year in Europe. As editor of a leading review of international relations, he knows at first hand dictators, rulers, prime ministers, emigres, journalists, army chiefs—all that diverse company of strong men and weak who have been making the troubled history of the past 20 years.

Also he is author of "The New Balkans," "Where the East Begins," "Europe Between Wars" and "Can We Be Neutral?" He was born in New York City in 1893, was graduated from Princeton University in 1916, served in the World War as an army lieutenant. After the war he began writing for newspapers and magazines, specializing on foreign relations. He has been decorated by France, Serbia, Rumania and Czechoslovakia.

Two Schools of Political Thought, Democracy as in America and Dictatorship With Its Philosophy of Power—Can There Be Any Relations Between Them?

I.

TWO WORLDS

To thee, old cause!
Thou peerless, passionate, good cause,
Thou stern, remorseless, sweet idea,
Deathless throughout the ages, races, lands.
—Walt Whitman.

OTHER Americans have like myself listened to League debates, compact of declarations, appeals, warnings, reservations; have talked with elected leaders in the capitals and corners of Europe—thousands of them, literally, in these 18 years—some perfunctory and pompous, some cynical and witty, some bombastic and tearful, some dignified, a few generous, two or three prescient and serene; have watched elections and plebiscites, cafe riots and strikes; have sat on countless iron chairs on countless terraces reading the conflicting reports of countless cabinet crises; have seen kings wade in trout streams, kneel rigid at midnight mass, open parliaments, lie in state; have watched so many kinds of men march—shouting or grim, desperate for bread, entranced by a slogan, on fire for a leader, in delirium for freedom won, in relief for freedom lost; have had private exhibitions of this dictator's magnetic eye and squared shoulders, special auditions of that one's wet and crescendo speech, as showy as a skyrocket and as convincing; have heard amplifiers blare and crowds thunder—Piazza Venezia, Red Square, Pariser-platz, Puerta del Sol, Ringstrasse—windows shuttered in fear or cascading flags and carpets and flowers; have huddled in attics with ex-Premiers around a gas-ring and a plate of speckled cakes; have seen wreaths fade on monuments and barbed wire rust in the undergrowth by quiet streams and chimneys smoke where new guns and gases are made.

Democracy, Dictatorship Considered on Their Merits

Nobody who has watched this confusion of struggling men and systems can have refrained from speculating on the relative merits of democracy and dictatorship.

In the United States the choice is made—made by reason and instinct. Most Americans, ranking governments by their ability to afford the greatest number the greatest material good, still consider democracy best able to do this, and without the spiritual sacrifice which the dictators exact. And there still are many who would prefer, in Newton Baker's words, "to be poor if necessary, but in any case free."

But there is another question. Can tolerably satisfactory relations ever in fact be established between peoples free and peoples in chains? Is not the gulf too wide? As the tide of violence rushes on from one vortex to another—the invasion of Manchuria, the murder of Dollfuss, the scrapping of Locarno, the fall of Addis Ababa, Fascist planes over Madrid—the question takes more acute form. Even if tolerable relations ever are somehow established, can they last for long? Is not the gulf too deep?

II.

THE GULF BETWEEN.

The people are converted into fuel to feed the mere machine which is the State. The skeleton eats up the flesh around it. The scaffolding becomes the owner and tenant of the house.
—Jose Ortega y Gasset.

THE gulf between the two conceptions of life is indeed deep and wide. Here, not absolute freedom certainly but great and precious freedom—freedom to think, to believe, to disbelieve, to speak, to will, to choose. There, not some freedom, but none—nothing but obeisance, body, mind and soul, before the iron will and upstretched arm of a restless, infallible master.

But what makes us speculate so somberly on the possibility of maintaining tolerable relations between these two worlds is not just that the dictators and their entourage of made-to-order philosophers, bogus scientists, subservient courts and dictated press hold different conceptions from ours about everything which we consider of importance. After revising histories, philosophies, Bibles and law codes they have proceeded to a revision of the dictionary itself.

No Medium of Exchange of Ideas—Fascist, Nazi and Soviet Administrations With Their Ideologies Have Literally Cut Off the Intercourse of Language.

As a result, intercommunication across the abyss has become almost impossible. And with all means of argument, explanation and accommodation swept away, there grows up on both sides a not unjustifiable belief in the inevitability of a prolonged struggle for supremacy and survival.

The Lines Are Drawn, Both General and Specific.

The lines are drawn in terms both general and specific. On the one side are nations which assume that human beings have individual minds, wills and aspirations, and that this is the fact which differentiates them from other animals; that they have capacities for self-improvement, even if very slowly; and that they should be allowed to use their minds, exercise their wills, and manage their own affairs as a means of learning how to do all these things better.

Obviously the governments of these democratic nations are not ideal. They shelter plenty of narrow and selfish individuals who mistrust popular education and fear the power of the masses. But to the extent that these influence policy they must circumvent law and enlightened public opinion.

On the other side are nations which have never fully accepted the democratic conception of human progress, or which have discarded it because that sort of progress is aggravatingly slow and undramatic. The people in these states are living according to the rules of definite systems revealed to infallible men or groups of men, imposed and enforced by decrees and bullets, and considered permanently immune to criticism, first because infallible men do not need criticism, secondly—and more simply—because they will not tolerate it.

To us, these nations are now so far away that they seem on different planets. Those planets revolve around different suns from the ones we know. Each sun is a man—only a man—subject to the weaknesses, bodily and mental and moral, of other men. But he is set up on high where his aberrations affect the comfort, security and even the lives of millions of other men and women. A great number of these may mistrust or hate him. But their opinions and supplications do not carry through the thin cold air of his lofty altitudes, and they have no means to protect themselves from his possible folly. They are trapped.

Phenomenon Not New; the Lessons of History.

Of course this is not a new phenomenon. But each time it happens those who are caught in the trap are astonished. The members of the legislative assembly of the Second Republic voted in 1849 the law which enabled Napoleon III to achieve his coup d'etat. They kept on good terms with him while he cleared the administration of republicans, censored the press and suppressed the right of meetings. Then he calmly utilized the same law to put them in prison.

Lessons like these carried no warning to the liberal parties in Italy which thought to make use of Fascism just long enough to suppress their Socialist rivals, nor to the Italian industrialists who welcomed the Fascist solution of the labor problem on the erroneous assumption that the embryo dictator would remain "their man," that he would not inevitably swallow up the interests of both employer and employe in the interest of his personal regime.

Neither did historical precedent warn earnest Germans like Bruening that once they had shown how to govern without Parliament by a system of exceptional laws and decrees, the stage would be set for the von Schleichers and von Papens, with the Hitlers and Goerings close on their heels.

The von Papens and von Schleichers themselves were equally erroneous in imagining that they could make electoral bargains with people like the Nazis and still continue themselves to be the dominant factor in a sys-

Germany's Ability to Turn Out Warplanes at 800-a-Month Rate Powerful Argument at Munich

U. S. Army Men Think Hitler's Potential Mass Production of Fighting Ships Was Decisive Factor.

By RICHARD L. STOKES

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.

IT was not the actual aviation strength of Germany and Italy which drove Great Britain and France to the capitulation of Munich, according to information in the hands of the United States Army Air Corps. Neither was it Germany's new dehydrated liquid air projectiles nor her modern technique of high-altitude bombing.

The surrender's true motive, experts of the Air Corps believe, was Germany's adaptation of the American invention of mass production to the building of military airplanes, on such a scale that with present facilities 800 combat and bombardment craft can be produced every month—an output which in the emergency of war could probably be stepped up to 15,000 a year.

On the other hand, owing to labor and financial difficulties, France's manufacture of military planes had fallen of late to 100 a month. Great Britain's production is estimated as something more than twice that of France, so that the two countries would have a combined output of between 300 and 400 planes a month. But Germany, declares an army observer who returned recently from that country, has 20,200,000 square feet of factory space devoted to building war planes, 160,000 workmen engaged in making plane bodies and other thousands busied with the construction of motors and guns. There also are four new colleges which graduate each year 800 aviation officers and 3000 non-commissioned pilots.

British vs. German Factories.

These German factories, the witness maintains, are even better designed for their purpose than similar ones in America, and many of them are scattered in "shadow plants," or small houses camouflaged with green roofs and surrounding trees so as to look from the air like farm buildings. The British factories were found to be housed in large units, poorly planned and insecurely situated. It is asserted that England's air program has cost several times that of Germany, with markedly inferior results.

One of the explanations offered is that the German mentality takes kindly to the processes of mass production, while the French and English temperaments do not. On the basis of three factors—performance, planes on hand and output facilities—this observer accorded to the four great Powers the following ratings: Germany, 10; England 5; Italy 2; and France 1. This would grant to the dictator countries potential air supremacy of 2 to 1.

Relative Strength.

But when one comes to actual strength during September, when the war scare was at its height, such statistics as are available paint a situation precisely opposite. It is agreed that by 1940 Germany can easily equip herself with a fleet of 6000 firstline planes, and thus—unless France and England multiply their efforts miraculously—become the world's top air power. All the chancelleries attempt to shroud their aviation resources in secrecy, and the Army Air Corps is far from vouching for any of the figures given here. But they are believed to be the best ascertainable, and to be reasonably accurate.

Recent calculations appear to demonstrate that when Chancellor Hitler confronted Prime Minister Chamberlain at Berchtesgaden the German Fuehrer had at his back nothing like the 10,000 military aircraft with which propaganda credited his nation, and that a strong trace of absurdity attached to the claim that Germany could launch against London 12 hourly waves of 400 bombers each. Maj. Alford J. Williams Jr., of the United States Marine Corps Reserves, who was in Germany last summer, estimated that its air force had grown since 1935 from 250 war planes to 2250, as has been told in the Post-Dispatch. By September the total had probably increased to 3000, exclusive of command, transport and training machines, and was divided into 1000 bombers and 2000 combat ships.

Italy was credited with 2600 first-line planes, of which 690 were bombers. France and England had together about 4000 military craft. So that Germany and Italy jointly commanded 5600 fighting planes, as against some 4500 for England, France and Czechoslovakia.

Russia Unknown Quantity.

The mysterious quantity in the situation was Russia, which at the beginning of the year was reported to possess 5500 war planes, including 1000 bombers, a large proportion of which were available for employment in Europe. Many students are inclined to accept this figure, and to hold that the Russians are the most air-minded people in the world. In that case, Russia, England, France and Czechoslovakia jointly controlled during September, in ships actually at hand, 12,956 military planes, or more than twice the total of Germany and Italy combined.

Why, then, did the democratic Powers, for the moment at least, yield to Hitler's exactions? The English naval fleet is incomparably superior to Germany's and the French army is still regarded as better than that of the Reich. Military authorities in this country hold that the Maginot line is probably impenetrable, but that the Siegfried line, still unfinished, could in all likelihood be pierced. England and France have in reserve the wealth, man power and raw materials of two empires. They had much reason to believe they could win a long war on land and sea. But they had equal reasons for doubting, the writer is assured, whether they could win a long war in the air.

Replacement Capacity.

The first of these reasons is Germany's astonishing replacement capacity for the manufacture of military planes, which England and France could not hope in the near future to approximate. By using her utmost resources, the Reich could launch into the air about 50 new combat and bombing planes each day. France and England together, in September, were producing 10 machines a day.

The second reason is a widespread skepticism, among French and British statesmen, as to the leadership, skill and morale of the Russian air fleet—a skepticism said to have been inspired in part by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. He was alleged by British periodicals and Russian airmen to have told guests of Lady Nancy Astor, prima donna of the pro-German, pro-Fascist "Cliveden set," that "Germany possesses such a strong air force it is capable of defeating the combined air fleets of England, France, Russia and Czechoslovakia"; and that "the Soviet air fleet is without leadership and in a chaotic condition." Lindbergh has refused to comment on this report, and Lady Astor denied it. Rightly or wrongly, however, Lindbergh's opinions are declared to have had an important influence on the attitude of Prime Minister Chamberlain in the face of Germany's menaces.

It must be said that officers of the Air Corps are inclined to take Col. Lindbergh's judgment, if he really expressed it, with copious grains of salt, and to comment laughingly that the Russians must have shown the American flyer only their junk machines. These officers, on the basis of reports from observers in Spain, are persuaded that Russian pilots are superior to the Italians and not unworthy of Other People's Troubles.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR especial journalistic interest in the plight of the tiff miners in the area south of St. Louis serves to remind us that we are usually very greatly concerned with uplift programs for other areas than our own.

The cotton areas of the South have their damnable labor and share-cropper conditions, the presence of which is kept constantly to the front by uplifters of New York's Park avenue, notwithstanding the fact that Park avenue practically starts with Harlem and practically ends in the shadows of the lower East Side, beginning and ending with two of the rottenest spots in Christendom.

Chicago has her slums just next door to her Gold Coast. The coal fields of Illinois or of Pennsylvania, or anywhere, have their pitiable conditions. We of New Madrid County have our poor housing conditions, our labor and share-cropper troubles and our under-nourishment.

I am often constrained to suggest that each of us look in his own backyard. The commonplace of our own slum areas changes to the bizarre, the lurid, the extravagance of other folk's shortcomings. The rottenness of another's situation serves well to keep the local Chamber of Commerce off our editor; he, then, salves his conscience by finding an outlet for his feelings in an area of scant density of newspaper circulation.

On Having a Sense of Humor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN the float, "Alexander's Ragtime Band," was passing in the Veiled Prophet's parade, a colored man standing next to me said to one of the characters on the float, "How's you, honey? I'se all right!" And it made me—an Irishman—feel better to know that some people have a sense of humor.

The Irish of 50 or 75 years ago were too broad-minded to "squawk" about such a harmless thing as that song, "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly?"

Who Walter Murphy Is.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

NOTING your news article regarding the convalescence of James Roosevelt at the California ranch of Walter P. Murphy, I will give you these facts concerning the host:

He was born in Pittsburgh and moved to East St. Louis when his father became master mechanic of the Cairo Short Line, now the Illinois Central. His father invented the first steel box-car roof and accumulated a fortune.

His son was educated at Washington University and served his apprenticeship at the Cotton Belt shops as a machinist; subsequently he was a fireman and an engineer to qualify himself for heading the great business developed by the family. In addition to owning this E. S. Harkness ranch in California, he has one of the show places at Lake Forest and a home on Madison avenue, New York. He is the owner of the yacht Intrepid, the finest barkentine in the New York Yacht Club, and is a member of the New York Club, the Chicago Club and the Racquet Club here. He is a bachelor philanthropist, deeply interested in the Warm Springs cure for infantile paralysis, is a personal friend of the President, and that is why he invited the son to his ranch.

Question for Mr. Ickes.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

WHEN Mr. Ickes and the other noble road-builders have finished all their national highways, national parks and national playgrounds, will they be still more liberal and furnish free tours hither, thither and yon for the impoverished taxpayers' enjoyment thereof?

And there are some of us who could appreciate one little path for pedestrians only, in what was once "Forest" Park.

That Olive Street Quail.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

REFERRING to the quail on an Olive street light standard, photographed recently by the Post-Dispatch:

This bird was probably a stray from a covey moving about during the "fall shuffle" that quail apparently perform, i. e., a process of seeking suitable winter habitats. It is known that extended movements may be made by a covey during this shuffle period; the birds have been known to fly across the Missouri and Mississippi rivers at such times. Since these flights usually occur late in the evening or early in the morning, and since frequently fog and smoke obscure the downtown districts at that time of day, it is easy to see how one or more quail could, in traversing the rivers, lose sense of direction and be forced down in the city itself. The fact that the bird stayed only a short time, and flew off when disturbed, would tend to support the idea that it was simply resting before seeking a more favorable habitat.

PROGRAM FOR DEMOCRACY.

What can democracy, caught in the rip tide from the Right and the Left, do to assure its survival? Beginning today, on the front page of this section, the Post-Dispatch is presenting Hamilton Fish Armstrong's "We or They," a remarkable diagnosis of the burgeoning conflict between democracy and dictatorship.

It is unusual for a newspaper to reprint a book that is two years old; in this case, one of the chief reasons for publication springs from the fact that it has been two years since the book was written. For in those two swift-moving years so much of what the author wrote has been verified that it bears a striking resemblance to prophecy and lends credibility to the ideological line of battle mapped out for the years ahead.

The author's prescience derives from a long and specialized experience in international relations, as director of the Council on Foreign Relations from 1922 to 1928, and as editor since then of the quarterly Foreign Affairs.

Examples of correct forecast of events in this book could be multiplied, but one or two will suffice. Warning that believers in democracy must present an unbroken front against dictatorships in whatever form, the author wrote:

> No one who finds excuses for Mussolini's suppression of liberty in Italy can object to Hitler's abuse of intellectuals, pacifists and non-Aryans in Germany (as should be understood in time by some well-to-do Jews who, when they view the Italian scene, favor authority and discipline whatever the cost and become indignant liberals only when they read about the excesses of Rosenberg and Streicher).

This was written two years before Mussolini voiced his strident "Me too" in the Nazi refrain of corrosive racism. Likewise the writer pointed out how the greater effectiveness of dictatorships in mobilization and rearmament challenges the practicability of democratic institutions in neighboring countries.

We in America would be blind indeed to assume that our own institutions will be unaffected by the type of government that comes to dominate Western Europe. It is the part of self-interest to extend all the co-operation possible in international trade and currency stabilization to strengthen the European democracies.

It is even more important, however, to be on the alert to prevent the spread of Fascism in the Western Hemisphere. With Germany, Italy and Japan all engaged in colonizing Central and South America, strengthening their economic grip and preaching their particular versions of the authoritarian doctrine, we should not be beguiled into thinking that the expanses of ocean between the Eastern and Western hemispheres afford the protection they once did. Only protests backed up by adequate armaments will be understood by nations guided by the philosophy that war is an ennobling experience and that might makes right.

Nevertheless, the defenses of democracy in this country depend not so much on battleships and airplanes as on a balanced internal economy. In Mr. Armstrong's chapter on the conditions that led to the rise of dictators to power in Germany and Italy, there is a clear warning for America.

We are not suffering from a corresponding multiplicity of parties, with the leaders marching in different directions, but economic insecurity, which shattered faith in democracy in Italy and Germany, casts its shadow over America. The Fascist demagogue addresses his appeal to the little men who have no jobs and to those who, having employment or businesses, do not feel secure in them.

Our unequaled resources have eased the blow of business stagnation, and the unemployed have been quieted by the narcotic of relief. But this necessitates borrowing on a vast scale. Unless effective steps are taken to restore prosperity, the strain on the public credit will carry us toward inflation.

The increasing presence of pressure politics, the habit of individuals and groups of looking to the Government for subsidies or hand-outs, the chronic disorder in labor relations, these are ominous symptoms. Fascism has been called the "neurosis of a maladjusted social order." America must work for an economy geared to plenty, for such an efficient utilization of our resources as will remove any danger of a breakdown of faith in our institutions.

It is no more than a facing of facts to say that in the world today democracy is on the defensive. The citizen who reads Mr. Armstrong's program for democracy will be better able to play his part in resisting the stresses to which democracy in America is subject from without and within.

ON NURTURING IMBECILES.

In analyzing the work of the Johns Hopkins free clinic, Henry Mencken shows that a large percentage of its services in delivering babies is rendered to feeble-minded and syphilitic women. With characteristic violence of utterance, Mr. Mencken says: "Imagine permitting such ghastly caricatures of humanity to reproduce their kind ad libitum, and not only permitting it, but even facilitating it." The record shows that the children of these women become the pathological specimens of the next generation. "Twenty years hence their daughters will be back ready with more syphilitic babies."

Mr. Mencken's statement recalls a line in a decision by Justice Holmes, upholding a sterilization law: "Three generations of imbeciles are enough."

The world's armament bill will exceed 17 billions this year, and not a nation on earth is prepared for war. Well, anyhow, it's colossal.

SUCCESS AND SUFFIXES.

No man can calculate in advance the idiosyncracies and prejudices of Homo So-called Sapiens, Esq. There was Alfred Martinelli, for instance, running his little art shop in Philadelphia and not making a dime. How could he know what was wrong? It took a dust storm to fix things up for Martinelli. Dirt covered the last four letters of his name on the sign outside the door. Business started picking up right away, so now the enlightened art dealer asks a St. Louis Circuit Judge to alter his name to Martin. Petition granted.

Then there was the similar, yet wholly different, instance of Joe Benton, from Sayre, Ok. Joe contributed a seductive lyric tenor to the University of Oklahoma glee club, then went abroad to study. But a Joe Benton singing in Italian opera houses was displeasing to the Fascists, so the Oklahoman immediately became Giuseppe Bentonelli. Booked for the Metropolitan, he found the Italianate suffix a distinct asset, and retained it, though he did re-Anglicize the given name.

So it's possible to chart, if vaguely, a law of human nature. Anglo-Saxon names are best in the world of business; Latin ones in the world of art. "Elli" is a handicap or an asset, depending on how one earns his bread. Dale Carnegie might put that interesting formula in his next success book.

REALISM IN THE UTILITY FIELD.

It is a matter of prime business importance that the olive branch is being passed between the big public utility interests and the Securities and Exchange Commission. Chairman William O. Douglas of the SEC announces that several major corporations, including the powerful and hitherto implacable Electric Bond & Share Co., have agreed to file plans for the integration of their holdings and the simplification of their capital structures under the provisions of the Utility Holding Company Act.

St. Louis has a special interest in this development as it concerns the Laclede Gas Light Co., a unit of Harley Clarke's Utility Power & Light Co., but now controlled by Floyd Odlum. Laclede is encircled by the North American system and will certainly be affected before the program of integration is completed.

C. E. Groesbeck, chairman of Electric Bond & Share, announced his compliance with the Holding Company Act in terms which we may hope are indicative of a new attitude on the part of business. He spoke for "realism" as against "emotionalism," and Chairman Douglas responded that the commission regards the reforms as "evolutionary," to be worked out on the basis of voluntary proposals rather than arbitrary orders.

If similar working agreements can be evolved in other fields between the Government and finance and industry, it will mean much for the prosperity of the country. A few months ago, the electric utilities alone reported they were ready to spend three billion dollars in new construction if they were given the go sign in Washington. Maybe this handsome vision will now materialize, at least in part. It would be a good start toward the capital goods recovery which is so urgently needed.

A skeleton is rattling in the closet of the Shouses—and no doubt it is clearly audible to the Raskobs and du Ponts, too. Miss Betty Shouse, comely daughter of Jouett, has become a WPA worker in a bookbinding project. As founder and director of the American Liberty League, if memory serves, Mr. Shouse and his associates had quite a lot to say about Harry Hopkins, the WPA and such boondoggling things as binding books, and now Miss Betty's on the payroll. It must be downright embarrassing.

THE FEE SYSTEM IN ST. LOUIS COUNTY.

Issues in the St. Louis County campaign have been broadened to include the fee system, a subject whose discussion should be welcomed by every voter. This method of paying public officials is an archaism, carried over from pioneer days when conditions were wholly different from those of today. Its survival works an injustice upon the taxpayer, and makes office-holding a highly lucrative occupation.

Figures are presented, for instance, to show that Collector Benson has collected about $180,000 in salary and fees during his 12 years in office. His opponent, William C. Schramm, contrasts this scale, running up to $18,497 in one year, with the Governor's $6500 salary. Mr. Benson has read the handwriting on the wall; he, too, is running on a platform favoring abolition of the fee system.

County Clerk Miller's opponent, R. M. Farrell, also presents illuminating figures. Miller has drawn around $100,000 in salary and fees in 12 years, he says.

Such returns as these are outrageously out of proportion. Under this state of affairs, taxpayers make undue sacrifices so officials may be enriched. The sooner this obsolete system is abolished, not only in the county but wherever it exists, the better.

If Mr. Wayman gets mad and wants to make something out of it, we'll hold his coat.

Pat Nash, elder leader in the Kelly-Nash combination in Chicago, is quitting the political arena. He will retain for the time being his titles as National Committeeman and Cook County chairman, but the responsibilities that have been his in the Democratic machinery he is shifting to younger shoulders. And he is out of the fall campaign entirely.

This rest and surcease from the political wars is well deserved. The walloping he and his crowd took at the hands of Gov. Horner in the 1936 primary and the second dose this last April are as much as any boss should have to take. How soon will Mayor Kelly follow down the same trail to slippered ease? Chicago is getting ready to give an answer in the mayoralty campaign next spring. Early signs suggest that after this coming winter, Ed Kelly will be free to spend all his time under the palms of Miama Beach instead of the substantial part he now devotes to it.

If Cardenas Were Overthrown

A popular leader who won't sell out, Mexican President is idolized by his fellow-citizens, says student of Latin American affairs; his idealism may be impractical, and he might be unseated were America's economic and diplomatic influence thrown against him, but Fascism, Communism or plain chaos would follow his downfall.

Hubert Herring, Author of "Pan-Americanism, New Style," in Harper's Magazine.

LAZARO CARDENAS' chief disability is his memory. Although he now lives in a city house and has a salary of $20,000 a year, he cannot forget the village of Jiquilpan in the semi-tropical State of Michoacan where he was born 42 years ago. Jiquilpan was and is Mexico. Its adobe houses have thatched roofs and earth floors. There was no regular school there 42 years ago, no physician, no decent water supply, no sewer. Few wore shoes. Cardenas' father had one horse and a little corn patch and a wife and eight children.

Lazaro Cardenas left Jiquilpan when he was 15, and enlisted in the army. But unlike many Generals and Governors and Presidents, Cardenas has not forgotten how hard it is to satisfy nine stomachs on a quarter. His memory plays him tricks.

Cardenas turns a candid eye upon the alien questioner. He is sincerely puzzled by questions about the land which he takes, about the oil properties which he expropriates. When asked whether he will continue his agrarian program, he replies, "We have granted lands to 8000 villages, but there are applications waiting from 15,000 other villages. The people must have their land."

When asked, "But if you have no money with which to pay, will you still continue your social program?" he replies, "There are thousands of Mexican towns and villages which do not yet have a decent water supply. Can we halt now?"

There is the stubborn conviction in Mexican minds that everything under the sod belongs to the nation. This conviction has tenacious roots. It goes back to King Charles III of Spain, who in 1783 ordered "The Mines are the property of my Royal Crown," including "all bitumens and earth juices." This principle was written into the first Mexican Constitution. Benito Juarez rewrote it into the Constitution of 1857. Carranza incorporated it into the Constitution of 1917.

There are imponderables in the Mexican oil picture. First must be listed the experience of the oil operators with Mexican labor leaders. Mexican organized labor has exhibited all the quirks common to labor movements everywhere, especially to new labor movements which have been fought.

Second, there are the accumulated experiences of the Mexican oil worker. The oil industry began to develop in 1900, under Diaz. Laborers were conscripted like slaves, and were paid slaves' wages. Living conditions were abominable. Life was cheap. Human beings were worked and discarded. There was no law in these camps but company law.

Then came the unions. They have been paying off a score of many years' standing.

Mexico admits liability for payment for all expropriated lands, but contends that "the time and manner of such payment should be determined by her own laws." It points out the difficulties under which Mexico labored in arriving at a just decision as to the validity and value of such titles, insists that the United States has no right to demand payments of claims by American nationals so long as Americans and Mexicans are treated alike.

The United States has more than a passing interest in Cardenas of Mexico. It matters much to us which way Mexico and the 19 other nations of Latin America go. Disquieting reports, such as those recently presented by Carleton Beals remind us that South America is being wooed by the Fascist Powers. The Germans, the Italians are playing their game in Brazil, in Peru, in sundry other nations. Lazaro Cardenas is a man to be cherished by a United States which soberly hopes for a triumph of democracy on this continent.

But it is a delicate equilibrium which Cardenas must preserve. Mexican Governments are easily overturned; the financial situation is desperate. The normal current budget of about $80,000,000 is inadequate.

The Government's account in the Banco de Mexico is overdrawn by over 150,000,000 pesos. The threat of fiat money is heard. Exchange is off and may go lower. Exports are down. If this drift continues, if prices go higher, if wages do not rise, there would be a situation which would precipitate revolution.

The United States is the chief threat to the stability of the Cardenas regime. And the United States—officially, at least—is exceedingly displeased with Cardenas. The United States might unseat Cardenas by the course which it takes. That course might be of repeated protests, crowding Mexico for payment of oil and land.

It might be followed by coercive measures, economic boycotts, the scaring off of tourists (already being done by some oil companies), the stoppage of the $100 duty-free allowance for returning travelers, a reversal of our silver policy. It is possible to break off diplomatic relations. That step would serve as eloquent invitation to some new individual or group of individuals in Mexico to turn out Lazaro Cardenas.

And then what would Mexico get? And what will the United States get?

Here are three guesses:

There is Fascism in Mexico, not chiefly rooted in the Germans and Italians, but in the potential alliance between reactionary industry and ambitious military cliques. They could weave a Fascist pattern of their own.

Second, there is a substantial body of doctrinaire Leftism in Mexico—with its stronghold in the labor movement. It has a few leaders of power. These like Stalin's phrases and might seek larger opportunity to try them out in Mexico.

Third, there is a wide variety of sectional jealousies. There are aspiring chieftains in the various states. They fatten on disorder. Let the central Government fail, and Mexico might be doomed to years of internal strife.

So Cardenas offers a hard choice to Roosevelt and Hull. They can take him, and like him, and co-operate with him so that his regime may flourish. Then we might have a democratic neighbor.

Or they can scold him, hound him, and perhaps break him. And then perhaps Mexico will have another kind of a President, not so democratic. In either case the United States will not collect. So perhaps the best course is to accept President Cardenas, despite his informal ideas on economics.

The CIO: An Inside View

Books in the News

BENJAMIN STOLBERG may err in "The Story of the CIO" (Viking Press, New York) in a number of details; he may glide over the broad sweep of things to alight heavily on a minor fact. Yet at the same time he has given the public the beginning of the literature of the labor movement, from which point other writers can take off on better map-making flights.

Stolberg's discussion of the origin of the break with the American Federation of Labor and his analysis of the development of Lewis from one of the most reactionary leaders of the A. F. of L. into leadership of a new and progressive social force is excellent. So is the treatment of the peace with Big Steel and the war with Little Steel. The chapter on vigilanteism, which appeared first in The Nation, is worth re-reading.

Most of the contents of the book was published in a series prepared for the Scripps-Howard newspaper chain, and there remain some of the bad guesses that disfigured it from the start.

Thus, in stressing the Communist menace in the United Automobile Workers, Stolberg fails to give the same full and critical attention to the Lovestoneite influence, and hazards the opinion, which subsequent developments negated, that the expelled officers would not get back.

Stolberg's cynical gift of disposing of a man whom he does not admire with an epithet has full play: "If there ever was a ham Machiavelli, Mr. Frankensteen is it." Another in the Detroit local is "a typical Socialist Boy Scout." Myron Taylor, who acceded to the organization of steel, is "platitudinous—profound, vain, and as bright as his best secretary." Homer Martin, however, is defended, particularly for his opposition to collective security as a national policy, although Stolberg characterizes him as a poor administrator.

Problems of statesmanship, Stolberg makes evident, beset labor unions, which verge on political action to supplement their social and economic aims. The writer does not take the position that workingmen who are "Red" should be excommunicated from unions, and he recognizes the value of an occasional agitator within the ranks, but the Communist stand against American neutrality or isolation in favor of collective action against aggressor nations seems to him the greatest of menaces.

On many of the fine points, the average reader has no way to judge, but it is possible for everyone to understand this summary: "By the end of 1937, the CIO had organized over 3,000,000 workers. It has done a lot for them. It has improved wages, hours and conditions. Above all, it has enriched their lives by giving them a new sense of solidarity, of human dignity and social purpose."

U.S. REARMAMENT TO CHANGE WHOLE RECOVERY SET-UP

OFFICIALS CONFER WITH INDUSTRALISTS

Program Outlined for Utilities, Railroads and Manufacturing Plant Rehabilitation.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORKX Oct. 15.—Business leaders today estimated President Roosevelt's enlarged rearmament plan would stimulate industrial spending of at least $5,000,000,000 additional during the next 15 months.

The broad plans now being worked out in conferences between business executives and Government officials, they said, were designed to become the dominating factor in the recovery picture.

Executives spoke candidly—as they did eight days ago in predicting the President's program—under a pledge that they would not be identified.

The re-armament program viewed economically, they said, marks a basic change in the Government's recovery program, a switch of emphasis—which many business leaders have long sought—from consumer goods to heavy industry.

A fundamental goal will be the removal from WPA payrolls to gainful private employment of a major portion of the unemployed by the end of the period—in 1940.

Broad effects of the rearmament program, the executives said should begin to be felt by mid-spring and should reach a peak between 15 months and two years from the present, or in the summer and fall of 1940.

Chief Elements in Plan.

Chief elements in the defense program, aside from the obvious ones of army, navy and merchant marine expansion, were described as these:

1. A public utility expansion program involving expenditure of not less than $3,000,000,000 in the first phase (15 months to two years), for new power plants and interlocking transmission lines.

2. A railroad rehabilitation program, still in a very tentative state, in which the amount of $1,000,000,000 has been loosely mentioned, divided into about $300,000,000 for new rails and the remaining two-thirds for rolling stock and other necessary equipment to bring the roads, now generally in bad mechanical shape, to a point of military efficiency.

3. Industrial plant rehabilitation, chiefly in chemical, automobile, airplane, and heavy machine-making plants, in which buildings and equipment would be brought to top-notch efficiency for war-time defense purposes. Again estimates are at the tentative stage, but a rough survey has indicated that not less than $1,000,000,000 would be required over a 15-month period.

Backed by Gold Board.

Some of those who have been in touch with Government officials on the plan believe that the "moral weight" of the Government's credit position, backed by the largest gold board in the world's history, will be sufficient to start short term commercial credits for Government-approved construction which in turn would stimulate the equity financing markets.

The Government, it was said, plans to spend outright only what is needed for paint capacity which would be useless for commercail purposes but it will make loans as necessary, and extend its influence to foster and encourage commercial loans for approved projects which have a double purpose—military defense and peacetime use.

Various industrial groups, advised by financiers, and in consultation with Government officials, are now working out application of plans prepared in broad scope by War Department experts. The entire plan in detail will be submitted to Congress early in January.

coping with the Germans; and that, ship for ship, the Russian combat planes have held their own remarkably well against Germany's standard fighting ship, the Messerschmidt M-109, a small single-seater with a fixed machine gun, liquid-cooled motor and a speed of 310 miles an hour. It has been praised as "the fastest and most easily maneuverable fighting plane in the world," and has been known to climb 9000 feet in the air and descend to the ground, all in the space of two minutes and five seconds.

Russia's Difficulties.

Granting Russia's merits in the air, there still remained doubt whether she would be able to bring her resources into play. Rumania held the only route by which Russia could touch hands with her allies and come to grips with Germany, for Soviet planes traversing Poland would have been in danger of being shot down. There were published assertions that Rumania would grant passage to Russian aircraft, but they were never verified by any official announcement. Whether this kingdom, in the last resort, would have granted ingress to Soviet planes still holds over as one of the unsolved questions of the war crisis.

In addition to such factors, several other disagreeable developments confronted the democratic statesmen at Munich. Two came from Spain, proving ground of the great Powers for the next European war. To begin with, French multi-seated combat planes, such as the Potez 45's, proved so distinctly inferior to single-seat types like the Messerschmidt that they became instantly obsolete. Secondly, when Hitler screamed at Nurnberg that Germany had the best anti-aircraft weapons in Europe, his opponents may have reflected uneasily that German .88's had been tried out at Lerida; that each of these pom-poms fired 200 shells a minute; that a battery of six discharged 20 shots a second, and that three batteries set up "an impenetrable barrage" of 60 shells a second, extending 6000 feet into the air. Besides, even French observers admitted that larger German weapons, firing 21,000 feet aloft, had proved "extraordinarily effective."

Superiority in Air Bases.

It was known, moreover, that Germany possessed 750 air bases as against 260 for Great Britain and 250 for France! A strategic principle has come to be recognized that a definite ratio exists between first-line air strength and number of bases. Czechoslovakia, incidentally, had about 200 air bases, a number wildly out of proportion to its fleet of 456 front-line war planes. These fields, according to general understanding, were designed for operative use by the air forces of other countries, so that Czechoslovakia gained the nickname of "the airplane carrier of Europe." By air, the republic is less than an hour distant from France, and about 20 minutes from the Russian border.

A further lesson from air-fighting in Spain which may have given the English leaders pause was that while bombing operations over land are dangerous to the bomber, he can operate with relative impunity from the ocean in attacks on coastal points and on merchant ships either in port or on the high seas. As to warships, it is estimated that a bombardment plane flying 310 miles an hour at an altitude of 21,320 feet must drop its projectile 16,400 feet, or more than three miles, before arriving over the target; and that it may then whirl in a half-circle to escape artillery fire.

Czechoslovakia's bombers are only 14 per cent of her entire air force, instead of 40 to 70 per cent as among the big aviation powers. But the ratio in Czechoslovakia seems more nearly correct, judging by information gained in the Spanish laboratory. There it has been found that six combat ships are needed to protect one bombing plane.

Lessons of Spanish War.

Other data obtained at the Spanish experiment station, which were no doubt in the minds of the negotiators at Munich, and which in many cases are surprising and curious to the laymen, have been outlined by American and foreign observers as follows:

Infantry stands up badly against bombing from the air; but civil populations, paradoxically, endure it very well.

Even the best bombardment planes have no defense against pursuit ships except flight.

The increasing precision of anti-aircraft artillery is such as to command deep respect.

The multi-seat combat plane is no match for the single-seat fighter with fixed machine gun.

Because of the impossibility of identifying objectives, night bombing has been discarded generally as unprofitable.

Speed is of the highest importance, both for pursuit and bombardment.

"Assault" aircraft or "attack" as they are designated in this country have a primary role to play against ground forces.

All-metal planes, which are difficult to repair in the field, tend to be replaced by types that are part metal, and part wood and canvas.

Danger to Civilians.

No doubt the most horrifying example learned from Spain concerns the power of bombing planes to slaughter non-combatants. It seems agreed that Generalissimo Franco, despite numerous atrocities, has refrained from employing this species of destruction to the full capacity of his air resources. Since he is fighting a civil war, the motive is obvious. But no such scruples would obtain in an international war between Germans and Italians on the one hand, and French and British on the other. Recognition of this fact was shown last month in frantic preparations for the wholesale evacuation of London and Paris.

In modern warfare, airplanes fulfil one function of cavalry in scouting to procure information, and another in charging ground forces with machine gun and bomb, where the cuirassiers and hussars of old charged with lance and saber.

On retreat, they can pursue and harass the enemy until a reverse is transformed into a profound rout. This happened at Guadalajara, where the Italians suffered the most disastrous defeat of the Spanish war. Bombardment planes also supersede long-range heavy artillery. Every plane of the sort is capable of firing projectiles containing 110 pounds of explosive on objectives hundreds of miles distant.

At the beginning of this year, the United States ranked fourth among the nations in air strength, with a combined total, in Army and Navy, of 2512 planes and a personnel of 35,845. The current program for the War Department alone calls for a fleet of 2300 planes by June 30, 1940. With President Roosevelt's insistence that present world conditions demand largely increased expenditures for national defense, it is possible that in the near future the country's air resources will be abruptly expanded.

VATICAN ORGAN DISCUSSES 'BRUTE FORCE' IN AUSTRIA

Osservatore Romano Says Attacks on Cardinal's Palace Raise Question of 'Legitimacy' of Violence.

By the Associated Press.

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 15.—L'Osservatore Romano, Vatican City newspaper, said today the question of "the legitimacy of brute force" to combat contrary views had been raised by the attack last Saturday in Vienna on the palace of Theodore Cardinal Innitzer. The article was initialed by the director of the newspaper, Count Della Torre.

"The reaction (to the Vienna disorders) was such that despite precautionary official news concerning the effervescence of a few boys who were immediately dispersed and quickly punished, the authorities and (Nazi) party chiefs found themselves face to face with a fearful and shameful outbreak with vast, serious world-wide repercussions," the article said.

"They found themselves confronted with the question which now arises not in connection with one or another atrocious episode but in connection with systems which claim their own philosophy and own revolutionary rights. That principle is the legitimacy of the brute force of unhuman aggression against all divergent opinions, missions and activities even when affirmed and pursued within the circle of and in accordance with the customs of civilized society in tranquil discipline of thought and of religious life.

"Even if, instead of a sermon, a pastoral message of priestly protest, there had been a speech, an article, the political demonstration of barbarian devastation, the beating of men, injuring them and throwing them out of windows, which occurred at Vienna, would have been not less criminal, repugnant, and intolerable for civilized people among civilized peoples.

"And it is necessary also at this point where we are to repeat loudly and firmly what we always shouted during the raging of red tempests.

"As demagoguery in denying the right of existence to conscience, to thought, to speech, in denying faith, morality, religious customs was revolutionary tyrannical so also revolutionary tyrannical is authoritarianism which goes to the same extremes and tries to have itself accepted only because it boasts of being anti-demagogic.

"Wherever natural, divine and civil law are violated and infringed, humanity, religion, civilization and charity cannot fail to rise up on every side."

WHITE HOUSE RECEPTIONS AND DINNERS START DEC. 13

Social Schedule Lists 10 Dates for State Functions, Two for Unofficial Parties.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — The White House official social schedule, announced today, sets 10 dates between Dec. 13 and Feb. 2 for five State dinners and five receptions.

State dinners this season, honor guests and the dates are: Cabinet, Dec. 13; Diplomatic Corps chiefs, Jan. 3; the Vice-President, Jan. 10; the Chief Justice and the Supreme Court, Jan. 19; the Speaker of the House of Representatives, Jan. 31.

Receptions will be: Diplomatic, Dec. 15; judicial, Jan. 5; congressional, Jan. 12; officials of the Treasury, Postoffice, Interior, Agriculture, Commerce and Labor departments and Federal agencies, Jan. 24, and Army and Navy, Feb. 2.

Two other dates, not for State functions, also were announced: A debut party for Mrs. Roosevelt's niece, Eleanor Roosevelt, Dec. 27, and the Gridiron Widows' dinner Dec. 17. Miss Roosevelt is the daughter of Mrs. Roosevelt's only brother, G. Hall Roosevelt, and Mrs. John Cutler of Boston.

was said to be particularly favorable. The cooler slopes are used to care for the birds in summer, and in winter the south and east slopes give the proper exposure. Extensive watercress beds in the spring branch provide a valuable food element.

Birds hatched early in the summer are ready for release in the fall, but the late hatches are kept until spring.

Hoskins pointed out the somewhat ragged appearance of the farm, and said that patches of weeds and brush are let grow as a lesson to farmers who visit the place. The weeds provide both shelter and feed for birds, he said, and the farm management hopes to counteract a tendency of farmers to keep their fence rows and unplanted lands so clean that there is no cover for game.

With the farm's limited production in its unfinished state the cost of bobwhite quail ready for release is about $1.05 each, and for wild turkey it is about $2.03 each. The management expects these costs to be substantially lowered when capacity production is reached.

Although there are other propagation farms for game birds in operation in the United States, the management of the Tennessee enterprise holds the opinion that this is the largest and most complete.

"We or They"—Two Worlds in Conflict

tem which had the pretense of being parliamentary.

They all learnt too late that once a dictator has been permitted to entrench himself behind the guns and money bags of the state, and to monopolize the springs of public information and opinion, there remains for everyone else a very limited choice of alternatives. They may crowd abjectly about the steps of the new throne. Or they may conspire underground, at the risk of their lives. Or they may utter individual protests, and be put in jail. Or they may, if they can, escape abroad.

Democratic Concepts.

We who belong in the category of democratic states have gradually developed certain basic premises regarding the nature and conditions of civilization. We have agreed on certain terms for describing these premises, and we have invented instruments for giving them effect and means for changing those instruments if it seems desirable to do so. The accretion of acknowledged principle and agreed terminology enables us to talk intelligibly with each other about our various activities regardless of whether our ideas as to policy happens to coincide at all points, or at any point.

Thus we know more or less what we mean when we talk to each other about art, law, sport, education, religion, philosophy or science. We can exchange ideas whether we are Christians or atheists, whether we like Gainsborough or Dali, whether or not we believe in mental telepathy, whether we have round heads or long ones, whether or not we happen to favor the recall of judges or a Federal education system or labor injunctions. We can do this because we have gradually acquired a common vocabulary. Our minds can meet, even in disagreement, because the words we use have meanings accepted in advance.

But How to Tell Someone Else?

But how are we to talk to people who say familiar words but mean something else?

How, specifically, are we to discuss art with people who say "art" and mean "propaganda," to whom music by Mendelssohn is not music, and poetry by Heine is not poetry, and a novel by Thomas Mann is unworthy, not because of any artistic deficiency but because of some extraneous fact wholly disassociated from all possible measures of beauty and satisfaction?

Of what earthly use to us, except as exposes of the dictatorial mentality, are newspapers which are spoon-fed and censored to the point where they become (as Dr. Goebbels puts it) "sharp instruments of policy" and ready to be played on "like a piano?"

There is no music for us—nothing but noise and boredom — when the Italian press carries out Mussolini's promise "to play on every string, from violence to religion, from art to politics." Publication in an Italian, German or Russian newspaper of a chance word that could raise doubts regarding the infallibility of the regime sends author and editor alike to prison; and the same thing happens in several other countries.

Deadly Uniformity.

The result is a deadly uniformity. The same "facts" are put together with scissors and paste from the same mimeographed releases, played up or down according to instructions, and accompanied by the hortatory, cajoling or threatening comment ordered for that day by the Artifex Maximus—Count Ciano or Signor Alfieri, or Dr. Goebbels, or the Moscow press chief. (See Footnote 1 at end of article.) All of it is stereotyped, sycophantic flat, despite the shrillness, dull.

Gone is the reputation of the German scientific journals formerly read in learned circles the world over. Dead and buried are the famous old Italian and German newspapers — Corriere della Sera, Berliner Tageblatt, Frankfurter Zeitung—purveyors of news and organs of opinion once entitled to mention among Europe's half-dozen greatest. Pale impostors carry their mastheads and continue to use their type. Some of the old writers are at their desks; but daily they must be racked by the choice, "Shall we conform or starve?" Only minds deprived of the factual basis for critical judgment would give the printed product of this system of monopoly and terror the name "newspapers."

Neither Germany nor Italy speaks to us from these barren leaves. And is it really the authentic voice of the Russia of tomorrow which speaks in the accents dictated by the Kremlin?

What Can We Expect to Learn?

What can we or our children expect to learn from an educational system which does not proceed towards exact truth by historical research, healthy, scepticism, experimentation and free speculation, but (in the words of the German leader) aims to produce "the political soldier"?

Shall we go, as our fathers often did, to study science at German universities? They now demand what one of the most eminent of living scientists, Lord Rutherford, calls "that strangest of qualifications for the life of scholarship, 'Aryan' genealogies." Their classrooms and laboratories are closed to physicists like Albert Einstein or James Franck, physiologists like Gustav Hertz or Otto Meyerhoff; and they would not now admit men like Ehrlich or Fritz Haber who were their glory in days past.

Shall we go there for morals? "Important is not who is right," said Dr. Goebbels, to whom every teacher, writer and artist must make obeisance, "but who wins." The moral degradation indicated by this remark is explicitly affirmed as the aim of German teaching in a publication of the "Deutscher Philologenverband" urging that youth be taught not to reverence moral force, "which belongs to bygone times," and not to bother about whether he is acting nobly or basely ("the thing that matters is that he acts"). Here is the objective he is to be given: "to will with cold blood the anarchy of the moral world." (Footnote 2).

State of German Art.

Shall we go there for art? Forget the void left by all the musical and theatrical artists who have been expelled from Germany or who refuse out of dignity and principle to perform there, and judge the state of German art from a single specimen statement made by the man who is its official curator, Dr. Alfred Rosenberg. The German farmhouse, he writes quite seriously, "was the prototype of all later architecture. The farmhouses of northern Central Europe were the inspiration and source of strength for those who later on called themselves Greek when they went to the Balkans. The German peasant house is the original model of the Grecian temples and still today is an eternal model of German and Nordic architecture." (Footnote 3).

No Truth for Truth's Sake.

Shall we go there for historical research? "We will never approach history impartially, but as Germans," writes the Nazi educational organ, Die Deutsche Schule (September, 1933). But it was Dr. Rust, Minister of Education, who most authoritatively revealed the Nazi method of research in his address to the scholars gathered to celebrate Heidelberg's 550th anniversary. He emphasized Nazi emancipation from "the false idea of objectivity," and announced that "the old idea of science based on the sovereign right of abstract intellectual activity has gone forever."

Symbolically, the statue of Athena, goddess of wisdom, had already been removed from before one of the great college buildings (given by American friends of Heidelberg, many of them of Jewish descent), and replaced by the German eagle; and above the portal the inscription "To the Living Spirit" had been blotted out and replaced by the words "To the German Spirit."

Obedient to Dr. Rust's admonition, German scholarship the next day buried its dead with these fateful words of Dr. Ernst Krieck, professor of philosophy at Heidelberg: "We do not know of or recognize truth for truth's sake or science for science's sake." (Footnote 4.)

Intellectual and Artistic Life.

What do we find if we turn to contemporary intellectual and artistic life in Italy for inspiration and instruction? Let Signor Paolo Orano, Member of Parliament and professor of history of journalism at the University of Perugia, define for us the duties of the present-day Italian teacher:

"For Fascism such things do not exist as a philosophy independent of race; a culture without a nation; a world without an empire; knowledge which has no end but itself, a limbo for those who are afraid to devote themselves to proselytizing . . . All without exception must bear their part in the policy of Fascism, in private and in public, in every lecture room, from every pulpit. Woe to those who teach the youth of today that there is a culture which 'takes no interest in politics.'"

No wonder that where such requirements prevail one renowned scholar after another has preferred retirement or exile—De Sanctis, foremost authority on Roman history; Salvemini, foremost historian of the Risorgimento; Venturi, foremost historian of art; De Viti de Marco, author of classic works on finance; and a long list of others. Croce meanwhile writes in parables or is silent, Ferrero has escaped to Switzerland, and Sforza expounds the philosophy of politics in every language but Italian.

The gaps thus left will not be filled by the uniformed professors of philosophy and history and science that I saw in Rome, wheeling up and down, gun on shoulder, outside the Mostra della Rivoluzione Fascista, executing the tours of duty necessary to prove their ability to teach the majesty of matter over mind. Nor is the blank that is Fascist art rendered less conspicuous by Fascist Italy's boycott of Toscanini, whose pure and soaring spirit bars him automatically from consideration among the fit inheritors of the tradition of Dante. (Footnote 5).

Sole Aim Is Power.

Ortega y Gasset has written in "The Revolt of the Masses" that the fascist and Syndicalist ideologies have introduced to modern Europe a type of man who does not want to give his reasons for his beliefs, or even to be right, but simply to have the power to impose his opinions.

"This is the new thing," says the Spanish philosopher, "the right to be unreasonable, the 'reason of unreason.'" Doubtless there are men who would like to teach the truth as they know it at Bonn and Heidelberg (whence Spinoza could not now receive the invitation sent him early in the period which we call "modern times" to come there and enjoy "the utmost freedom of philosophizing"), at Bologna and Padua (where Galileo's inquiring mind would find itself in trouble today fully as much as it did in the seventeenth century). But the reason of unreason has them in its vise. From none of them can those who are not in that vise learn anything except a mortal fear of being similarly caught.

Sport Meaningless.

How are we to compete in games with people to whom sport is meaningless except as a channel for propaganda, at home and abroad, and as preparation for war? One of the clearest avowals of the dictator's conception of sport as propaganda was contained in dispatches from Berlin dated Jan. 8, 1936, quoting as follows a prominent Nazi official, Dr. Kurt Muensch:

"The non-political, so-called neutral athlete is unthinkable."

Those who are "politically blind," he added, cannot be allowed to be victors, because "victors must be pioneers in political influence."

Which is to say that the word "sport" does not mean a game as we mean it, either amateur or professional, but a political weapon. It operates to attract and regiment the young by allowing only those who conform to make use of sporting facilities or to be "victors"; and it advertises successes in international contests as triumphs of the "new race," the "new state," the new "social concept," over old and effete races, states, systems.

The second business of sport is to condition young men physically and psychologically for service to the regime. Senator Maraviglia, member of the Fascist Grand Council, writes:

"Sport is not an end in itself . . . by popularizing and militarizing sports, Fascism accomplishes its greatest governmental work." (Footnote 6.)

The ultimate service demanded is obviously death on the field of battle. Dictators do not conceive of war as a dire possibility which may be forced upon them, but as an instrument of policy which may be useful at a given moment to the party-state. Because their ultimate reliance is on force they must always speak of war as enobling for those who participate, as something desirable in itself. (Footnote 7.)

Ignorance, Peace "Absurd."

And because the chief ally of those who plan offensive war is the ignorance and pride of their subject masses they must inculcate in the young such a disdain for knowledge and self-criticism that all individual doubts will be drowned out in the universal roar of approval when the loud speakers carry to every corner the leader's exhortation to attack.

Mussolini simply blurts out his inner conviction, then, when he says that peace is "absurd." He considers that peace is not absurd only when he perceives nothing which can be won by war, or by the threat of war and at the risk of war.

Hitler has admitted the same thing at least as often as he has said the contrary. The contradiction is only in terms. When he says that he does not intend to start a war he means that when the moment comes for rearmed Germany to take what she wants, the responsibility for any war which ensues will lie not with him but with whoever opposes.

Everlasting peace, he writes in "Mein Kampf," would doom mankind to destruction. He believes that when confronted with tremendous battles for self-preservation, "so-called humanitarianism, that product of a mixture of stupidity, cowardice and superciliousness, will melt away like snow in the March sunshine" (p. 148).

Hitler's Words on Peace.

He often interjects pleas for peace, but they are as terrifying as his threats, for it is to be a peace "established by the victorious sword of a master nation which leads the world to serve a higher culture" (p. 438). And again: "Indeed, the pacifist humane idea may be quite good after the most superior persons have conquered and subdued the world in such a measure as makes them its exclusive master . . . Therefore, first fight, and then, perhaps, pacifism" (p. 315).

And again: "Anyone who really from his heart desires the victory of the pacifist idea in this world should support by every means the conquest of the world by the Germans" (p. 315) (Footnote 8).

Germans, echoes Gen. Goering, are proud to be known as militarists; and as justification he cites the fact that Prussianism is no longer a geographical but an ethical conception.

Von Papen struggles to keep in Nazi good graces by proving that the Potsdam of today, far from having shed its traditional character, now goes Hohenzollern militarism one better; Germany, he says, has finally dropped the word pacifism from its dictionary; the new Germans must be "physically and morally warriors," dreaming of the opportunity that may be vouchsafed them to die in battle rather than ignominiously in their beds.

Youth Organizations.

The means for making these visions come true are the schools and the youth organizations—in Germany the "Jungvolk" and "Hitler Jugend"; in Italy the "Figli della Lupa," the "Balilla" and the "Avanguardisti." Soviet Russia has parallel organizations called the "Octobrists," the "Pioneers" and the "Konsomol."

The child is put on the right track as soon as he can salute and play at soldiering. (Footnote 9). The schools direct (10) and limit (11) his mind; and the youth organizations through which he successively passes harden his body in route marches, gunnery and bayonet practice, gas drills and field maneuvers. Then, ignorant of the world and feeling it his enemy, strong in determination and in body, he puts on the colored shirt of the Storm Troopers or Fascist Militia or the tunic of the Reichswehr or Red Army.

It is hard to think of any part of the program as "sport." The 12-year-old boys I saw one Sunday morning near the Wannsee, gathered in trenches, and solemnly throwing dummy hand grenades at each other, seemed very far away from baseball on the back lot, hockey on the village pond, even from that thin upper crust of spectacular American sport which is publicized and promoted for cash.

This republication of Mr. Armstrong's book will be completed in installments, the second of which will appear in tomorrow's Post-Dispatch, with subsequent portions following daily. The footnotes marked in text follow:

Footnote 1—Giustizia e Liberta (an Italian emigre organ published at 21 rue Val-de-Grace, Paris) occasionally procures and publishes the daily secret orders issued to the Fascist press by the Ministry of Propaganda. The list covering the period May 1, 1936, to July 7, 1936, appearing in the issue of July 17, 1936, indicates the scope of the Ministry's activity. The 86 orders issued in that period include injunctions against mention of the promulgation of a new constitution in Soviet Russia (better that the Italian people remain ignorant of a dictatorship's decision to provide a facade of representative government); against estimating how many soldier dead can be contained in the "Ossario" at Amba Alagi (that might reveal discrepancies between reported and actual casualties in the African campaign); against mention of unemployment in Italian Africa; against reporting discussions of the International Labor Office regarding conditions and hours of labor; against publishing articles or pictures tending to show the "fraternization" of Italians and Ethiopians or to exalt "racial hybridism" ("Assoluta e netta division fra la razza che domina e quella che e dominata"); against giving details of the successful strikes in France; etc., etc.

3—"Blut und Ehre," Munich, 1934, p. 187. The 1936 edition indicates that 70,000 copies of this work have been sold to date.

4—The Frankfurter Zeitung of June 30 and July 1, 1936, and the New York Times of the same dates, after reporting the speeches of Dr. Rust and Prof. Krieck, gave the names of six American citizens who accepted honorary degrees from Heidelberg at the same ceremonies where those speeches were pronounced: Reginald A. Daly, professor of geology at Harvard; William May Garland, realtor of Los Angeles, Cal.; Henry K. Janssen, manufacturer of Reading, Pa.; Kirsopp Lake, professor of Ecclesiastical history at Harvard; Dr. Harry Hamilton Laughlin, biologist and eugenist of the Carnegie Institution, and Ferdinand Thun, manufacturer of Reading, Pa. How different were the speeches made three months later at Harvard's Tercentenary, and what another glory in consequence belonged to the honorary degrees there conferred.

5—To Toscanini the weekly review Libro e Moschetto, which interests itself in the cultural education of university students, offers not homage but this: "I spit in his eye." (Cf. "Italian Intellectuals Under Fascism," Student League for Industrial Democracy, New York, p. 12.) The Italian press was of course silent about New York's demonstration of admiration for Toscanini when he made his farewell appearance with the Philharmonic-Symphony Society; but it printed columns about the various performances of a black-shirt band which made a propaganda tour of the United States.

6—Cf. John R. Tunis, "The Dictators Discover Sport," Foreign Affairs, July, 1936.

7—Generals sometimes have a different idea. Thus Marshal Badoglio on June 6, 1936, gave an interview in which he said that war is a horrible thing, to be deprecated as such (New York Times, June 7, 1936). The next day Mussolini failed to appear at Badoglio's triumphal review. On June 11 came the news that Badoglio had resigned as Viceroy of Ethiopia.

8—The first edition of "Mein Kampf" appeared in Munich in two volumes, published respectively in 1925 and 1927. The last page of the second volume contains the statement that it was written in November, 1926. The Duchess of Atholl has pointed out in her leaflet, "Germany's Foreign Policy," that this was more than two years after German reparations had been reduced under the Dawes Plan and more than a year after the Locarno Treaties had guaranteed Germany against aggression. All the quotations given in these pages are from the edition of 1936. They appeared in practically identical phraseology in the original edition. Incidentally, all except the third of the quotations printed above are omitted entirely from the version of "Mein Kampf" published in America as "My Battle."

9—Describing an exhibition of Italian toys held at Turin, the Gazetta del Popolo (June 25, 1936) writes that it "shows many new and original products, such as . . . machine guns mounted on tricycles, little armored cars instead of ordinary toy automobiles, and much other war material which is not expensive but gives much amusement." (Giustizia e Liberta, July 17, 1936.)

10—Even subjects like mathematics and chemistry are harnessed up. The German secondary schools now use textbooks with titles like "Mathematics and Defense Athletics," with problems in gunnery, topography, etc., and "School Experiments in the Chemistry of War Materials," dealing chiefly with poison gases. The London Observer (July 5, 1936) gives an example from one of the new school arithmetics: "Bombing aeroplanes, flying during the day, go at a speed of 280 kilometers an hour. Night bombing aeroplanes can only fly at 240 kilometers an hour. How many hours will each class of bombing aeroplanes need to cover the area between Breslau and Prague, Munich and Strassburg, Kiel and Metz?"

MISSOURI INSURANCE AGENTS OPEN MEETING TOMORROW

Thirty-Ninth Annual Convention to Continue Till Tuesday; Speeches and Broadcast.

The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Missouri Association of Insurance Agents will open tomorrow at Hotel Statler and will continue through Tuesday.

On the program tomorrow are speeches by Morrison L. Clevlen of Poplar Bluff, president of the association; Richard E. Vernor of the Western Actuary Bureau of Chicago, and Walter E. Bennett of New York, of the National Association of Insurance Agents. At the dinner tomorrow night the first of a series of radio programs will be broadcast from station KSD, telling the part insurance has played in relieving financial distress.

Reports of committees will occupy the morning sessions Tuesday and in the afternoon the delegates will compete in a golf tournament.

YOUTH DELEGATE TO SPEAK

Rector From Nanchang, China, at Christ Church Cathedral Oct. 30.

The Rev. Kimber H. K. Den, rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church in Nanchang, China, and a delegate to the recent World's Youth Peace Congress at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., will speak at a mass meeting at Christ Church Cathedral Sunday, Oct. 30, at 8 p. m. During the preceding week, he will speak at various parishes in the Missouri diocese.

While in St. Louis, the Rev. Mr. Den will be the guest of the Rev. H. A. Woolfall, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church. He is a member of the executive committee of the National Christian Federation in China and the founder of the Lepers' Colony in Nanchang.

International Institute.

Seventeen nationalities will be represented at the annual meeting Thursday evening at 7 o'clock of the International Institute, 514 Culver way. Representatives of the various countries will speak at a round table discussion on the general topic, "My America." Election of officers will also be held.

Selected Stock Groups Continue Advance, Notably Electric Power, Aviation, Building Supply Issues Sufficient Selling, However, Comes Into Market to Check Fast October Rise—Average Up 1.31 Points.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The stock market felt the force of profit selling this week, but thanks to a thumping one-day rally prices pulled ahead to the best in about a year and fair gains were retained.

Extension of the armistice between the Government and power companies into something like a peace parley helped the utility shares which led the list of those achieving higher ground. Electrical equipment issues benefitted from an expectation they would gain in orders and coppers, aided by excellent September statistics and two new successive boosts in the domestic price of the red metal, were sought in the trading. Residential construction reached a new high since the spring of 1931, and building material stocks were favored.

The Associated Press average of 60 issues which was up .3 of a point at 52.9 today, notwithstanding three small setbacks on Monday, Tuesday and Friday, was up .9 of a point on the week. The Utility composite made the best showing with a net advance of 2.5 points during the 5-day period. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks was up .30 for the day and 1.31 on the week. Transfers for the week (5 days) amounted to 8,981,190, against 9,674,470 last week, the final short session sales amounting to 1,468,810 shares.

Utilities, aircrafts and coppers ran away with the market today and, despite sluggishness of rails and other recent leaders, enabled the list to finish the week on a rallying note.

Best Saturday Since July.

Gains ran to 3 points or so in the speediest Saturday session since July 2. Numerous favorites hit new highs for the past year in the upswing and the ticker tape was 2 minutes behind when buying was briskest.

Buoying recovery sentiment after yesterday's slight drop were optimistic estimates of industrial activity in connection with anticipated national defense program which would involve airplane makers, copper producers and power companies.

Profit-taking bit into many pivotal stocks in the tail-end of the proceedings, and steels, motors, rubbers, mail orders, farm implements and oils ended with minor changes either way.

A heavy turnover in low-priced stocks accounted for much of the volume.

The day's commodity trends were mixed. Wheat at Chicago was unchanged to up ⅜ of a cent a bushel. Corn was ⅛ up to as much down and cotton lost 5 to 20 cents a bale. Foreign currencies shifted only a shade in either direction.

Day's 15 Most Active Stocks.

Sales, closing price and net change of the 15 most active stocks: United Corporation, 59,200, 4, up ½; Commonwealth & Sou., 54,900, 1⅞, up ⅛; Columbia Gas and El., 48,300, 9¼, up ⅝; Eng. Pub. Svc., 36,400, 8, up 1⅛; Am. Pow. and Lt., 35,400, 7, up ¾; North Amer. Co., 28,700, 25½, up ⅞; Curtiss-Wright, 28,400, 6, up ⅜; North Am. Avia., 27,200, 11¼, up 1¼; Consol. Edis., 25,600, 32⅞, up 1⅛; Elec. Pow. and Lt., 24,600, 13½, up ⅞; United Airc., 24,400, 32⅝, up 1⅞; Stone & Web., 21,700, 13½, up 1¼; United Gas Imp., 21,700, 11¾, up ½; Nat. Pow. and Lt., 20,900, 9, up ¾; Am. Wat. Wks., 20,600, 13⅞, up 1.

For most of the week, traders who had confidently awaited a "corrective reaction" to the price upswing, under way now for the last four weeks, were cautious about entering on the buying side, but on Thursday, when it had not appeared, they bought a bit in a broad advance.

Big Utility Move.

In a week of generally favorable business news, brokers hailed as the most important item the announcement by Electric Bond and Share Co., one of the largest of the utility holding companies, that it was formulating a plan for integration of its subsidiaries in line with the request of the SEC that such plans should be submitted by Dec. 1.

The move was characterized at the White House as an example of real co-operation between business and Government and in utility circles it was described as a step toward working out the power problem with politics eliminated as much as possible and the needs of the country put to the fore.

Some in Wall street, however, said they preferred to wait until after the November elections before judging the extent of the rapprochement between the administration and business.

The week's industrial items included a contra-seasonal increase in railroad freight carloadings, a gain in electric power output, a boost in the rate of steel mill operations and a 34 per cent jump in the number of new cars turned out by automobile producers. Prices of some basic commodities steadied or improved, although there was further weakness in crude oil, and competitive bidding for automotive business sent the price of sheet steel down $4 a ton. Output of textile mills declined, but observers said new orders were being booked at about twice the present rate of operations.

Summary of Trade.

The Associated Press index of industrial activity advanced to 79.7 per cent of the 1929-30 average from 79.0 per cent. A year ago it stood at 96.0. Retail trade was more or less static, with the active Columbus day holiday helping out. Wholesale orders, however increased as forward buying was resumed, Dun & Bradstreet reported.

Volume was comparatively heavy in the stock market, and while except for one day buyers were not in the ascendant, offerings were absorbed easily enough and never appeared in sufficient quantity to cause alarm. Foreign activity was on the purchasing side on balance, they said, and investors came into the market on the recessions.

Utility bonds paced the loan market, forging ahead generally to new 1938 highs. Otherwise little progress was made, although most divisions held fairly steady in the averages. New financing was virtually at a standstill, but comparatively heavy offerings were foreseen for next week.

STERLING EXCHANGE IN RENEWED RETREAT

Huge Excess of Merchandise Exports in Last Year Cited as Factor in Gold Flow Here.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The British pound led a renewed retreat in European currencies during the week. Capital, it appeared, still was moving toward the dollar, partly because the United States in the last year has piled up a huge excess of merchandise exports, necessitating use of liquid foreign funds in this country and gold shipments to balance the international scales.

Also overhanging the markets, exchange men said, was the longer-term threat of war, although immediate prospects of large-scale conflict were removed by the settlement of the Sudeten German problem in Czechoslovakia. Reminding money centers of world-wide preparations for war were French and American plans for increasing Government expenditures on war machinery.

The hangover of the recent panicky flight of capital from Europe, at the height of the September war fears, appeared in huge arrivals of gold from England. Upwards of $125,000,000 of the yellow metal reached New York on trans-Atlantic liners between last Saturday and Wednesday. Most of this metal was consigned to the American stabilization fund and did not appear in the official reserve figures.

The New York Reserve Bank's figures, however, showed for the week ended yesterday further engagement of $30,872,000 in gold for shipment here, mostly in London.

With foreign exchange operations reduced to a week-end trickle, changes of major European monies in terms of the dollar were narrow today.

Sterling maintained its balance after Friday's minor rally and ended unchanged. The French franc, however, dipped .00¼ of a cent, the belga lost .01¾ of a cent and the guilder ended .0¼ of a cent lower. Swiss francs were unchanged.

Gold totalling $6,000,000 was engaged in England and $800,000 in India for shipment here, the Federal Reserve Bank reported.

UTILITIES FEATURE TRADE ON THE CURB EXCHANGE

Volume of General Business on Curb Largest Since Sept., 1937.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Demand for utilities also highlighted the curb market. Ending fractions to two or more higher were Electric Bond & Share, American Gas & Electric, Niagara Hudson Power & Cities Service. Electric Bond & Share preferred ran up 4. Volume of 385,000 shares was the best for any Saturday since Sept., 1937, and compared with 138,000 a week ago.

UTILITY STOCKS RISE IN TRADING AT CHICAGO

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—A rise in utilities featured an active stock market today in which most issues advanced fractions to more than a point.

Sales in the short two-hour session totaled 43,000 shares, compared with 49,000 shares in yesterday's five-hour market. Of 91 issues traded 50 closed higher than yesterday's finish, 17 lower and 24 unchanged.

BIG COPPER TRADE AS PRICES MOVE UPWARD

Three Price Advances to New High Ground for Movement, Mark Week.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Three advances to new high ground for the movement and large sales of copper, both for domestic and export account, featured metal markets last week. Zinc and tin also advanced. Steel sheet prices, however, declined $4 a ton and concessions of $3 to $5 a ton were made in some districts on steel bars.

Copper was advanced to 11¼ cents a pound for electrolytic at the Connecticut Valley base, a gain of ⅝ of a cent from last week. Export prices added to recent gains, reaching as high as 11.70 cents a pound compared with 10.80 cents last week. Foreign cartel members increased production 10 per cent following heavy American and continental demand.

Domestic copper sales were thought to be around the 60,000-ton mark so far this month and the highest since July. Some quarters believed domestic consumers pretty well covered on forward requirements to the first quarter.

Lead was still 5.10@5.15 cents New York and 4.95 cents a pound East St. Louis despite the belief prices would rise in sympathy with other metals and good demand. The London price was higher.

Zinc advanced 10 points to 5.05 cents East St. Louis. Demand was better from the brass trade in line with the upturn in copper prices but galvanized takings were still only moderate.

Tin gained ⅝ of a cent a pound to 45½ cents, a new high for the year, but demand was slow as tin plate operations was none too good. Some reselling was reported on the upturn.

Antimony remained unchanged at 14 cents for the Chinese grade, but it was reported concessions were made to get desirable business.

Steel operations rose 3½ points to a new high for the year at around 52 per cent as auto making passed the 50,000-car point.

COTTON MARKET LITTLE LOWER IN QUIET WEEK-END TRADE

NEW YORK, Oct. 15. — Cotton eased moderately today on lower Liverpool cables and under liquidation and increased hedging operations, especially in the distant positions. Trade calling and covering resulted in a partial rally from the lowest. December reacted from 8.[illegible] to 8.21 and closed at 8.25, with final prices one to four points net lower.

Trading was quiet. Trade buying in the near positions absorbed considerable liquidation through commission houses while increased hedging operations in the far months, including October, 1939, was absorbed by foreign buying and on exchanges from the near positions. Spot demand was comparatively quiet but mills were willing to fix prices against recent sales of textiles.

The Commodity Credit Corporation reported 455,175 bales entered the loan during the week, bringing the total to 939,593 pledged so far. Amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was estimated at 69,000 against 186,000 last year and 139,000 two years ago.

Some Commodities Soar, Others Sag With Equal Abruptness

Non-Ferrous Metals at Year's Top — Sheet Steel, Petroleum, Hogs and Lard Down.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—The commodity price picture was muddied this week by sharp cross-currents, some staples soaring, while others sagged with equal abruptness.

The widest divergence occurred among industrial commodities. Non-ferrous metals, for instance, jumped as a buying wave swept the market to the highest level for the year. Spot copper advanced from 10⅝ cents a pound in quick strides to 11¼ cents. Tin and zinc also gained on increased demand.

Some fabricated industrial items, on the other hand, were sharply reduced. Crude oil and gasoline prices declined for the first time in more than two years. Steel sheet quotations were reduced for the second time in about three months, making roughly a 20 per cent cut in all.

Hogs Lowest in Four Years.

Another heavy spot in the commodity list was livestock. Hogs slumped to the lowest levels in four years, as a swelling stream of animals found their way to the market place. Lamb was also down, although cattle managed to eke out a small gain.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 important wholesale staples was sharply lower at 66.50 per cent of the 1926 average, compared with 67.12 last week and 83.00 a year ago.

The steepness of the setback resulted largely from weakness in several heavily weighted items—petroleum, hogs and lard. The slash in crude oil alone was 18 per cent, virtually overnight.

Grains were mixed: Wheat and oats chalking up slender advances; corn and rye dipping moderately. Cotton, however, continued to push ahead, although hovering close to the loan level set by the Government.

The textile price trend was also inconclusive, cotton cloth moving up and silk slipping.

Industrial raw materials continued the upswing that started in June, bolstered by fast-rising industrial activity. Hides moved up half a cent a pound to 13½ cents, in the wake of trade reports shoe production was running well ahead of the same period last year.

Steel scrap followed the lead of non-ferrous metals, rather than other steel items, rising fractionally in Chicago.

Market-basket staples held unchanged on balance, although declines outnumbered gains. Eggs and flour improved; sugar, cocoa and lard receding.

INDUSTRIAL INDEX UP 21 PCT. FROM MAY LOW

Orders Released After Settlement of European Conflict —New High for Year.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Drawing new energy from orders released after the Munich settlement of European political conflict, industrial activity moved ahead into new high ground for the year this week.

The Associated Press seasonally adjusted index, based on latest available data and with 1929-30 as 100, rose to 79.7 from 79.0 and compared with 96.3 last year.

Steel mill activity, residential building and railroad freight loadings continued to set new peaks for the year or longer. Home construction topped the comparable period in 1937 by more than one-third, the only measure to better last year's figures.

The phenomenal upward sweep of industrial operations has lifted the index 21 per cent from the recession low point established in May.

Although automobile assembly lines were speeded up last week, the rate of gain has been relatively moderate. This index has shown the smallest recovery from its recession low. Electric power output also turned up slightly as hurricane-damaged lines were repaired.

Cotton manufacturing, however, countered the general trend. The set-back in this important consumer goods line was considered the result of price uncertainties and the continued presence of relatively heavy inventories.

	Latest Week.	Prev. Week.	Year Ago.

UTILITY BONDS TAKE MARKET LEADERSHIP

Secondary Rails Swing Up and Down—Bulk of Industrials Steady.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Utility issues took over leadership of the corporate bond market last week, and many power loans touched new highs for the year.

Secondary rails swung up and down unevenly, but some carrier issues ended with substantial gains. The bulk of industrials held about steady. Foreign dollar bonds as a whole were a shade higher. United States Goevrnments marked up new advance.

With Columbus day interrupting dealings, there were no large corporate bond offerings. The coming week, however, may witness offerings by two utility companies of issues aggregating $135,000,000.

Slated for public offering, bond circles say, are $80,000,000 of Public Service of Northern Illinois 3½s and $55,000,000 of Ohio Power Co. 3¼s.

Anticipated offerings next week in the state and municipal field include $1,000,000 Buffalo Sewer Authority, $1,800,000 Davenport, Ia.; $5,000,000 State of Louisiana and $1,650,000 Rockford (Ill.) issues.

A little further in the distance in the corporate field are expected offerings of $50,000,000 Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. debentures and $55,000,000 Wisconsin Electric Power bonds.

Attracting attention during the week was revelation in a Securities and Exchange Commission report that three insurance companies on Sept. 1 privately purchased $40,000,000 of 15-year 3 per cent sinking fund debentures of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation from the issuing company. This private offering was but one of many similar financing deals completed during the past few months without recourse to underwriters.

The bond market was somewhat timid about establishing a trend today, although a selected group of low-priced rails and utilities forged ahead fractions to a point or more, some to new highs for the year.

U. S. Governments were in demand, especially some of the longer term Treasury issues. The 2⅞s of 1955-60, for instance, ran up 3-32 of a point to 104.20 on transfer of $376,000 par value. The 2¾s of 1956-59 also were active and higher.

Corporate loans making the best showing included Missouri Pacific 5s at 19½, Nickel Plate 4½s at 43¾, Utilities Power and Light 5s at 53½, International Hydro-eletcric 6s at 78⅛, Great Northern 4s at 94½ and Southern Pacific 4½s at 53. An unusually heavy turnover of $234,000, par value, of Bethlehem Steel 3¾s carried the loan to a new high at 100¼, up ¾ of a point.

Backtracking for moderate amounts were New York Central 5s, Penn Dixie Cement 6s, Western Union 5s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Alleghany 5s and Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s.

Foreign dollar issues were mostly higher. Poland 6s got up ⅛ to 66 and Milan 6½s rose a similar amount to 63⅝. Canadian 4s were a trifle lower.

The Associated Press average of 10 utility bonds rose .2 of a point to 95.0, a new 1938 high.

Transfers totaled $4,684,500 face value, compared with $4,839,500 last Saturday.

NEW YORK RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Consumption of crude rubber by manufacturers in the United States in September was estimated today by the Rubber Manufacturers' Association at 37,823 long tons, compared with 38,170 in August and 43,945 in September, 1937. Domestic stocks of crude rubber at the end of the month were placed at 276,586 long tons against 277,463 at the close of August and 186,193 a year ago. Gross imports were 37,374 long tons, against 31,099 in August and 56,049 in September, 1937.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Crude rubber futures opened 1 to 6 higher. December, 17.07-11; March, 17.10-15; May, 17.16.

MIXED CHANGES ON A LIGHTER STOCK TRADE

Volume of Business Largely Under That of the Preceding Week.

Gains and losses were about equal in number at the close of the week's trading on the St. Louis Stock Exchange. The volume of business was under that of the preceding week, owing to the shortened week due to Columbus day holiday. Changes in the more active group were mainly fractional, but extended to a full point:

Wagner Electric, Sterling, Aluminum and Stix, Baer & Fuller rose fractionally while Midwest P. & S. was up a point.

Burkhart lost 1½ points and American Investment a fraction.

Banker Joins New Business Concern

William P. Gruner, a vice-president of the Mutual Bank & Trust Co., has resigned that office to become executive vice-president of the Midwest Coolers, Inc., which has been organized to take over certain basic patents dealing with refrigeration, and which have been issued to George M. Kleucker. Gruner will remain a director of the bank. The officers of the new company are as follows: A. H. Timmerman, chairman of the board; George M. Kleucker, president; William P. Gruner, executive vice-president; Ralph McCarthy, vice-president; Frederick Covait, vice-president; Brownlee Fisher, secretary.

Odd Lot Stock Trade.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15. — The Securities Commission reported today these transactions by customers with odd lot dealers or specialists on the New York Stock Exchange for Oct. 14: 3410 purchases involving 242,362 shares; 9888 sales involving 258,998 shares.

WEEK'S SALES ON ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE

ST. LOUIS STOCK EXCHANGE, Oct. 15.—Sales of stocks on the local board during the week (5 days) were 5548 shares, compared with 7947 the preceding week. Bon sales were $11,000, compared with $34,000.

HALF-CENT RANGE TO WHEAT PRICE THROUGHOUT DAY

One of Narrowest Markets on Record — Dealings Largely Spreading, Evening Up and Other Commercial Operations.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—With grain market activity listless, prices clung to an unusually narrow range today.

Wheat closed unchanged to ⅜c higher after fluctuating throughout the short session within a range of ½ cent. It was one of the narrowest markets on record and dealings were confined largely to spreading, evening up accounts and other commercial operations.

Continued unfavorable crop conditions in Australia, dryness in the domestic Southwest and strength in securities failed to arouse any unusual buying but did restrict selling. A fractional upturn of ⅜@½c at Liverpool based largely on the Australian situation prompted some buying in North American markets but little enthusiasm was in evidence here in view of lagging export demand and hand-to-mouth trading in the pit.

The unchanged to ⅜c higher close put Dec. wheat at 65⅜@½c and May at 66½@⅝c. Corn was ⅛c up to ⅛c off, Dec. 44½@⅝c, May 47⅞@48c; oats unchanged to ¼c lower; rye ⅛c higher and lard 5 to 7 cents down. Soybeans declined 1¾@2¾c to new lows for the season, responsive to increasing supplies.

The wheat market's lethargy since evaporation of the European war scare was blamed on absence of public participation and general trade timidity, with most dealers content to operate only on a trading basis. The watching and waiting policy is encouraged by uncertainty as to the extent or effectiveness of the Government's efforts to raise farm commodity prices although most dealers do not regard the farm program as an encouragement to sell.

Export sales of corn were estimated at more than 150,000 bushels but this aroused little interest in the corn market. While corn is continuing to move from this country, new business has lagged and attention has been diverted to the supply situation during harvest period. Country offerings this week were curtailed sharply and many traders believe a large portion of the 1938 harvest may go under seal.

Oats and rye trading was quiet. The world's rye crp, outside of Russia, is one of the largest in recent years and demand is only moderate.

Lard was unsettled by tender of five lots by local warehousemen on October contracts. All deliveries sold at new lows for the season in line with four-year low hog prices.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Oct. 15.—Price changes were small in world wheat markets.

Liverpool wheat closed ¼@⅜d higher after opening ⅜@⅝d up.

Winnipeg wheat opened ⅛@¼c up and soon was ¼@⅜c net higher. The close was ¼@⅞c higher.

Argentine wheat and corn opened unchanged. Wheat closed ⅝@¾c lower and corn ⅛@¼c higher.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to ½c lower. Supply was fair and cleared pretty well. Order buyers were fairly active and local mills were in the market, too. Corn was ¼@½c lower. Demand was good and offerings cleared quickly. Elevators and industries were the chief purchasers with an occasional deal made by a mill. Premiums were unchanged to ½c under Friday's levels, with No. 1 yellow 1@1½c over, No. 2 old 1½c over, new ½c over, No. 3 new at the December and No. 1 white 1½c over the December figure. Oats were unchanged. Inquiry was good but with buyers and sellers apart in price views a few cars were carried over. Elevator and outside order buyers showed interest.

HOG PRICES LOWEST SINCE END OF 1934

NATIONAL STOCK YARDS, ILL., Oct. 15.—(U. S. D. A.)—Receipts Saturday: Hogs: 3000; cattle, 1000; calves, 1500; sheep, none.

Swine prices were under pressure all week and closed at the lowest point since December, 1934. Losses for the week figured 75 to 85c on 180-lb up and 60 to 70c on light lights and pigs, packing sows sharing the butcher hog loss. Saturday prices registered the low for the period. Supplies this week totaled around 53,500 head compared with 45,232 last week and 41,346 similar week last year. Top prices this week ranged from $8.20 down to $7.55, latter top paid Saturday. Week-end supplies were decidedly limited as to numbers and a spread of $7.40 to $7.55 took all good and choice 120 to 260-lb averages with heavier weight and lighter weight material almost too scarce to quote all week. Good 275 to 375-lb packing sows finished at $6.65 to $7, heavier weights, $6.25 to $6.75.

CATTLE—1000; calves, 1500; 2400 cattle and calves through. Compared with close last week, native steers steady to 25c lower; Western grass steers, steady to 15c off; butcher yearlings mostly steady; cowstuff and bulls strong; vealers steady; most stock cattle steady; stock calves 25c or more lower. Tops for week: 1297-lb. steers, $12.25; 1054-lb. yearlings, $11.25; 911-lb. Oklahoma grass steers, $7.15; mixed yearlings, $9.50; heifers, $9.25; beef cows, $7; sausage bulls, $6.10; vealers, $11; stock steers, $7.25. Bulks for week: Native steers, $7.25@11.25; Western grassers, $5.90@6.35; heifers and mixed yearlings, $6@9; beef cows, $4.75@5.50; cutter grades, $3.75@4.50; stocker and feeder steers, $6.25@7.15; closing top on sausage bulls, $6.10, and on vealers, $11.

SHEEP—No receipts. Compared with week ago, lambs steady to 25c higher; sheep steady; bulk lambs for week, $6.25@8; top to small killers, $8.25; throwouts, $4@5.50; medium Texas lambs, $7; clipped Texas, $6.65; slaughter ewes, $2.75@3.25; few $3.50.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Oct. 15.—Horse buyers on the market the past week represented a wide territory, being here from such states as Mississippi, Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee, Kentucky, Indiana, Missouri and Illinois. Nevertheless, the market was very quiet, most of the operators apparently expecting to find prices even cheaper than they were. Colt mules were a little more active and good cotton mules cleared to fair advantage. Combined receipts were very light, commission arrivals totaling less than 200 head.

*NATIVE HORSE QUOTATIONS.

Good to choice draft, $115@140; medium to good draft, $90@115; good to choice chunks, $90@110; smooth mouthed chunks, $65@90; large farm mares, $110@135; medium farm mares, $90@110; fillies, yearlings and twos; small, common, $30@50; good size, $60@85; extra size and quality, $110@130. (Horse colts sell $10@15 per head less than fillies); good Southern mares, $75@100; small Southern mares, $40@60; small cheap horses, $30@50.

*MULE QUOTATIONS.

Farm mules, 15.2 to 16 hands, $110@140; colt mules, mares, with size and quality, $125@150; colt mules, small, $60@85; draft mules, $150@175; mine mules, 14.1 to 15.2 hands, $120@160; choice cotton mules, 14.3 to 15.2 hands, $160@200; small green mules, over 3 years old, $50@85.

*Quotations are for average animals and do not cover those of outstanding quality or the very cheapest grade.

MOTORIZED CAVALRY TO PASS THROUGH CITY IN AFTERNOON

Brigade's Schedule Changed to Give St. Louisans Better Chance to See It Go By.

The mechanized Seventh Cavalry Brigade will pass through St. Louis during the daytime next month on its return trip from Fort Riley, Kan., to Fort Knox, Ky., under a schedule revised at the request of the War Department.

Lieutenant - Colonel Geoffrey Keyes, brigade executive officer, told the Post-Dispatch by telephone last night that present plans called for the brigade's passage through St. Louis between 1 and 3 p. m., Wednesday, Nov. 2. He said the War Department had forwarded to the brigade a telegram from Congressman Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis, asking for the midday movement to give St. Louisans a better opportunity to see the organization.

When the brigade, with its 20-mile motor column, passed through St. Louis, Oct. 6, on its way to Fort Riley, many St. Louisans missed the spectacle because of the early hour of the movement.

NEW STATE OFFICE BUILDING CORNERSTONE LAYING IS HELD

Gov. Stark Does Not Attend, but Address Prepared by Him Is Read.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 15.—The State's new office building was dedicated and the cornerstone laid here today as a "symbol of services which governments render to the people." Gov. Lloyd C. Stark did not attend. His third daughter was born last night at St. Louis. The seven-story structure will cost $850,000.

In a prepared address read by State Senator Phil M. Donnelly, who presided at the services, Gov. Stark said the new building, which will house 16 departments on its 96,000 square feet of floor space, "has relieved an acute shortage of office space," and, "while no one can presume to foresee the future, we believe the building will be adequate for the departments it will house for many years to come."

Although the building is not scheduled for completion until Jan. 1, a few departments, including the highway patrol, will move in before that date.

BAR TO JEWISH IMMIGRATION TO PALESTINE OPPOSED HERE

St. Louis Congressmen Notify Hull Their Constituents Are Against Such Action by Britain.

The three St. Louis congressmen, John J. Cochran, Thomas C. Hennings and C. Arthur Anderson, have sent messages to Secretary of State Cordell Hull informing him that their constituents strongly oppose any intent by Great Britain to stop Jewish immigration to Palestine.

The Jewish Federation of St. Louis sent a telegram yesterday to President Roosevelt on the reports of possible British abrogation of the Balfour Declaration. It read in part: "We are deeply concerned over press rumors that Great Britain is planning either to stop or considerably reduce Jewish immigration into Palestine. We earnestly hope that you will use your influence to prevent this action."

PETITION TO VOID GIFT TAX LEVY ON PAUL BROWN ESTATE

Accuracy of $43,901 Assessment Questioned in Plea to Appeals Board.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—A petition seeking to set aside a $43,901 gift tax assessment by the Internal Revenue Bureau against the estate of Paul Brown was filed today before the Board of Tax Appeals by the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. of St. Louis.

In 1924 Brown made gifts to his children of stock in the Paul Brown Investment Co. The bank, executor of Brown's estate, questions the accuracy of the tax assessment on the gift and seeks to have it set aside. In any event, the petition states, the statute of limitations bars the assessment now.

Brown, broker, tobacco manufacturer and downtown realty owner, died Nov. 17, 1927, leaving an estate of $13,000,000.

SUIT OVER 'SNOW WHITE' SONG

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Music Publisher Thornton W. Allen filed in United States District Court today a copyright infringement action charging that the song, "Some Day I'll Find My Love," in the movie "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," was a "deliberate piracy" of a college march titled "Old Eli," written by Wadsworth Doster, Yale '09, to which Allen's firm holds the rights.

Allen named Irving Berlin, Inc., publishers of Snow Whites' song, credited to Larry Morey and Frank Churchill; Walt Disney Productions, Ltd.; RKO Pictures, Inc., and Walt Disney Enterprises in his application for a temporary injunction to restrain use of the song pending a ruling on a permanent injunction and an accounting of unspecified damages.

AGREEMENT ON HEDGES TAX

Estate Not Liable for 1929 Levy on Lumber Company.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—The Internal Revenues Commissioner acknowledged by formal agreement today that Robert Lee Hedges Jr, of St. Louis was not liable, as trustee of the estate of his father, for $13,154 in 1929 income taxes assessed against the National Lumber & Tie Co. The commissioner previously had sought to collect the tax from the estate of the elder Hedges as transferee of assets of the lumber company.

Robert Lee Hedges Sr., banker and former owner of the St. Louis Browns baseball club, died in 1932 leaving an estate of $368,000.

MRS. ROOSEVELT TALKS ON WAYS TO PEACE

Advocates Crusade Against Illiteracy as One Means in St. Joseph Speech.

By the Associated Press.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 15.—A crusade against illiteracy as a means of bringing about world peace was discussed by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in a lecture here tonight before an audience of 3500. It was the first of 10 lectures that Mrs. Roosevelt will deliver on her present trip through the Middle West.

Mrs. Roosevelt discussed the need of setting up some type of machinery in which the disputes of the nations could be satisfactorily adjusted without the necessity of resorting to force. She also dwelt on the need for peoples to come in closer contact with each other in order to bring about a better understanding that might bring about disarmament.

For 35 minutes after Mrs. Roosevelt completed her address she answered questions from her audience. Most of the queries were relative to the recent crisis in Europe.

She pointed to the fact that in any approaching war the women and children of the aggressor nations would be targets more than the armies of those nations would be. The winner of such a war would be the nation whose people could stand being bombed for the longest period, she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt said that one of the first steps toward disarmament should be the signing of agreements to limit the use of aircraft as weapons in time of war.

Mrs. Roosevelt said the most encouraging thing she learned from the war scare in Europe was that nations could come so close to a war and still not have a war.

If there is to be peace, democracies must fight for it and the people of the democracies must feel that their governments are something to crusade for and if necessary to die for, she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt will speak at Joplin tomorrow night, and at Charleston, Ill., Monday night.

DUDE RANCH PROMOTER AND HIS WIFE INDICTED

They Are Charged With Embezzlement of $5000 of School Warrants of Lombard, Ill.

By the Associated Press.

WHEATON, Ill., Oct. 15.—A. D. Young and his wife, arrested in August, were indicted yesterday on a joint charge of embezzlement and larceny by bailee. Previously Young had been indicted also on charges of forgery and being a habitual criminal.

Aug. 13 a warrant for them was issued on complaint of Richard Locke, attorney for the Lombard, Ill., school board. It charged they had taken $5000 of Lombard Village school tax anticipation warrants. Mrs. Young served as secretary of the school board for 10 years.

The pair surrendered to State's Attorney Russell W. Keeney Aug. 26. They said they were married early in June. Three months earlier, Mrs. Young divorced her first husband and father of her three children.

Authorities said Young first appeared in Lombard last March and made public plans to build a dude ranch at New Lebanon, Ill. The ranch failed to materialize after several persons bought sections of the proposed site, authorities said.

Bonds were set at $12,500 each.

AMERICAN LUTHERANS ADOPT PENSION PLAN FOR PASTORS

Professors and Others Affiliated With Church Units May Benefit.

By the Associated Press.

SANDUSKY, O., Oct. 15.—The American Lutheran Church conference today unanimously adopted a pension plan, based on a 65-year age for pastors, professors and others affiliated with church units.

Two thousand pastors and others will be affected by the plan, which is a contributory reserve with participants placing 4 per cent of their salary and congregations or other organizations placing a like amount in the fund.

For pastors in active service, the plan goes into effect Jan. 1, 1939, and for all others, Jan. 1, 1940.

The plan is not compulsory.

P. J. THOMSON DIES IN SOUTH

Brother of Publisher of New Orleans Item, Succumbs at 54.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 15.—Paul Jones Thomson, 54 years old, vice-president of the Item Co., which publishes the New Orleans Item and the Morning Tribune, died today a few hours after he was taken ill at work.

He was born at Summit Point, W. Va., and came here in 1908 to join his brother, Col. James McL. Thomson, publisher of the Item and husband of the former Genevieve Clark, daughter of the late Champ Clark of Missouri.

SEES MAN WALK INTO RIVER

Railroad Employe Says He Sank Near Gratiot Street.

Carl Sizemore, a switch tender for the Missouri Pacific Railroad, reported to police last night that he saw a man walk into the Mississippi near Gratiot street, about 11:20 o'clock.

Sizemore said the man rose to the surface once and then sank. He described him as being about 50 years old, six feet tall, slender in build and wearing a dark suit.

PERMIT VALUES IN CITIES ABOVE THOSE OF YEAR AGO

Construction in Urban Centers Last Month Aggregated $101,803,716, a Gain of 17.3 Per Cent Over Same 1937 Period.

Volume of building permits issued during September was fully equal to that of August, although the normal seasonal movement for the period is a decline of about 10 per cent. The aggregate exceeded the comparative 1937 figure for the third successive month.

Total valuation of permits for September for 215 cities of the United States, according to Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., was $101,803,716, which was slightly above the $101,024,415 for August, and a gain of 17.3 per cent over the $86,769,028 for September a year ago.

New York permits in September totaled $24,045,467, against $27,586,446 for the preceding month, giving a drop of 12.8 per cent. Compared with the $14,488,718 for the same 1937 month, however, there was an increase of 66 per cent.

For the 214 cities outside of New York the amount was $77,758,249 last month, compared with $73,437,969 during August and $72,280,310 for September, 1937. This represented increases of 5.9 and 7.6 per cent, respectively.

A. C. HOEHN, NOMINEE, FOR EXCHANGE HEAD

Now First Vice President of St. Louis Realty Board—Nominations Made for Directory.

Arthur C. Hoehn, vice-president of the Henry R. Weisels, Inc., has been nominated for the presidency of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange for the 1939 term. He is now first vice-president of the Exchange and has been a member of its board of directors since 1932.

Joseph A. Goeke, president of the Holly Hills Realty Co., has been nominated for the directory. Chester A. Doerflinger, president of the Doerflinger Realty Co.; Oliver F. Hannauer, secretary of the Hannauer Real Estate Co.; J. Melvin Levi, president of J. M. Levi & Co.; Arthur A. Schneider, president of the Frank J. Frick Real Estate Co., have been nominated to succeed themselves as directors.

The election will take place at the annual meeting of the organization, Tuesday, Nov. 15, in the quarters of the Exchange in the Wainwright Building, Seventh and Chestnut streets. The president is elected for one year and the directors for two years.

Established 62 years ago, the Exchange now has 291 active members. It is a charter member of the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

RICHMOND HEIGHTS FLAT BOUGHT BY GEORGE P. PECK

A newly built four-family flat at 1014 Moorlands drive, Richmond Heights, has been purchased by George P. Peck. It was constructed by Henry A. Barnett, builder, who was the seller.

The flats consist of living room, dinette, kitchen and bedroom. There is a four-car garage in the rear of the premises. The lot is 50 by 172 feet. Annual rentals approximate $2100.

RIDGEWOOD ROAD HOME IS EXCITING ATTENTION

The new residence of Dr. Alfred M. Langenback, nearing completion on Ridgeway road, at McKnight road, is exciting noteworthy attention.

The house is of modern design with concrete finish over concrete blocks. Frame work is of steel construction with fireproof slabs on the first and second floors.

The first floor consists of dining room, kitchen, maid's room and bath. There are two bedrooms, two baths and powder room on the second floor. The floors are of terrazzo, including those of the stairs.

The site was recently acquired through Mary Potter Love, Inc.

MR. AND MRS. E. K. LOVE JR. BUY HOUSE IN BERKELEY LANE

Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Love Jr. have purchased a newly built residence at 8 Berkeley Lane, on the north side of Ladue road, west of Price road, Ladue, St. Louis County.

The house consists of eight rooms and three baths and is replete with attractive features. It was erected by the Berkeley Construction Co. Semi-colonial in design, the house is one of the most distinctive in this development.

Love is secretary of the Edward K. Love Realty Co., which is financing construction in Berkeley Lane.

AUGUST CONSTRUCTION LOANS, $22,575,000

B & L Associations Make Largest Disbursements to Home Owners in August.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—With indications of increasing construction activity confirmed by various surveys, the United States Building and Loan League reported today steadily improving family demand for savings, building and loans funds.

E. C. Baltz, president of the league, said the "nation again is in a position where it can hope for better times to be helped by increasing home construction."

Among the surveys completed the magazine "Building" reported construction activity increased during September for the sixth consecutive month, while data for October and November indicate a continuation of the rate of activity. Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., reported permits issued in September were fully equal to those of August, although the normal seasonal trend is downward about 10 per cent. The total permits in 215 cities exceeded that of September, 1937, by 17 per cent.

Building and loan associations disbursed more money to home owners in August than in any other month this year and a larger percentage of it went for the construction of new homes. In every month since April associations have been increasing the proportion of loan disbursements going directly for construction, and in August they issued $1 out of every $3.30 for this purpose. Construction loans in August totaled $22,575,000, an increase of 18.2 per cent over July and 7 per cent over August last year. This was the first month of 1938 in which construction loans have surpassed in volume those for the like month of 1937.

"Since 62.1 per cent of the loan volume in August went directly for the acquisition of homes, either through building or purchase, confidence must have improved from its recession levels," Baltz said, "because faith in the permanence of jobs and security is essential to any sustained activity in home building or buying."

20-ACRE TRACT OVERLOOKING MISSOURI RIVER ACQUIRED

A 20-acre tract on Charbonnier bluffs, overlooking the Missouri River, has been purchased by A. Thomas. It was owned by the heirs of August Tesson. The Edward K. Love Realty Co. handled the transaction.

The Edward K. Love Co. also announces the sale of 150 acres near the new super highway in St. Louis County. The identity of the purchaser is withheld pending transfer of the title. This company also reports the sale of two lots in Huntleigh Downs, a development on the south side of Clayton road, just west of Denny road in which it is financing a building program.

EVERY PIECE OF LUMBER TESTED
THERE is no short cut to quality in lumber. Each piece must be tested for moisture content and examined for quality. Unless this is done, wet, unseasoned lumber of questionable grade is sure to slip through and take its place in your construction job. This wet lumber will shrink after construction, causing plaster cracks, uneven, squeaky floors, and loose joints, which can never permanently be repaired. The individual treatment which Goodfellow gives every piece of lumber adds nothing to your cost of construction, but gives more contentment and happiness than any other item on your entire bill.

ALL YEAR BUILDING IS ADVOCATED BY F H L B

Urges Savings and Loan Associations to Lead Home Construction Campaign.

Savings and loan associations were urged by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board yesterday to lead a campaign for all-year building, thus eliminating the winter letdown which is so costly to American economic and social life.

Labor, industry, mortgage lenders, transportation units and home buyers would all benefit greatly by the establishment of a 12-month year for home construction, instead of the present eight-month building year, it was pointed out in an article in the October issue of the Federal Home Loan Bank Review.

"The reasons for seasonal fluctuations in building activity are probably more emotional and traditional than practical," the board said, revealing that seasonal fluctuations follow temperature trends whether in the North or the South. The fact that in some areas of the country the mean temperature never falls below 55 of 60 degrees, yet the seasonal pattern of residential construction is very similar to that existing in more northern areas where the temparature during the winter months is well below freezing, shows that custom, as well as climate, is an influential factor in determining building activity, the article in the Review said.

With the lowest level of volume of building occurring in the winter months, the peaks in construction range from March in some Southern states to July and August in certain northern areas. Throughout the summer, residential construction tapers off, followed by a minor rally in fall which precedes a sharp retrenchment during the winter months. The article concluded:

"If the peaks and valleys of building activity were leveled off, tremendous direct and indirect savings would accrue; to labor, for they would be more sure of continuous employment and a larger gross annual income; to contractors, for their equipment and organizations would be put to continuous productive use; to owners, for they would get the benefits of early rentals and savings of interest and taxes on idle investments; to buyers, for the building costs of their homes would be lower without any seasonal exaggeration; to material manufacturers; to transportation units and mortgage lenders.

"Since increased winter construction is not held in check by practical causes, but rather by public psychology in many areas, lending institutions, through their position as sources of credit for building, can exert a substantial influence in lengthening the present eight-month construction period to a full year and thus in stabilizing business activity itself."

$871,192,201, or 2.3 per cent more than the 1937 figure of $851,870,534, and the highest for any similar period since 1931. New York, with a total of $300,788,014, furnished the bulk of this increase with a gain of 65.6 per cent for the nine months. Outside of New York, permits for the elapsed portion of this year amounted to $570,404,187, or 14.9 per cent under the corresponding period of 1937.

The record of building permit values for the first nine months of 1938 and 1937, for the 215 cities, as compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., is given herewith:

Geographical groups:	Nine Months. 1938	1937
New England	$43,536,242	$59,899,225
Middle Atlantic	370,473,472	265,894,900
South Atlantic	79,191,473	89,775,761

Costumer Leases Quarters.

Charles E. Finegan, dealer in costumes and uniforms, has leased the entire third floor of the building at 707-709 Washington avenue. He has occupied quarters at 419 Delmar boulevard for the past 11 years. Cornet & Zeibig, Inc., arranged the lease.

Residences and Apartments in Week's Transactions

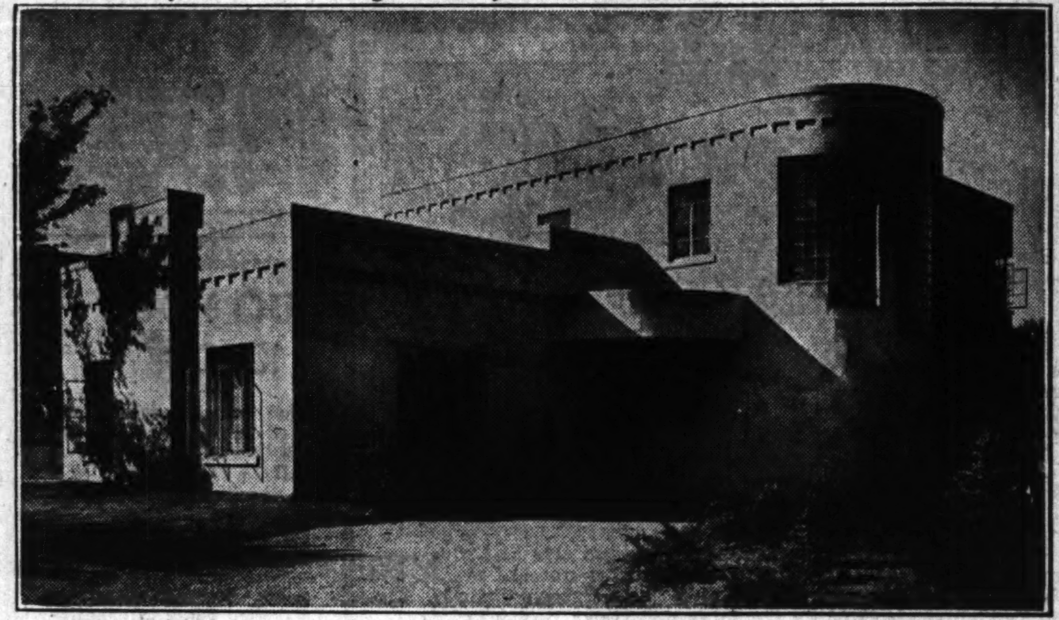
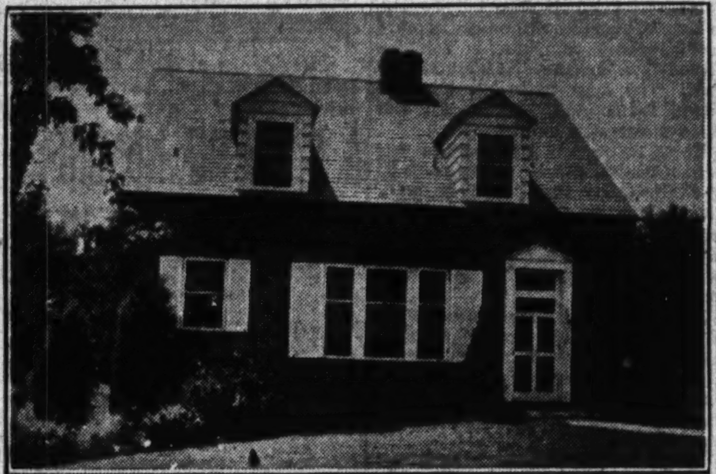
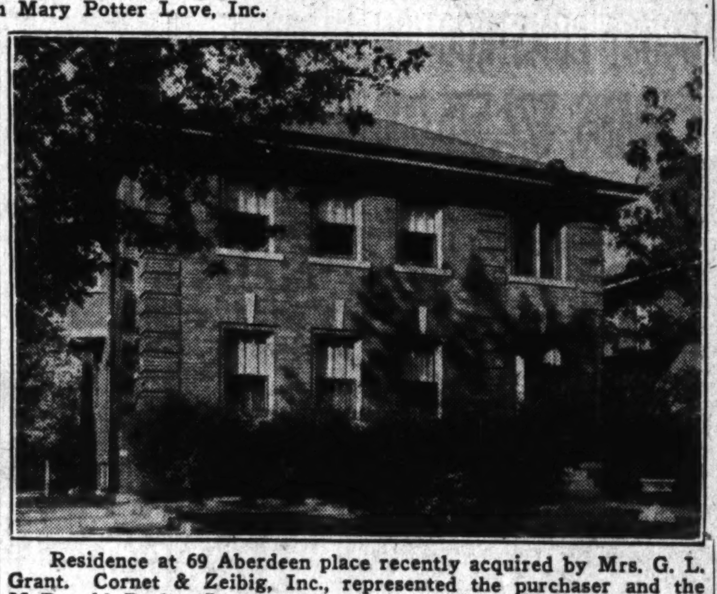
New English residence at 7715 Stanford avenue purchased by A. L. Kattleman, through the John P. Dolan Realty Co. J. M. Liebowitz, builder.



New residence of Alfred M. Langenbach on Ridgewood road near McKnight road, St. Louis County. The site was acquired through Mary Potter Love, Inc.



Cape Cod Colonial house at 934 Greeley avenue, Webster Groves, recently acquired by Edgar J. Gildehaus. Dimmitt-Rickhoff-Bayer Real Estate Co. effected the sale.



Residence at 69 Aberdeen place recently acquired by Mrs. G. L. Grant. Cornet & Zeibig, Inc., represented the purchaser and the McDonald Realty Co., the seller, in the negotiations.

REALTORS TO SHOW WORK ON SLIDES

Real Estate Developments to Be Exhibited on Screen at Convention in Milwaukee.

Notable current real estate developments, including some of the best new production of low cost homes, work of realtors over the country that is suggestive of what can be done in the rebuilding of American cities for a better adaptation to present economic and social needs, will be shown in slides to be exhibited at the coming annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, at Milwaukee, Nov. 9, 10, 11 and 12.

Included in the series, collected by the association, and to be shown at sessions of the Land Developers and Home Builders' Division, are examples of successful reconditioning projects, including a profitable private project which converted a slum area of old "company houses" into modern low-income housing.

Large scale housing operations in the low cost range are already beginning to be announced under the plan of mortgage insurance opened for such projects by recent FHA amendments. John McC. Mowbray of Baltimore, chairman of the association's committee on housing, will discuss the new possibilities at the Milwaukee meeting of the division.

D. C. Slipher of New Albany, Ind., will discuss the "assembled house" and what it has, today, to offer for home builders.

IMPROVED PROPERTIES AND LOTS RECENTLY SOLD

Anthony H. Weber & Associates, report the following sales: A residence at 4346 Evans avenue for Henry Uelhof and others to a client of Samuel Liebert; flat at 3734 Minnesota for the Bachman estate to John Brauer; 2843 Wyoming; cottage, for the Reithel estate to Louis and Ann Holstein; bungalow at 6619 Parkwood for Raymond Schilli to Elizabeth C. Hughes; lot on Oleatha for a client of the Rengel-Weber Realty Co., to Oscar W. Schwerdtfeger; two lots on the south side of Lindenwood for Sarah Manion.

DR. JOHN R. VAUGHAN BUYS RESIDENCE IN DAVIS PLACE

Dr. John R. Vaughan has acquired the residence at Davis place. It was owned by R. B. Reed, who is moving to Orlando, Fla.

Colonial in design, the two-story house is constructed of white painted brick with green shutters. The first floor consists of living room, dining room, kitchen, maid's room, lavatory and screened porch. There are three master bedrooms and two baths on the second floor. There is a two-car garage.

The purchaser was represented by the Butts Realty Co. and the seller by Mary Potter Love, Inc.

HOWARD BERGEN SALES MANAGER OF N. GRAND AGENCY

Howard Bergen has been appointed sales manager of the Hartwig Dischinger Realty Co. Formerly identified with other large real estate concerns he is well known in the local real estate field.

PREDICTS CONSTRUCTION OF 350,000 DWELLINGS THIS YEAR

Housing Administrator Makes Estimate in Address at Meeting of Mortgage Bankers' Association in Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—Administrator Stewart McDonald of the Federal Housing Administration predicted more than 350,000 dwelling units will be built this year as against only 50,000 four years ago.

In a prepared address to the twenty-fifth annual convention of the Mortgage Bankers' Association of America, McDonald said increased home ownership was one of the greatest necessary stabilizing influences in American life.

The FHA, he reported, is running about 115 per cent ahead of a year ago and mortgage companies were doing more business under the Housing Act this year than in the three previous years combined. He estimated their total business would exceed $100,000,000 for 1938.

Dr. Walter Lichtenstein, vice-president of the First National Bank of Chicago, told the convention a lower standard of living would result from the attempts of many nations to achieve self-sufficiency.

If the decline in international trade continues and armaments expenditures continue, Dr. Lichtenstein said, all nations finally will approach bankruptcy. He continued:

"To all intents and purposes Germany is bankrupt now, whatever that may mean in the case of a nation. France is certainly in bad shape, and one may wonder how long Great Britain can go on and not make its taxes so burdensome that the property classes will be wiped out."

Dr. Lichtenstein said there could be little inflation or little prospect of it as long as there was as little movement in business and economic life as at present.

RIVERMONT RANCH

OLD WYOMING Brought to ST. LOUIS!

You've never seen anything like Rivermont Ranch in this part of the country. It's a real western ranch, operated by western ranchmen. Not a "Dude Ranch" or ordinary resort, but a real, rugged play place for those who like to "rough it" yet want modern conveniences available.

Build Your Lodge in This Scenic Paradise
Drive out today while Autumn is painting Rivermont Ranch with a lavish brush. See the beautiful lodge sites with gorgeous views. Inspect the huge Corral for rodeos, community sports, etc., and the miles of secluded horseback or hiking trails. Also boating, swimming—shaded sandy beach. Low prices and liberal terms to those who act now. Write for illustrated folder or drive out to Ranch. Gravois Road, 1 mile past House Springs, turn right at Trading Post. 21 miles from St. Louis.

FACTORY—32x60; good light; corner. JEfferson 6863.

BUSINESS PROPERTY FOR RENT—Central

FOR SALE 5-story concrete and steel fireproof building; can readily be completed to 12 stories. Suitable for offices, conference auditoriums, display rooms or light manufacturing. Located in immediate vicinity of PLAZA, in the midst of St. Louis' most recently constructed buildings. Is part of city block which because of Olive and Twelfth boulevards frontages is now the most conspicuous available block in the entire city. Building can be bought now at a price that will leave a most substantial margin for extremely handsome profits now that the marvelous Plaza improvements is substantiating the desirability and enhancing the value of surrounding property.

FOR LEASE In same building entire floor space wholly unobstructed except for necessary building supports—approximately 3600 square feet, net. Can be divided or more space can be arranged for. Building includes all conveniences; passenger and freight elevators, with unsurpassed light and ventilation.

AN ESPECIALLY safe and profitable investment in the purchase of an industrial Building now under lease well into the future, in the most desirable and active manufacturing district in the city. Will return now better than 4½% net on a $26,500 investment, with every probability that the earning power will be increased to 7½% or more within two years. Better than bonds or other high-grade securities—you own the security which is daily enhancing in value and you get the benefit of the increased value.

SUBURBAN Highest class residence lots consisting of acreage in Ladue fronting on west side Price road just south of the new Delmar boulevard extension now cut through but not yet opened to traffic. Lots of 100 feet frontage about 650 deep, or about 1½ acres; deep enough to enable you to secure and control complete privacy for your country home with every city convenience at your elbow. 30 minutes drive downtown through the finest improved roads and boulevards with Forest Park in the direct line of travel; less time if Clayton road and the Speedway is used; still many hours away from the noise, dirt and turmoil of the city.

A PREDICTION All classes of property are unquestionably facing an immediate sharp advance in prices. Act now while the opportunity still exists to profit to the greatest extent. Even a slight delay may mean a substantial difference in prices. CH. 5311. PUBLICITY REALTY CO., 1127 Pine st.

The Robert J. Ambruster Pre-Arranged Funeral Plan

THIS rational provision against the time of need relieves the survivor of all complications attending the arrangements for the funeral.

It also limits the cost to a known amount, thereby conserving the funds usually required for other essential purposes.

CARD OF THANKS

WE, the undersigned, wish to express our most sincere and heartfelt thanks to our relatives and many friends for their kindness and sympathy shown us in the late sad loss of our dear brother, Frank Pfingst, who departed this life Oct. 6, 1938; especially do we wish to thank the Rev. E. E. Leibner for his words of consolation, the pallbearers who so graciously gave their time, the Kutis undertakers for their efficient services and all for the beautiful floral offerings.
AMELIA, AGNES AND ANNA PFINGST, SISTERS.

I WISH to extend my sincere thanks to my relatives and friends for their sympathy and kindness shown in the sad bereavement in the loss of my dear father, August Blattner Sr.; also for the beautiful floral offerings. I especially thank Pauly Jail Works Benefit Association, priests of St. Francis de Sales Church, Little Sisters of the Poor, for their care and prayer, and George C. Weick, undertaker.
AUGUST BLATTNER JR.

CARD OF THANKS

WE wish to thank relatives, friends, for floral offering, pall bearers, undertaker, in our sad bereavement in the loss of my dear brother, Joseph Schmidt, and sister-in-law; also Rev. Haase, for his kind, consoling words.
MRS. J. LISEC.

IN MEMORIAM

CARTER, ELIZABETH—In loving memory of our dear mother, who passed away Oct. 13, 1929. Sadly missed by DAUGHTERS.

FITZGERALD, ALBERTINA—In loving memory of our dear mother, who departed this life five years ago, Oct. 13, 1933:
Saddly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

HAWKINS, PHILIP—In loving memory of dear husband and father, who departed this life Oct. 12, 1935.
The years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never,
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
Sadly missed by
WIFE AND CHILDREN.

HOLSTE, EDWIN—Who departed this life 20 years ago, Oct. 13, 1938.
Years may wipe out many things,
But this they wipe out never—
The memories of those happy days
When we were all together.
Sadly missed by
PARENTS, SISTER AND BROTHER-IN-LAW.

KUNTZ, PETER—In loving memory of our dear father, who passed away Oct. 18, 1933.
Not dead to those who loved him;
Not lost, but gone before;
He lived with us in memory,
And will forever more.
Sadly missed by
CHILDREN AND GRANDCHILDREN.

McTIGUE, JOHN J.—In loving memory of our darling brother, who passed away Oct. 14, 1933:
Time speeds on, five years have passed
Since death its gloom, its shadow cast
Within our home, where all seemed bright
And took from us a shining light.
We miss that light and ever will;
His vacant place there is none to fill.
Down here we mourn, but not in vain,
For up in heaven we will meet again.
Sadly missed by FAMILY.

MUELLER, ELLA—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who passed away Oct. 14, 1936:
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
FAMILY.

REINEKE, DORA — Whom God called home Oct. 13, 1912.
Sweet to remember her who once was here,
And who though absent is just as dear.
Sadly missed by HER LOVED ONES.

SCHLEICHER, FREDERICK — Died Oct. 18, 1918. Sadly missed by son,
OSCAR.

SCHLEICHER, AGNES — Died Oct. 18, 1937. Sadly missed by your only living child.
OSCAR.

SULLIVAN, FRIEDA—In loving memory of our dear daughter, mother and sister, who passed away Oct. 12, 1936.
SADLY MISSED BY ALL.

WILLMANN, CAROLINE—In memory of our dear mother, who passed away Oct. 11, 1930. Sadly missed by son, Frank C. Willmann, and daughter, Elizabeth Wellenkamp.

WRIGHT, MADELINE (nee Schroeder)—In sad remembrance of my beloved daughter, Madeline Wright, who passed away one year ago, Oct. 21, 1937.
You suffered days, yes, days of pain
And waited for cures, but all in vain;
Till God alone knew what was best,
And took you away to peace and rest.
Sadly missed by
FATHER AND SISTER.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

WE WILL TAKE ON 8 ADDITIONAL MEN WHO WISH TO TRY TO LEARN TO DO THIS WORK AND WHO CAN GET ALONG ON EARNINGS OF $30 A WEEK WHILE STUDYING AND PRACTICING. WE WILL TRAIN SUCH MEN FREE. WE WILL FURNISH FULL EQUIPMENT WITH NO DEPOSIT REQUIRED. THERE IS NO EXPENSE.

No previous experience in any kind of selling is necessary. If you are capable of understanding and following tested methods. If you are one who likes to practice to gain skill and judgment in what he does, and if you are a worker, willing to pay a working price for success, then we will give you a chance. We cannot guarantee you will be a star, but we do guarantee you opportunity with sincere, earnest, practical instruction and guidance.

This is a large national institution operating from coast to coast. The world sales of our product lead all others. We are now introducing this extraordinary product and it already has a greater sale than any product in the world ever attempting any of its services (no device ever having attempted to render all of its services). For example, last week in St. Louis, E. A., formerly in politics, earned around $91 for his week's work; W. K. M., $67.50; K. F., $110; V. H., $66; C. R., $138; R. C. R., $90; A. T. O., $43.50; H. A. S., $227; W. R., $66; C. D. G., $112; others, $30, $40, $50, $60 and up for the week.

Do not misunderstand. This is no get-rich-quick scheme. You cannot make money here unless you earn it, and some men who apply to us fail to fulfill the requirements. But we have found also that many men who never previously even thought they could do work of this kind have found it to be just the opportunity they sought for years, and are now making more money than they ever previously dreamed of making. We have men making up to $500 a month or more. Others $400, $300, $250.

This is a genuine opportunity. It costs nothing to try. The training is free. If you can do the job you can make real money and have the assurance of its permanence, together with splendid future possibilities.

In October and November our men should make more cash money than at any previous time. The coming year will be of unlimited possibilities to those who get at this business, successfully now.

If you are of good reputation, active, alert, willing to learn and to work hard every day to make a genuine success in return for the privilege of a genuine opportunity in a permanent connection with good people who will deeply interest themselves in helping you to get started and to get along, make your application Monday morning, 9:15 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., at Paul Brown Bldg., ROOM 512, corner 9th and Olive sts.

We have tried to state the facts and requirements clearly. This is a straightforward offer of sincere intent to worthy men who are in need of good, substantial opportunity. Please do not apply for these openings unless you feel you can meet the requirements. Applicants will be personally interviewed.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.

THE creation of "doghouse" in at least three of the town's most notable restaurants by super-snob-minded patrons and reporters avid for inside copy may have made a lot of copy for the paragraphers, but it has caused flocks of grief for the proprietors. At Jack and Charlie's, at the Colony and at El Morocco there have been sections of the premises which, while far from being bleacher seats, have not customarily been used by the management for the spotting of celebrities and headline guests, so that supercilious folk started to refer to their inmates as "doghouse" patrons, and the name stuck.

LUCIUS BEEBE

In general, at 21, the back room was used as a repository, especially at dinner time, for comparative strangers to the establishment or for diners not dressed for the evening. At the Colony the "doghouse" was less damaging and more humorous, since it was used to describe almost any table in the back of the room. The astute Gene Cavallero smiled to himself, broadened the front of the restaurant to twice its old proportions and, when this overflowed, started seating people actually in the doorway to the lobby, where they could dine in simultaneous style and discomfort.

Hollywood celebrities who insisted on ringside spots can now have them at the trivial price of being just a thought jostled and quite patently laughed at by discerning folk who pass them. At Morocco John Perona suffered to a certain extent when Maury Paul laughingly imagined a "fifty-cent side" and a "dollar side" of the room, but since his premises are jammed most of the time, he didn't complain too much. This year, anyway, he has reshuffled the floor layout so that even the most imaginative reporter can't separate sheep from goats, socially speaking. The restaurateurs were vaguely flattered by the first references to "doghouses" on their premises, but it got to be too much of a headache after good cash customers started turning up their noses at them.

Echoes at the cocktail bar at the Colony: The Hattie Carnegie Model: "We were thinking up divine ways to die and I said I'd like to be trampled to death by ice elephants filled with caviar." . . . The Fashion Spy: "Personally, I think the best description of the new hairdo is 'the crew haircut for girls.'" . . . Colony Regular: "He said he knew perfectly well how to order in French and as a result the waiter brought three different steaks, Chateaubriand, Filet Mignon and Tornados." . . . The Girl With the Monocle: "That's no worse than what happened to me at Luchow's last week where we had a new German waiter. I said dry Martini and got three of them." . . . The Reporter: "She's the kind of woman who makes a run in her stocking look like clocks." . . .

—o—o—

● MOST GABBY of all uptown masculine gossip parlors, including even cocktail hour at the Racquet Club and lunch at 21, is Tony Williams' tailoring shop. Nowhere is such felonious chit-chat evolved, brought to flower and dissipated down the boulevards, and if Clare Boothe is ever moved to do a men's version of her epic "The Women," Tony's fitting rooms rate a scene in it along with the Squibb Building barber shop and the locker room at the Athletic Club. Tony makes clothes for any number of the more gilded youths of the boulevards under a very Bond Street trade name which he thought up all by himself and his clientele includes Paul Draper, Frank Chapman, Jerry Zerbe, Paul Flato, C. D. Jackson, Roy Larsen, Bill Plankington, Bill Kemper of Kansas City, Howard Dietz, Freddy Payne, A. K. Mills and Enzo Fiermonte, when the latter is in the chips, which isn't just now.

While Basile does the fittings and Williams attempts to sell his customers on rat-catcher patterns, Inverness cloaks and Wellington dinner trousers, more gab of dubious authenticity floats around the atmosphere than one could find in a week of New York gossip columns. Tales of death and divorce and division, of infidelities and impossible romance, are the order of the day, and if Gladys Swarthout and Tokio Payne don't get a load of nonsense whenever their husbands come home from a fitting they are missing a bet. So is Miss Boothe if she doesn't get around to doing a play called "The Boys," one of the scenes of which will be set in a fashionable trousers shoppe just like this one.

—o—o—

● THE REPORTED BANISHMENT for the rest of the season from Morocco of Frank Shields because of that unfortunate fist fight brings up the problem of just what is the proper conduct for an exile from Perona's premises, where frequent personal appearance is too dire a social necessity to be trifled with. It has occurred before and may happen again, and some precedent of behavior should be established. Should the banishee at once go home and shoot himself? Should he shoot Perona? Should he shoot Jerome Zerbe and Carino, too? Who yelled yes? Or should he, as people actually have been known to do because they couldn't get a table at Morocco, merely leave town for the winter and say he had reservations at the Breakers all along and was going anyway? What, too, should be the attitude of Sherman Billingsley, at the Stork, which shares the de luxe supper trade? Should he welcome a Perona exile or should he feel that any one who abuses the peace and tranquillity of Morocco might very well become a menace to the Stork? The Stork had a socking of its own once. It is well known in the Manhattan credo that any one who doesn't put in an appearance at Morocco at least twice a week during the season is either dead or, what is worse, out of town, and the same goes for the Stork. Denied both premises, can life itself be bearable? These are pressing questions and demand an answer.

A New Deal in Living

By VIRGINIA IRWIN

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

Government Resettlement Project of Greenbelt, Md., Offers Bright, New World to Its 3000 Residents—Town Observing First Anniversary.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.

VISITING Greenbelt, the little Maryland resettlement town founded by the New Deal 13 miles from the heart of the nation's capital, is like peeping into another world—a world where everything is bright and new, where babies play in the sunshine and learn in kindergarten the meaning of co-operative living, where mothers spend their spare time working on community problems instead of trying to keep up with the Joneses, where there are no local politics, no class distinctions, and where more than 3000 men, women and children are now busily engaged in living by a pattern never before employed in any American community.

RECREATION BESIDE STILL WATERS . . . THE LAKE IS PART OF THE PROJECT.

Built by the Government at a cost of some $14,000,000 to demonstrate the practicability of scientific town planning, wise use of land, and mass production of dwelling units, Greenbelt has just celebrated its first anniversary. In this community, 885 families are now living with an enthusiasm that makes high adventure out of everything, including such prosaic-sounding a venture as a town-owned grocery store.

All strangers to each other a year ago, the residents of Greenbelt took up life in the crescent-shaped settlement with nothing in common but a low pay check and the desire to rear their families in a place where there was room to live and breathe. Now there are no strangers in Greenbelt. There is a club or association for everything from the discussion of group living to what kind of peas Mrs. Greenbelt should buy on a strained pocketbook.

"We get so much more for so much less," is the way Greenbelt housewives sum up the situation, as they marvel over their town, where a seven-room house, completely modern even to an electric stove, may be rented for as little as $39.

Of the 885 homes in Greenbelt, 574 are group or row houses, 306 are apartments and five are detached houses. Rents range from $18 to $41 a month and the privilege of renting a home in Greenbelt is reserved for families with an annual income of not less than $1000 and not more than $2400. Not only are the upper and lower limits of incomes set, but income ranges are set for families of varying size. For instance, a family of two may move into the community only if its income range is between $1000 and $1600, while a family of six is eligible only if its income is between $1800 and $2400.

Spick and span, these ultra modern homes that rent so cheaply are arranged in groups of 120 around superblocks and all homes look out upon grass and trees in the block's center. Each house has its own yard, but much of the open space in the block's center is pooled for common recreational use. There are no sidewalks along the streets, because a network of paths runs through the safe and pleasant surroundings of the interior park, and where these paths cross busy streets, underpasses are built so that residents can walk to the shops and children to school in safety.

"Life is so much more pleasant and simple here," one Greenbelt mother explained to me. "In the city we could afford only a one-bedroom apartment and the children had no place to play but in the street. Now we have plenty of room and the children are getting the sunshine and air they need, and because I do not have to worry about their safety I have time for other things."

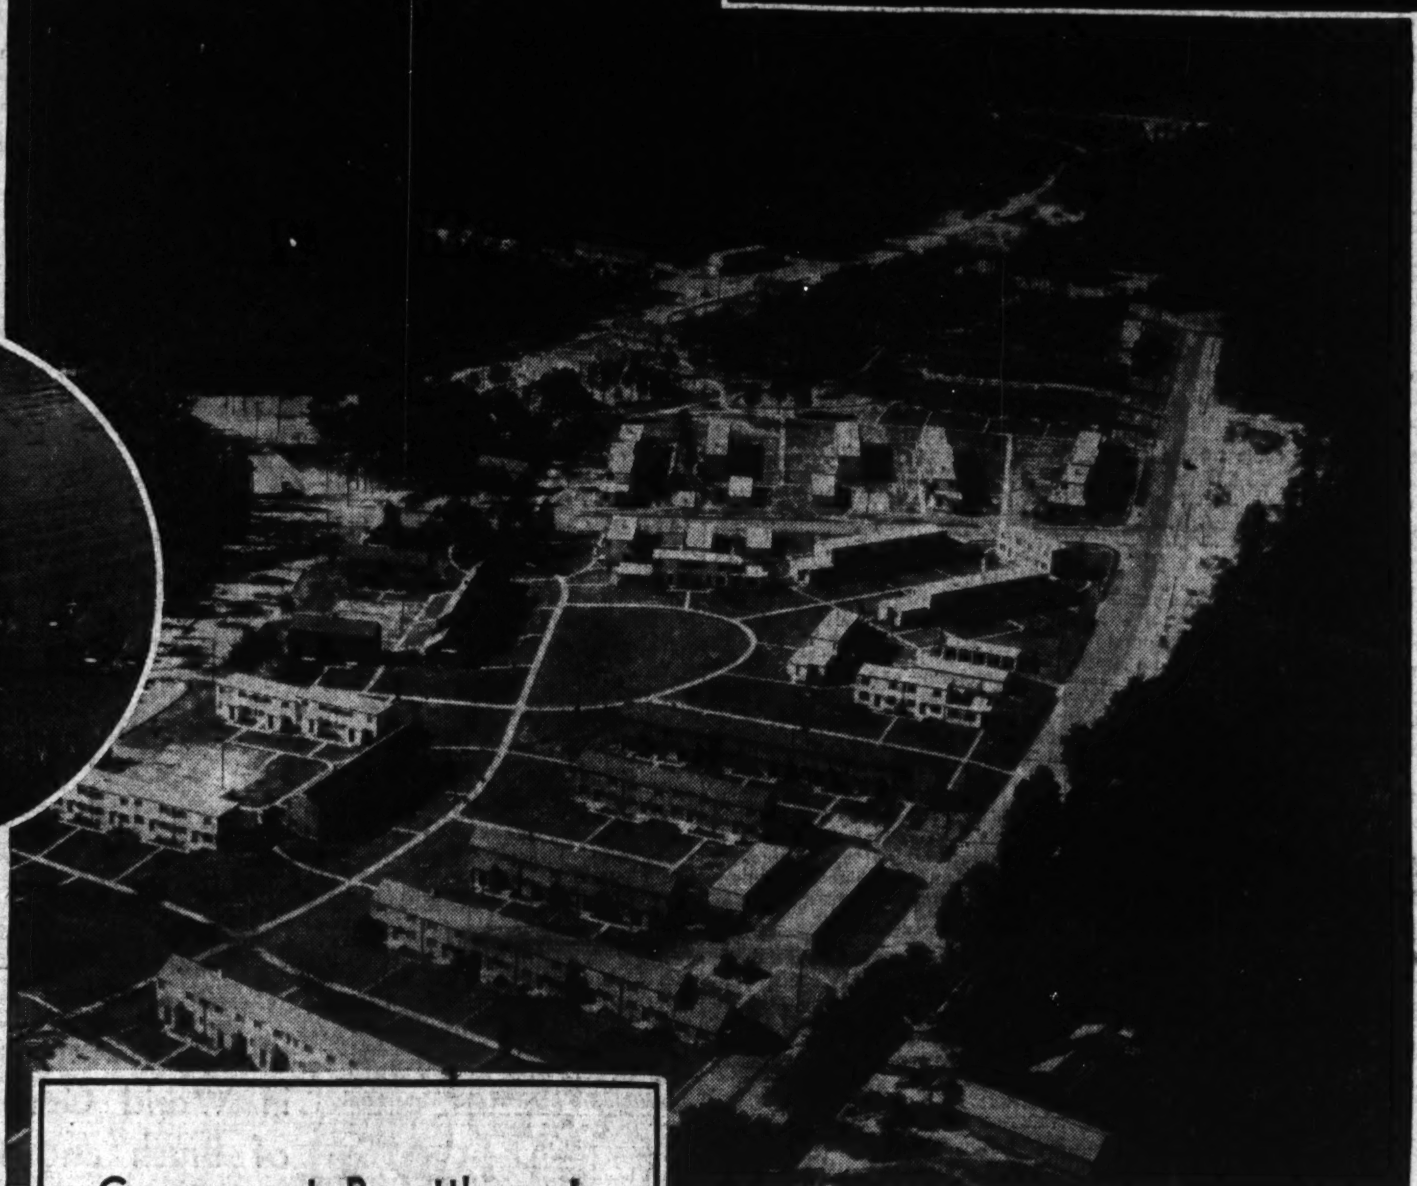
AND because the women of Greenbelt have time for "other things," they have promoted civic forums, organized a woman's citizens' association and a club for the study of consumer co-operatives, taken an active part in the town meetings, and still found themselves with the leisure to belong to bridge clubs, athletic clubs, school clubs and other organizations which range alphabetically from an aviation club to a widow's club.

Where women in ordinary towns are interested usually only in problems that concern their own families, the women of Greenbelt are interested in and understand all the problems this unique community must face if it is to give the country a convincing lesson in group living. And right now, as part of that lesson, the men and women of Greenbelt are about to buy, and operate for themselves, all the commercial enterprises which serve their town—the food store, the drugstore, the movie theater, the gas station and the dry cleaning establishment. Under the plan of community ownership, stock will be sold to the townspeople at $10 a share. Each family may purchase as many shares as it can afford, but no matter how many shares, it gets only one vote in the management. Each shareholder will be a part owner of all the town's stores and will receive a maximum of 4 per cent on his investment, with the remaining profit pro-rated among the consumers in proportion to the amount of their purchases as recorded by cash slips.

In the interest of efficiency, space for only one shop of each kind was included in Greenbelt's community center. To avoid possible abuse of this monopoly, these shops have been operated on a co-operative plan under which net profits have been returned to patrons. And until the townsfolk install their own co-operative management, the stores will continue to be operated by the Consumer Distribution Corporation, a non-profit organization founded and endowed by the late Edward A. Filene of Boston.



AIR VIEW OF GREENBELT, GOVERNMENT RESETTLEMENT TOWN, 13 MILES FROM WASHINGTON, D. C., WHERE 3000 PERSONS IN LOW INCOME BRACKETS LIVE IN MODEL SURROUNDINGS, BRIGHT SUNSHINE.

As proof of how thoroughly co-operative conscious Greenbelt has become, even the children have their own co-operative enterprise. The school commissary, where the youngsters of this unusual town buy their licorice and lead pencils, is consumer owned. Shares sell for 10 cents each and each young shareholder understands the co-operative principle whereby he receives a limited interest on his capital, plus a slice of the profit melon in proportion to the amount of his purchases. A recent dividend has convinced the junior Greenbelters that prosperity has at last screwed up enough courage to round the proverbial corner.

IN THIS MODEL TOWN, UNDERPASSES ARE THE RULE, NOT THE EXCEPTION.

Certainly Greenbelt is a suburb of Heaven to the children, numbering almost 1000, who make up approximately one-third of its population. Aside from the natural advantages of sunshine and fresh air, this modern community provides its future citizens with a kindergarten and playground to each block, a grade school with a curriculum built around community living, a high school with a curriculum modeled along the same lines, a swimming pool, a natural lake for boating and fishing and innumerable directed activities such as art classes, scout troops, a junior department of the town newspaper called The Greenbelt Co-Operator, and various other educational activities presented in such a manner that learning the art of living is simply sport to these youngsters who have been transplanted from the cramped quarters of a big city to a brand-new town of new people with a new philosophy and a new way of living.

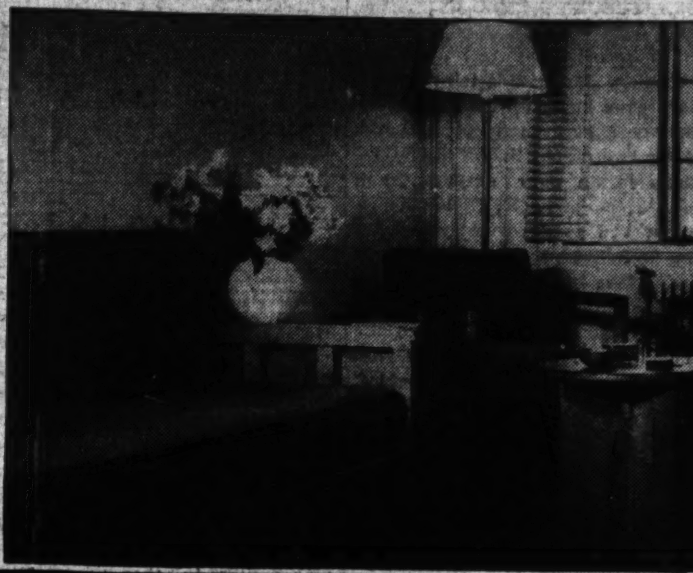
THAT the children of Greenbelt understand and appreciate their new privileges is certain. At a regular Saturday morning art class for pre-school Greenbelters, one curly-headed young miss of 5 entertained me for half an hour by contrasting her new home with her old, and wound up drawing two pictures—one her childish conception of the Washington apartment house in which she had lived and the other her idea of Greenbelt, complete with trees, a rather lopsided sun shining overhead, and myriads of little people playing on green lawns.

Most of the original settlers of Greenbelt were men and women with children, but there also were many who saw in Greenbelt the ideal place to rear the expected baby, so there have been many newcomers within the past year.

"And there will be many more new babies next year," one prospective mother explained. "You see, in Washington, many of us were forced to pay up to 40 per cent of our income for rent in order to live at all satisfactorily. With what we save by living here, we can afford children."



INTERIOR VIEW OF A HOME IN GREENBELT.

Distinctly health conscious, these modern mothers of Greenbelt have been largely responsible for the success of the Greenbelt Health Association, a co-operative arrangement whereby each member pays a membership fee of $5 and monthly payments ranging from $1.50 for an unmarried person to $2.25 a month for a man, wife and four children. Greenbelters do not wait until they are sick and then grow gray wondering how to scrape together the money for doctor's bills; they practice and preach the ounce-of-prevention theory. In time Greenbelt hopes for its own community owned hospital building, but for the present its Health Center is holding forth in several houses originally intended as homes. There is a resident pediatrician, a public health nurse, and an adviser to educate family heads in the way of healthy living, pre-natal and post-natal care and child welfare.

THE first incorporated municipality in the State of Maryland with a city manager form of government, Greenbelt's voters maintain the poltical democracy of their new community through a town meeting, where the city manager, the Mayor and the councilmen of Greenbelt are subject to discussion, along with all town problems. Under Greenbelt's charter, there is a clear separation of legislative and executive functions. The voters elect a council of five members, which council in turn, appoints, and has power to remove, the city manager who is charged with the responsibility for the execution of policies established by the council. The council also selects one of its own members as Mayor who serves as the titular head of the town, and sets up committees from time to time to study various problems which arise and for which there are no precedents since Greenbelt is a brand new experiment. So far, the problem of crime and courts has been virtually non-existent, and it is to just such features that enthusiastic Greenbelters point when critics assail the $14,000,000 project.

All over the United States, taxpayers foot the bill for the bad health, the fire hazards, the juvenile delinquency, and crime caused by the neglect of housing conditions, and for this bill, the supporters of Greenbelt hope to substitute a lesser one for good health, good education and good citizenship.

To those who criticise the expenditure of $14,000,000 on a project that at present benefits only about 3000 men, women and children, the Farm Security Administration, under whose jurisdiction Greenbelt now rests, points out that Greenbelt is designed to accommodate an expected growth to three of four times its present size. Its sewer mains, waterworks, roads and utilities were built on a scale to serve an ultimate population of 12,000. And besides all this, Uncle Sam has it all figured out that Greenbelt will not owe the Government a cent by the time 60 years have passed. The total yearly revenue accruing to the Government from Greenbelt will be some $425,000 from homes, farms and commercial buildings and this revenue is expected to meet all costs of operation and maintenance and produce a surplus of $60,000 a year, which may be used for retirement of the Government's investment.

Whether the future of Greenbelt will be as bright as its first year would indicate, even the Government admits is in the province of conjecture. But the pioneers of this spanking new community admit to no such half-hearted praise. They are even willing to predict that the success of Greenbelt will prove to private industry that scientific town planning, wise use of land and mass production of dwelling units, is good business.

To the doubters who suspect regimentation and the individualists who shudder at the thought of "co-operative living," Greenbelters answer "Come and see for yourself." And in the past six months, on an average of 10,000 people a month have accepted this invitation, enthusiastic about the theory upon which Greenbelt is built, if not sold on the idea that it is headed for success.

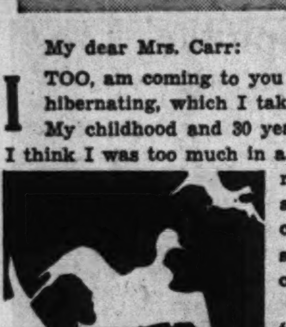
THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

my Opinion
by Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I TOO, am coming to you for your opinion. My friends tell me I am hibernating, which I take to mean I have given up too completely. My childhood and 30 years of marriage have been happy. In fact, I think I was too much in a whirl. After two deaths in the family, serious injuries in an auto accident, and a nervous breakdown, all happening closely, we moved to the country and, in spite of the fact that electricity is our only convenience, I love it.



We have a cottage on a wooded 10-acre tract about a quarter of a mile from the nearest neighbor. My husband did not like the idea at first, because he thought it would be too lonely for me, but we both love the peace and quiet. It is a year and a half since I went to the city, and drive to the village only when I must. My husband uses the train, and the mile walk to and from the station has done him a lot of good. I read a good deal—some serious; otherwise I have plenty to do to keep me occupied. Daily reading of the Psalms for the day as given in my Book of Common Prayer has helped me find myself. Fine clothes, parties and conveniences mean nothing to me. Do you think I have slipped? Please be frank.

May I add a few words on my pet subject? Why do city people think they are privileged to take or destroy everything they can lay hands on? One woman told me she had as much right here as I—"the country is free." I do not think she really believed what she said; she was just angry and ashamed. I caught several girls picking flowers from a bed that is not more than 15 feet from my kitchen door. There has been much said regarding people destroying the wild flowers, and I think brush fires started by careless people have done this. When we came here four years ago our hills were covered the whole summer with wild flowers, but since a brush fire two years ago they are gone. The same fire did more serious damage to farmers' winter wood, hay and outbuildings. PEACE AND QUIET.

The stale trend of thought which seems to come from a mechanized life does make it impossible, evidently, for some in the city to realize just what life in the country can mean. I believe the oft-quoted and deeply significant lines of Shakespeare are applicable here:

"And this our life, exempt from public haunt,
Finds tongues in trees, books in running brooks,
Sermons in stones, and good in everything."

As in the city, vandalism (and it can go by no other name) should be punished by law. Those without conscience are to be met in the country as well as in the city, and destruction of property includes ruthlessly robbing the people and the country of flowers.

Dear Martha Carr:

● CAN YOU TELL me of a poison that can be used to kill off English sparrows? I live on a farm and these birds are almost taking us. So I'll be looking for this remedy. A DAILY READER.

There could be nothing in the way of a poison that would kill English sparrows that would not kill other song birds, and you might become involved with the State game and fish laws were you to try this. You might write the State Game and Fish Commissioner at Jefferson City and ask if any protection against these little pests has been devised.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

WILL YOU PLEASE print the names of some Catholic clubs in St. Louis and where and when they meet? Some time ago I read in your column of an organization located in the Knights of Columbus Building. Thank you for this information. E.

● AM WRITING in behalf of a colored boy who has been laid up for several months with rheumatism. He is getting better, but is still under the doctor's care and has to go to the clinic twice weekly.

If any reader of this letter has a pair of crutches that are not being used they would be greatly appreciated by this boy, who is now trying to get around with a cane, but only with a great effort.

The writer can personally vouch for this boy, and the case will stand the most rigid investigation.

Thanking anyone who may answer this appeal, I remain, respectfully yours, CHARLES E. CALEF.

Dear Martha Carr:

YOU HAVE DONE so many fine things for those who have intricate problems, I wonder if you would do a good turn for some city-weary female police dog. If you can locate one which is tired of the restrictions of city life and would like to spend her remaining days happily in a good farm home, please let me hear from her. Only a well-bred individual will be adopted. B. W.

I believe a sad-eyed lady police dog may be found which would enjoy the fine privileges of meadows and high rail fences for exercise; and kindly owners. This dog, like any thoroughbred, would prefer such a life to that of roving the streets and alleys.

—o—o—

My dear Martha Carr:

● I AM ASKING for advice. I am near crazy and heartbroken, and really my mind does not seem to work right. I had a very serious breakdown and operation and, while I was sick, my husband started going with some girl and I caught him and now he says he will give her up and live right.

Do you think we will ever make a go of it? He says he was crazy about her and wondered which one he loved the best. I have been such a wonderful wife to him. I have a daughter by another marriage, 16 years old. His people and friends have turned against him because of what he did to me. Of course, if they love one another I would give him up. I would give anything to know her. It's so serious I cannot eat or sleep.

WAITING H. H. H.

If you want to shut all this out of your life, the only thing to do is to try to forget it all. Certainly you cannot do that by meeting the girl and rehashing the whole thing. And, of course, a girl who would have an affair with a married man whose wife was ill and needed him, is not worth knowing. Tell him you will forget his wishy-washy affair if he will try to be something at least in the imitation of a man. Also make up your mind now to be well, good company and a good sport. Don't whine and accuse.

Manhattan's Open Season On Smart Set

Autograph Hunters Are in Their Glory as Night Life Starts.

By Inez Robb

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.

THIS is Manhattan's open season on first nighters. I give you a gentry whose fabulous reputation stretches from coast to coast and whose true name is the pictorial section. Like Chanticleer, who thought the sun could not rise without his clarion call, they are convinced that no fashionable curtain-rising is possible without their presence.

As hunters in other communities oil up their shootin' irons to draw a bead on autumn game, New York's autograph hunters, armed with pencil and pad, can flush a covery of Vanderbilts, a brace of Hollywood stars and the limit in around-town celebrities under almost any sign on Broadway and the East and West Fifties where swank restaurants, hotels and supper clubs flourish.

This is the season of the year when new plays and expensive dine-and-dance emporiums are opening up as rapidly as a sugar daddy's bankroll after the first magnum of champagne.

And the betting is 10, two and even that the alert autograph hunter within the space of 15 minutes can pick off Fanny Hurst, Gloria Swanson, Jock Whitney, Neysa McMein, Jules Brulatour and his wife, Hope Hampton; George S. Kaufman, the Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilts and Alfred's sister, Gloria Baker; Lily Damita, Prince Serge Obolensky, Rudy Vallee, Toby Wing and Dick Merrill, Patricia Ellis, Ethel Merman and Eddie Reeves, who is a walking advertisement of the vitamin and calory content of the groceries disbursed in the family's chain stores.

THESE AND ALL OTHER first nighters constitute a hardy breed, compounded of cast-iron constitutions and an inflexible determination to be the first under the wire, be it theater, night club or the newest East Side pub. They've had their work cut out for them during the past three weeks. Confronted by two and three openings a night, their brave, glittering line has not wavered or broken.

Glassy-eyed, but game, they have turned out night after night. (Me, too, but I get paid for it.) They have given their all for everything from the theater's "You Never Know" to the opening of El Morocco, and so far into the night.

Fanny Hurst is a seasoned first-nighter of many years' experience. At a recent Broadway opening Miss Hurst turned up looking like an unusually regal and handsome ghost in search of a house to haunt. The dead white make-up which she always affects to heighten the coal-black of her hair and eyes was matched by a long, flowing robe of white satin, cut high up under the chin, made with long, tight sleeves and girdled with a length of heavy white silk rope.

As time goes on, Miss Hurst's clothes have become stylized into medieval costumes. If the old Beaux Arts ball should ever be revived, Miss Hurst is my odds-on favorite to succeed the late Mrs. S. Stanwood Menken as the nation's foremost dresser-upper for pageants.

—o-o—

THE OPENING of El Morocco, the suavest of all night-life retreats, was a field day for the precocious autographs moppets, who fought their way into taxis freighted with such prominent first-nighters as Mrs. Dan Topping, the former Arline Judge, and pulled her trellis of orchids right out from under Authoress Thyra Samter Winslow.

"Whyn't you go back in the movies?" they demanded as they swarmed over Miss Judge, who gave up her career when she married one of the town's most eligible young men.

"It's too long a story," panted Miss Judge as she urged the chauffeur not to spare the horses.

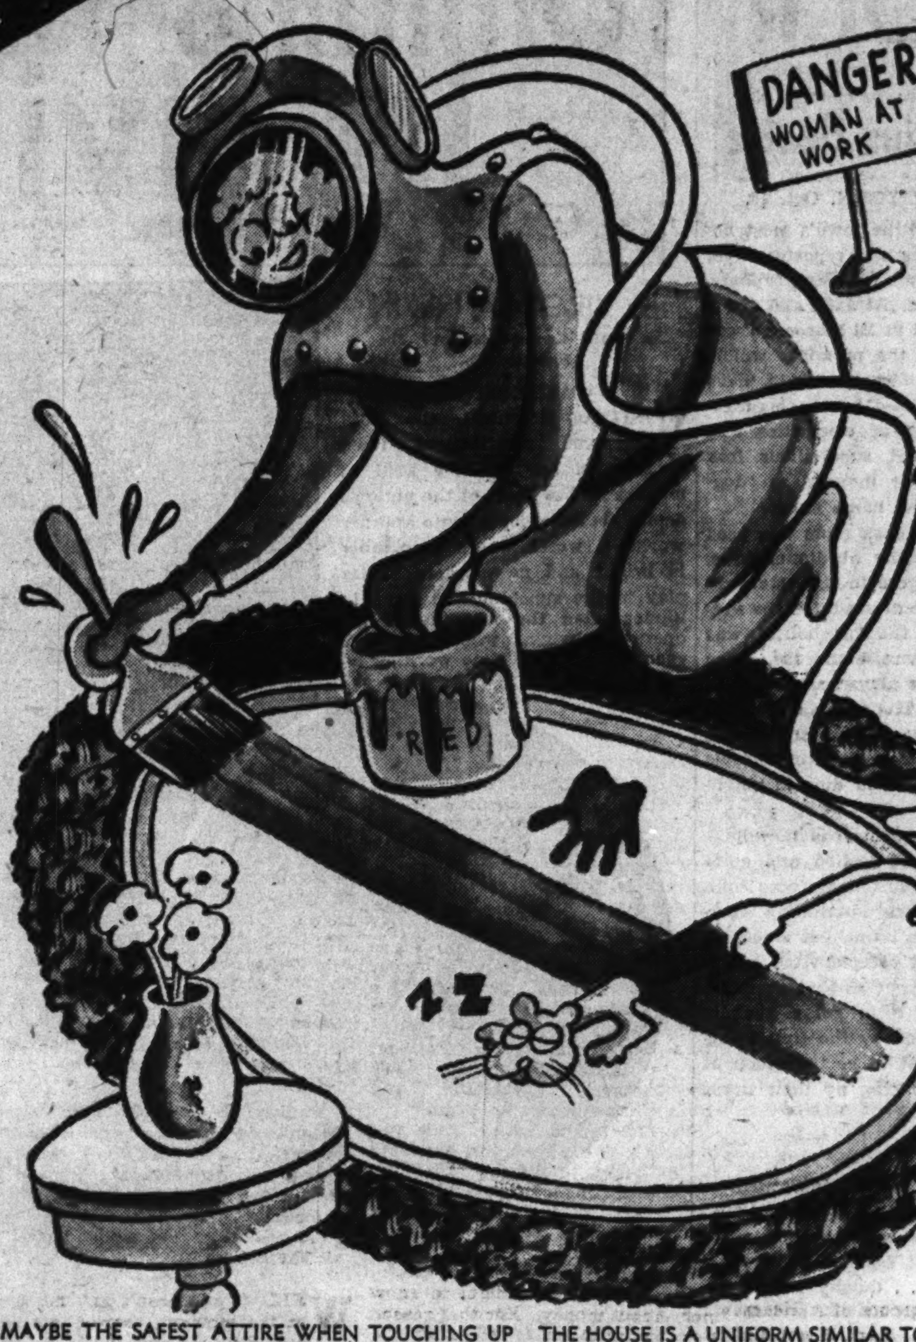
"Aw, sign this poiper for my goil friend," begged the 10-year-old child who had been lurking in the taxi all the time and who gave the former cinema actress the scare of her life as he leaped from the shadows.

—o-o—

GLORIA SWANSON wears a sable pill-box hat when she goes first-nighting this season, a bit of headgear that lends a rakish, Davy Crockett touch to her formal ensembles, and Libby Holman has a dinner suit with a silver fox jacket and a long, sweeping skirt edged with a wide band of silver fox which makes every other woman present froth at the mouth.

Among the strictly Park Avenue contingent, none are more devout first nighters than the Jay O'Briens, Conde Nast, the Will Rhinelander Stewarts, John Whitney Payson, the Jack Chaqueneaus, the W. Averill Harrimans, the Ottavio Prochets, the Bertrand Taylors, the Alfred Vanderbilts, and the Phil Ammidons.

Hitting the Ceiling with Paint



MAYBE THE SAFEST ATTIRE WHEN TOUCHING UP THE HOUSE IS A UNIFORM SIMILAR TO THAT WORN BY PROFESSIONAL DIVERS.

Every Woman's Inborn Desire to Make Own Mark in World Comes to Surface When She Gets Hold of Brush and Can of Paint; Craving Not Curbed by Such Things as Landlords or Paneled Walls

By Clarissa Start.

SOME day when we retire to that little chicken farm in the country we're going to take to writing free advice booklets, and one of them will be called, "A Primer for Painters." This does not refer to museum work or even face painting, but the honest garden variety wall and ceiling touching up, the kind that every housewife gets the urge to do, come spring or fall. As a foreword, we are thinking of putting in our book, "Breathes there a woman with soul so dead, she has never longed to paint the kitchen red." Since that bit of vers libre isn't metrically perfect we may have to change "kitchen" to "town," but that's all in the tentative stage.

The idea is that the desire to make our mark in the world, not to mention the breakfast nook and the guest room closet, is deeply instilled in us all. Whether it is a throwback to the interior decorating our ancestors did on the walls of their caves is a debatable point. More likely the seed is first planted when the school teacher gives the kiddies a paint brush and instructs them to do a water-color of a fleur-de-lis or a modernistic scrawl expressing their individuality. Very few of these embryonic daubers grow up into Joe Joneses, but all retain the yen to toy around with a paint brush, a yen that is not restrained by such sissy things as landlords and paneled walls. Moreover the painting proclivity does not sink its fangs into you once but many times. You're quite likely to keep on until you're painting murals and the keeper is saying, "If you think that's bad, you should see the one who thinks he's Napoleon."

But all this pessimistic prologue will avail us naught. You have read the household magazines and they have told you blandly that, "A little bit of paint makes such a difference." Since the landlord gave you a stony stare when you mentioned the subject you have decided to paint the kitchen yourself, and if that's successful, have a go at the back steps and the what-not shelf.

The man at Ye Olde Painte Shoppe will deluge you with instructions on scraping and sandpapering and "giving it two coats," so we've stuck to your purely personal problems, which you will find to be more personal than pure.

First of all, don't buy too much paint. Paint dealers may boycott us for this but we stick to our guns in insisting that an unused can of paint is as dangerous as a bombshell lying around the house. You never can tell when you will return to your home after a bibulous evening, and wake up the next day to find you painted Grandma's priceless mahogany a gleaming orange.

An extra can of paint or two will also make you subject to Problem No. Two, your husband. Now we know he is a problem at best and at painting season he is not even at his best. He will persist in repeating that favorite twinkling bit of masculine humor, to the general effect that all you have to do is give the little woman a paint brush and she will color everything from the living room ceiling to the bird bath. Then, too, he is inclined to be supercilious about your workmanship in the matter of finish and detail. If you know by experience that he is persnickety, we would advise waiting until the week-end, and then letting him wield the brush himself. He will welcome the excuse to demonstrate the artistic ability of the male.

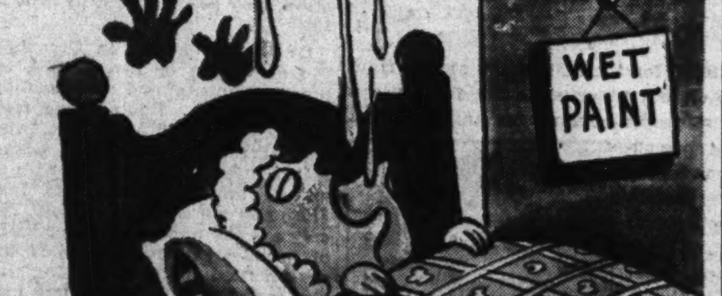
If you can get the master to do the dirty work—and that is no mere figure of speech—your problems are solved, except that he will call you in every few minutes to gloat, "Now that's the way a border should be painted."

If Matey doesn't fall for your clever conniving and you have to do the job yourself, there are two precepts to heed. First, don't think you can start at three in the afternoon and whip up a snazzy job before the Printwhistles come over at eight. Painting is an all-day job. Secondly, outfit yourself properly. While stores do not have a department for painting clothes as they do for gardening and riding, we have designed a painting dress you might rig up. It has two skirts, and the extra one is hiked up around your waist while you work, and let down when you stumble into the living room to set a spell.

We would also advise wearing gloves while you paint, for Hell hath no fury like a woman with paint under her finger nails. Then something should be done about your hair unless you want to be hung like Absalom to the transom. Maybe the safest attire is a uniform like a professional diver's. Such a cover-all arrangement wouldn't be exactly seductive but it would do the trick.

Your next dilemma will come in picking a color. If you are an amateur it would be best not to try anything too exotically modern, like painting three walls cerise and the fourth chartreuse, or combining violent magenta with mashed plum. You'll have trouble enough getting the right shade of the color. The only definite rule that you can follow about paint is that it will either look darker when it's slapped up, or else it won't.

Besides affecting your social standing, the color you select will also have a profound psychological effect on you, at least, so they say. Color will do all sorts of things, also, in making a room look long or short or built on the bias. We remember reading in Winchell's column that a room painted blue will keep the flies away. While we don't like to take issue with as expert a keyhole-peeper as Winchell, we rather doubt it, for our kitchen was painted from a can labeled Sky Blue—the manufacturers evidently having reference to a sky quite unfamiliar to us—and the paint turned out to be the deepest of marine blues, a blue blue if there ever was one. Still the flies moved in early in the season and have given every sign of amiably spending the rest of their natural lives with us, in spite of the discouraging mass slaughters we frequently wage.



PAINT WHICH REFUSES TO DRY AND DROPS IN GLOBULES INTO YOUR OPEN MOUTH AT NIGHT IS SCARCELY CONDUCIVE TO SLEEP.

Pink, they say, will cast a pleasant, healthy glow over everything, including the elephants you may see occasionally trumpeting on your ceiling. Yellow supposedly brings sunshine into your house and many a breakfast time could stand having a little sunshine shed on it. Gray is supposed to be just the thing if you have insomnia. However, if the paint refuses to dry—and that has been known to happen—but instead, drops in globules into your open mouth at night, it would scarcely be conducive to sound slumber.

Remember to take the curtains down when painting the windows, and pictures down when painting the walls. It will save you a lot of trouble identifying the odd lumps under the paint. Having done away with all impedimenta, you square your shoulders and begin to paint—and paint.

Finally the longest day in the year comes to an end. Feeling that you have triumphed in the painting arena you go out behind the garage and remove your spotted garment, sling it in a vat of turpentine and hastily do a Godiva into the house and bathtub. When you emerge, once again in human dress, you gaze at your work with satisfaction. The streaks have almost disappeared. Those few rivulets on the floor can easily be removed. The place where Rover printed his paw mark with all the aplomb of a movie star at Grauman's Chinese, scarcely shows. Now to clean up the cans and brushes. The very thought of it makes you sink wearily in the nearest chair.

There is a rattling at the door and That Man comes banging in, whistling merrily. When he sees you he stops short and inquires wolfishly, "What! Supper not ready?"

It will take him some little time to dislodge the paint can from his head and in the interval you can open a can of beans, and perhaps relax.

Girl about Town
by Clarissa Start

IF YOU happened to visit one of your oldest and dearest women friends last week, and found her sitting on the living room floor, cutting out paper chairs and tables, and pasting them into what looked like one room of a doll house, we hope you didn't withdraw in horror and mentally consign her to zaneyland. If the truth were out, and it might as well be, she was probably one of the students in the four-day school of home decorating conducted by one of the department stores, to let St. Louis women in one the latest low-down in furniture fixing.

Being something of a domestic softie ourselves and hoping to find the secret of those Little Touches That Make All the Difference, we filed meekly into the classroom with the rest of the student body, which ranged from shy eyed newlyweds to little old ladies in lavender, on the first day of lectures.

—o-o—

ALONG WITH the rest, we received a mammoth brown paper affair designed after the kiddie's school satchel. In this we found a pad of ruled notepaper, a neatly sharpened pencil, with a lovely, chewable eraser for thoughtful moments, and "supplies." The supplies consisted of a drawing of an average mediocre living room which the students were to improve tastefully, after thoroughly absorbing the lectures, ad cut-outs of wall paper, rugs, draperies, and furniture to fit in the new and glorified room. The results were to be turned in at the end of the course for judgment.

Mrs. Charlotte Eaton, associate editor of The American Home magazine, gave the first lecture, and we'll bet many a housewife, spurred on by her ringing words of scorn directed against "ivory walls and taupe carpets," and all the other safe but sissified decorating schemes, trotted home with a gleam in her eye and raised the merry old Ned with the family hangout.

—o-o—

BUT, UNRULY HUSBANDS to the contrary, the chief cook and bottle washer should deserve some diversion, and we think this going back to school business might very well put some zest into the old homestead. After all, it's a pretty dispirited woman who doesn't welcome the chance to "do over" the house, if only on paper.

Personally we did quite a charming interior with a daring pink and raspberry combine in the toy house. We even considered entering it in the contest. The thing that deterred us was that we were afraid the judges might investigate and find, to our everlasting shame, that our living room has ivory walls and a taupe carpet.

FOR THE PAST YEAR or so, we have noticed a certain curly haired young man standing on a certain street corner on our daily downtown route. Straight as a sentinel he stands there and alongside him sits a large wagon-like object with sides of canvas. When first we saw him he was wearing an outfit resembling a college R. O. T. C. uniform and we were of the opinion that he was thumbing a ride back to the State U. or possibly a military school, but as time went on, we decided that he must be the real life counterpart of the comic paper's Little Hitchiker, except for the beard, of course.

We took to murmuring a deferential "Nov schmoz ka pop" as we sped by in our horseless carriage, and we lived in hope that some morning he would turn up with a grand piano or a refrigerator instead of the ever-present wagon. Mornings when he didn't appear at all, we found ourselves wondering whether he had been driven away from his post or had finally gotten a ride. Curiosity and mystery lend an aura of quaint charm to the whole affair and he became quite a romantic figure to us, indeed.

But alas, now our bubble has burst and our dream has dissolved. For during the past week, our erstwhile Little Hitchiker has borne a large placard on his canvas wagon. It reads, "Curb service laundry, 15 per cent discount."

—o-o—

REPORT has reached our ears of the following little true life drama that occurred recently in front of one of the larger hotels. A young and comely matron passing by became rather annoyed at some of the admiring, but personal, remarks proffered by young men lounging in front of the hotel. Thinking to impress them with her aloofness to all advances, she decided to engage her little boy trotting alongside, in conversation. She would say something in dulcet tones oozing with motherhood, and he would doubtless reply guilelessly, "Yes, Mother dear." Thereupon, she reasoned, the remnants of her dignity and poise would be restored to her. Sweetly and clearly she addressed her remark to the little man and complacently awaited his dutiful reply. But to her mingled surprise and horror, the usually gentle lad, cocked his head to one side, winked leeringly at her, and said in a loud, rasping voice, "Okay, toots!"

A Woman's Guide to Feminine Finance

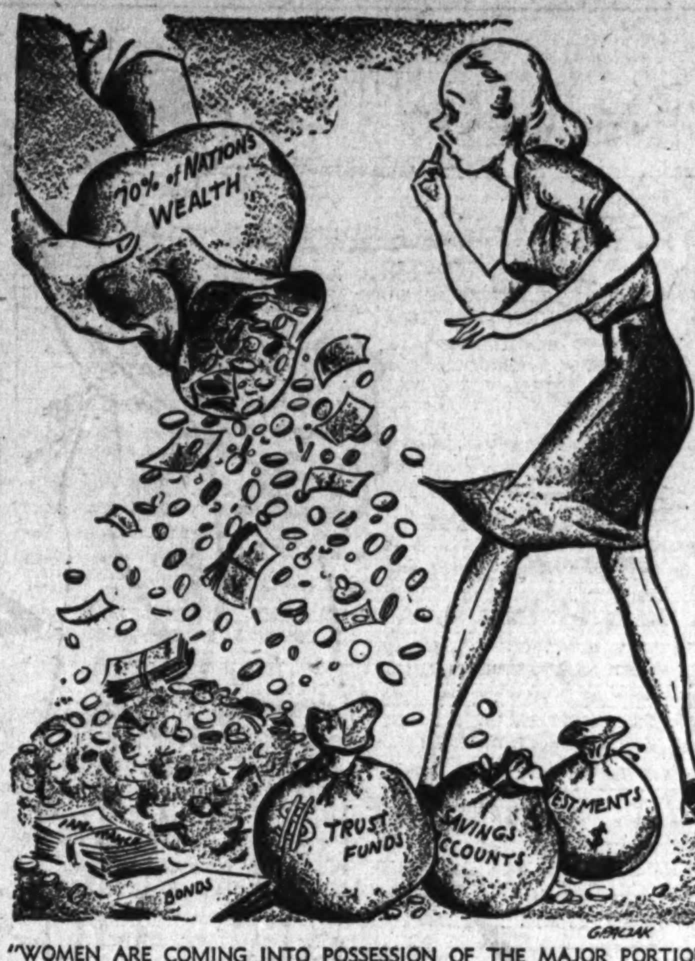
By Ruth MacKay

CHAPTER ONE



"WOMEN ARE COMING INTO POSSESSION OF THE MAJOR PORTION OF THE NATION'S PRIVATE WEALTH."

YOU'RE in the money, whether you know it or not.

You need not be rich.

Yet you're not poor.

Maybe you've never tried on Russian sables, except once at a bridge party, but you "eat regular."

You're not a successful woman stockbroker, or if you are, then you don't need us at all. You never wrote a thesis on economics, or if you did, you don't need us, either. And we'll take for granted that you're not Miss Multimillions (heiress of a First Family) surrounded by cohorts of eager advisors.

You're just you. The girl on the 8:10 bus as fresh-looking as though she had popped out of a milk bath; the bright-eyed woman down the block who goes walking with her children; the amusing proprietor of the hat shop with whom we like to chat; or the skillful designer we know who finds the profits of her deft fingers so baffling.

Every day you open your handbag to pay the butcher, the baker, the gas-station attendant or the bus driver. And then one day you finger a dollar bill and say to yourself, "How little I really know about this money business! What would I do if something happened to Bill?" (he's your husband); or "Father," (he's a darling); or "Tom," (he's your brother). "I wouldn't," you think, "know where to begin."

We understand exactly how you feel. It's like awakening suddenly in the night to discover that the familiar furnishings of your room have taken on strange, unfamiliar outlines and you don't know where you are.

We've awakened like that, too.

And we think you ought to know more about money. For that reason we're going to try to tell as simply, as clearly and as authentically as possible some of the essentials for women.

There is a saying attributed to Artemus Ward: "The trouble isn't that people are too well edicated, but that they know too many things that aren't so."

It's not many generations that women have been "edicated." In a short length of time they have accumulated with remarkable feminine efficiency an assortment of facts which are so, and with equal feminine efficiency an assortment of things which aren't so.

In approaching a subject as complex as money, it's a good plan first of all to clear away the "Aren't So's"—the fallacies you may have been harboring for years along with an aversion to nose veils, perhaps, or turnips. For, in no time at all, fallacies become part of you; you can't think without them; they get all tangled up with your reasoning and before you know it they bar the doorway to new ideas.

Naturally, you don't call them fallacies when they're your own. They're just cherished convictions, or pet theories, or astute observations.

But don't tell us you've never met any of these:

Fallacy No. 1: That the financial world is a man's world with woman still (like Adam's rib) the bone of contention.

This was true for centuries, but now there are queer things going on: women are coming into possession of the major portion of the nation's private wealth. Seventy per cent of it, it is estimated, is in our hands. Woman has become, as one wag puts it, not only the better half, but the better-off half. We are the recipients of 80 per cent of the total life insurance paid to beneficiaries. Sixty-five per cent of the savings accounts are in our names. The retail purchasing power is overwhelmingly ours.

Of course, we don't actually control all this money, for men still turn the giant wheels of industry. But the financial world can't be solely a man's world when woman is preening herself with so generous a portion of the almighty dollar.

Fallacy No. 2: That an effort to learn about money is misdirected energy because, after all, wealth is accumulated largely by men. Men don't like smart women, and if we get "smart" about it, we're apt not to be in the money at all.

Honey child, men, most of them, don't like smart alecks and we don't blame them. They don't like women to outguess them and outtalk them. But, if confusion in the home over family resources adds to the joy of living, then we're a hula dancer. You have to be a very recent bride (with your lacy trousseau still intact) to balance a checkbook each month by writing in "Error of Bank," and get away with it. Or you have to be an exceedingly winning young thing to be indulgently excused by an austere parent for indorsing a check by writing on the back "To Mary from Father on Christmas."

A man may think you charmingly dumb about current events, but he's not half as charmed when you're dumb about currency, especially his. And this is just as true if it's only the boy friend who drops in of an evening to take you to the movies.

Money, unfortunately, isn't everlasting like the eternal hills. Even if you have been clever enough to earn it yourself, it can evaporate like perfume with the stopper out of the bottle. An estate can shrink like a woolen shirt dropped in a wash boiler. Can you think of a better way to use that head of yours than to learn about money, and how best to protect it, recognizing it as a symbol of service, expended effort and human value? As such, surely, it merits your time and thought. And men won't hate you for it. They may likely compliment you, left-handedly, by saying you are getting better looking every day. You'll know what they mean.

Fallacy No. 3: That a woman doesn't need to know much about money. If she hasn't any, what benefit is the knowledge? And if she has, she can always find someone to manage it for her—a good broker, for instance. That's all she needs.

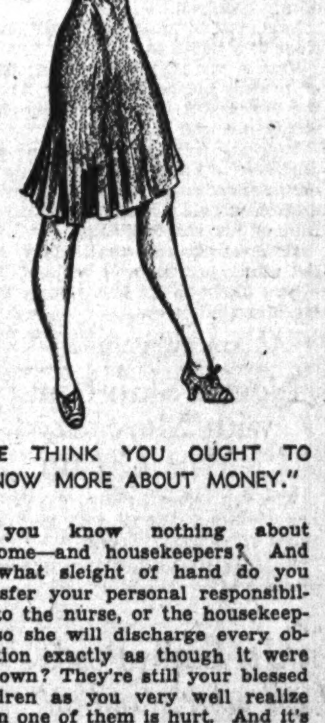
WELL, if she hasn't any money at the moment, there's this to consider—she may have in the future. And the chances are she carries life insurance, or that she is the named beneficiary of an insurance policy. Then she has money even though not immediately available to her. On the other hand, if she already has some money, the assertion that all she requires is someone to manage it for her is equivalent to saying all a mother needs for her children is a good nurse, or all she needs for her home is a good housekeeper.

How do you choose a good nurse if you know nothing about children — and nurses? How do you select a good housekeeper if you know nothing about a home—and housekeepers? And by what sleight of hand do you transfer your personal responsibility to the nurse, or the housekeeper, so she will discharge every obligation exactly as though it were her own? They're still your blessed children as you very well realize when one of them is hurt. And it's still your home as you suddenly recognize when your beloved coffee table is nicked by the vacuum cleaner. And it's still your money, as you are painfully aware, if it is lost. A good adviser, banker, broker, financial consultant or agent of any sort, is invaluable. But how do you choose him if you have no conception of what you can, and should, expect of him? And once chosen, how can you fasten upon him the complete responsibility for your money? He is your adviser. He acts for you. But he isn't you.



"HOW LITTLE I REALLY KNOW ABOUT YOU!!"

"WE THINK YOU OUGHT TO KNOW MORE ABOUT MONEY."

Fallacy No. 4: That finance is like the Einstein theory of relativity; it is presumptuous and hopeless for the average woman to attempt to understand it.

Far be it from us to deny that finance, in its broad sense—the dictionary calls it "the science of monetary affairs"—is a honey of a subject. We'd have to change our stripes before we'd entertain even a feeble hope of mastering it. Yet in its limited, personal sense, as applied to us as individuals, it isn't abstract and incomprehensible, not a thing remote from everyday living. It is possible for the average woman to understand something about the nature of money, its uses and obligations, and possible for her to gather valuable information from the fund of experience and observation surrounding us all. Like so many things, understanding it all hinges on wanting to understand it.

Fallacy No. 5: That finance is a science—didn't the dictionary say so?—and consequently we must listen only to experts.

This is the notion that can put wrinkles on your pretty brow. For finance is not an exact science, and the old rhyme, "birds in a tree agree, why can not we?", was not penned about its most learned exponents.

Why? Because the world is filled with people scurrying around like ants on the surface of the earth. They have to get along with a lot of other little scurrying ants and it isn't any easier for them to agree on the matter of money than on the matter of boundaries or territories, or politics. So there is bound to be divergence of opinion, because finance is a human thing, affected by the human elements of personal prejudice and personal interest, composed of human frailties and blunders. It is not, as we said, an exact science. You cannot pour something into a test tube and have it come out a given substance to cure the monetary ills of man and womankind. Economics (of which finance is one division is a social science, concerning itself with the business activity of, and the effect of this activity upon, the members of human society.

And so that is what throws the experts. They have no occult mind-reading power to predict the future. Much like the famous bird which was supposed to fly backwards (because it didn't care where it was going but liked to see where it had been) the financial expert must fly backwards and depend upon hindsight for his foresight.

Dean Spencer of the University of Chicago School of Business tells a delightful story about the Mississippi River captain who boasted he knew every stone and jut in the river bed. Just then the boat lurched and the captain said, "There's one now."

It's a nice illustration of the human element in business and finance. Like the river captain, the captains of industry may recognize the rocks and juts once they hit them, but they may not, being fallible creatures dealing with other fallible creatures, see the rocks ahead of time or be able to avoid them if they do see them.

Fallacy No. 6: That finance is a secret code, a matter of secret symbols. You have to be "on the inside" or you'll be cleaned out overnight.

Certainly there is some justification for thinking so. Many people not so long ago did come to the sad conclusion that the whole sorry business was not for anyone unless he was "in the know."

Did the neighborhood bank fail, the bank the president of which you had known since he was in knee breeches? Did the bonds, so highly recommended, default? Was the stock, so carefully purchased, worthless?

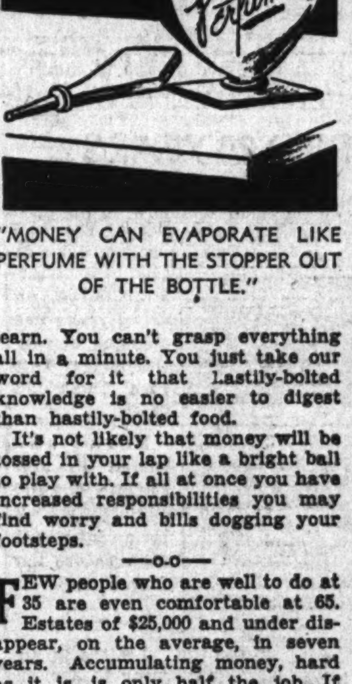
If so, you can hardly be censored for believing it is all something like a secret society and you just don't know the whispered password.

But in reality it is not. You must remember that quite recently we lived through a fantastic era when ever so many people wanted to get rich quick. And the sober, conservative ones (when people got "poor quick") got poor, too Few of us made any attempt to know what we were doing. We just went ahead blindly.

But we needn't have. The financial expert and business forecaster must rely, on the whole, on the same facts and figures accessible to all of us. It's a question of putting two and two together, of sifting facts, and weighing them in the light of past experience, more a matter of business acumen than hidden formulas available only to the few. The experienced eye which glances over a statement of a corporation and lights on "other assets" as not specific enough, is no different from the experienced eye of a shopper who looks at the label on a blanket marked "part wool" and decides it doesn't tell enough.

Fallacy No. 7: That it is hard enough to accumulate any money without worrying about learning how to hold on to it. Time enough for that when the necessity arises.

Don't put it off. When the necessity arises isn't the best time to learn. You can't grasp everything all in a minute. You just take our word for it that hastily-bolted knowledge is no easier to digest than hastily-bolted food.



"MONEY CAN EVAPORATE LIKE PERFUME WITH THE STOPPER OUT OF THE BOTTLE."

It's not likely that money will be tossed in your lap like a bright ball to play with. If all at once you have increased responsibilities you may find worry and bills dogging your footsteps.

—o-o—

FEW people who are well to do at 35 are even comfortable at 65. Estates of $25,000 and under disappear, on the average, in seven years. Accumulating money, hard as it is, is only half the job. If you want money "for keeps" you have to learn the other half.

Fallacy No. 8: That the one thing practically everybody in the world wants is more money, so why don't governments just issue more money and make everybody happy? When you got your share you could go out for dinner all dressed up in that costume jewelry you saw in the window last week. No more scrimping and saving and it wouldn't be a bit hard to take!

The flaw in this reasoning is that it isn't money you really want, but the things it will buy. And increasing the amount of money issued by the Government won't increase the supply of those things. It lowers the purchasing power of money, instead; therefore it takes more money than ordinarily to buy the things you've set your heart on, like the costume jewelry you saw in the window last week.

Fallacy No. 9: That money is wealth.

It's only its first cousin. Wealth, we're told, is an accumulation of economic goods and services. The relation of money to wealth is that money provides wealth when it accomplishes the purpose for which it was intended. It must be transmuted into wealth which, in its turn, satisfies a human want.

Fallacy No. 10: That to a woman money all her own is heaven on earth; that it spells blissful freedom; that it places her in that most enviable of all states where she can do as she wishes.

And perhaps you're pretty well convinced of this, too! Especially so on the first of the month when you are trying to figure just where the family allowance went, or the middle of the month when you are trying to expand a contracted income to meet the requirements of different ages and temperaments in your household, or the Sunday morning when you are trying to hold your tongue after the Saturday night your husband invited all those people and spent your careful savings in one grand, needless gesture of hospitality.

UH-HUH. We guessed it. You've thought just heaps of times that a little money all your own would be the Elysian fields through which you could wander without a care or anxiety. You've even looked with wistful eyes upon your neighbor of whom someone has whispered, "She has private means." How lovely not to be accountable to anyone!

Who isn't accountable? All of us have to reckon with someone, if only with ourselves. What a lot nicer world it would be if we could remember that there is no freedom without obligation, no privilege without responsibility. They go together like pancakes and syrup, or Amos and Andy.

Fallacy No. 11: Well, let's assume we do dig into the subject. We run into an impasse immediately, for the language of money, we discover, is a foreign tongue to a woman. It's a gentleman's jargon, not a lady's lingo. When a man looks up from the morning paper and says, "Um-m. Rails are firm," the wife just naturally nibbles her toast and thinks of the bumpy roadbed she took Junior on last Summer.

It is a sort of an abracadabra, we admit. But it needn't be.

Remember the A's you got in college? Remember the A's you used to be able to concentrate, when all around you they were opening packages from home?

It's fun to study again. Much more fun than listening to your friend's reducing program, or their domestic help problems.

So, what are we waiting for?

The first assignment is a lesson in forgetting. Forget your favorite fallacies, though you hate to part with them. Begin with a fresh page. Woman's whole place in the scheme of things has changed incredibly since great-grandma was a girl in danger of being scalped by the Indians when she went to the store. Woman's economic status is so new it warrants a new viewpoint.

The second assignment is—read. Make it a habit of reading a financial magazine despite the fact that some of the articles may not be particularly interesting to you. Read the business news of a newspaper—the want ads, the real estate notices, and the stories on the financial page. These financial page stories are not written for brokers any more than fashion notes are for modistes or book reviews for booksellers. They represent the newspaper's recognition of the desire and the right of its readers to know what is going on in business. They are for people, and you're people!

And the last assignment is—learn the most commonly used phrases in finance. (You couldn't bake a very good cake if you didn't know what "tbsp" stood for, could you? You couldn't follow a Vogue pattern successfully if you couldn't decipher it, could you?) We know you get bored easily, and we do, too. So there's no point of foisting a lengthy glossary on you, but only necessary to include a few terms (not too technical and not defined in technical language), when we dip into insurance, real estate, investments, wills and other things which, one way or another put you "in the money" and, we hope, keep you snugly and securely there.

Children and Their Lack of Spiritual Food

"It's Appalling That They Should Have No Contact With Things of Spirit.",

By Elsie Robinson

I DON'T know what we can do about it, but it seems to me dreadful that our children should grow up without any spiritual instruction.

Mind you, I'm not saying "religious instruction" for it's plain that any effort to provide such courses in our public schools would start endless, bitter controversy. But it's appalling that youngsters should be allowed to grow from infancy to maturity without some sort of daily contact with the things of the spirit—some daily glimpse of those shining visions which have lifted men above the beasts.

Things weren't any better a generation ago, as far as the schools went. But the whole atmosphere of life was different. There was a sort of social conscience then—a general attitude about honesty and courage, purity and tenderness, that no child could escape.

As if goodness were a going business in which everyone was a partner. It wasn't confined to the "nice" people or the "nice" places. It was everywhere. You couldn't any more dodge that side of life than you could dodge the air or the rain.

—o-o—

OF COURSE, most of us went to Sunday school, too. Sunday school took the place of all sorts of present-day diversions. It was our social as well as our religious center. But I doubt if, in the long run, it was any more instrumental in civilizing us youngsters than the general social attitude.

I'm always amazed when I read those explosive denunciations of youthful criminals. What else can we expect? We've trained them since they were babies, to function in a purely materialistic world. We've advocated shrewdness, power—eulogized men and women who "made good."

And to the simple mind of the average tenement child, what can "making good" possibly mean but making money? Lots of money—as rapidly and ruthlessly as possible. Then why, I repeat, should we be surprised when that child puts our preaching into practice at his or her first opportunity.

Or the girls. We're horrified when a girl "goes wrong." But attend any movie house for one month and try to imagine yourself into the mind of 12-year-old Bessie creeping away from the cluttered sordidness of some apartment or flat to dream of Prince Charming. What answer does the modern film give to that young dream? Who lives in those glamorous penthouses, those enchanting villas—and how do they contrive to live there? And how does it all add up for shabby little Bess?

—o-o—

AND THE STORY of Jesus — a child growing up and never knowing of His friendliness—how brave He was—how kind to little children. Never knowing Him!—even the thought of it fills me with a sense of loss. Not religious at all. But a terribl elack, like never having had a friend or a dog. Or never seeing the mountains—or the sea! Yet there are thousands of youngsters like that.

All these amazing new departments of education—all these floods and floods of scientific imagination—but never a word—in all the day of that lovely, mysterious world of the spirit which lies like a shining sheath around the small dark kernel of our materialism. Then we wonder why they're little barbarians.

Isn't there something we can do?

Let Me Suggest

By Josephine Walter

IF MRS. ROOSEVELT has her way, we are likely to develop into a race of plate jugglers. For, in awarding a prize to a house without a dining room, in a recent contest conducted by a national women's magazine, she stated that she felt that the dining room was the most useless room in the house, being used at the most about three hours out of the day. Now, of course, she didn't mean that she could struggle along in the White House without a special place to seat the hordes that attend a State dinner but she thought that the average family might well eliminate the dining room in favor of other rooms that might be of more use.

Well, I must admit that I, for one, agree. A dining room, of course, is a pleasant and gracious place for entertaining, and yet, if a house is small and certain things must be sacrificed, this is the first room that I would give up. And, frequently, in an apartment especially, where space is at a premium, the dining room might well be put to other uses.

Where a house is being built with the idea of having no dining room, it is usually possible to plan the living room so that there is a natural and rather secluded spot for dining, either in an ell, a bay or in a portion of the room that may be set off on occasion by screens. Certainly, a large living room with space available for dining is far preferable to two tiny, cut up rooms which are neither adequate for living or dining.

—o-o—

In an apartment, a wise occupant will often find means of converting the dining room to other uses. A music room or a library may be used many hours during the day and yet may be arranged in such a way that it is possible to have a table and chairs in the room that may be used for comfortable dining. A bridge setup may often serve the dual purpose of providing for card playing and dining as well, an extra top fitting over the top of the card table providing ample room for a dinner party.

—o-o—

● THE FRENCH, of all people, not only understand the art of dining but they understand the art of dining all over the house as well. They are apt to have breakfast in their bedrooms before a roaring fire, lunch in any room that provides a garden view and dinner anywhere in the house depending on the number and type of guests who have been invited. Americans, on the other hand, are apt to feel that the dining room is the place for eating and therefore that is the place one must eat. It is only within the last few years that it has become at all possible to get people here to eat out-of-doors on an open terrace. A number of little tables, spread about the house, which may be used for individual service, is an excellent system for having perambulating meals.

DURING THE PAST few months, I have been avidly watching a house have its face lifted and it has truly been an exciting and stimulating experience. It is a house in Hampton Park that I first became acquainted with some months ago when a friend asked if I would look at it and see if it had any possibilities. Well I, with what I thought was excellent judgment, dissuaded her from buying it with the idea of remodeling, for it looked pretty hopeless to me. After that, every time I passed the house I averted my eyes for its gaunt coldness seemed to reproach me for condemning it to uselessness.

—o-o—

One day, however, as I glanced at it in passing, I noted unwonted activity about the place. And then I set myself to watch and justify my judgment, for what could possibly be developed from that drab exterior? Tall, three-storied, badly proportioned, with cracked stucco walls and porches hanging on for dear life; how could anyone hope to make a livable home from such a beginning? And then, as I watched, a miracle seemed to occur before my very eyes. First, the whole top floor was chopped off and from an ungainly three-story affair, it soon became a well-proportioned, two-story house. Old porches were knocked away, new ones added; outside walls were repaired and painted; some new windows and doors were added.

—o-o—

● AND LO and a couple of beholds, one day the full extent of the change burst upon me. From a nondescript beginning of what was intended to be Spanish architecture, this ugly duckling had been metamorphosed into a purely modern house, excellent in design and authentic in effect. Glass brick; a semi-circular porch with typical plain, rounded, supporting columns; an exterior of gleaming whiteness; these are but a few of the features that assisted in giving this house its truly modern effect. I was no little chagrined to discover that the house that I thought was incapable of developing into an average house, had turned into one of modern design that would please the most critical. And there must be hundreds of houses in this city, condemned to uselessness, which, with thought and effort, might readily be turned into livable and attractive dwellings.

It May Be Slavery But— I Like It

By Florence Howell

IN order to dispel any doubts as to my knowing what I am talking about, let me state that I shall have been married 20 years come next November, and I have four children ranging in ages from 6 to 18.

Before I was "took in slavery" I was a very fair stenographer. I am modest, you see. I believe that I could still go back to my old job and make a decent showing—but I don't want to. I'm having too much fun where I am.

Probably I have got along with as little outside help as anyone could and still manage a house and a family the size of ours. At the present time I have no outside help. Still I find time for the things that I really want to do.

And I might add that an article such as that by Sara S. Moser, "Housewives Are Slaves," makes me see red, green, not to mention purple.

To my notion no married woman has a right to seek a job outside her home unless her husband is physically unable to earn an adequate living for his wife and their children.

Housewives are no more slaves than secretaries, stenographers, telephone girls, or career women. They are no more slaves than the husbands who are down town earning the money to furnish the house, the table and the permanent waves.

Ask any of the women my own age who have stuck to their jobs for the same number of years that I have been keeping house, and listen carefully to their answers. They think that the housewives have a snap. They are sure that their job is the most monotonous on the face of the earth.

If the business woman awakens some morning with a headache she reaches for the aspirin and goes on to the office. The housewife with a migraine may rouse herself enough to get husband's breakfast and push the kids out of the door and on toward school, but the chances are that after the dishes are done she will decide that the living room windows can wait until tomorrow and she will lie on the day-bed until it is time for the next meal.

Can you picture her working sister telling the boss that his letters can wait until some other time, while she takes a nap?

The trouble is that most girls don't look quite far enough ahead when getting married. They see a good-looking man and decide that they would like to live with him—for a while anyway. They don't look the job over and see that they are signing a contract to do certain things that are going to be, or should be, permanent.

If a girl selected her office job that way it wouldn't be so tragic. She could change without going to court. But she uses a different system. She may like the cut of her employer's clothes, but if the work isn't suited to her abilities, she looks somewhere else.

With marriage, girls take the man and then decide that they have been cheated if they have to exert themselves to keep his house and rear his children.

Miss Moser says that the modern home is a "mass of uninspiring details, petty odd jobs, constant interruptions and irritations."

So is any job. With anything that is done, even with such tripe as Miss Moser writes, there must be revisions, rewriting, irritating interruptions, and other uninspiring things. Of course, office work always goes smoothly.

Human beings can't always sit on the hilltops and dream. Sometimes, nay quite often, they must descend and mingle with the common things of life.

There are our Schumann-Heinks, our Mary Roberts Rineharts, of course. They could no more be stopped than the hurricane. They can be mothers and career women, but they, too, must have had a few petty details to endure.

The average woman, if she wants real success, must find it in being a mother and a homemaker.

—o-o—

MISS MOSER suggests that after the children are over being "very young" a mother should go out and make a place for herself in the world.

And may I inquire, "Doing what?" Messing around in her husband's business and driving him crazy, or earning a few dollars in some other woman's husband's office and spending them on dishes that the incompetent maid breaks and on the food she wastes?

It has been my own experience that no matter how old a child gets, so long as he calls a place home he wants to know that mother is there when he arrives from school, from work, from play.

It gives a sense of security that the child of a working mother doesn't have. Security isn't represented to children by the presence of Marie, the maid, by an empty house, or by having to go over to Mrs. Brown's until mother appears.

Most housewives are slaves because they have the wrong attitude toward their work.

They do not look upon their housework as a job, but they seem to regard it as something detestable that is beneath their dignity to perform.

Lack of plan makes anything hard work. It isn't necessary to stick so closely to any work outline that it can't be changed even if there is a funeral in the family, but a planned routine makes for leisure, and in this day of perfected household appliances there is no excuse for any woman not having her evenings and most of her afternoons free—if she is any manager at all.

If she is, as Miss Moser's article suggests, "lonely and non-social," there are plenty of ways that she may fill in the gaps. There is always her church. There are many clubs and organizations that are very worth while. There are extension courses for the ambitious. Not many homemakers of my acquaintance are "non-social" unless they desire to be.

And the crowning insult hurled by Miss Moser is the statement that "seldom is there the satisfaction of a permanent achievement."

Apparently the lady never has sat in an audience and witnessed her first born presented with his high school diploma. Perhaps she hasn't experienced the thrill of hearing her son sing in the church choir. Maybe her daughters, if she has any, haven't musical talent and have never played at recitals with mother sitting in the audience with an almost bursting heart.

Sentimental? Yes, thank goodness. I am sentimental. But I'll be darned if I'm old-fashioned. I think that my feelings toward my children are the same that every other mother feels toward her offspring. My young may not seem unusual to other people, but they look like a million dollars to me. They're my acheivements.

—o-o—

PERMANENT achievement! If four children doing things in school plays, in glee clubs, in university work aren't splendid permanent achievements, then there's nothing permanent in this whole wide world. And when I see them accomplishing things that I wanted to do and couldn't for one reason or another, I forget that I'm a housewife, and as Miss Moser would have it, a slave. I'm just a mother and a sight happier than if I had a job earning a trifling salary and ont getting to watch the development of my children.

Last, but by no means least, consider the husband.

Please, wives, leave him a shred of pride. Look about you. Aren't the successful men those who had to get out and scratch?

It gives a man a sense of importance to know that on his shoulders rests the wellbeing of his wife and children. A working wife robs him of his responsibility.

If John knows that Mary can get along just as well without him—he's likely to let her. Don't ever let him find it out.

WINNER MARRIED 20 YEARS

MRS. FLORENCE L. HOWELL of Jerseyville, Ill., winner of $25 for having submitted the best answer, in the opinion of the judges, to the article of two weeks ago, "Housewives Are Slaves," is 42 years old and has been married for 20 years. Her husband, Fred W. Howell, has been County Judge of Jerseyville County for the past 12 years. Previously, he served a term as County Treasurer.

They have four children, Stanley, 18, a freshman at the University of Illinois; Marguerite, 16, a high school student; Patsy, 11, and Harry, 6.

MRS. FLORENCE L. HOWELL

Mrs. Howell is a member of the Jerseyville Women's Club, the American Legion Auxiliary and teaches a Sunday school class at the Presbyterian Church, an activity she has engaged in continuously for the last 25 years.

Born and reared in Jerseyville, she did clerical work for an insurance firm before her marriage.

The First Book To Select for Child's Library

Patri Makes Recommendation in Reply to Parents' Frequent Questions.

By Angelo Patri

MORE than once a month the question comes, "What book can I give my child that will help him, or her, to form a fine character, to understand the real values of life? I'd like one that gave him a fine cultural background, too. So many books for young people seem to be written for the day, like the ads in the papers, to be read and done with. I want something that will stay by him."

To all such searchers I have one book to offer, one that serves as a guide for character, that offers the rarest culture, that will stand by him, a fountain of wisdom and inspiration, all his days. The Bible.

—o-o—

EVERYTHING a teacher or parent needs in this relation is found there. Its wisdom is boundless, its culture rich beyond human power to imbibe; its inspiration beauty, measureless, beyond all understanding, uplifting and sustaining.

The Bible can be had for little money. Anybody who can read may possess it. Yet it is so often overlooked in the eager search for the latest word on what to do for the ailing generation. Within reach it lies holding the secrets of the psychologists, the psychiatrists, the scientists, the poets, the prophets and teachers of the ages. The history of human struggle, suffering, aspiration and victory are there and so are the records of sin, sorrow and tragic failure.

Civilized peoples live by the Ten Commandments. They are recorded in the Bible. If there were no other code, no other guide for those who deal with children, there it is, perfected. A life developed on that law cannot fail.

Gentle people live by the Golden Rule. It is in the Bible. If all other codes, all other laws ceased to function, this one only remaining, it would be enough to hold the world of men together in peace and prosperity.

—o-o—

THE LITERATURE of the Bible is rich, beautiful in expression, profound in its philosophy, inspiring in its truth. If a boy knows the Book of Proverbs well, he has in his mind the foundation of wisdom, a marked way of life, rich in understanding of men and their ways, of life and its meanings.

The Psalms of David are filled with spiritual beauty. In them is comfort for the lonely, the sick and the dying; courage for the faltering, hope for the oppressed, joy for the aspiring soul. In them is the poetry of life, the music of the soul. The young person who knows those Psalms has a store of spiritual strength that will sustain him down to old age and beyond.

There is no human need of the spirit that cannot be satisfied in the reading of this old book. It should be the first book in a child's library, and it should be read and reread until its essence sinks into the very soul of its reader. Whatever your religion, whatever your faith, or lack of it, I commend the Bible to you, for it is beyond creed, beyond all littleness of human thinking. The Book.

"What I would like you to tell me, did I do the right thing? I will be deeply grateful if you will take time to answer.

Yours truly,
(Signed) Mrs. A. O."

My answer follows:

"Granting that the lobsters that you received were alive when packed in ice for shipment, but appeared lifeless when you unpacked them, this did not indicate that they were unfit for food.

"You could have with all safety plunged them into boiling water, boiling them the required length of time, according to weight, and the meat would have been just as good and wholesome to eat as if the lobsters were alive and kicking when received.

"Lobsters do die in transit, but if too much time does not elapse, and the lobsters have been kept at a fairly even temperature, they are perfectly good to eat."

—o-o—

I don't believe there was a restaurant either in Chicago or New York that sold more lobsters than we did in Rector's. Our lobster shipper in Boston and in Maine used the utmost care in seeing that our lobsters were alive and also they were properly packed in ice and seaweed. These lobsters arrived in barrels and each one of them was carefully examined. True, we did find perhaps two or three out of the shipment that were not alive, but they were not thrown out. Instead, these lobsters were immediately placed in a large pot to boil and later to be used in salads or reheats such as lobster Newburg.

Personally, I would not eat any shellfish, which includes hard and soft shell crabs and shrimp, if I knew that they had been dead for some time and had not been kept under proper refrigeration.

—o-o—

Fresh crab meat which is shipped out of Virginia and Maryland in cans (these cans are not hermetically sealed, but the covers are tied on with a piece of white cord), is, of course, cooked. When this meat is removed from the crabs it is immediately packed in one-pound cans and the covered cans are packed in ice and promptly shipped out. It is extremely perishable and should not be kept longer than one day. Canned crab meat which is hermetically sealed can be kept on the pantry shelf almost indefinitely.

—o-o—

● FREQUENTLY there appeared on the menu of Rector's a dish that was very popular. It was known as Seafood Newburg, and consisted of several varieties of shellfish. Here is the recipe:

Two and one-half cups rich cream sauce.

Two egg yolks, well beaten.

Three cups cooked seafood (crab meat, shrimp, lobster).

Two Tablespoons butter.

Four tablespoons sherry.

Salt and light pinch cayenne pepper.

When cream sauce has reached boiling point remove from fire and slowly blend in egg yolks. Then add seafood (which can be either fresh or canned), butter, sherry and seasonings. Do not allow sauce to boil again, but it can be kept hot by placing saucepan over hot water. Serve with triangles of freshly made toast or in patty shells. When oysters are in season add six or eight medium sized ones which have been poached in their own liquor for three minutes. They can be added along with the mixed seafood.

CODFISH PUFFS are nice for a Sunday morning breakfast.

Two cups shredded codfish.

Two cups freshly boiled riced potatoes.

One tablespoon butter.

One teaspoon grated onion.

Two eggs, well beaten.

One-quarter teaspoon white pepper.

Freshen codfish by tieing in piece of cheese cloth and squeezing in cold water. Add remaining ingredients and beat with a fork until thoroughly mixed. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat (hot enough to brow a one-inch cube of bread in 60 seconds) until nicely browned. Drain on unglazed paper and serve with special tomato sauce, made as follows:

One-half cup melted butter.

One-half cup chili sauce.

One-half cup ketchup.

LIONEL BARRYMORE, ILL, ORDERED TO REST

By H. H. Niemeyer

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 15.

WHEN the cinema customers see Lionel Barrymore in "Young Dr. Kildare," which has just been finished, they will get their last view of the actor on the screen for some time. It is highly probable even that this will be his last picture. Barrymore is a sick and crippled man and his doctors have ordered him to take a rest which might easily stretch into retirement.

Of course no Barrymore ever admits retirement. Sister Ethel was supposed to be all washed up on the stage a year or so ago but came back with a smash in "White Oaks," playing an 80-year-old grandmother. John has been tagged as through both on the stage and screen but is doing the best work of his career right now in pictures and next January will appear on Broadway in the new Brock Pemberton production, "My Dear Children." Before he goes East for that John is to make two more films, "The Great Man Votes," for RKO, and "Midnight," for Paramount.

Lionel Barrymore's situation, however, is different. The eldest of the Barrymore tribe—he is 61, a year older than Ethel—has been a sick man for some time and a crippled leg has been giving him increasing trouble. In his recent picture, "You Can't Take It With You," he played all of his scenes on crutches. A line was inserted in the dialogue to make it appear as though the piece called for the props but, actually, such was not the case. Barrymore could not get around without the assistance. As far back as "A Yank at Oxford," in which he played Robert Taylor's father, close observers were able to notice that Barrymore had difficulty in walking and noticed how he held on to convenient furniture as he moved.

Lionel had expected that the crowning point of his picture career would come with his playing Scrooge in Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" which MGM had intended to release next December. Now he is definitely out of the role. His retirement from pictures would be a blow to the fans for Lionel Barrymore has come to be looked upon as the No. 1 portrayer of kindly old gentlemen.

—o-o—

THE FILM MOGULS will watch brother John's return to the stage in "My Dear Children" with considerable interest, for the reason that this Barrymore has insisted for some time that he could not memorize the lines he is called upon to speak in his films. And memorizing picture lines is not a very serious task, since only a scene is made at a time, with long intervals, which might be devoted to study, in between. John, however, just couldn't memorize and everything he has to say is written, in chalk, on a great blackboard which is kept out of sight of the camera, but still within John's vision. Being very near-sighted, it is surprising that he can read the lines at any distance, but read them he does and he is such a perfect actor that he shows no signs of squinting or of making any effort. Maybe, when he goes back to the stage, his blackboard will go along and be concealed in the wings or in the footlight depression.

IN OUR SET—Dan Mainwaring, Warner publicity man, is retiring from the praise racket to confine himself entirely to authoring. His fifth novel, "Then There Were Three," is just about due off the presses. Mainwaring writes under the name of Geoffrey Homes . . . George Raft, who has been under suspension at Paramount for two months, is back on the payroll again and has been cast for a part in "The Lady From Kentucky" . . . Ann Sheridan, just divorced from Eddie Norris, was the third red-haired girl who had been his wife, Lona Andrews and Virginia Hiller, Nos. 1 and 2, were both brick tops and now he seems to be lining up Maxine Lewis, who is also flame-colored . . . Dave Selznick now says that "Gone With the Wind" will positively start blowing in January. Margaret Tallichet, former Paramount stenographer and a Selznick discovery, will be in the cast, but will not play Scarlett.

HUMPHREY BOGART is this kind of a man. He'll leave his shirt tail out or he'll tuck it inside his trousers, just as the spirit moves him. Inventors and the United States Patent Office can try all the tricks they wish with the tail of the shirt, but Bogart will decide all such matters for himself.

He has a few tailless shirts, the kind that look a little like a coat and more like a pajama top. He wears his plain, without flowers or wallpaper patterns. With this actor comfort is more important than elegance, although he can, at times, be as elegant as the next male.

The Patent Office in Washington has recently reported an unusual amount of activity among inventors that concerns the shirt tail. Not content with their efforts to bring it out in the open, they have invented shirts that fasten to buttons at the top of the pants, that turn into underwear below the waistline and an abbreviated tailless shirt that buttons to the inside of the coat.

All of these ideas leave Bogart, busy now at Warners, with a heavy role in "Crime Is a Racket," absolutely cold.

"The coat shirt is a blessing for the lazy man," he says, "and I'll confess I'm lazy, even though I work hard. The new inventions reported by the Patent Office only complicate the wardrobe, in my opinion. I'll not 'carry on' for them any further."

Tulle Drapery

The appearance of mannequins modeling debutante frocks with tulle draped shoulders in a recent fashion display has caused many spectators to wonder whether the Veiled Prophet will witness a new type of veiled decolletage when he pays his annual visit to St. Louis. Tulle drapery in pastel tints was used for this departure in evening fashions and reminded of the demure fashions prevalent during the Victorian era. Delicate pink, pale blue, mauve and orchid were the shades used for soft folds of the transparent material covering bare necks and shoulders.

Jitter Jackets

The jitter jacket is taking the college world by storm. Freshmen, seniors, and even sisters at home are all wearing it. The jitter jacket is made of soft suede-finished material in flattering beige and chamois shades. Girls mix their jitters any way they like, for these fun motifs come separate in packages of 12, ready to pre : on the jacket with a hot iron. They are made of felt with a special adhesive on the back that assures their sticking through fair and rough weather and dry cleaning, too.

Similar Styling Noted in Cloth And Fur Coats

Diversion of Interest in Fitted Models and Straight Silhouetes.

By Sylvia Stiles

IT'S time to be thinking about the choice of a winter coat, whether it will be of fur or cloth, whether it will be a straight silhouette or swing into exaggerated hemline fullness and whether it will be black or of one of the popular colors.

Much similarity of styling is observed between the fur and the cloth coats now that the furriers are handling pelts as though they were supple fabrics. Both show a division of interest in straight silhouettes and extremely fitted lines with no half-way attention to either one. If the straight hanging mode is adopted, then all of the trimming and details of tailoring are concentrated upon making the most of this silhouette. If the choice is fitted there is the same attention to an emphasis upon tiny waistlines and wide hemlines.

Although fur is of much importance in the selection of most winter coats, it is interesting to discover that some of the smartest models in the shops are made without any fur trimming. This is true of both the straight and fitted types and especially noteworthy in the latter mode that is devoted primarily to dressmaker themes. Some of these coats are collarless, another striking innovation for cold weather, although they do fit snugly at a high neckline. The addition of a handsome fur scarf supplies an individualistic touch that is more essential to chic this season than the careful adherence to a set mode in the application of fur trimming.

There is much attention to fine details of tailoring in the coats that bear the stamp of newness. Yokes, for example, are popular and may be of fur or fabric. Shoulders are intricately cut so that there is an upward swing to the top of the sleeves. While the shoulder line is wide owing to the new bulk that characterizes the coats, it is subtle in its display of breadth.

WAISTLINES OF the fitted coats are nipped in with rows of tiny tucks, unexpected pleats that supply much fullness in the skirt section or by darts that are carefully placed. The bloused suggestion that is being featured so extensively serves to reduce the apparent size of the waistline and also to provide a flattering hipline. This bloused silhouette also assists in the apparent lowering of the waistline, a point that also is becoming to many women.

The coat which has sleeves made entirely of fur looks best when the silhouette is straight so we find many versions of this theme in the new collections. Often the yoke, as well as the sleeves, is made entirely of fur and it is likely to be a long-haired fur rather than a short one which is used successfully in the development of this model.

The vogue of high hairdresses has influenced the style of coat collars. Many of the collars stand up extremely high at the back and sides rather than lying flat and covering the shoulders.

The black coat continues to be the classical favorite, but there is an increased interest in mink trimming to relieve the somberness of an all-black wrap.

—o-o—

DARK COLORED negligees and nightgowns that match in fabric as well as shade indicate a trend in boudoir wear that is of increasing style interest. Forest brown satin, for example, is a tone that is seen in satins while wine red, royal blue and more vivid reds are seen in the newest collections. Many of the gowns are designed like evening dresses with short puffed sleeves, wide skirt sections shirred to fitted girdles and much lace and ribbon trimming. The heavy gown accompanied by a matching sheer negligee is another trend that is being promoted for the autumn.

—o-o—

A FULL LENGTH cape of Scotch plaid accompanies a sports suit that a woman who spends much time in the country will like. The cape also will prove practical for football games and for general outdoor wear because it is wool lined and treated so that it is water repellent. Interesting use is made of the patterned fabric with alternating panels cut on the bias of the material. A short jacketed suit, which is part of the ensemble, combines the plaid and solid colored material of which the lining is made.

—o-o—

ENTIRE DRESSES and suits that are made of suede are among the most colorful and practical of all the active sports costumes shown this season. Most of the skirts are gored models fastening with a zipper at the side, although the button-down-the-front type is seen occasionally. Regulation tailored skirts are designed to be worn with these skirts, as are belted jackets and lumber jackets which have knitted sleeves and trimming. Deep tones of green, blue and brown are the autumn favorites.

FASHION SUGGESTIONS FOR HOME DRESSMAKERS

By Kay Daniels

A GOOD dressmaker in this day of style supremacy naturally knows more than the art of sewing. In fact she is first to keep an eye on the launching of new styles. For, in every season there is some trick of design or styling that labels a dress new and smart, and the discovery of that trick goes a long way to giving the dressmaker her cue to unusual and individual treatments.

Any woman adept at making her own clothes can do the same thing today. Watch the style creations as they are introduced in the style salons, and choose a style motif for yourself that you particularly like. Today, this can be carried out with a single trimming motif or a color motif. The important thing is to decide upon the motif, before planning your dress. After you have once planned a motif, the fabric, color and style of the dress present no problems whatever.

Take, for example, the chatelaine motif. Marcel Rochas makes an all-black wool dress with long sleeves, slim skirt and high neckline—the details of the bodice may include pockets or interesting seams—if they fit well, they are all subordinated to his chatelaine motif, which is the most prominent part of the frock. A group of gold chains with a large ornament or other trinkets dangling from each end is pinned up under the left shoulder, and draped to another point on the bodice, wherever it makes the best line. This kind of motif is smart applied to wool or silk, and the fabric may be a smooth or mossy surface, or a jacquard or nubby wool—use it specially with all-black, and repeat the gold note in some other part of your costume.

The embroidered or jeweled note in color is another motif that is extremely effective and easy to use. Balenciago, one of the newly discussed couturiers making fashion history, has shown some lovely dresses with beautiful lines, sleekly draped, with a single huge colored motif marking some strategic point on the dress. We saw one in shades of Persian blue and silver at a line ending at the left side of the waistline. This was the only note of color on the dress which was black, but the profile hat, also black, had a waistlength sheer scaff in the same shade of blue, which the model had draped over her shoulder. The effect was fascinating in its simplicity and color tone.

Of course there are many other equally effective motifs that the dressmaker at home might borrow from the French creations, applicable to both day and evening dresses. Like Molyneux's beautiful black lace with a deep flounce of the lace around the low decolletage raised at the shoulder line by placing a big yellow rose under the lace and over each shoulder. This is matched by another yellow rose worn in the hair.

The style motif is one of the most interesting ideas around which to plan a dress, for it eliminates all problems of trimming as well as fabric selection. The selection of the motif is altered somewhat by the color of the dress. With black, we have gold, metal and all the colors for contrast. With the olive and yellow-greens, we have the gold chatelaine, the wood jewelry, the pigskin and reptile leathers for belts and buttons, and particularly the topaz clips of many stones that are beautiful complements to green silk.

The wine silks, and in fact the whole range of pinks through orchid and rouge red are often contrasted with velvet or velveteen in darker shade and when this is your motif, be wary of using too many accessories of a different character. The contrast of the fabric is sufficient, and much smarter without additional embellishment.

There are many more ideas you will think of yourself, especially when you see your next fashion show, and the announcer introduces "this little dressmaker model for only $59.50," while you are mentally planning your own interpretation at much less cost.

Coffee for the Party.

If your percolator holds fewer cups of coffee than the guests at your party, make the coffee doubly strong and when pouring, add boiling water to each cup. It will do nicely in an emergency.

"Unnecessary Things Give Life Charm"

Statement Made in Connection With Monograms for Sheets.

By Elizabeth Boykin

I WOULDN'T trust my best friend to wash my blankets. And monograms are something that I'm sentimental about, too—they're so much more personal is a woman does them herself and tries to put a bit of her own individuality into them. It's a lot of work, certainly, but isn't everything work that's worth while? Always it's the extra unnecessary things that give life its graciousness and charm.

The other day I saw some sheets that took my eye—white percale they were with appliqued hems of soft pink. Then a row of tulips in white over the pink—the stems that reached down over the white were pink (as illustrated.) Then below were plain embroidered monograms.

Another pair of sheets that I liked in the same collection had big appliqued monograms of Scotch plaid cotton. Wouldn't that be elegant for a masculine room? Especially if you should make a quilt of the same plaid (for there's no law that quilts have to be piced)—plenty of materials in gay patterns make lovely quilts, you know.)

Very fastidious indeed are sprigged percale sheets. Colored percale sheets are by no means out, while sheets with colored borders are still quite popular. You can buy lovely sheets with scalloped, hemstitched or featherstitched hems if you don't feel up to doing that work yourself. For that matter you can buy sheets with your own initial or monogram at surprisingly reasonable cost.

Have you heard of the new paper sheets? They're quite something and should be very revolutionary. They're finished in style with hemstitched hems and everything. They'll last four nights and then—no laundry to bother about. Bring them on. I'll try anything once!

If you want the charm of sparkling teeth
Use Powder

Do As Your Dentist Does—
when he cleans your teeth

NOTHING else cleans and polishes teeth more quickly and leaves them more naturally white—than POWDER.

That is why your dentist, when cleaning your teeth, as you know—almost always uses powder.

All Cleansing Properties

As it is only the powder part of most dentifrices that cleans, a dentifrice that is all powder just naturally cleans effectively. Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is ALL POWDER—all cleansing properties.

For over seventy years many dentists everywhere have prescribed Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder because normal teeth simply cannot remain dull and dingy looking when it is used.

No Acid, No Grit or Pumice

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder cleans and polishes the teeth in a harmless, practical way that leaves them sparkling with natural brightness. It leaves your teeth feeling so much cleaner, your mouth so refreshed and your breath so sweet and pure.

Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder is a special dental powder developed for HOME USE by a distinguished practicing dentist. Free from all acids, grit or pumice, it cannot possibly injure or scratch the tooth enamel as years of constant use have shown. Even as a neutralizer in acid mouth conditions, Dr. Lyon's is an effective antacid.

Brush your teeth with Dr. Lyon's Tooth Powder regularly—consult your dentist periodically—eat a diet rich in minerals and vitamins, and you will be doing all that you can possibly do to protect your teeth.

Costs Less to Use

Dr. Lyon's is more economical to use. In the same size and price class it outlasts tooth pastes two to one. Even a small package will last you for months.

Labor Stage Revue at the American

"Pins and Needles," Presented by Garment Workers, In Tonight.

"PINS AND NEEDLES," the satirical revue which the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union produced as a part of its recreational program and made into a Broadway hit, arrives at the American Theater tonight, to start off the legitimate season of 1938-39.

Definitely left-wing in character and filled with material which presents the viewpoint of the union itself, "Pins and Needles" nevertheless has received a great measure of praise in the East and on tour for its good humor and wit, its sense of fairness and its general entertainment value as a musical show.

The company here is the original one, which means little, since the company has no stars nor any members who had professional stage experience before they went in training for this presentation. Nevertheless, the Broadway unit, which is expected to continue until 1940, is made up of companies listed in the record as No. 2 and No. 3.

Even if the players were non-professional, the production staff was not. Charles Friedman, who staged the show, had previously directed "Jamboree" and "Bitter Stream." Benjamin Zemach, in charge of choreography, had done sets for ballets for the Hollywood Bowl and Broadway productions and had directed plays at the Pasadena Playhouse. S. Syrjala, who cereated the sets, already had "Stevedore," "Blind Alley," "Remember the Day" and "Swing Your Lady" to his credit.

The authors of the sketches—Emanuel Eisenberg, Marc Blitzstein, Arthur Arent, David Gregory, Harold J. Rome and Friedman—all were experienced. Rome, whose contribution of music and lyrics is a major one to the revue, is a Yale University graduate who did nine revues for summer theaters before he started on "Pins and Needles."

The sketches and songs not only consider labor problems and social attitudes, but world affairs as well. One sketch lampoons the "Hundred Per Cent Americans," another reactionaries, still another, called "Four Little Angels of Peace," the international dickering between Hitler, Mussolini and Chamberlain. Typical songs are "Sing Us a Song of Social Significance," "Chain Store Daisy," "Sunday In the Park" and "One Big Union for Two."

—o-o—

THE history of "Pins and Needles" goes back to the days of the NRA, when the Garment Workers' Union increased its membership from 40,000 to 200,000. David Dubinsky, president of the union, called in Louis Schaffer, editor of a labor paper, to head a recreational and cultural program for the union.

In time the union took over the old Princess Theater in New York as a center and spent some $50,000 to remodel and recondition it. Labor Stage, Inc., was formed and indulged in various dramatic activities before the idea for a revue emerged. When "Pins and Needles" opened last Nov. 27, it had been in rehearsal 18 months.

The actors were all union members, as in the case of Al Eben, who came from Cloakmakers' Local 117, Ruth Rubinstein from Underwear Local 32, Ann Brown from Knit Goods Local 160 and Lynne Jaffe from Dressmakers' Local 22. For the first month of the Broadway run, all kept their factory jobs. Even now, although they also belong to Actors' Equity, they retain their Garment Workers' cards. The salary scale for the entire company is $35 to $45 a week.

Rapidly writing off all its accumulated obligations, Labor Stage, Inc., intends to continue as a permanent theatrical producer. Intended for presentation next is Sidney Kingsley's dramatization of Millen Brand's "The Outward Room."

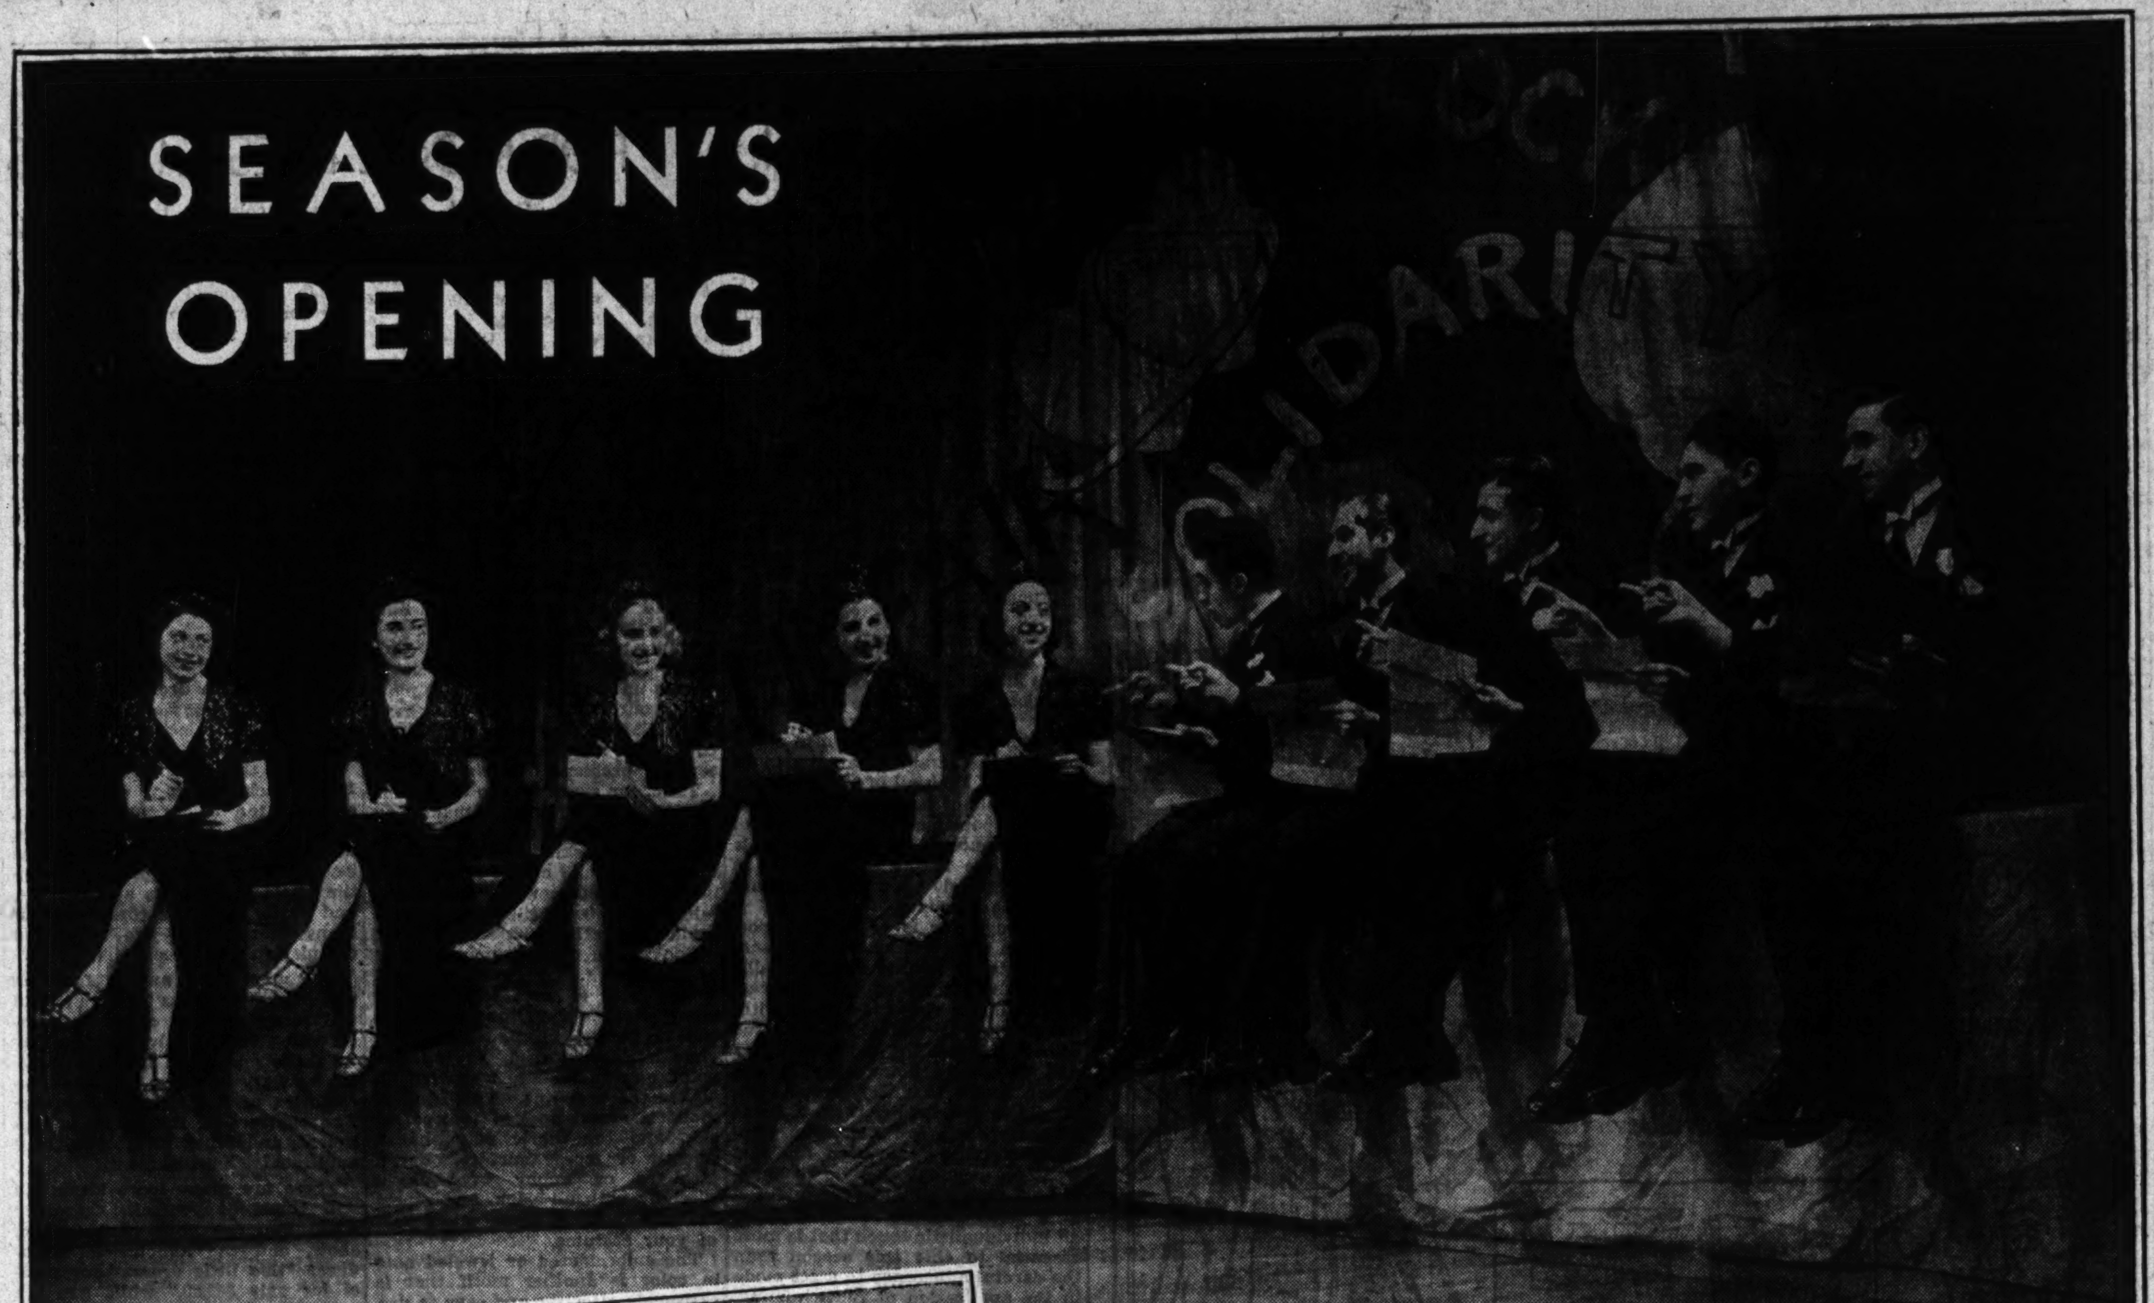
TO follow "Pins and Needles," the American will have, not the return of "You Can't Take It With You," but Tallulah Bankhead and company in "I Am Different," a new Zoe Akins play which made its debut on the West coast and has not yet visited Broadway.

"You Can't Take It With You" is still expected for the latter part of this month or early November, to be followed by "Blossom Time" on Nov. 13, "The Women" on Nov. 20, "What a Life," the new George Abbott comedy hit, on Nov. 27, "On Borrowed Time" or "Susan and God" on Dec. 4, "Of Mice and Men" on Dec. 11 and on Christmas night, an outstanding plum for theater patrons, George M. Cohan in "I'd Rather Be Right."

Miss Bankhead's play, "I Am Different," is an adaptation from the Hungarian of Lili Hatvany. In the cast are Fritzi Scheff, John Emery who is Miss Bankhead's husband in real life; Glenn Anders, Ara Gerald and Margaret Seddon. Both Emery and Miss Seddon have appeared in pictures—he in a leading role in "The Road Back" and she as one of the "pixilated" sisters in "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town."



"PINS AND NEEDLES" HAS ITS BOY-AND-GIRL CHORUSES LIKE ANY REGULATION BROADWAY MUSICAL, AN EXAMPLE OF WHICH IS GIVEN ABOVE. TO BE SEEN AT THE AMERICAN THEATER TONIGHT AND THROUGHOUT THE WEEK.

Mexican Film 'The Wave' Set for Screening Room

"The Wave," a motion picture of life in a Mexican fishing village, will be shown at the S'Renco Screening Room, 3143 Olive street, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings. Two showings will be presented each evening, at 7:30 and 9:30 o'clock, and each will be accompanied by the running of "Man of Aran," Robert Flaherty's study of a similar scene on an island off the coast of Ireland.

"The Wave" was photographed by Paul Strand, American cameraman, who has been described by Sergei Eisenstein, the noted Russian director, as "the greatest photographer alive." The idea for the film came originally from Carlos Chavez, noted Mexican composer, when he was chief of the Department of Fine Arts in the Mexican Government. He invited Strand to make the film and set his disciple, Sylvestre Revueltas, to work on the score. All settings and actors were photographed in their usual state at the little village of Alvarado, on the Gulf of Vera Cruz.

Tickets for Students

Free tickets to St. Louis Symphony concerts will be provided again this year for deserving students 14 years of age or older. Written application, to Mrs. David Kriegshaber, 4943 Washington boulevard, is required.

EVANS' FIVE-HOUR 'HAMLET' IN MODERN ACTING STYLE

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—NOT since Eugene O'Neill excited Broadway with his nine-act "Strange Interlude" has there been such an impressive first night as occurred this week when Maurice Evans presented for the first time in New York the entire performance of Shakespeare's "Hamlet."

The curtain rises at 6:30 p. m. and the drama continues, with the exception of a 30-minute intermission for dinner, until 11:25 p. m. This may seem long for an evening in the theater and especially at a play that is as familiar as Shakespeare's scenes are to most audiences. But, Evans has given an exciting freshness to his production that held the first night audience enchanted and frequently aroused them to applause in the middle of scenes.

Broadway has seen about a half dozen productions of "Hamlet" in the last decade or so. Of the most recent Leslie Howard's was called good and John Gielgud's called great. But both of theirs were in the classical Shakespearean style, the stylized postures and carefully enunciated speeches.

Evans has a different interpretation of Hamlet. He plays the sad man with all the poetry Shakespeare has written into him, but at the same time he reads the lines with a swift pace that makes them seem for most of the time as if this were a play written by a modern dramatist.

This British actor plays Hamlet as if that young man were a gay blade who had no regrets for anything he had done, a boulevardier who had suddenly become encompassed in the family problem of trying to decide if his mother and his uncle really murdered his father and was trying to decide that problem with all compassion and understanding for his mother. Not that he sympathizes with his mother, but he tries to understand her as a modern youth understands his modern mother.

Evans is an actor who certainly must prove that acting is an art. He is a man who is not tall, indeed he comes up to the shoulders of most of his supporting cast. He has thinning hair, and certainly could not be called handsome. But he has the superb answer to all such criticism in that he can act and there are so few actors on the stage who really can act.

Mady Christians is the Queen and Katherine Locke is Ophelia and both seemed to be just beautiful but not acting their roles, for they have far less the power to match that of Evans as Hamlet. If ever Shakespeare can have a long run on Broadway again this should be the production and Margaret Webster, with her direction, seems to be as meritoriously responsible as Evans.

The Broadway theater this week really took on an elan it hasn't seen in seasons when it produced not only two enchanting plays but in them presented a pair of actors who were received with such acclaim that the line might be rewritten to be that "The actor's the thing."

Rivalling Evans' "Hamlet" is "Oscar Wilde," a most excellent biographical drama of that unfortunate poet at the turn of the century. The success of "Oscar Wilde" is largely due to the fact that Robert Morley is performing the title role.

Morley, the rather flabby but feeling actor who is appearing as King Louis XIV opposite Norma Shearer in the film of "Marie Antoinette," gives here a performance that makes the audience at least understand Wilde if it does not sympathize with him.

Capra, Riskin and a Great Idea

By Colvin McPherson

A PULITZER prize comedy by George S. Kaufman and Moss Hart, transferred to the screen by Frank Capra and Robert Riskin. Only these facts about "You Can't Take It With You" would need to be recited to indicate its superiority. After the usual delays of the dickering season in St. Louis' Film Row, the feature has been brought to the Ambassador.

"You Can't Take It With You" is a tumultuous success—a whizzing, dazzling, noisy explosion of mirth that equals the accidental fireworks demonstration which is one of its main scenes. It pillories the rich, it makes sport of the eccentric, it plays merry hell with the Government and its income tax, it gives full play to all the zany ideas two prolific playwrights and a famous screen team could conjure up. It needs nothing to make it enjoyable.

Those persons who saw the stage production will find some changes. Although the film runs past two hours, some parts of the play have been dropped. Mildly regrettable, for instance, is the loss of the sleazy Grand Duchess who made blintzes for the Czar and the Sycamores. The inspired parlor game, in which wealthy Mrs. Kirby made her revealing replies, necessarily has been blue-pencilled. What Capra and Riskin have added, however, far more than compensates for these excisions.

Instead of staying inside the fantastic Vanderhof-Sycamore mansion for the entire two hours, as did the stage play, the cameramen went with Alice Sycamore to her place of employment. They visited a fashionable restaurant for several moments of foolishness. They saw the fireworks explosion from the street, they rode with Grandpa Vanderhof, the Sycamores and the Kirbys to jail and night court. The night court scene, written in for the movie, surpasses anything in the original play and tops off the comedy with a superbly human climax, such as only Frank Capra, at his best, can create.

"You Can't Take It With You," to begin with, was merely a comedy of the differences between stuffed-shirt aristocracy and eccentric middle-class. A son of the wealthy Kirbys fell in love with a daughter of the very odd Sycamores of upper Manhattan. The Kirbys, going to look over their son's prospective in-laws, arrived on the wrong evening and saw the Sycamores at their oddest.

In the screen play, these same features remain, but more complications have been evolved. Mr. Kirby Sr. is engineering a big financial squeeze and needs the Vanderhof-Sycamore property to help him carry it through. Old Grandpa Vanderhof, patriarch of the family, won't sell, until the happiness of his granddaughter, Alice, is at stake. But the darkest moments of the family are followed by the dawn of a new day, in which the stylish Kirbys let down their hair and become human beings.

That is the gospel implied in the title—that you can't take any certified checks with you to the Great Beyond, so you might as well spend it—referring to coin of the realm—in this existence and enjoy yourself. Take up a hobby, for example. Grandpa Vanderhof and his brood all have hobbies, are all crazy but have a swell time of it. Since young Tony Kirby has no stomach for business and the father himself is taking bicarbonate, the conversion of these two is expected as well.

The gospel which Messrs. Kaufman, Hart, Capra and Riskin have so gloriously illustrated cannot be made entirely convincing on the screen, but it is more acceptable than on the stage. For Capra and Riskin have worked it out more extensively, have seen a vision where Kaufman and Hart had only a swell idea and, of course, a wonderful skill at making people laugh.

Yet strange things have occurred in the history of this comedy. In the play, Grandpa Vanderhof, founder of the new faith, was the dominating character. On the screen he is overshadowed. This is part casting, part misfortune. Lionel Barrymore never has been as benign as Grandpa Vanderhof should be. Forced by rheumatism to play the part on crutches, he seems somewhat in conflict with the idea of a well preserved, resolute little man who gives his time to the things he enjoys deliberately.

Edward Arnold as the millionaire sweeps through the show with the roar of energy he has given to similar characters in the past. James Stewart is ideally cast as the calmly rebellious young aristocrat. Spring Byington as Penny Vanderhof Sycamore is another chosen to type; Ann Miller as her dancing daughter, Essie; Mischa Auer as the hungry Russian; Donald Meek as an entirely new eccentric, all are faithful to their creators. Jean Arthur, whose role might have been taken by a less familiar and more girlish actress, has sufficient talent to be convincing. A delightful example of Capra direction and superb response is found in the bit played by Harry Davenport as the night court judge.

Except on Saturday and Sunday, the Ambassador shows a second feature, "Girls' School," to take up program slack at 10 a. m. and 6 p. m. Far from being mere filler, "Girls' School" is a charming drama of the life in Magnolia Hall, kept always at the right pitch and marked by stanch performance.

Valley of the Giants.

LIKE "Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and "Gold Is Where You Find It," the Fox Theater's main feature, "Valley of the Giants," is one of those epics of the big outdoors, in which good citizens must pound the daylights out of the evil one, in order to protect their homes, or crops, or the future of America.

The advantages of Technicolor in such a case may be pondered. The blonde leading ladies look better, it will be admitted, and it is easier to tell members of the cast from trees, but otherwise, melodrama is just melodrama, no matter how you paint it.

Patrons of the Fox get action this week—plenty of it—in the wrecking of a log train, dynamiting a dam and the many brawls to which Alan Hale is a jovial party.

"I Am the Law," not in color, sends Edward G. Robinson in on the side of law enforcement in the big event of Crime vs. Civilization. From a college classroom, he goes on sabbatical leave and winds up as special prosecutor. Without pulling as many rabbits out of the legal hat as some of the other special prosecutors of recent note, he seizes the racketeers wholesale.

—o-o—

AT THE St. Louis, Jane Withers, is teamed with Eddie Collins—said to be the original of Disney's Dopey—in a meandering comedy melodrama of the Florida upper crust. The adventures of the pair produce no great amount of fun or excitement. Unhappily, too, the main feature gets no support from "Swing It, Professor," in which Pinky Tomlin and Paul Stone are featured.

The holdover contingent this week includes "Straight, Place and Show" and "Room Service" at the Missouri and "Too Hot to Handle," at Loew's. Missouri customers are forced to admit, this once, that the Ritz Brothers are funnier than the Marx Brothers.

"Too Hot to Handle," starting out with Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and that deft Mr. Walter Pidgeon, has also many pure camera sights, such as war in China, the burning of a munitions ship and a big voodoo party in the jungle.

A HASTY BOOKING BRINGS TALLULAH BANKHEAD TO THE AMERICAN A WEEK FROM TOMORROW NIGHT IN "I AM DIFFERENT."

Stars Know Some Parlor Tricks, Too

With Proper Urging, Movie Actors Will Liven Up the Party.

By the Associated Press.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 15. IT'S A Hollywood party and, with the proper persuasion:

Martha Raye will imitate Dietrich and Garbo. Warner Baxter and Fred MacMurray will do card tricks. Joan Crawford will dance and Nelson Eddy will sing.

Gracie Allen will point to George Burns, who will summon Jack Benny to satirize an old vaudeville skit. (Grace just titters.) Bob Hope and Shirley Ross will sing "Thanks for the Memory." W. C. Fields will juggle—anything. Slim Summerville will do tricks with a billiard cue. John Carradine will recite Shakespeare by the mile.

When informal parlor parties in Hollywood grow dull (even as yours and mine) they play games—unless the host can convince some of his guests to get up and do a stunt. But guests here are just as reluctant as your own and they, too, have to be coaxed.

Unlike the musician, who always has his fiddle with him, Edgar Bergen doesn't take Charlie McCarthy when he goes to his friends' homes. But if the host becomes terribly persistent, Bergen will pencil a face on his fist and imitate a couple of guys.

Dick Powell and Joan Blondell are very informal in entertaining. They like to have their guests sing, all at one time, and the older the numbers are the better everyone seems to like them. Frank McHugh's way of enlivening a party to stage a faked fight with another guest. Maureen O'Sullivan and her husband, John Farrow, have a mind-reading stunt they enjoy doing.

Arthur Treacher, who was a musical comedy star before he became a movie butler, will play the piano and "talk" songs in the Dwight Fiske manner. Then he'll do a tap dance. Janet Gaynor has a ukulele and sometimes she'll play it and sing—if the gathering is small. Sara Haden, who plays staid aunties, imitates dogs—yapping, barking snorting.

Wayne Morris can be talked into playing the piano, enthusiastically if not artistically. Jimmy Cagney puts his guests at work at their favorite job of acting. He casts them in old-time melodramas and lets them "ham" to their heart's content.

One of Pat O'Brien's pet stunts is to have a policeman burst in on the party at its height and declare everyone is under arrest for disturbing the peace. Whereupon, the peace and Mr. O'Brien's hair, vest, shirt and necktie are really disturbed.

At his own home, Nelson Edddy likes to sing the same chorus three times onto the same record on a recording machine. Then, with the announcement, "This is a swell trio," he plays it back. If Frank Morgan can be smoked out of the card room, he'll do card tricks.

Yes, there's hardly ever a dull moment at a Hollywood party.

Wagnerian Singers In Concert Nov. 18

The Wagnerian Festival Singers, a vocal quintet which now is entering its third transcontinental tour, will be heard for the first time in St. Louis on Friday evening, Nov. 18, at the Auditorium Opera House. The appearance is under the direction of Guy Golterman.

The ensemble presents a program made up largely of excerpts from the music dramas of Richard Wagner, although including works of Mozart, Verdi and Puccini in the repertory as well. Accompaniment is furnished by two concert grand pianos played by Giuseppe Bamboschek, former leading conductor of Metropolitan Opera, and Hans Heniot, young American pianist, composer and conductor.

The singers are Hilda Konetzni, dramatic soprano of the Vienna State Opera, Covent Garden and the Salzburg Festival; Arthur Ocheltree, young American tenor who has had operatic experience abroad; Marta Krasova, principal contralto of the State Opera, Prague; Joel Berglund, principal baritone of the Royal Opera, Stockholm, and guest star with the Chicago City Opera, and Frederic Langford, another young American tenor who won the Melchior Award for tenors and has been on the concert stage in this country and abroad.

Feature on Housing

Production of the screen version of "One-Third of a Nation," Federal Theater production dealing with the housing problem, has begun at the Eastern Service Studios, Astoria, L. I. Construction crews, under the supervision of Dudley Murphy, have started to build the massive tenement structures about which the film is written. Sylvia Sidney and Leif Erikson head the cast.

AT 12 noon today, the WJZ network will start the NBC's Great Plays series with a performance of Euripides' "The Trojan dramatist in 415 BC. Blanche Yurka will head the cast, Burns Mantle, the critic, will be the commentator, and Frank Black's symphonic orchestra will play the background music. "The Trojan Woman," described by some writers as still the world's greatest piece of anti-war literature after 2350 years, opens just before dawn with Troy slowly burning. The city has been taken by the Greeks, most of its men and children killed, and the survivors wait in anguish to be shipped off to slavery in Greece. The dramatic action centers around a decree by the Greek leaders that a child shall be slain. KWK plans to carry the Great Plays productions on and after next Sunday.

Virginia Rea, the Olive Palmer of radio's early days, is billed for the Magic Key hour at 1 p. m. on KWK, together with Walter Hampden, the actor, in the excommunication scene from "Richelieu"; Alec Templeton, the blind pianist; Elizabeth Lennox, the contralto of KSD's Sunday night Album of Familiar Music, Clifton Fadiman and Frank Black's orchestra.

A speech by Winston Churchill, formerly First Lord of the Admiralty, will be broadcast from London at 5 o'clock this afternoon on KWK and the WJZ net. According to information from the NBC, Churchill will make a direct reply to Hitler's Saar speech.

Cary Grant and Phyllis Brooks are billed in the Silver Theater, and Maureen O'Sullivan will be Charles Boyer's guest. Booth Tarkington's "Seventeen" will be dramatized by Orson Welles and his Mercury Theater players at 7 p. m. on KMOX, instead of "Lorna Doone." KWK will begin carrying the new Court of Human Relations series at 9:30 p. m.

Bing Crosby Back on KSD Thursday Night

Lights Out at 11:30 P. M. Wednesdays—Tension in One Man's Family—Joan Crawford in Good News.

BING CROSBY'S return to his program on KSD is set for 9 o'clock next Thursday night, when he will take over the master of ceremonies job which Bob Burns has been handling in his absence. His guests will include Walter Connolly, Joan Bennett and Johnny Mercer.

Joan Crawford, Billie Burke, Judy Garland and Walter Pidgeon will appear with Robert Young, Fanny Brice and Frank Morgan in KSD's Good News for 1939 Thursday night.

A skit on Hollywood's scientific aspects is planned by Al Pearce for his program tomorrow evening on KSD.

Fred Allen will feature John Geary, a Navy test pilot, in his Town Hall Tonight at 8:00 Wednesday, together with Portland Hoffa, the Merry Macs, his Mighty Allen Art Players and Peter van Steeden's orchestra.

KSD is now carrying the Call to Youth program sponsored by the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, at 11:30 a. m., Saturdays. The speaker is the Rev. Dr. George Stewart.

Ken Murray, the comedian; Grand Duchess Marie; Steve Hanagan, the press agent, and Arthur Simsonson, a wig-maker, are billed for the For Men Only period Tuesday night.

The solution of a murder, which at first appeared to be an auto accident death, will be dramatized during the Johnny Presents program Tuesday evening.

The Lights Out horror plays will be broadcast on KSD and the WEAF net at 11:30 Wednesday nights, starting, probably, Oct. 26. They will be written by several experienced radio writers instead of by Arch Oboler, who prepared the scripts from June, 1936, until the series went off the air for the summer.

Shirley Ross, of the movies, will be Bob Hope's guest at 9 p. m. Tuesday.

At 11:45 Saturday morning, KSD will carry the first of the two NBC broadcasts on the annual flight of the golden-breasted swallows from the Mission of San Juan Capistrano, in California. The broadcast will describe the birds' preparations for flight and will include singing by the children's choir of the mission and the legend of the swallows, told by the Rev. Father Arthur J. Hutchinson. The second program, describing the birds' departure for a destination known only to themselves, is set for 12 noon next Sunday on the WEAF net. For 162 years, the mission's records show, the swallows have arrived on St. Joseph's Day, March 19, and departed on St. John's Day, Oct. 23.

Raymond Massey, who plays the title role in Robert Sherwood's "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," and Hiram Sherman, comedian in "Sing Out the News," will be Rudy Vallee's guests Thursday night on KSD.

A meeting of Clifford and his estranged wife, Ann, whose telephone calls to him have caused tension in the Barbour family, and a scene between Jack and Betty, whose marriage Father Barbour still insists must be annulled, will be the high spots in One Man's Family at 7 p. m. Wednesday on KSD.

Clifton Fadiman's Information Please program, which is broadcast at 7:30 p. m. Tuesdays on the WJZ net and WENR, Chicago, also is broadcast on KWK in transcription form at 8:30 Wednesday nights.

Frederick Palmer, the veteran war correspondent, will begin a series on the prospects for world peace at 9:30 tonight on the WEAF net. Palmer covered the Greek war, the Aguinaldo insurrection, the Boxer Rebellion in China, the Russo-Japanese war, the Turkish revolution and the Balkan war before the World War. When the British Government decided that only one American correspondent might be attached to the British expeditionary forces in France, Palmer was assigned by the American press associations.

"La Traviata" Billed at 11:00 This Forenoon

Radio City Concert Now at That Time—Crooks Soloist Tonight—Toscanini at 9:00 Saturday.

TODAY, the Radio City concert on the WJZ network and KWK will be shifted to the hour from 11 a. m. to noon, Howard Barlow will conduct the final Everybody's Music program, and Richard Crooks, the tenor, will sing in the Concert from Detroit at 8 p. m. Another Toscanini concert will be broadcast from 9 to 10 o'clock next Saturday night on KWK and from 9 to 10:30 on the WJZ net. Next Sunday, the New York Philharmonic orchestra will begin its weekly concerts at 2 p. m. on the CBS network and KMOX, John Barbirolli conducting.

Jan Peerce, the tenor; Robert Weede, the Metropolitan Opera baritone, and Rosemarie Brancato, soprano, of the Chicago Opera, will sing the leading roles in Verdi's "La Traviata" in the Radio City concert at 11 a. m. today on KWK and the WJZ net. Erno Rapee will conduct the symphony orchestra. On coming Sundays, this hour will bring performances of new versions of "Pagliacci," "Carmen," "Rigoletto," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Lucia die Lammermoor" and "Die Walkuere." All arias, duets and ensembles of significance will be performed, and care is being taken to preserve the dramatic plot sequences.

Howard Barlow's concluding program at 2 p. m. today on KMOX will include "Five Tone Pictures," by Carl Mathes, the blind composer and organist, of South Bend, Ind., and Deems Taylor's "Through the Looking Glass" suite. Mathes has titled the divisions of his work "Meeting," "Tears," "Whims," "Smiles" and "Sleep," explaining that it is meant for a musical portrait of his idea of a woman.

Giovanni Martinelli, the tenor, will be the guest in the Metropolitan Opera Audition at 4 p. m. on KWK, and the competitors will be Anna Schramm, soprano, of New York, and Edouard Grobe, tenor of Jersey City, who has sung with the Philadelphia, New York Philharmonic and Indianapolis symphony orchestras.

Richard Crooks has programmed for the concert from Detroit at 8 p. m. on KMOX Lohengrin's Farewell from Wagner's opera; Schubert's "Serenade" and Lehmann's "Ah, Moon of My Delight." Jose Iturbi will conduct the overture to "Der Freischuetz," Turina's "Procession del Rocio" and Liszt's "Hungarian Fantasy." Lawrence Tibbett will be the soloist in this concert next Sunday night.

TOMORROW, from 2 to 2:45 p. m., on the WJZ net, the NBC will present the first of the 90 concerts scheduled from Rochester. It will be played by the Rochester Civic Orchestra, Guy Fraser Harrison conducting. At 7:30 on KSD, Margaret Speaks will sing Henschel's "Morning Hymn," Herbert's "When You're Away" and the "Suicidio" from "La Gioconda." At 8 p. m., the WJZ net will carry an NBC String Symphony concert. At 8:30, there will be another WOR Symphony Orchestra concert on the Mutual net. At 9:00, KSD will broadcast Marek Weber's concert, which will be devoted to music of Cuba. At 10:05 p. m., part of a San Francisco Opera performance of "Cavalleria Rusticana" will be broadcast on the WJZ net with Ebe Stagnani, the European soprano, as Santuzza; Allesandro Ziliani as Turridu, and Carlo Tagliabue, baritone, Doris Doe and Thelma Votipka also in the cast.

Tuesday, there will be a concert by the Rochester Civic Orchestra at 12:30 noon on the WJZ net. And a WOR Symphony concert at 8:30 p. m. on the Mutual net.

Thursday at 7:30 p. m. the first of a series by the Eastman Symphony Orchestra of Rochester will be broadcast on the WJZ net at the same time as the Alfred Wallenstein Sinfonietta on the Mutual and WGN. WBBM will carry a concert at 9 p. m.

Here and There On the Air

UNDER the title, Americans All, the CBS net will start Nov. 14 a 26-week series of dramatizations telling the story of contributions by immigrants to the development of this country. The dramatizations will be the work of the Office of Education of the Department of the Interior, and will stress tolerance for all national and racial groups and appreciation of what they have given to American life. John W. Studebaker, Commissioner of Education, has commissioned Gilbert Seldes, author, playwright and critic, to write the series. An advisory committee includes Louis Adamic, the noted writer of Yugoslavian birth; Mrs. Edith Bremer, director of the National Institute of Immigrant Welfare; Dr. Everett Clinchy of the National Conference of Jews and Christians; James L. Houghteling, United States Commissioner of Immigration and Naturalization; James G. McDonald of the President's Advisory Committee on Political Refugees, and others. The programs will be broadcast at 9:30 Monday nights.

"Captains in Peril" Dramatic Series Opens on KSD Tomorrow

Scheduled at 6:30 P. M.—Washington U. Talks at 4:45 Five Days Weekly—Missouri - Washington Game Saturday.

BEGINNING at 6:30 tomorrow evening, KSD will broadcast a new series, titled Captains in Peril, which will dramatize episodes in the careers of veteran firemen and others who have done public service in circumstances of danger. The half-hour dramatizations will be produced in KSD's studios, and will be enacted by a cast of experienced radio actors.

Tomorrow's opening broadcast of this series will be devoted to an interview with a fireman and a dramatization of the Missouri Athletic Association fire on March 9, 1914.

"Crime for Rent," the Trailing the Highway Patrol dramatization at 6:30 Thursday evening on KSD, will deal with two ex-convicts, who were hired to murder a tavern-keeper, and were arrested and convicted as a result of a violent quarrel with their employer.

KSD will broadcast the Washington-Missouri football game next Saturday afternoon with Frank Eschen and Harold Grams at the microphone at Francis Field, as they will be for the Missouri U.-St. Louis U. game at Walsh Stadium Saturday, Nov. 19, and the Washington-St. Louis U. game on Thanksgiving day. Last Saturday, they were at South Bend to cover the Illinois-Notre Dame game for KSD, and Eschen broadcast his Sportslight program that day from the Indiana city.

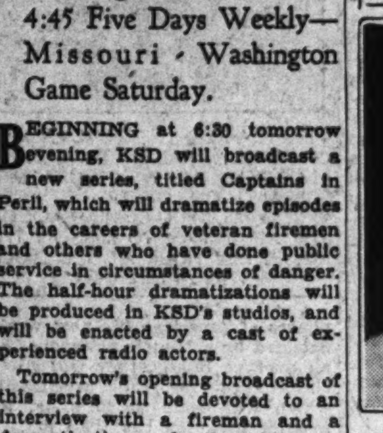
KSD's Washington University lecture series, which was resumed two weeks ago, will go on a daily except Saturday and Sunday schedule this week, from 4:45 to 5 o'clock. Tomorrow, Dr. Roland G. Usher will be the speaker with "Will the Pan-Germans Let Hitler Keep the Peace?" as his topic. Tuesday's speaker will be Prof. Lawrence E. Stout, and his subject will be "Dressing Up Merchandise." Wednesday, Prof. Alexander M. Buchan will review "Three Guineas." Thursday, Prof. George E. Mylonas will report on "Recent Excavations in Greece." Friday, Dr. Usher will discuss the question, "Does Italy Want a European War?"

Frank Eschen's Sportlights is scheduled for this week at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday through Saturday, the Monday broadcast having been discontinued.

On KSD Again



BING CROSBY, WHO IS TO RETURN TO HIS PROGRAM ON KSD NEXT THURSDAY NIGHT.

Bill Hay, announcer for 13 years for Gosden and Correll, whose Amos 'n Andy programs are on KSD at 6 p. m. Monday through Friday, will mark his fifteenth anniversary as a broadcaster Tuesday, Nov. 1. He started in radio on KFKX, Hastings, Neb., where he was a singing teacher and operated a music store. Hay was born in Dumfries, Scotland, and came to this country in 1909.

Four broadcasts a week, designed to give foreigners an accurate idea of educational practices in this country, will be put on the air by W2XAD and W2XAF, the powerful Schenectady short wave stations, starting Nov. 1. The broadcasts will be in English, Spanish and Portuguese, and all the power facilities and wave lengths of the two stations will be utilized.

Aleanor Taylor and Bobby Larson, the six-year-old Los Angeles children who are playing roles in KSD's One Man's Family serial, must stand on chairs to reach the microphone for broadcasts. . . . The Mary and Bob program is listed again at 8:30 Tuesday on KWK. . . . Jack Smart, who has played stooge for Fred Allen, is in the cast supporting W. C. Fields in the Saturday night Hit Parade . . . Bea Wain, singer with Larry Clinton's orchestra on Tommy Riggs new series on KSD Saturday nights, does operatic arias in swing arrangements by Clinton.

Eucharistic Congress on KSD This Week

Broadcasts From New Orleans Tomorrow and Wednesday — Other Special Chain Features.

TOMORROW, the first of three broadcasts from the convention of the Future Farmers of America will be part of the National Farm and Home Hour on KWK. The others are set for the same time Tuesday and Wednesday. Mickey Rooney will be Eddie Cantor's guest. Don Ameche and Jean Arthur will play the leads in a Radio Theater performance of "Seventh Heaven." A broadcast from the National Eucharistic Congress in New Orleans, at 9:30 p. m. on KSD and the WEAF net, is planned to cover the civic reception to George Cardinal Mundelein, who will be Pope Pius' personal representative to the Congress, and to include talks by Cardinal Mundelein, Archbishop Joseph F. Rummell and Postmaster-General James A. Farley.

Tuesday, at 11 a. m., on the WJZ net, there will be a Eucharistic Congress broadcast from the City Park Stadium, in New Orleans, where Cardinal Mundelein will celebrate a Pontifical High Mass and Archbishop Edward Mooney, of Detroit, will preach the sermon. At 12:30 noon, the WEAF net and KMOX will carry the Benediction to the Congress pronounced by Pope Pius. Al Jolson will have Marie Wilson and Charlie Butterworth as his guests that night, and Jean Hersholt will begin a new Dr. Christian of River's End series at 9 p. m. on the CBS net and KMOX with Rosemary de Kamp heading his supporting cast.

Wednesday, the American Medical Association's Your Health program will return at 1 p. m. to the WJZ net. Miriam Hopkins will be starred in Adolphe Menjou's Star Theater. Songs by Irving Berlin will be featured in a Mutual net Music by Faith program from Canada at 8:30 p. m. At 11 p. m. Wednesday KSD and the WEAF net will broadcast from the Eucharistic Congress in New Orleans the Holy Hour and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The Meditations will be given by Archbishop John Murray of St. Paul, and the celebrant of the Benediction will be the Most Rev. Stephen Donohue, Administrator of the Archdiocese of New York.

Thursday, at 2:45 p. m. on the CBS net and 4 p. m. on the WJZ net, the closing ceremonies of the Eucharistic Congress will be described. Priscilla Lane and Wayne Morris will be Kate Smith's guests.

Friday, Warden Lewis E. Lawes will begin a new Sing Sing series under the title Criminal Case Histories, at 7 p. m. on KWK. William Powell, recovered from his illness, is billed to take over the master of ceremonies job in the Hollywood Hotel from Herbert Marshall.

HERE AND THERE

day, Highlighting the Headlines and Backyard Adventures; Tuesday, Guideposts to Living and Pioneer Pathways; Wednesday, Once Upon a Time dramatizations of fairy stories and Meet the Author; Thursday, Famous Farmers and the Wheels Go Round in alternate weeks, and The Human Side of Uncle Sam; Friday, I Like Music. The Nation's School of the Air was started in 1929 by WLW as the Ohio School of the Air.

Problems of soil conservation, examples of the music of the Pilgrims, a study of the Far Eastern situation from Chinese and Japanese viewpoints, Roy Chapman Andrews talking in the American Museum of Natural History, and a dramatization of Sherwood Anderson's "I Am a Fool," will make up the program for the American School of the Air this week, at 1:30 p. m. Monday through Friday on KMOX.

The Lutheran Hour, with Dr. Walter A. Maier of Concordia Seminary, as the principal speaker, will be resumed at 12 noon next Sunday on 13 Eastern stations and at 3:30 the same afternoon on 49 stations in the Central and Mid-West regions, including KFUO and KWK.

The United States Navy Band, which plays so frequently on the networks, will give two concerts in the Municipal Auditorium on the afternoon and evening of Navy day, Wednesday, Oct. 27. Charles Benter, regular conductor of the band, will direct both concerts, which will be sponsored by the Seventh Battalion, Naval Reserves.

Czechoslovakia's nightly news broadcast is scheduled from Prague at 8:50 p. m. St. Louis time on 11.84 megacycles.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Gahan of St. Louis will be honored as good neighbors on Richard Maxwell's program at 8 a. m. Wednesday.

The Craig family, of Muncie, Ind., father, mother and two children, are to take part in five radio discussions with experts of various phases of American life next week. Selected by a Muncie newspaper as an average family, they will go to New York for the broadcasts, which will begin at 10 p. m. tomorrow night on the WJZ net.

NBC's new Hollywood studios will be opened for business tomorrow although still in the finishing process.

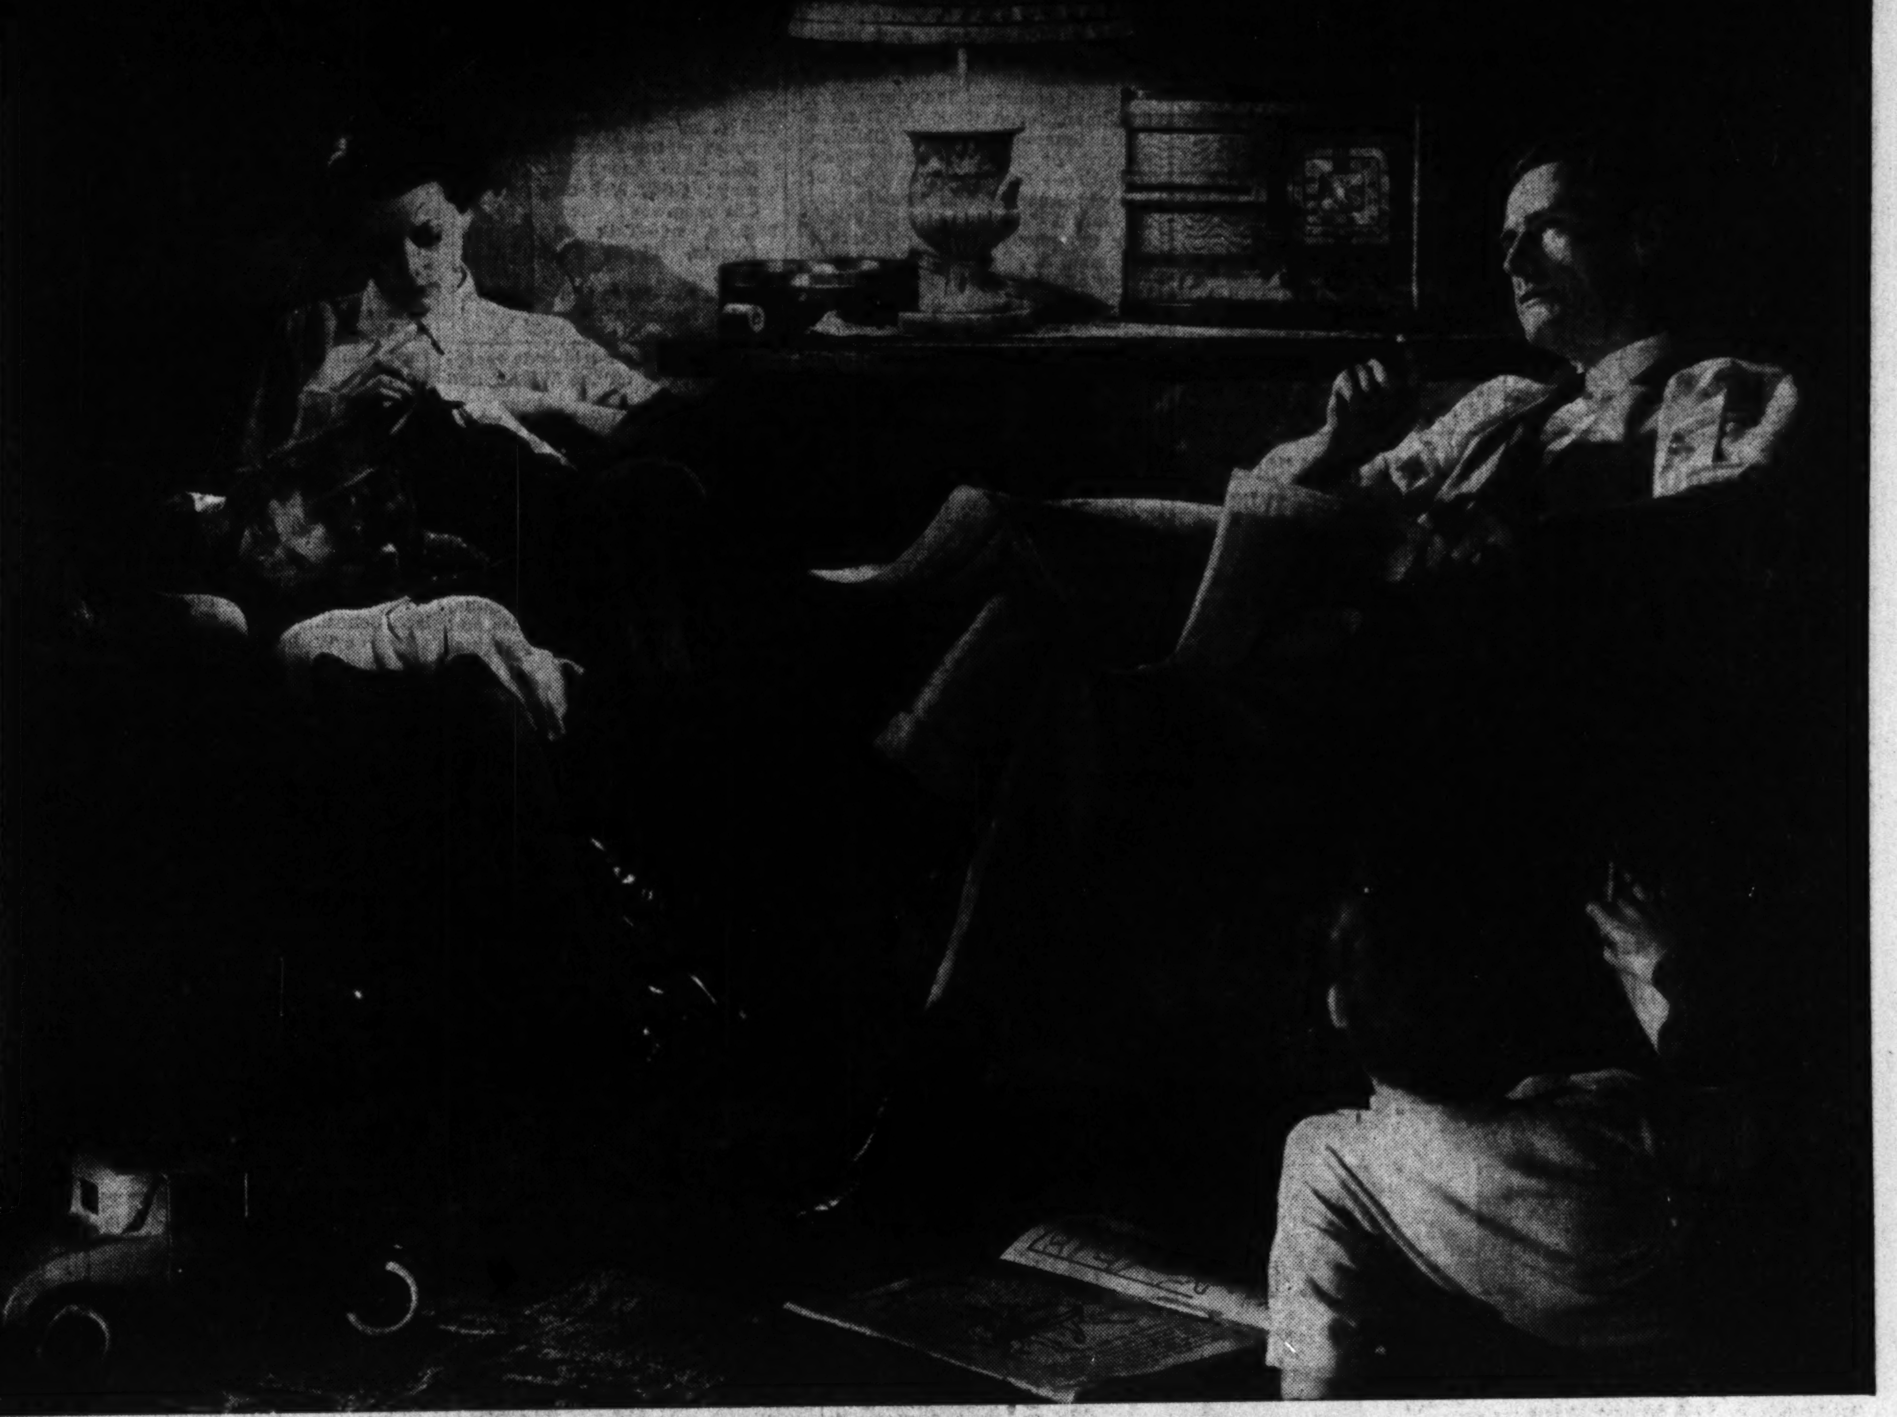
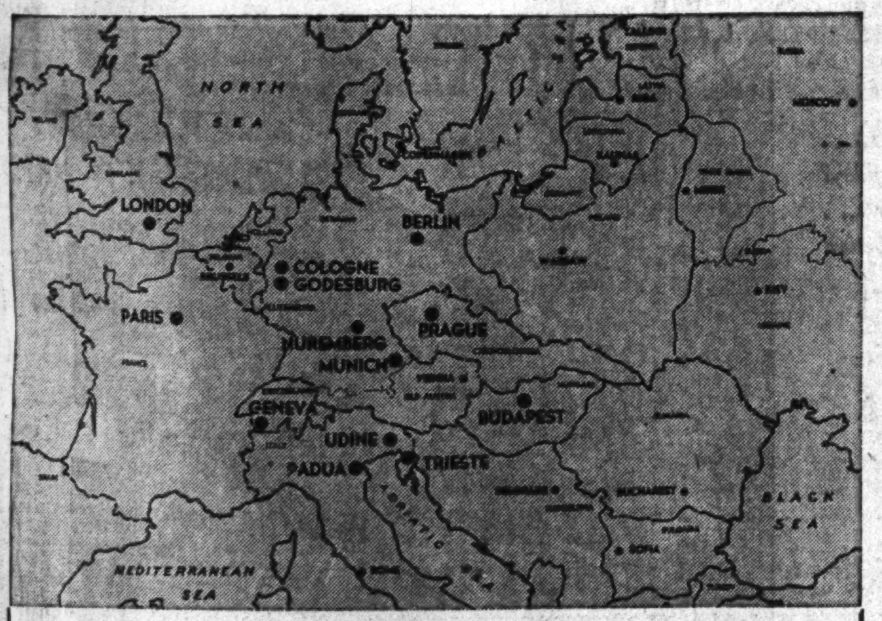
The Crossroads of the World!

Today Your Living Room Is the Center of World Events

The great men of today speak in your living room, word pictures of national and international events are flashed to you as they happen, leading actors perform for you on your radio stage, famous singers sing to you in your easy chair. This is the miracle of radio. And, to bring you radio at its best here in St. Louis, Station KSD and NBC place at your service the greatest radio facilities in the world today. In all fields of radio . . . whether it be in entertainment, in special events, or in education, the National Broadcasting Company offers you the best.



IN SPECIAL EVENTS Here's How NBC leads!



NBC Helps You Follow History-in-the-Making!

Vivid short wave pick-ups from the cities indicated on the map above kept you up to the minute in the crisis. Hitler . . . Chamberlain . . . Benes . . . Hodza . . . Mussolini . . . Litvinoff . . . and others have spoken over NBC. And hundreds of special Press Radio Bulletins have been broadcast by NBC the moment they were received. This is but one example of NBC's outstanding service in broadcasting special events. You know from personal experience how well NBC covers other special events such as football, prize-fights, and all other sporting events.

IN ENTERTAINMENT Here are the Leaders!

Guy Lombardo

Edwin C. Hill

Meredith Wilson

Charlie McCarthy

Think over the radio programs you like the best . . . the programs you tune in every week. Then note how many are NBC programs. Here are just a few of the Red Network programs which you hear through station KSD. They're recognized leaders . . . measured by any and every means of checking program popularity.

HARRY LOOKOFSKY, violinist, and Oscar Zimmerman, double bass, both of whom played last season in the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra, are among 20 musicians who have replaced as many in the NBC Symphony Orchestra for the concerts conducted by Arturo Toscanini Saturday nights. Lookofsky is in the second violin section of the orchestra, which continues with 94 members. Mischa Mischakoff again is concertmaster and Henri Nosco and Remo Bolognini his assistants. Other new members of the NBC orchestra include: Harry Glickman, formerly of the Barrere Little Symphony; Max Hollander, formerly of the Perole String Quartet; Alfred Lustgarten, a pupil of Leopold Auer; David Epstein, for 10 years a violinist in the Philadelphia Symphony Orchestra; Arthur Foreman, English horn player, formerly of the London Philharmonic and recently of the Rochester Philharmonic; the Berv brothers, Arthur, John and Harry, French horn players, formerly of the Philadelphia Symphony; Donald Bryan, a trumpeter, known on Broadway as an arranger and conductor and solo trumpeter under Fred Waring, and Sam Lewis, a trombonist, who won fame under Paul Whiteman.

Beginning at 6 p. m. today with a talk by Edward Tomlinson on the WJZ net, the NBC has scheduled at the same time Sundays a number of broadcasts preliminary to the general Pan-American Congress to be held in Lima, Peru, beginning Dec. 9. Tomlinson's guest today will be Manuel de Freyre Y. Santander, Peruvian Ambassador. The NBC promises frequent broadcasts by Tomlinson from the congress, and will schedule them on its short-wave stations for world-wide reception, as well as on the WEAF and WJZ networks.

500 SCOUTS ATTEND RALLY AT LION'S DEN

Games, Demonstrations and Barbecue on Program at Seckman, Mo.

More than 500 St. Louis Boy Scouts and volunteer leaders from the North Star and Northwest districts held a joint rally yesterday at Lion's Den, near Seckman, Mo.

The program began at 1 p. m., with registration and scout field activities, featuring games and demonstrations of various phases of scoutcraft. The meeting came to a close in the evening with a barbecue and campfire.

The two districts formerly were registered as one unit, with the local scout council and this is the first joint rally since their separation.

The St. Louis Boy Scout Council's course in an introduction to scouting will be presented on three successive Monday evenings, beginning tomorrow, at Webster Groves High School. The same course will be presented on Tuesday evenings for three weeks at the Missouri School for the Blind and the next three Wednesday evenings at the Gundlach School.

George W. Schlutius will be Cubmaster of the training pack, Dr. L. H. Renfro, scoutmaster of the training group and W. A. Sweeney skipper of the training sea scout ship.

Accidents which occur at home, at school, in the street and in industry will be dramatized by scouts at the Boy Scout Circus, Dec. 2 and 3 at the Arena. In previous years, demonstrations of scout service in times of disaster, based chiefly on the tornado of 1927 here, were a feature of the circus.

A sepecial Explorer Scout Troop, designed for intensive work in first aid and rescue work, will be organized by Arrowhead District next Wednesday evening with the St. Louis Safety Council as sponsor. August E. Gilster has been elected chairman of the Arrowhead District for the coming year and Foster H. Brown was re-elected vice-chairman. P. W. Shull will serve again as commissioner for the district.

Girl Scouts.

An introductory course in Girl Scouting for adult volunteer leaders will open tomorrow with two sessions at the Washington University Medical School auditorium, 602 South Euclid avenue. The two-hour session will begin at 2:30 p. m. and 7:30 p. m. Mrs. James V. Dunbar is chairman.

The St. Louis Girl Scout leaders of scout troops and Brownie packs will meet at Cedarledge Camp, near Pevely, Mo., Oct. 22-23. Subjects which will be discussed during the meeting include the outdoor program, music and dramatics, nature study, arts and crafts and the revised program of the Girl Scout organization.

Machines Crowd Out Men in Cotton Fields, but Low Prices Keep Owners' Income Down, PWA Survey Reports

Tenants' Yearly Income From $180 to $417—9,000,000 in Industry—Where They Can, Farmers Shift to Other Lines.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.—Displacement of men by machines and the opening up of new land in the Mississippi Delta, the Southwest and California have reduced labor requirement for the production of cotton by 16 per cent an acre and 20 per cent a bale between 1909 and 1936, according to a report today by the National Research Division of the Works Progress Administration.

Despite this improvement in technology and land use, the report continues, the average price of lint cotton in recent years gives the producer a gross hourly return between 20 and 30 cents, out of which he must buy fertilizer, equipment, work stock feed and all other expenses of production.

"Under these conditions," the report asserts, "incomes of the producers are anything but adequate."

Changes in Technology.

The 132-page survey, titled, "Changes in Technology and Labor Requirements in Cotton Production," is one of a series relating to employment in agriculture. It paints a stark picture of the living conditions among a majority of the 9,000,000 persons on the 2,000,000 cotton farms of the South and Southwest, and offers little hope for the small owners, sharecroppers, tenant farmers and laborers who depend for their livelihood on the most important cash crop produced in the United States.

In one paragraph, the report points out why the southeastern part of the United States is going down the economic ladder below the poverty line while delta and southwestern regions are benefiting from mechanization on more easily tilled land.

"The average amount of labor required to produce a bale of cotton in the major cotton-producing areas for the period 1933-36," the report says, "amounted to 253 hours in the eastern cotton area, 250 in the delta area, and 178 in the western cotton area. This amounts to 1.98 pounds of cotton per man-hour in the eastern area, 2 in the delta area, and 2.81 in the western area. Average prices of lint cotton in the United States were 10.2 cents in 1933, 12.4 cents in 1934 and 11.1 in 1935."

No Solution Offered.

The report presents no solution for the appallingly low incomes. In fact, it indicates a worse situation in the Southeast if mechanization is extended in the areas most suitable for it, the level lands of Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California. At present the greatest obstacle to further mechanization is the abundance of workers willing to pick cotton for 75 cents to a dollar a hundred pounds.

"If, in the course of five to 10 years, a successful two-row picker operated by one man should appear," the report forecasts, "it might be applied on as much as half of the normal cotton crop, or about 17,500,000 acres. This seems likely to be the upper limit, unless cotton production should be materially increased on new lands where conditions are favorable to mechanization. Savings in labor from a use of a machine on this proportion of the acreage might amount to approximately 800,000,000 hours. This would be equal to the labor of 2,000,000 hand pickers each working forty 10-hour days during the picking season."

The authors of the report declare that present experiments warrant the expectation that "during the next decade" such a mechanical picker will be in use.

Machines Supersede Men.

For the present, however, the tractor is displacing horse and man-power in the pre-harvest operations, particularly in the areas west of the Mississippi where the land is level or gently rolling. Within the last three or four years, the report says, large number of tenants have been "tractored off" and can expect work on cotton only as day laborers during the peak season. In sample counties in Mississippi and Texas, the researchers found that percentage of farmers reporting tractors jumped from 5 per cent in 1919 to 41 and 45 per cent in 1936.

But tractors are available only to farmers with cash or credit, which at present means those west of the Mississippi.

"The typical cotton farm," the report says, "represents a relatively small investment as farms go. In 1930 this investment averaged about $1900 for land and buildings in the States of the Eastern and Delta areas, while in the Western crop area it average slightly over $5000. The value of equipment on farms in the Eastern area averaged less than $115 per farm, and in the Western area slightly under $300."

Average Earnings.

Since more than half the cotton land is in the hands of tenants of one class or another, it is easy to see why mechanization has not made greater progress. In transmitting the report to Administrator Hopkins, Deputy Administrator Corrington Gill wrote:

"Average annual earnings in 1934 for the various classes of tenants were $180 per family for wage hands, $312 for cropper families, $417 for other tenant families, and $354 for cash-rent families. When we consider the fact that tenancy in one form or another embraces a majority of the cotton producers, it is small wonder that the conditions under which cotton is produced have occupied a prominent place in the deliberations of governmental as well as private relief agencies."

Mechanization does not present a solution to the present problem. In fact, it has had dire effects in some regions.

Conclusion of Survey.

In its summary and conclusion the report guardedly states:

"Mechanization and other technological improvements offer an avenue of escape to those farmers who are able to take advantage of them. Insofar as they can produce more cotton with the same labor, they may be able to maintain their income even at the lower cotton price. It has been shown, however, that there are limited opportunities for mechanization in many cotton areas. The individual cotton grower is likely to have but little direct consciousness of competition between areas. He is aware only that cotton prices are dishearteningly low, that he must try to do more of the work himself to avoid paying out money for wages, and that he must deny himself and his family anything but the strict necessities of life if he is to get along at all. The typical tenant or cropper family (which produces little besides cotton), has less to spend for itself than half of the proceeds from six to eight bales of cotton, worth $40 to $60 per bale, plus the proceeds from 6000 or 7000 pounds of cottonseed worth perhaps $30 per ton. The small-owner family is not always or necessarily better off. It is not necessary to dwell on these shockingly low incomes. Families have 'lived' on such incomes when they had to. But, if they can, they seek other lines of employment.

Workers Shift When They Can.

"What are some of the alternative lines of activity for a part of the farm population in sections which are under the greatest disadvantages in cotton production? There has already been considerable shifting into vegetable crops, fruits, peanuts, hogs and other farming, enterprises in some areas. This shifting, however, is slow, with the opportunities far less than the need. Poor as it is, cotton remains for many the best agricultural alternative available in the cotton belt. Do other industries have more to offer? It would seem so, judging from the rapid movement of industries into this area during the past 15 or 20 years. The shift of industries to the South could ameliorate the effects of farm labor displacement by providing industrial opportunities for employment.

"In the last analysis, therefore, employment in the production of cotton depends not only on the progress of mechanization, but also to a large degree on alternative employment in other industries. It is clear that employment in cotton production is not likely to increase, and it seems probable that there would be considerable shrinkage in the next 10 years if present cotton croppers and tenants could find other employment."

WORLD'S FAIR MODELS ON EXHIBIT TOMORROW

Stix-Baer-Fuller Store to Show Scale Reproductions of New York Exposition.

Two scale models of the New York World5s Fair, which is scheduled to open April 30, 1939, will be on exhibit at Stix-Baer-Fuller, beginning Monday. One, a detailer air-view of the buildings and terrain, will be shown under changing lights and gives a comprehensive picture of the exposition now under construction in Flushing Meadow Park on Long Island. The other centers about the so-called theme of the fair, the trylon and perisphere. Hhese are geometric structures, one a 50-story three-sided needle, the other an 18-story globe which will house a circular theater.

The exhibit is in charge of Henry Weston, who will give daily talks. Members of the Missouri Advisory Committee on Women's Participation for the Fair, among them Mrs. George Gellhorn, Mrs. Clifford Gaylord and Mrs. Arthur Proetz, will act as hostesses. The models will be on display for one week.

'ARCHEOLOGY AND THE BIBLE' LECTURES BEGINNING OCT. 24

Series by the Rev. Harold Francis Branch at Central Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. Harold Francis Branch, author and archeologist, will deliver a series of lectures on "Archeology and the Bible" at the Central Presbyterian Church, Hanley road and Davis drive, Clayton, beginning Oct. 24 and continuing each evening through Oct. 28.

Dr. Branch, a native of Missouri and educated at Park College, Parkville, Mo., is now pastor of the First Church and lecturer in Egyptology and Orientalism at the University of Alabama, Tuscaloosa. After service as lieutenant of infantry during the World War, he was a lecturer and party leader of the Travel Institute of Biblical Research and visited the Mediterranean and Bible lands.

During his stay in St. Louis, Dr. Branch will be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Childress, 9030 Clayton road.

8 Pct. Fewer Riders in First Nine Months of 1938; Partly Due to Substitution of Busses.

A decline of more than 8 per cent in the number of revenue passengers carried by street cars of the St. Louis Public Service Co. during the first nine months of 1938 as compared to the corresponding period last year, was shown in a report filed yesterday with the City Register by Henry W. Kiel, receiver. The report is required for computation of the city tax, one mill on each street car fare.

In the nine months this year, 71,272,842 passengers were carried, or 6,363,280 fewer than in that period of 1937. A quarterly report for the three months ending Sept. 30 showed 22,454,420 passengers, 857,114 trips by cars, 5,864,406 miles traveled by cars and a daily average of 555 cars operated. For the corresponding quarter last year, there were 24,444,231 passengers, 926,736 trips, 6,312,146 miles traveled and an average of 612 cars operated daily.

The progressive decline in street car passengers was attributed in part to substitution of busses.

Auto News and Notes

INTRODUCED AS THE SILVER Anniversary Luxury Liner, the new 1939 Dodge cars, which are now on display here, have been changed and restyled from end to end. The greatest changes have been made on the front end, which is entirely new and modern in design. The wheelbase is longer and the bodies wider, with more seat width, and a new enamel exterior finish, while the 87-horsepower engine has been improved for longer life, with new auto-thermic pistons, much lighter and longer wearing. Bodies have tailored upholstery, a wider range of front-seat adjustment and numerous interior refinements, including a new design for the instrument panel. There is 27 per cent more luggage compartment room.

The gear shift lever is on the steering wheel post and the emergency brake lever under the dash, so the front compartment floor is clear of obstructions. In the new Dodge, individual-action front spring road vibration is leveled out by matched coil springs of Amola steel, while rear suspension is by means of thin-lead, semi-elliptic, squeakless springs, also of Amola steel. The V-type windshield is wider and higher, giving 23 per cent more vision area, and the windshield wiper is of a constant speed type, independent of engine vacuum. Side and rear windows also are wider. Door locks are all of the rotary, self-tightening type. Headlights are streamlined into the front fenders and give both a bright driving beam and a passing beam. The frame is heavier, now having six-inch side members. The newly styled hood may be locked and unlocked with the conventional handle, but only the top section of it lifts, leaving the sides in place. Steering is said to be 28 per cent easier. Body insulation against noise and heat and cold has been improved by even more liberal use of rubber and felt mountings. The clutch operates will less foot pressure.

A feature of the instrument panel is the new safety speedometer, which has a bead moving over the illuminated dial as the speed of the car goes up or down. When the car is traveling at speeds up to 30 miles per hour, the bead shows green. At speeds of 30 to 50 miles per hour, the bead shows amber. When the speed rises above 50 m. p. h., the color of the bead is a brilliant red.

Among engine improvements are a new manifold riser, a new downdraft carburetor connected to a double-unit air cleaner and intake silencer.

A PREVIEW OF THE NEW 1939 Hudson cars and a luncheon, held at the Chase Hotel Thursday, were attended by more than 300 dealers and salesmanagers from the St. Louis territory. Part of the Hudson factory's sales plans for the coming year was outlined by W. S. Milton, zone manager. C. G. Beeching, salesmanager in charge of zones for the Hudson Motor Car Co., discussed merchandising and advertising campaigns, and predicted a business increase. Mechanical details of the new cars were explained by George Dow, of the parts and service department.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR white sidewall tires, at the rate of 25 per cent annually, is reported by the B. F. Goodrich Co.

WHILE THE SILVER STREAK through the center of the hood and radiator is continued, the 1939 Pontiac cars, now being shown here, have more of a yacht prow effect to the radiator, which is flanked on either side by chrome side grilles set into the fronts of the catwalks. The harmonizing multibeam headlamps are mounted on the front fenders. A Quality Six has been added to the line. Designed for quantity production at a low price, it comes in five body models and has an overall length of 190 inches. The De Luxe Six, with the same engine as in the Quality Six, but with a longer chassis, comes in five body types. This model is 196¼ inches overall. The Pontiac De Luxe Eight also has five body styles.

A Pontiac feature for 1939 is increased visibility, which is 25 per cent greater in the De Luxe six and the eight. Windshield and window glass are wider and higher, corner posts narrower and the cowl line lower. Wider and lower, the De Luxe six and eight bodies can be had with or without running boards, the floors being only curb high, two inches lower than for 1938. Fisher unisteel bodies on the two larger lines provide more seat width and leg room. Front seat frames are made of steel tubing. The three-spoke steering wheel is T-shaped for better view of the speedometer and instrument panel. The entire front compartment controls, floor mat and accessories are finished in color harmony in a warm shade of tan.

The remote control gear shift has been improved and is now standard equipment. The gear-shift lever of this device is smaller, and a booster spring reduces the former slight effort of shifting gears. Knee action has been improved in its action for smoothness of ride and to give more road clearance. New and original duplex rear springing is designed to give one passenger as easy a ride as for six, and further minimize bouncing and sway. All 1939 Pontiacs have hypoid rear axles built in the Pontiac plant.

The Pontiac engine has been changed only slightly, the engineers believing that it has proven satisfactory. However, there is a new single diaphragm clutch which does away with 21 parts, requires less pedal pressure and is smoother and more positive, and a new transmission designed especially for remote-control gear shifting. Carburetors have been redesigned and a device in the float chamber insures a constant fuel level on sharp curves.

G. J. POPMA HAS BEEN APpointed regional manager of the St. Louis region for the Commercial Credit Co., succeeding L. D. McConnell, resigned. He recently moved to St. Louis from Indianapolis, where he was district manager for the company, with which he has been for 10 years. His St. Louis region includes offices in this city, Springfield, Ill., Paducah, Ky., and two in Evansville, Ind. The company specializes in purchase of installment contracts on auto and appliance sales direct from dealers in Eastern and Southeastern Missouri, Southern Illinois, Southwestern Indiana and Northwestern Kentucky.

APPROXIMATELY 200 DEALers and salesmen attended a preview of the new 1939 Lincoln-Zephyr cars Friday morning at the Chase Hotel, and a luncheon meeting the same day. Among the Ford and Lincoln executives present were M. N. Johnson, manager for the Ford Motor Co. in St. Louis, and John Rechtin, assistant manager.

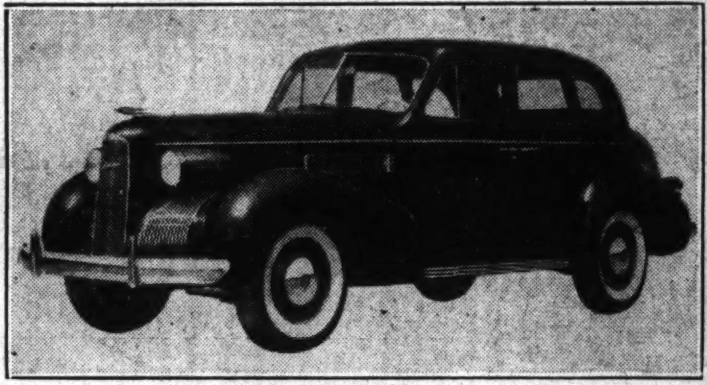
New Styling for Cadillac and La Salle

Cadillac's new styling for 1939 as seen in the sixty-one model. Longer and more streamlined, the new Cadillacs have a novel rear end spring suspension, greater vision, more room and improved control.



La Salle for 1939 in the four-door touring sedan model, which is available with or without running boards, and has a novel spring suspension, more body room, wider vision and improvements for driving safety and operating economy.

FRONT END AND BODY REstyling and improvements in safety, comfort, flexibility and controls convenience mark the new 1939 Cadillac and La Salle cars now being displayed here. A new controlled action ride rear spring suspension minimizes sway on curves and rough going. Lower hoods and 27 per cent more glass area give greater visibility. Refinements have been made in the syncromatic shift with lever on the steering column. A new piston ring is designed for greatly reduced oil consumption, and treatment of all rings and valve tappet action reduces wear. Horsepower of the La Salle is 125, of the Cadillac "61" and "60" Special, 135; of the Cadillac Fleetwood V-8, 140, and of the Cadillac Sixteen, 185.

Convertible models now have no rumble seats and the extra seats being inside the body. All models can be had with or without running boards. The sunshine roof, long popular in Europe, is optional on the La Salle and Cadillac "61" and "60 Special." It has a sliding roof panel which can be locked in any position.

The La Salle comes in five body types, the Cadillac "61" in four, the Cadillac "60 Special" in a touring sedan only, the Cadillac Fleetwood and Cadillac "16" in 12 custom types.

Chrome window frames are now a La Salle feature as well as a folding arm rest, sliding locks for the ventipanes as a precaution against theft, concealed door hinges and a front seat construction which permits air circulation between the front and rear compartments beneath the seat cushion. Legroom and seat width have been increased in the La Salle and Cadillac "61". New hardware combines plastics and chromium. Flexible steering wheels are standard on the Cadillacs, optional on the La Salle. The horn ring extends only around the lower spokes. The trunks on all the sedans begin at the body belt, are larger than on the 1938 cars, and lined and carpeted. Headlamps are long and conical in keeping with the body streamlining.

A fundamental engineering improvement is a control of axle weight to prevent "axle hopping" on uneven surfaces. Through use of rubber bushings at all points, the new rear suspension requires no lubrication.

R. L. WHISLER, DIVISION manager for the United States Tire Dealers' Corporation, returned the past week from a meeting of the tire company's dealer advisory committee, reported adoption of resolutions designed to benefit motorists as well as the independent tire merchants. He said that Howard N. Hawkes, general sales manager of the tire concern, spoke enthusiastically of the upturn in replacement tire sales in the past few months.

RETAIL SALES ORDERS IN the hands of Buick dealers are the largest in any new model announcement period in the last 10 years, W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager, reports. Dealers already have booked more business than they had through the first half of the 1938 model year, he says. In September, more than 14,500 of the 1939 Buicks came off the assembly line and this output is being stepped up. Unfilled retail orders are 62 per cent above this period last year.

PRICE REDUCTIONS FOR Oldsmobile's new Series 60 six-cylinder car and for its 1939 Series 70 six and Series 80 eight are announced as ranging from $33 to $106 under the prices for the 1938 models. Oldsmobile delivery prices at the factory now start at $777. The new six is priced $96 to $106 under the 1938 six's price, the 1939 Series 70, $33 to $43 under the 1938 six's price, and the 1939 Series 80, $64 to $69 under the prices of the eight for 1938.

MANUFACTURING OF THE 1939 models is under way in the Graham Paige factory, and shipments of the new cars are expected to begin tomorrow. Orders for materials for further production of tractors have been released, and tractors are expected to be coming off the assembly line the last week of this month at the rate of 25 a day.

AB JENKINS, THE RACING driver, who holds numerous world's records from 10 miles to 24-hour runs, has a new racer, "Mormon Meteor II," with a 700 h.-p. engine, with which he hopes to surpass the 357 m. p. h. record set recently by Capt. Eyston. Jenkins left Indianapolis, where he and August Duesenberg built the car, with a new Federal cab-over-engine truck fitted with a special body to carry the racing car. He will make his record attempt on the Bonneville salt flats in Utah on which Capt. Eyston did his 357 m. p. m. Both his racing car and truck are fitted with Firestone tires.

Miss Ewing Is Introduced At Reception

About 600 Guests Meet Debutante at Afternoon Function—Evening Party for Group of Young People.

YESTERDAY'S debutante was Miss Mary Louise Ewing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Berthold Ewing, who are spending the winter here after having lived in Italy for several years, so that their daughter may meet their St. Louis friends.

From 4 to 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon almost 600 guests called at the Ewing home (Mrs. J. Dwight Dana's residence, which they leased for the season) at 54 Kingsbury place, to be introduced to the guest of honor at a reception. Later in the evening a group of the debutantes, a few second year girls and their escorts were entertained at dinner and dancing.

Reception guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Ewing and Miss Mary Louise in a bower of chrysanthemums and palms built in front of a carved mantel of gray Italian tufa stone in the deep cream drawing room to the left of the entrance hall. The entire lower floor was decorated with additional clusters of fall flowers and greenery, and many baskets and vases of roses sent to the guest of honor. A string orchestra played in the music room.

Miss Ewing was gowned in white net over taffeta, an extremely bouffant frock on which were scattered silver and crystal sequins. The close fitting bodice with crystal and sequins shoulder straps was encrusted with silver. Instead of carrying flowers she wore mauve orchids at her shoulder. Mrs. Ewing wore sapphire blue lace over soft matching taffeta, and fresh violets in a corsage.

After meeting the receiving line, guests passed through the dining room, cleared of furnishings and decorated with all white flowers, to an autumn garden inclosed in a maize-tinted marquee with a ceiling of moss green. From a tiled veranda set with Italian chairs and tables, stone steps terraced down lower levels to the center of the garden, where coffee and ices were dispensed from a large oval table. Champagne was served from an improvised bar on the porch.

Walls of the marquee were thickly festooned with smilax, and autumn shaded chrysanthemums grew in border beds and stood in tall vases in the corners. Miss Marian Ewing, a niece of the host and hostess, and Mrs. William Lee Polk presided at the tea table, which was adorned with a centerpiece of yellow and bronze blossoms. The entire interior was lighted indirectly by bulbs concealed in the foliage.

Entertainment was more informal at the evening party. The large recreation room below stairs was redecorated to resemble a bar room of 1890. Pipes and pillars were wound stick-candy fashion with red and white, and red and white fringe hung from the ceiling. In one corner stood a little old-fashioned player piano. A U-shaped table for 70 guests which partly encircled the bar was covered in red and white checked gingham and decorated with red and white carnations trailing down the center. Favors, so much the style at parties of years ago, were wrapped attractively in white tissue and silver bows. There were monogrammed leather bill folds for the men, and gold and silver monogram pins for the young women. After dinner, during which an accordion player, a magician and a quartet of singing bartenders entertained the guests, a second orchestra played for dancing on the first floor. Frederick B. Ewing Jr., a Dartmouth student, arrived yesterday for the week-end in time to attend both functions.

Miss Ewing changed from her white reception gown to one of bright emerald green for evening. The second gown was also of tulle, many layers held out by crinoline, with a bodice of green and gold brocade, with which she wore gold slippers.

The Ewing family plans to return to their villa in Florence next spring. Miss Mary Louise will continue her studies in music in order to be a music critic, and will probably attend the Florence Conservatory. She started school here at the Convent of the Sacred Heart and later attended Miss Barry's School in Florence. Last winter she took special work in music in Dusseldorf, Germany.

Party for Visitor.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Morey Jr., 5295 Waterman avenue, have invited a group of friends for a buffet supper to be given at their home Saturday evening at 7 o'clock. The party will be in honor of Mrs. Thomas G. Moore of Reno, Nev., who is visiting Mr. Moore's father, Dr. George T. Moore, and Mrs. Moore, 2361 Tower Grove avenue. She will also be the guest of honor at a tea to be given by Dr. and Mrs. Moore at their home this afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Three Debutante Parties Today

DEBUTANTES and their escorts will be entertained at three parties today, a luncheon, cocktail party and buffet supper.

Mr. and Mrs. William Watkins Moulton, 1 Lenox place, will be host and hostess at the luncheon at 1:30 o'clock at the Beagle Club on Woods Mill road. The party was to have been given at the country home of Mrs. Moulton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James T. Caradine, but a recent fire on the property necessitated a change in plans. The Beagle Club adjoins the Caradine farm. After luncheon in the clubhouse, outdoor games will be played. Guest of honor will be Miss Caroline Gatch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward H. Gatch, 2 Fordyce lane. It will be a small party, including about 10 debutantes and their escorts.

Miss Virginia and Miss Blanche Fischel, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Walter Fischel, 14 Lenox place, will be hostesses at a cocktail party this afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock at their home. It is an informal party, honoring Miss Mary Jane Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Claflin Allen Jr., 82 Aberdeen place; Miss Theoline Bostwick, daughter of Mrs. Edwin S. Harrison, 109 Arundel place, and Miss Louise French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Frehch, 6326 Alexander drive. The three girls are cousins. Guests will also include a few friends of the hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene C. Tittmann, 5284 Westminster place, will give a small buffet supper this evening in honor of Miss Mary Caroline Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Morrison, 5296 Westminster place, and Miss Margaret McPheeters Adreon, daughter of Mrs. Robert E. Adreon, 5713 Cabanne avenue. The party will be at the Tittmann home.

Little Theater Group To Give Informal Tea

THE women's committee of the Little Theater of St. Louis will give its first tea of this season tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the theater, 812 Union boulevard. Harold Bassage, director, will speak at 3:15 o'clock, giving a resume of the Little Theater's five plays for the season.

Mrs. John Crago, newly-appointed president of the group, will preside. The following members of the board will serve on the hospitality committee for the tea: Mrs.

Junior League Activities to Begin Tuesday

First of Four General Meetings to Be Held—Monday Morning Lecture Series to Start Oct. 31.

JUNIOR LEAGUE activities for the fall and winter season will begin Tuesday with the first of four general meetings to be held during the year. Mrs. Alfred W. Brown, who was elected president of the St. Louis league last spring, will convene the session at 10:30 o'clock in the morning at league headquarters, 4932 Maryland avenue. At 11 o'clock the Occupational Therapy Workshop Committee, one of the most important of its philanthropic divisions, will report to the general membership with a demonstration of the type of work done. League members will represent patients, and Dr. Arthur Strauss will discuss and explain cases.

On the same day, league members will view for the first time an exhibit of pastels of children by Eloise Frazier Mikkelsen. The exhibit will hang in the clubrooms through Oct. 25.

The thirteenth season of Monday morning lectures sponsored by the league will begin Oct. 31, to continue into February. Proceeds will, as usual, be used for charity projects. The committee is headed by Mrs. Katherine Herndon Smith, with Miss Marie Taylor Spink and Miss Adelaide Mahaffey as co-chairman, and includes Mrs. Nelson Gatch, Mrs. Warren B. Lammert, Mrs. Pelham Turner, Mrs. Henry B. Pflager, Miss Martha Love, Mrs. Chapin S. Newhard, Mrs. Creighton B. Calfee, Mrs. Clifford Greve, Mrs. Lee I. Niedringhaus, Mrs. Robert Cochran and Mrs. B. B. Culver Jr.

The first speaker will be Edward Weeks, editor-in-chief of the Atlantic Monthly Press, whose topic will be "The Importance of New Books." Heretofore his lectures have been confined to Eastern cities because of numerous editorial duties. Bertita Harding, author, will discuss "The Twilight of Royalty," Monday, Nov. 7. Miss Harding became interested in the career of Empress Carlota while living in Mexico and gradually her interests widened to include royalty of all Europe.

The third speaker will be Elissa Landi, motion picture actress, whose subject is "The Difference Between Stage and Screen Acting." The date for her talk is Nov. 14. The last November lecturer (Nov. 21) and one of the most interesting in the series is Gordon B. Enders, whose subject, "No Where Else in the World," refers to Tibet, where he was reared, and where he afterward became the first foreigner to hold a Cabinet post, to be given the rank and title of Tibetan nobility and a seat in the upper house of the Tibetan National Assembly. Mr. Enders was a personal friend and adviser to the Grand Lama.

Edgar Curtis Taylor, headmaster of the Taylor School for Boys and a frequent speaker at league lectures, will speak Dec. 5. He has chosen "The Trend in Modern Poetry" as his subject. Dr. Henry C. McComas, who has taught psychology for years, first at Princeton and more recently at Johns Hopkins, will speak Jan. 9 on "Human Nature—as Psychology Unravels It."

William Seabrook, author of "Asylum," will talk Jan. 16 on "An Expatriate Returns," in which he will discuss the near-tragedy which gave the book its name. Dr. James Hepbron, who returns to the series because of the demand of league members who heard him last year, will again discuss crime in a subject entitled "Hail Felon Well Met."

The ninth speaker, Feb. 6, will be Sir Arthur Willert, on "Europe, 1939." With a background of distinguished newspaper work, Sir Arthur has been more recently head of the publicity department of the British Foreign Office. He will discuss the fundamental tendencies of international politics, with special reference to present European problems.

The tenth and final speaker, together with his topic, will be announced later.

Woman's Club Tea Tomorrow Afternoon

THE St. Louis Woman's Club will give a tea at the club tomorrow afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. It is one of the series of Monday teas. Hostesses tomorrow will be Mrs. A. H. Handlan and Mrs. Charles H. Sommer.

Entertainment, arranged by individual members, will precede the tea.

Party for Debutante.

Mrs. James Russell Bissell, 6939 Waterman avenue, has sent out cards for a luncheon to be given Wednesday, Nov. 9, at Glen Echo Country Club in honor of Miss Laura Hale Rand, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Rand, 7100 Delmar boulevard, and the newly crowned Veiled Prophet queen. Eighteen guests have been invited.

Women Workers In United Charities Campaign Named

MRS. JOHN T. DAVIS, chairman of the women's section of the special gifts' division in the approaching United Charities campaign, will preside at the meeting of her group, to be held at the Davis home, 17 Westmoreland place, at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. Assisting Mrs. Davis are Mrs. Walter Fischel and Mrs. Thomas S. McPheeters.

Other members of the women's section are: Mrs. Thomas L. Anderson, Mrs. Adolphus Busch, Mrs. Erwin Bry, Mrs. George Oliver Carpenter Jr., Mrs. Clarkson Carpenter, Mrs. Benoist Carton, Mrs. John B. Denvir, Mrs. Herbert Frank, Mrs. Clifford Gaylord, Mrs. Francis L. Gross, Mrs. Hord Hardin, Mrs. John A. Haskell, Mrs. Charles L. Hunt, Mrs. Hugh McKittrick Jones, Mrs. Robert McKittrick Jones, Mrs. C. Oscar Lamy, Mrs. Sidney Maestre, Mrs. George D. Markham, Miss Frances McPheeters, Mrs. Guy Oliver, Mrs. J. Scott Porter, Mrs. Aaron S. Rauh, Mrs. Wallace Renard, Mrs. Charles M. Rice, Mrs. John Ring Jr., Mrs. Monroe H. Rodemyer, Mrs. D. K. Rose, Mrs. Oliver F. Richards, Mrs. J. F. Schlafly, Mrs. Lillie H. Schuster, Mrs. John F. Shepley, Mrs. Eugene Stinde, Mrs. Harry B. Wallace, Mrs. M. B. Wallace Jr., Mrs. O. J. Willis, Mrs. David Wohl and Mrs. Edward J. Walsh.

This is the only general meeting. Work begins two weeks before the opening of the general campaign.

The West End region of the city and the county campaigns are carried on entirely by women workers. The Regional chairman, Mrs. Frank M. Mayfield, and her cochairmen, Mrs. Joseph Glaser Jr. and Mrs. O. P. J. Falk, have been at work the last several weeks completing organization plans.

The region is divided into districts, each with a chairman and co-chairman, with groups of team captains working under them. These district heads are: Forest Park District, group one—Mrs. R. M. C. Ormrod, Mrs. Nelson B. Gatch; group two—Mrs. Gordon Scherck, Mrs. Julius Lesser; group three—Mrs. John J. Niemoeller, Mrs. F. J. Prendergast; West End District, group one—chairman, Mrs. James W. Singer Jr., Mrs. S. B. Edison; group two—Mrs. George B. Gannett, Mrs. Thomas C. Noel; group three—Mrs. Ralph B. Campbell, Mrs. Isaac C. Orr.

Each team of workers is to have at least 10 solicitors. In many instances the teams are organized under a captain and co-captain. The following captains and co-captains already are at work perfecting their units: Forest Park District, Mrs. Stanley S. Waite, Mrs. S. K. Loy, Mrs. David Grant, Mrs. Oliver Evans, Mrs. Harry L. Franc Jr., Mrs. Edward Greensfelder, Mrs. James Banks, Mrs. Benjamin M. Loeb, Mrs. F. J. Loewe, Mrs. Julius A. Schweig, Mrs. Russell F. Meyer, Mrs. G. Wichmann, Mrs. Charles Slawson; West End District—Mrs. Sol Dubinsky, Mrs. Haskel Woldenburg, Miss Evelyn Koren, Mrs. Irving Shapiro, Mrs. M. H. Meyerhardt, Mrs. Maxwell Fineberg, Mrs. Zola Carp, Mrs. M. Schweitzer, Mrs. Harry Esserman, Mrs. Hyman Shifrin, Mrs. T. J. Hensen, Mrs. C. O. Simpson, Mrs. Edwin R. Culver Jr., Mrs. Max S. Muench, Mrs. Crawford Young, Mrs. N. M. Codding, Miss Lucile Keeler, Mrs. Robert Weatherly, Mrs. Richard Morey Jr., Mrs. Henry J. Roettger, Mrs. Lester S. Munchweiler, Mrs. T. M. Levis, Mrs. Abram B. Lansing and Miss Betty Campbell.

The only general meeting of all the chairmen, captains and workers in the West End region will be a luncheon meeting at the Chase Hotel Thursday. At this time instructions will be given and solicitation cards distributed.

Elmira Heritage and E. L. Woodward Engaged

THE engagement of Miss Elmira Heritage, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Heritage, 242 Portland terrace, Webster Groves, to Ernest Lee Woodward of Honolulu was announced at a tea yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride-elect's parents.

Jean Ryckman presented each guest with a small photograph of a Hawaiian scene on which were written the names of Miss Heritage and her fiance. A miniature Hawaiian village was placed on the buffet table in the dining room. The tea table had a centerpiece of white and yellow chrysanthemums and tall white tapers.

Mrs. Heritage and her daughter received their guests in the living room in front of the fireplace, which was decorated with chrysanthemums. Mrs. Heritage wore a blue lace gown and a shoulder corsage of yellow roses and the bride-elect wore peach marquisette and a lei of white pompons.

Mrs. Thomas F. Gentry, Miss Marjorie Broesel, Miss Marian Pfingsten, Miss Louise Larrabee, Mrs. Herbert Atherton, Miss Mariam and Miss Grace Bullock of Oak Park, Ill., served at the tea table.

Mr. Woodward, who is the son of Mrs. Weltha Bacon Woodward of Waterloo, N. Y., attended the University of Pennsylvania. Miss Heritage is a graduate of Washington University and a member of Alpha Chi Omega sorority.

The wedding will take place next summer, after which the pair will make their home in Honolulu.

Miss Ursula Moloney To Be Wed Nov. 22

PLANS have been completed for the wedding, Tuesday, Nov. 22, of Miss Ursula Catherine Moloney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas O. Moloney, 6309 Pershing avenue, and Dr. R. Emmet Kelly. The ceremony will take place at the St. Louis Cathedral at 11 o'clock in the morning with Mgr. John P. Spencer officiating.

Miss Jane Moloney will be her sister's maid of honor and bridesmaids are to include: Mrs. R. M. S. Barrett, Mrs. Paul Fletcher, Mrs. John J. Scanlon, Mrs. J. B. Martin of Dallas, Tex., the former Miss Lucy Callahan, and Mrs. Thomas Green Clinton of Kansas City.

Stephen Kelly Jr. is to serve his brother as best man. Groomsmen will be Dr. Burke Suitt of Asheville, N. C.; T. O. Moloney Jr., brother of the prospective bride; Dr. Joseph Grindon Jr., T. O. McNearty, Dr. D. B. Flavan and James Hennessy.

After the ceremony a reception will be held at Glen Echo Country Club. Parties will be announced in a few days to be given by friends of the pair.

Hostess to Out-of-Town Guests.

Mrs. Marie S. Gettings, 4525 Lindell boulevard, entertained several guests last week. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Deane of Little Rock, Ark., came here for the unveiling of the statue of Dr. Edmund A. Babler and the dedication of Babler Memorial State Park. Mrs. Elizabeth Busby Wilson of Quincy, Ill., who also came for the park dedication, remained as Mrs. Gettings' guest for the Veiled Prophet ball Wednesday night. Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Gettings' daughter, Mrs. Arthur Homan, the former Miss Elizabeth Gettings, were classmates at National Park College, Washington, D. C. Mrs. Gettings is a sister of the late Dr. Babler.

Martha Lindstedt And Allan McMath Married in Church

THE wedding of Miss Martha Anne Lindstedt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Lindstedt, 177 Slocum avenue, Webster Groves, to Allan Rosborough McMath, son of Mrs. Robert H. McMath, 502 Bompart avenue, also of Webster, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Emmanuel Episcopal Church, with the Rev. J. Manley Cobb officiating. Single tapers in silver holders were placed in each window at the outside aisles. Candelabra and bouquets of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums were used at the chancel steps. Palms and greenery banked the altar and a single bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums was placed on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She chose ivory faille for her wedding gown. It was made with a shirred bodice and a low square neckline which was bound with cording of the same material. The gown had leg-of-mutton sleeves and a gored hoop skirt which was shirred at the waistline. It flared to a wide circular train at the back. The long tulle veil was secured by a small tulle cap edged with faille. She carried a colonial bouquet of gardenias.

Miss Nancy Ames was maid of honor. She wore an aquamarine faille gown made similar to the bride's. It had short sleeves with bands of shirring at the bottom. She wore a crownless hat of faille fastened at the back with brown velvet ribbons which hung to the waist. She carried a colonial bouquet of bronze and yellow chrysanthemums. Miss Jean and Miss Diane McMath of Mamaroneck, N. Y., nieces of the bridegroom, were junior bridesmaids. Their gowns were of aquamarine taffeta with deep flounces around the bottom of the skirts. Their flowers were colonial bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums.

Kenneth R. McMath, also of Mamaroneck and brother of the bridegroom, was best man. E. B. McDonald Jr., Banks McDonald, William H. Armstrong, Walter L. Metcalfe and Robert S. Lindstedt, brother of the bride, were ushers.

A reception for the immediate families, bridal party and out-of-town guests was held after the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Lindstedt wore a black velvet dress with matching accessories and a corsage of gardenias. Mrs. McMath wore a dress of vintage wine crepe with accessories of the same color. She wore a shoulder corsage of orchids. White chrysanthemums, white tapers in candelabra and the wedding cake decorated the buffet table set in the dining room.

Mr. and Mrs. McMath have departed by motor for New York, where they will sail Wednesday for Bermuda. Upon their return, they will live at 5504 Cates avenue.

The bride is a graduate of Goucher College, Baltimore, Md., and is a member of Pi Beta Phi sorority. Mr. McMath was graduated from Washington University, where he became a member of Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Out-of-town guests here for the wedding included: Mrs. John Goodwin and Mrs. Fred Gifford of Indianapolis, Ind.; Mrs. Edward E. Amblad of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Amblad Jr., Decatur, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Madison Buckner Jr. of Marshall, Mo.; Miss Sara Margaret Bowers of Mannington, W. Va.; Mrs. Albert Eads Bailey of Macomb, Ill., and Mrs. Kenneth R. McMath of Mamaroneck, N. Y.

Party at Old Folks' Home.

Cards have been mailed for the annual harvest home and pound party to be given by the Old Folks' Home, 711 South Kirkwood road, Kirkwood, Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 6 o'clock.

Margaret Phelps Becomes Bride of Edward B. Burrage

IN a ceremony at University Methodist Church at 8:30 o'clock last night, the marriage of Miss Margaret Quinette Phelps, daughter of Mrs. James Orson Phelps, 6907 Pershing avenue, to Edward Bradley Burrage, 4903 Pershing avenue, took place. In a setting of white chrysanthemums and greenery, the Rev. Dr. John F. Caskey, officiated. Candelabra lined the center aisle.

James Orson Phelps escorted his sister to the altar. Her gown of white satin had a square neckline, outlined in the rose point lace which had adorned Mrs. Phelps' wedding dress. The long sleeves were gathered full at the shoulder line of the tight-fitting bodice. A full-length tulle veil fell from a coronet cap of the rose pointe lace ornamented by orange blossoms. Her bouquet was white roses combined with lilies of the valley.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Bert Steiner, sister of the bride, wore American Beauty faille taffeta, designed with heart-shaped neckline, puffed sleeves extending to the elbow and a hooped skirt. With it she carried roses in the same shade. Similar dresses of pale pink taffeta were worn by the bridesmaids: Miss Ruth Burrage of Rochester, N. Y., sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. David Battle Smith and Miss Margaret Bates. Their flowers were briar cliff roses, carried as loose arm bouquets. Marcia Steiner, young cousin of the honor attendant, served as flower girl in a pink taffeta dress, trimmed in light blue. She carried a miniature old-fashioned bouquet of talisman roses and delphinium.

William Campbell was best man and ushers included John Russell, Patrick Miner, Stephen Phelps, brother of the bride, and Mr. Steiner.

White flowers decorated the living room mantel of the Phelps' home where guests were received for a reception afterward. In the dining room supper was served, buffet-style.

The bride attended Hosmer Hall Monticello College at Godfrey, Ill., before studying art at the St. Louis School of Fine Arts, Washington University. Mr. Burrage is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alvah Lowell Burrage, and formerly lived at Reading, Mass. He attended Tufts College and later had four years of training and foreign travel with the Massachusetts Nautical School. He is a member of Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

WASHINGTON SCENE

By the POE SISTERS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15.

"A HAPPY Birthday to You," sang 150 newspaper women to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt on Tuesday, when she was guest of honor of the Women's National Press Club, of which she is an active member.

Mrs. Roosevelt said she would have forgotten her birthday save for that reminder, and that of the President, who sees to it that family birthdays are not overlooked.

As she talked and laughed it was hard to realize that she was 54 years old, with her new fashionable hair-do and vivacious manner.

In her "off-the-record" remarks after the cake with its 21 candles was cut, Mrs. Roosevelt spoke briefly, then yielded the floor to her hosts and answered questions. Some were rather personal, but Mrs. Roosevelt answered them with the understanding her reply was "off the record."

Apropos of Mrs. Roosevelt, there is much discussion in Washington whether or not she would curtsey to Queen Elizabeth of England in case King George VI and his Queen conclude to visit the United States after their Canadian tour next spring.

When King George and Queen Elizabeth visited France this spring, the wife of the President of France curtsied when presented to the King and Queen.

When Mrs. Coolidge met Queen Marie of Rumania—and she was a reigning Queen at the time, they met each time and parted with hand shakes.

Practically the same custom prevailed when the late King of the Belgians and his Queen Elizabeth came to the United States after the World War. During their stay they were being ushered through one of the public buildings and met two woman clerks in the hall. One of them tried to curtsey and slipped in the act. The King sprang forward and assisted her to her feet, shook her hand warmly and then passed on with his Queen. Not until they were around the corner from the clerks did the royal pair permit themselves to smile.

The latest American girl to sue for her reinstatement as an American citizen after her marriage is Princess Margaret Boncompagni. The Princess was Miss Margaret F. Draper before her marriage to Prince Boncompagni. She is the daughter of the late Ambassador to Italy and Mrs. William F. Draper. The Princess was named for the late Dowager Queen Margharita of Italy, and at her birth the Queen sent her a strand of pearls.

Mrs. Edward Beale McLean wears at all times the famous Hope diamond, once the property of Queen Marie Antoinette of France. Mrs. Sumner Welles, wife of the Under-Secretary of State, has a chain of black pearls once owned by the last Czarina.

Mrs. Roosevelt has made public the program of receptions and dinners at the White House for the season of 1938-1939.

The first function will be the Cabinet dinner Dec. 13, followed by the diplomatic reception Dec. 15. The diplomatic dinner will be held Jan. 3, and the judicial reception Jan. 5. The last reception of the year will be on Feb. 2, in honor of the Army and the Navy.

On Dec. 17, Mrs. Roosevelt will give her annual Gridiron Widows' party, on the night of the first Gridiron dinner of the season.

EAST ST. LOUIS SOCIAL EVENTS

MISS GLADYS JUNE MILLER, daughter of Mrs. Marjorie Miller, 1909 North Seventh street, and Thomas Vincent McEvilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas V. McEvilly, 1633 North Forty-fifth street, were married at 9 o'clock yesterday morning at the Sacred Heart Church. Mgr. J. J. Fallon performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a gown of ivory satin fashioned with a tight bodice and hoop skirt, the skirt forming a short train. The long sleeves were full to the elbow and came to a point at the wrist. The neck and edge of the skirt were trimmed with ruching. Her circular veil was worn over her face and was held in place with a cluster of lilies of the valley. Her only jewelry was a cameo pendant, a gift of the groom. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Joyce Miller, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a colonial frock of blue satin fashioned with short puffed sleeves, tight bodice and a hoop skirt. A sash of American Beauty velvet fell to the floor and her shoulder veil of blue tulle was held in place with a bow of the same velvet. She carried a colonial bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Edmund J. McEvilly, brother of the groom, was best man.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to members of both families at Hotel Coronado in St. Louis, after which the pair departed for a two-week honeymoon in Colorado. They will reside at 3823 State street.

BRIDES OF EARLY AUTUMN

Weddings and Engagements

Hradsky-Crocker

MISS DOROTHY JANE CROCKER, daughter of Charles H. Crocker, 4230 St. Louis avenue, became the bride of Richard T. Hradsky Saturday night, Oct. 8, at Kingshighway Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Arnold H. Lowe performed the ceremony. Mr. Hradsky is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hradsky, 2517 Minnesota avenue.

Mr. Crocker gave his daughter in marriage. The bride wore ice blue satin, made princess style, with a bodice trimmed in seed pearls. Her tulle veil, also ice blue, was fingertip length and fastened by a coronet of lilies of the valley. She carried the same flowers in her bouquet.

Miss Anna Marie Goehler was maid of honor, and Miss Virginia Rose and Miss Ruth Crocker, cousins of the bride, were bridesmaids. Emil Hradsky Jr., brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Harold Proske and Richard Werner were groomsmen, and George Buckles, Walter Steinkuhler, Edwin Till and Harold Ehrlich were ushers.

A reception for 150 guests was held at the Castilla.

After a motor trip to Florida and other southern states, the couple will live at 2521 Michigan avenue.

Oberman-Goldman

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Goldman, 7506 Byron avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margorye, and Gus Oberman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Oberman, 7311 Northmoor drive. No date has been set for the wedding.

Weisberg-Dorn

The engagement of Miss Esther Dorn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rubin Dorn, 5240 Enright avenue, and Walter Weisberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weisberg, 3904 Shreve avenue, was announced recently. The wedding will take place Thanksgiving day.

Horstman-Fotheringham

The marriage of Miss Arline Fotheringham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Fotheringham, 3401 Longfellow boulevard, and William W. Horstman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Horstman, 4539 Clarence avenue, took place last night at 8 o'clock at Tyler Place Presbyterian Church. The Rev. Dr. Henry Little Jr., pastor, performed the ceremony.

The bride's gown was of deep ivory faille taffeta, made with a plain bodice and long tight-fitting sleeves. The veil of ivory tulle fell over the dress train from a heart-shaped hat of Venetian lace. Her only attendent, her sister, Miss Mary Ann, wore a gown of old rose faille, made bouffant, with tight basque and full skirt. A miniature hat of matching malines completed her costume.

Dr. Charles J. Bleke attended Mr. Horstman as best man and ushers were David Hoffman, Harry W. Bockstruck, William O. Kleing and Clifford C. Horstman.

After a Southern wedding trip, the pair will live in St. Louis. They are both former students at Washington University.

Rudolph-Weissman

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Weissman, 7231 Amherst place, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Ethel, and Manuel Rudolph, 735 Harvard avenue. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Rudolph of Los Angeles, Cal. The wedding will take place in June.

Friedman-Bender

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan S. Bender, 5775 Kingsbury place, will announce the betrothal of their daughter, Miss Miriam, and Irvin Friedman next Sunday evening at an informal reception to be given at their home. Mr. Friedman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Friedman.

Brennan-O'Leary

Miss Mary Catherine O'Leary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James O'Leary, 5032 Lotus avenue, was married to James Patrick Brennan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Brennan, 5124 Terry avenue, Saturday morning, Oct. 8, at 9 o'clock at St. Mark's Church. The Rev. James P. Johnston performed the ceremony.

McWhorter-Engleman

Mr. and Mrs. John McWhorter, 2213 Benton avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Irene McWhorter, and Vernon Engleman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Engleman, 3000 Caroline avenue.

Stefani-Rae

Dr. and Mrs. Walter E. Hennerich, 7512 Rosedale drive, announce the marriage of the latter's sister, Miss Blanche Rae, and Dr. Raymond T. Stefani of Detroit. The marriage took place there quietly, Saturday.

Miss Rae, until moving to Detroit two years ago, made her home here with Dr. and Mrs. Hennerich. She attended the Visitation Convent, Springfield, Mo.

Dr. Stefani is a graduate of the St. Louis University Medical School. The bridal pair will live in Detroit.

College Sororities And Fraternities

Panhellenic

MRS. MAYOL H. LINSCOTT of Kansas City, newly appointed province director of Gamma Phi Beta, is visiting the St. Louis chapters of her sorority. Representatives from all other sororities on the Washington University campus attended a tea given in her honor Friday afternoon in the Women's Building. In the receiving line with Miss Elaine Foerster, active president, and Mrs. Homer Rapp, alumnae president, were Mrs. George R. Throop, Dean Adele C. Starbird, Mrs. Blanche Bartlett, Miss Alice C. Schriver, Miss Mae Cella, alumnae advisor, and Miss Dorothy Moore, vice-president of the active chapter. Serving at the tea tables were other chapter officers: Miss Margaret Christmann, Miss Gloria Ball, Miss Mary Margaret Alt, Miss Margaret Brereton, Miss Orah Lamke and Miss Lucille Hansen.

A buffet supper was given in the sorority rooms for Mrs. Linscott, Friday evening, when she spoke on the philanthropic program of Gamma Phi Beta, which includes the award biennially through the American Association of University Women of a $1000 fellowship for advance study in social work and the operation of four camps for underprivileged children in the United States and Canada.

Mrs. Linscott was guest of honor at a luncheon given Saturday at the Coronado Hotel by the St. Louis alumnae chapter of Gamma Phi Beta.

The fifty-third anniversary of the founding of Alpha Chi Omega at DePauw University was observed at a Founders' Day banquet given Saturday evening at the Congress Hotel by the active and alumnae chapters of the sorority. Mrs. Conrad Becker was toastmistress and the speakers included Mrs. Martyn Schattyn, alumnae president, Mrs. Robert Kinsey, one of the founders of the Washington University chapter, Miss Shirley Lovejoy, president of the active chapter, and Miss Eileen Simons, president of the pledges.

This winter the alumnae of the sorority will have two meetings a month, the afternoon groups meeting on the fourth Wednesday and the evening groups the third Tuesday. Mrs. Armin C. Hofsommer has been appointed press chairman.

Announcement was made this week of the granting of a charter of Alpha Chi Omega to the University of Georgia. This is the sixty-third chapter of the sorority.

Mrs. Ralph Strader of Evanston, Ill., district governor of Alpha Phi, will visit the alumnae of the sorority in St. Louis this week. She is now the guest of the Missouri University chapter and will visit Kansas City alumnae before coming here, where she will be entertained at a tea at the home of the president, Mrs. Joseph Noh, 319 North Taylor avenue, and at a dinner at the Chase Hotel.

The alumnae of Phi Omega Pi sorority gave a luncheon Saturday at the Missouri Athletic Association. Miss Barbara Kerch is the new president of the alumnae chapter.

New officers of Kappa Delta sorority are Miss Irene Pitts, president of the St. Louis alumnae; Miss Helen Griswold, secretary, and Mrs. R. W. Longstreet, Panhellenic representative. Kappa Delta is the only sorority in national Panhellenic which has its national offices in St. Louis. They are located in the Railway Exchange Building and the staff includes Mrs. Vesper Stotenbur, head of the Department of Finance, and Mrs. Ruth W. Ibach, Department of Records.

A tea in honor of pledges and their mothers will be given Wednesday afternoon by Kappa Kappa Gamma Mothers' Club at the home of Mrs. G. M. Biston, 6434 Cecil avenue. Mrs. I. O. Royse will be the assisting hostess. Dr. Winifred Magdsick, professor of psychology at Washington University, will speak on "Scholarship and What a Sorority Can Do for Its Members." Mrs. Henry R. Middleton is president of the club.

The Kappa Alpha Mothers' Club will meet tomorrow afternoon at the fraternity house at Washington University. Newly elected officers of the club are Mrs. Thomas Draper, president; Mrs. J. Ray Cable, vice-president; Mrs. J. W. White, secretary, and Mrs. Herbert Freer, treasurer.

The Alpha Gamma Delta Alumnae Club will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Charles McIntire, 257 Elm avenue, Glendale. The assistant hostesses are Mrs. Lloyd Blanchard and Miss Sarah Dritt. Following a business session and dinner the club will hear a talk by Albert Leonard, who spent the past summer in Alaska. He will show motion pictures of his travels.

The regular monthly meeting of Beta Field chapter of Phi Delta Kappa was held at the Y. M. C. A., 16th and Locust streets, Saturday evening. Discussion on the theme of Democracy in Education was lead by Dean Isador Loeb of Washington University. Others on the program were Superintendent F. P. Tillman of Kirkwood, Principal E. J. Jacson of the Cote Brilliante school, and Principal W. L. Evans of the Brentwood High School. G. H. V. Melone of John Burroughs School is president of the chapter.

PHILLIPS'
MILK OF MAGNESIA

Thousands Now "ALKALIZE" while they Sleep
IF YOU OVER-INDULGE TAKE "PHILLIPS'" AT BEDTIME TO WAKE UP WITH A SMILE—NO SIGN OF ACID STOMACH
Try This Way—See How Clear Your Head Feels Next Day
NEXT TIME you eat too much — smoke too much — or drink unwisely — do as thousands now do to wake up feeling like a million — that is, alkalize while you sleep.
It's so easy to do — and results are remarkable. For in this way you can relieve the effects of over-indulgence — escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day.
Just Do This
Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water — AT BEDTIME.
While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel swell.
Then — when you wake — take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.
Known to Thousands
That is the quick, simple and easy way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.
Try this way. See how clear your head feels next day. Notice the absence of dullness and "depression" due to excess stomach acidity. You'll be amazed.
But — when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article — now either in liquid or handy tablets. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone—always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia — the kind many doctors endorse. Keep a bottle always handy in your home — and "alkalize" excess stomach acidity while you sleep.

KIRKWOOD

THE wedding of Miss Janice Evelyn Scholl, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. Charles C. Scholl, 20 Fern Ridge road, Valley Park, to Donald Victor Chisholm, son of Mrs. George Chisholm, 235 West Monroe avenue, was solemnized Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the Grace Episcopal Church of Kirkwood. The Rev. Dr. Robert O. Kevin performed the double ring ceremony. The chancel was banked with ferns and grenery and bouquets of white chynsanthemums and single white tapers. Candelabra were placed at the chancel steps.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white slipper satin made with a high V-neckline which fastened at the back with satin buttons. The sleeves, full to the elbow, formed a point over the hand. The full skirt formed a long train at the back. Her circular tulle veil was held in place with a Juliet cap of seed pearls and rhinestones. She also wore a modesty veil. She carried a round bouquet of white lilies.

Mrs. George Everett was matron of honor for her niece. She wore a blue slipper satin gown with an elbow length cape. She carried golden chrysanthemums and wore matching flowers in her hair. Miss Doris Freeman was bridesmaid and the bride's sister, Miss Shirley Ann, was junior bridesmaid. They wore taffeta gowns made with drop shoulders, full skirts and puff sleeves. Narrow velvet ribbon laced the dresses from the waistline to the floor. Miss Freeman was in aquamarine taffeta and carried yellow chrysanthemums and Miss Scholl wore dusty pink taffeta and her bouquet was orchid chrysanthemums. Jean Rae Everett was flower girl. She wore a white net dress over pink satin and carried a basket of rose petals. William Rae Wood was the ring bearer.

After the ceremony a reception for the families and close friends was held at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. William Wood, 604 Meramec Station road. Mrs. Scholl received the guests in a blue satin gown. Mrs. Chisholm was gowned in black velvet. Both wore corsages of roses. The bridal table, set in the dining room, had a centerpiece of white roses and white tapers over which hung white wedding bells. Bouquets of white cosmos were used around the room.

After a short honeymoon, the young pair will live at 235 West Monroe avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Chisholm are both graduates of Kirkwood High School.

Mrs. Willard H. Guest, 515 North Dickson avenue, was guest of honor at a surprise party and buffet supper in celebration of her birthday Friday night. PARENT EDUCATIONAL SESSIONS TOMORROW

3-Day Discussion of Democratic Family Life to Open at Sheldon Memorial.

The St. Louis Council for Parent Education will hold its annual conference, to be devoted to discussions of the social significance of democratic family life, at the Sheldon Memorial for three days beginning tomorrow.

Guest speakers will be Ralph P. Bridgman of New York, former executive director of the National Council of Parent Education, and Dr. E. Lee Vincent of the Merrill-Palmer School, Detroit.

The opening session at 2 p. m. tomorrow will be a discussion of the growth of personality in family life to be led by Bridgman and Dr. Luther L. Bernard, professor of sociology, Washington University.

Dictatorships, democracies and individual families will be discussed at 8 p. m. tomorrow. Dr. Katherine Bain, St. Louis pediatrician will be chairman of the section with Bridgman and Dr. Frank M. Debatin of Washington University as speakers.

On Tuesday, discussions will be held on guidance of children from control to independence, management and mental hygiene in father-child relationships, solutions of family differences, and new approaches to understanding children. Specific subjects of the afternoon discussions will include sex education, and art for children, and the handicapped child.

Tuesday's speakers will include Dr. Vincent, who will discuss the young child at 10 a. m., Dr. E. Van Norman Emery, professor of Psychlogy at Washington University, who will speak on adolescents, Miss Mary Powell of the Art Museum Staff, and Miss June Weybright.

Safeguarding essential opportunities for children in a democratic society and realities in democratic living will be discussed Wednesday. Among the speakers are Dr. Hyman Meltzer, director of the Psychological Service Center, Dr. Ralph Fuchs, and Herschell Alt, secretary of the St. Louis Children's Aid Society.

MINIATURE COLONIAL FURNITURE TO BE SHOWN

Three rooms of miniature Colonial furniture representing 3500 hours of labor and an approximatte cost of $16,000 will be on display at the Lammert Furniture Co., Ninth street and Washington avenue, beginning tomorrow.

Each piece of furniture in the living, dining and bedrooms is made to scale and is af ull working model. The dining table extends to accommodate two extra leaves, and hardware and casters on the larger pieces are exact copies of those on full-sized furniture. All inlay work on the miniature furniture has been done under a microscope. The breakfront bookcase contains, among other bits of antique china and silver, a tea set of gold luster. The Wallace armchair in the living room is covered with petitpoint made in Hungary. It was intended for use as a woman's evening purse and contains 3000 stitches to the square inch.

The furniture, which was designed by Dexter E. Spalding and executed under his direction, will be on display for two weeks.

HADASSAH CONVENTION TO OPEN HERE OCT. 31

Women's Zionist Organization to Discuss Effect of Political Changes in Europe.

The effect of political changes in Europe on Jews throughout the world will be discussed by prominent speakers at the twenty-fourth annual convention of Hadassah, women's Zionist organization, to be held at Hotel Jefferson Oct. 31-Nov. 3. About 1000 delegates and visitors from 45 states are expected to attend.

The convention also will consider public health and land problems involved in the upbuilding of a Jewish national home in Palestine and will celebrate completion of the $1,000,000 Rothschild-Hadassah-University Hospital and Medical School on Mount Scopus in Jerusalem.

Raymond Gram Swing, English publicist, who has just arrived from Great Britain, will discuss "Symptoms and Nature of Fascism and Anti-Semitism." Dr. Milton Steinberg, rabbi of Park Avenue Temple, New York, will urge widespread education on Jewish problems to offset anti-Jewish propaganda, and Dr. Israel Goldstein, president of the Jewish National Fund, will report on land redemption and afforestation in Palestine.

An analysis of the refugee problem in Germany and Austria will be given by Miss Ingrid Warburg, formerly of Berlin, who will discuss the Youth Aliyah (immigration) movement for removal of adolescent children from Central Europe to Palestine. She will give intimate glimpses of conditions among Jewish children who have registered for transfer and are being cared for in training camps outside Berlin, Paris and Amsterdam.

$80,000 IN TICKETS SOLD FOR SYMPHONY

Workers to Report Monday on Reservations for Season Series.

Season ticket reservations for the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra concerts, sold in the current drive by the Symphony Association, total more than $80,000, it was announced yesterday. Workers will attend a report meeting at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at Hotel Chase, the first since the campaign started last Monday.

The operating budget for the orchestra's 1938-39 season is based on sale of $110,000 worth of season tickets. After the opening concerts, Oct. 28-29, when subscription rates will be withdrawn.

The orchestra already has been booked for appearances in 25 Midwestern and Southern states during the season. Several of the bookings are return engagements. The first tour will open at Quincy, Ill., Jan. 17, under auspices of the Civic Music Course. Appearances will follow at Battle Creek, Mich., and Toledo and Columbus, O. The tour will last a week.

College towns will predominate in the second tour, opening Feb. 13 at Illinois State Normal University at Normal. Other concerts will be given at Peoria, Ill., Davenport, Ia.; Iowa State College at Ames, University of Iowa at Iowa City, Ottumwa and Des Moines, Ia., and University of Missouri at Columbia.

The final tour, at the close of the regular local series of subscription concerts, will be through the South, with the first engagement March 20 at the University of Mississippi, at Oxford. Other engagements: Memphis, Tenn., Birmingham, Montevallo and Montgomery, Ala.; New Orleans and Baton Rouge, La.; Houston, Waco, Fort Worth, Denton and Longview, Tex., and Fayetteville, Ark.

St. Louis Wars Against Diphtheria

After this toxoid shot at Municipal Courts Building Clinic, he will be immune to diphtheria.

Application desk at the clinic. One injection for children under 10, two—three weeks apart—for the older.

A MURDERER whose attack brought death to thousands of children of an earlier generation has been cornered by science. In homes of rich and poor alike, diphtheria struck with ferocity, leaving its trail across threshold after threshold. By perfection of anti-toxin for treatment after exposure or affliction, science long ago set up a shield against the deadliness of the disease—lowered the death rate but failed to halt the contagion. The researchers dealt diphtheria a heavy blow with discovery of toxin-antitoxin, a serum to immunize infants, children and adults against the disease by a series of inoculations. Today, and for the last five years, the use of toxin-antitoxin's logical successor, toxoid, has proved that diphtheria can be practically exterminated—its horrors buried in the past. The St. Louis Health Division annually emphasises the present-day certainty of immunization with simple injection of toxoid, without reaction to patient. The thousands who have failed to protect children with toxoid—who may not have known about toxoid—are being urged now to avoid dangerous delay. For parents unable to pay a private physician's fee, the Health Division conducts free clinics at Room 28, Municipal Courts Building, where these pictures were made, at 2647A Washington avenue, and at 901 Lami street.

Throat examination. Noses also are examined to discover diphtheria carriers. When found, they are treated.

Clinic cares for nearly 100 an hour on Saturdays. Injection takes but a minute, is no more painful than a mosquito bite.

Pair of the Health Division's guinea pigs. Inoculated with culture from diphtheria carrier suspect's throat, they react but recover if bacteria are present.

GRACIE ALLEN GOES SURREALIST

The artist in a somber, creative mood.

GRACIE ALLEN, feather-brained comedienne of the stage, radio and movies does paintings for her own amusement when away from the camera and microphone. Some of her friends saw the paintings, told her they were genuine surrealism. So Gracie gathered up a bunch of the pictures, composed titles in her own inimitable style and persuaded the Julien Levy Galleries in New York to place them on exhibition.

HUNTING dog discipline reaches a high point in the trained retriever. In competition, the control of the handler over the dog counts most in selection of winners. The retriever must obey every command, must restrain itself until it gets the word to go after the bird, then must carry it so carefully, whether a live mallard or dead pheasant, that it is unmarked by teeth. And the dog must not let the bird down until the handler commands except to get a better grip on the burden. Keenness of scent counts, too, but speed doesn't matter so much—the dog may take one minute or five minutes to find and bring back a pheasant from the brush.

In the retriever field trials held under auspices of the Mississippi Valley Kennel Club last Saturday and Sunday at the Dardenne Shooting Club at Peruque, Missouri, on the Mississippi River northwest of St. Charles, Labrador retrievers won top honors. They took the fo ors. They took the four places and two certificates of merit in the open all-age stake Sunday, and golden retrievers were able to win only two certificates. However, goldens did win first and second places in the amateur all-age Saturday. Labradors won the derby Saturday and non-winner stake Sunday. In the open all-age, there were three field trials, with the dogs retrieving pheasants shot by the official "guns," and one water trial, with live, bound mallards used. The field was dry and dusty under the hot October sun, and scent was made difficult, but the winner, Peconic Pyne of Arden, owned by W. A. Harriman of New York, took a scent once from 40 yards. Only twice did dogs show temperament by refusing to enter the water or thickets promptly.

The trials were a fashionable event. The crowd of 200 that attended both days was virtually all in the social-register.

Highly specialized in their training, flight surgeons and psychiatrists go over the would-be flying student rigorously. Some army officers fail to pass. The motto: It's better to break a young hopeful's heart than to have him break his neck.

Students have to learn a lot more than working of controls; for instance, they acquire a good knowledge of meteorology.

WEST POINT OF THE AIR

Of utmost importance is the life-saving parachute. Every 60 days the 300 parachutes in the Randolph Field loft are inspected, aired, repacked.

All is not work. There are the swimming pool, movies, billiards and other recreation to take the mind off flying.

FROM all points of the compass, 368 men between the ages of 20 and 27 reported last week to Randolph Field, the Army Air Corps Training Center and the world's largest "air city," which lies 15 miles northeast of San Antonio, Texas. A few will be found physically deficient although they have passed strict examinations by military medical boards near their homes. Only 25 per cent of the applicants for the Air Corps training course are able to get by the re-breathers, wobbleometers and other medical gadgets that make the examinations the most exacting given by any arm of national defense. Furthermore, statistics for the seven years that this West Point of the air has been in existence show that less than half the students will finish the eight-month course. Until completion of their preliminary flying instruction they will be known as dodoes—those clumsy, flightless birds which became extinct in the seventeenth century.

Some of the dodoes will never get off the ground, for the Benzine Board—so-called because of the cleansing properties of benzine—will wash them out from time to time for the stereotyped "not meeting standards of progress." Quite a few in addition are washed out after the first few hours aloft with an instructor. Incidentally, athletes don't make the best pilots; it's those blessed with "inherent flying ability." Successful students at Randolph go on with good prospects for the four-month advanced course at Kelly Field, six miles southwest of San Antonio. Finished, they get their wings—the insignia of a full-fledged airman. The last class, graduated October 5, started in October, 1937, with 106 West Pointers and 174 flying cadets. Fifty-six of the West Pointers and 94 of the flying cadets failed. The cadets who finished were appointed second lieutenants in the Air Corps Reserve and assigned to extended active duty. The West Pointers went automatically to the Air Corps.

They Have to Pardon Her Southern Accent

DIRECTORS at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer continually have to pardon her Southern accent when the part she is playing demands a different dialect, but Lynne Carver has gone a long way in the short time since she was Virginia Reid Sampson of Birmingham, Alabama. Her father, a mining engineer, influenced by admirers of his auburn-haired daughter, sent her to New York several years ago for voice training. Later they moved to Hollywood and her friendship with an established actress gained her a screen test and audition at M-G-M. She played a minor role in "Maytime," then signed a long-term contract, offered partly because of her singing voice. A new picture in which she plays a principal part, entitled: "Young Doctor Kildaire," has been finished and is scheduled for showing soon in St. Louis.

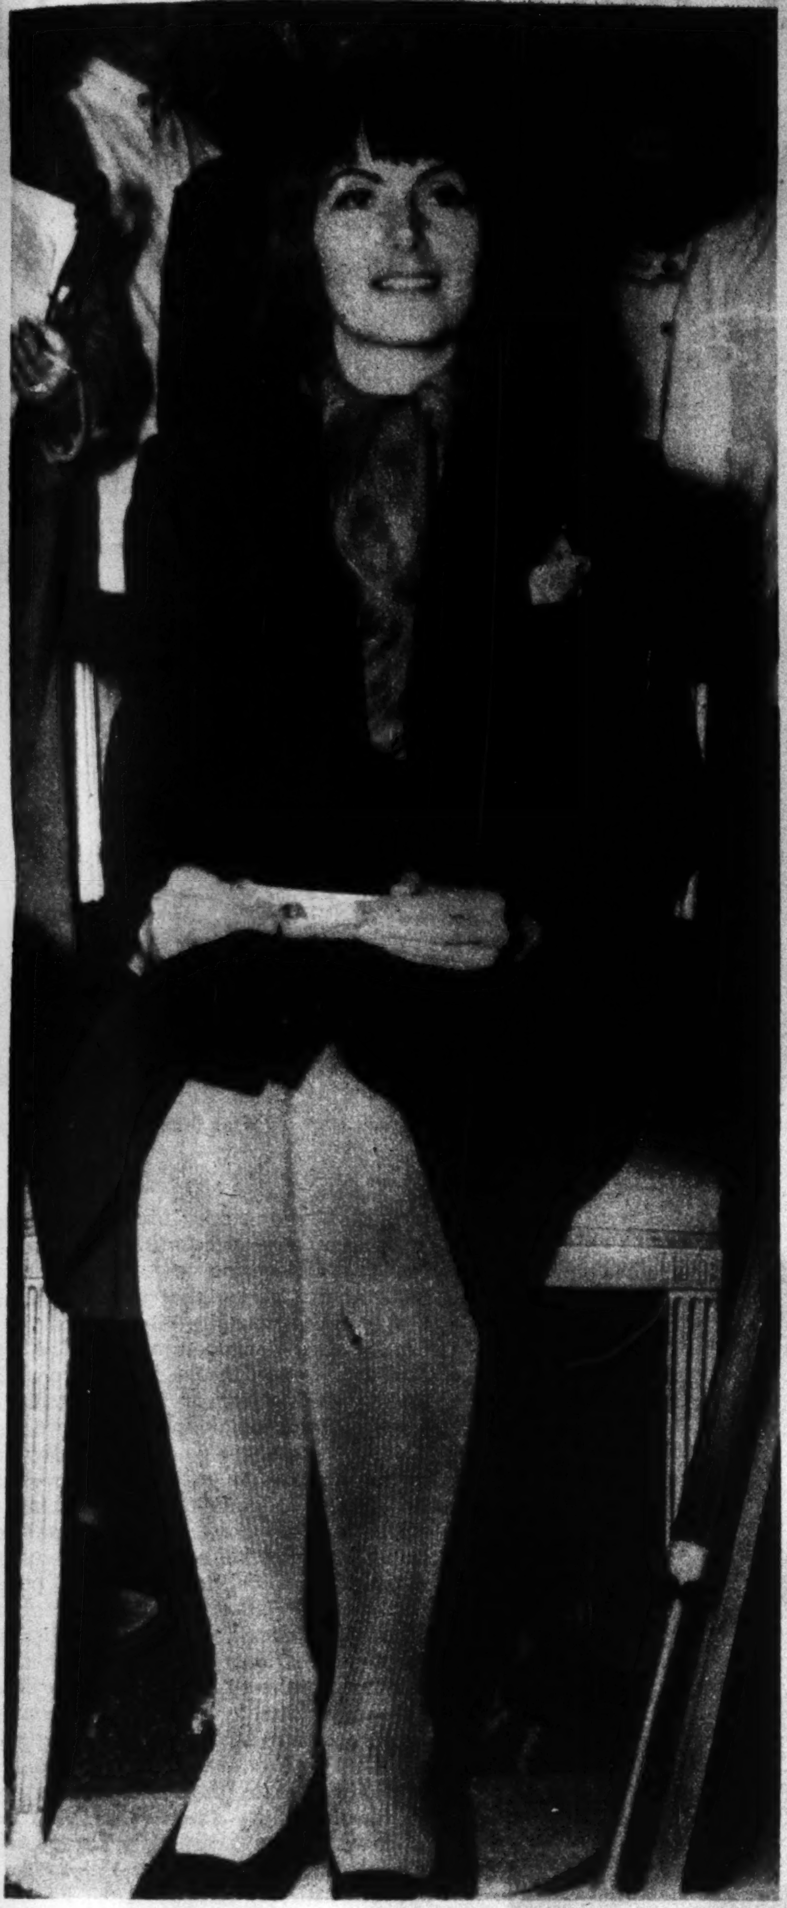
GARBO TALKS



Surrounded by interviewers, ship's stewards, and cameramen, Greta Garbo loosened up and talked their arms off with nothing barred but information on her romance with Leopold Stokowski. She wore heavy, blue-gray lisle stockings.

"I feel it is merely unnecessary for me to answer personal questions."

FOR the first time since she established her reputation as a sphinx and a recluse, Greta Garbo, the movie actress, held open court for reporters a few days ago when she returned to New York after several months in Europe and a romantic interlude with Leopold Stokowski, the orchestra conductor. But not a jot of information did she have about the romance which has set both the film world and the music world by the ears. She parried the one big question with: "I never talk about my private affairs. I never have. I am afraid if I were married you would know about it. Nothing escapes you." She did go on to say the world was very "difficult." Someone asked her if she would like to have children. She replied: "I would not want to raise children to send to war." Asked what her next film would be, she said that it would have a Russian theme.

(Associated Press Wirephotos)

"I'd like to have two faces, one for the screen and one for my private life, so I could live quietly without being followed and hounded."

Looking rather unhappy, she told reporters that nothing escaped them. She added, "I might like all of you—removed from your jobs and your newspapers."

GLORIFYING THE MISSOURI MULE

MANY St. Louisans are unaware, because of comparative isolation from immediate mule territory, that mules are one of Missouri's chief products. But other states, other nations, are acquainted with the Missouri mule, and experts concede that when better mules are bred, Missouri will breed them. One mule lover gave the answer neatly in a letter to the Post-Dispatch: "The Missouri mule is a scientific product of Missouri's climate and environment. He is sun-dried in our drouths, baked in temperature to make him immune to thirst, heat or sunstroke. He is water-logged in rains so he will be impervious to equatorial monsoons; accustomed to rattlesnake bites, stings of malarial mosquitoes do not worry him. Quagmires and quicksands of the Missouri River train him to drag an artillery piece through a mudhole; cannon fire and powder smoke are part of his genealogy." Missouri mules are shipped at premium prices to South America, Europe and other parts of the world where they are needed for hard civil and military labor.

The third annual Mulesta, Rodeo and Auction, including mule show, sales and a "Jesse James Jubilee" in the spirit of old Clay County, was held recently at Excelsior Springs, where photographs on this page were made by a Post-Dispatch PICTURES photographer.

Field entertainment, depicting frontier days, was aided by Indians from the White Cloud (Kansas) reservation.

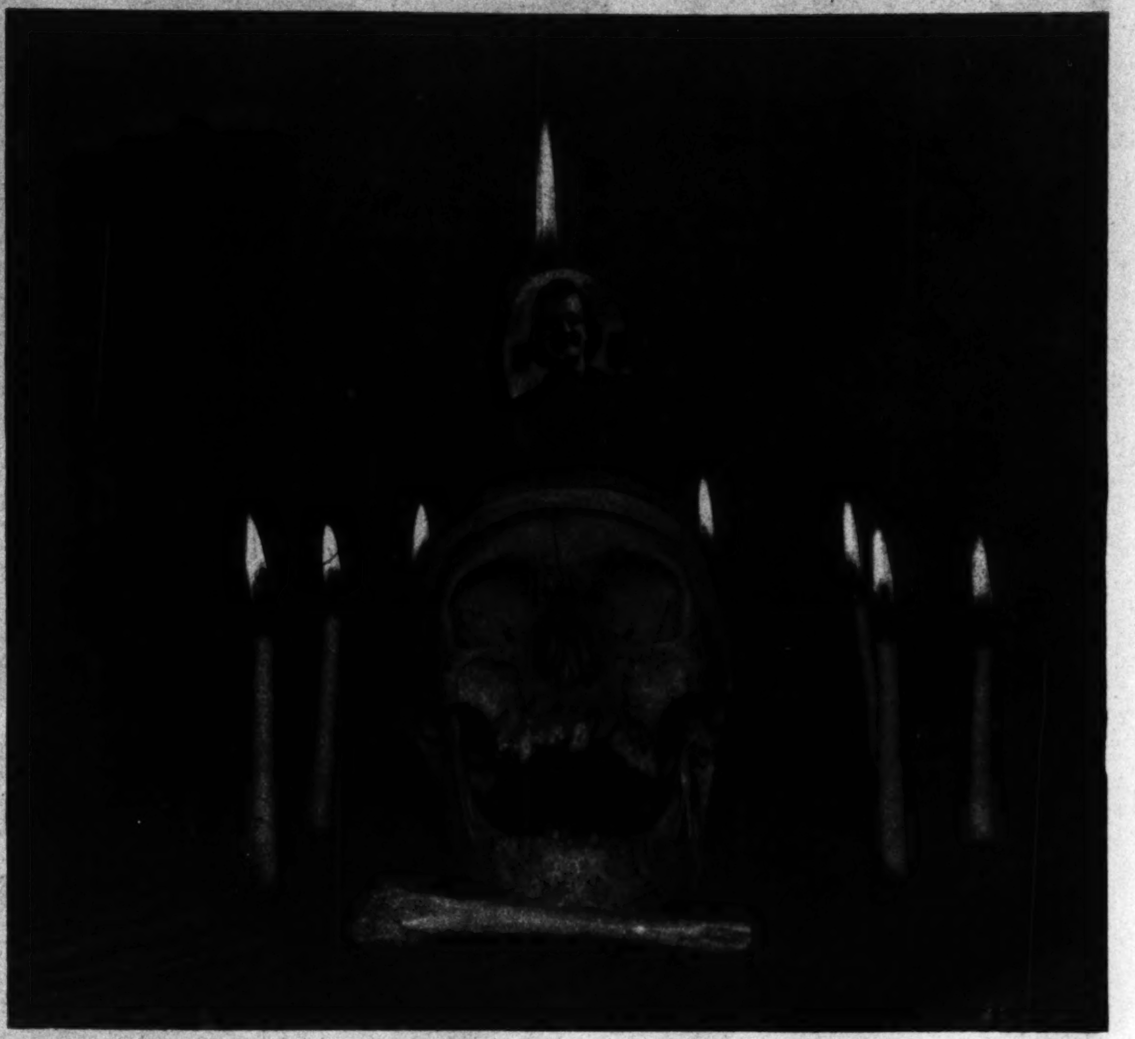
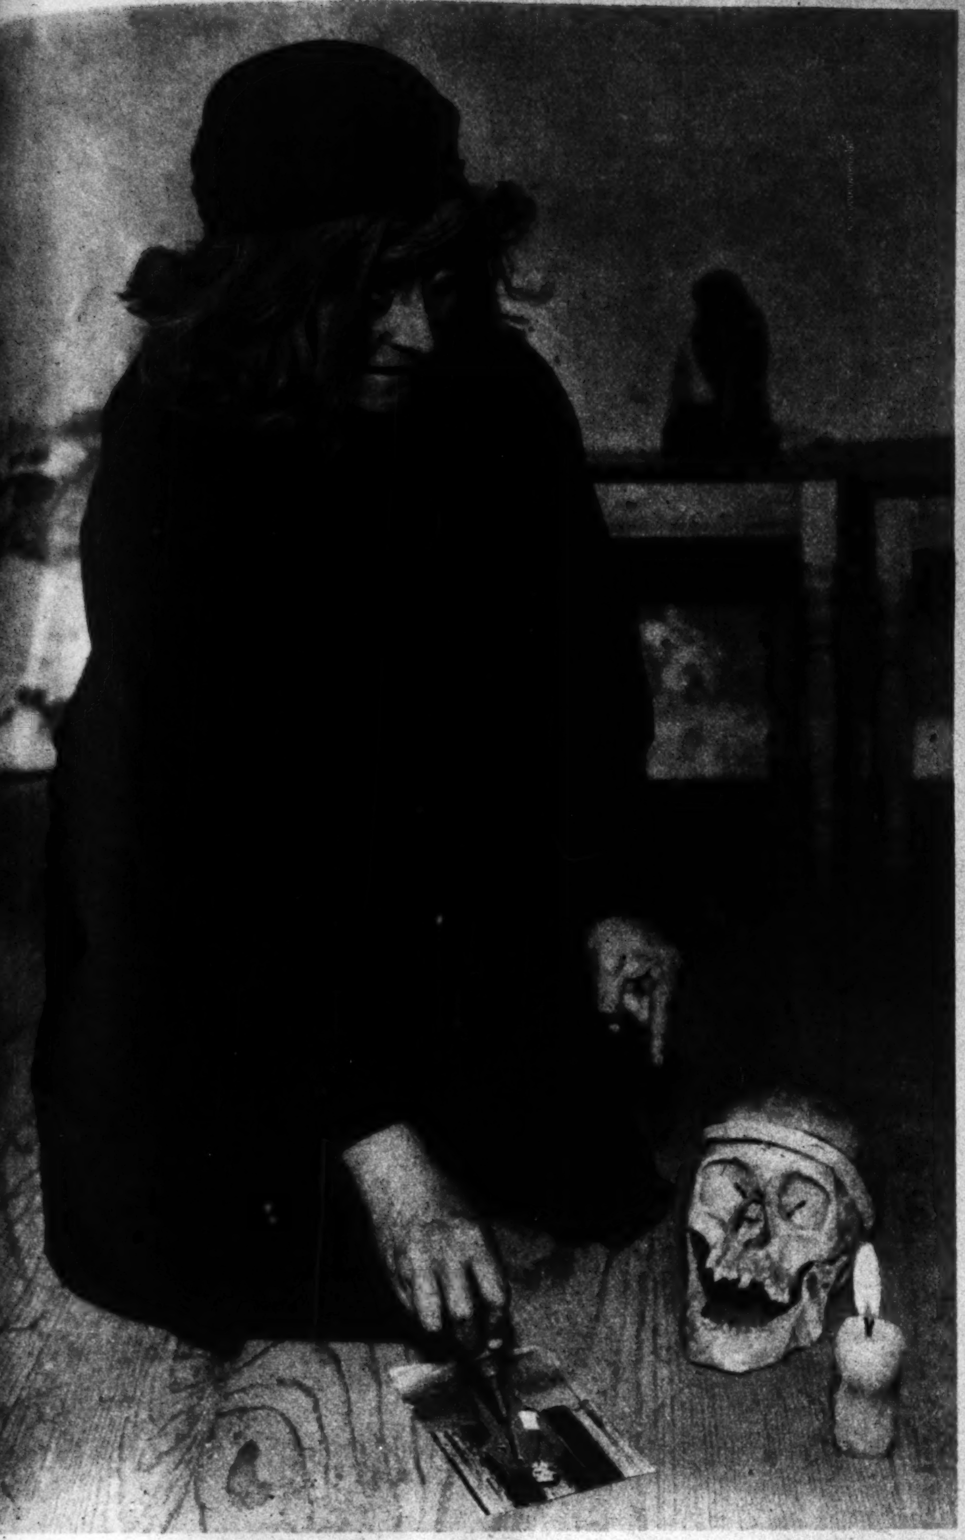
PRACTICING WITCHCRAFT IN MEXICO

THE practice of witchcraft occurs in Mexico with some local flavor, but follows the universal ancient formulas—powders, skulls, magic, destroying the images of enemies, charms, curses, cures, incantations. The "doctors" who practice it have their credulous clients sit for hours in darkened adobe huts, with doors and windows barred, while they mumble strange words, burn herbs and candles. Usually, the client is asked to bring along a personal belonging, such as a photograph or handkerchief, of the person on whom he wishes to work magic.

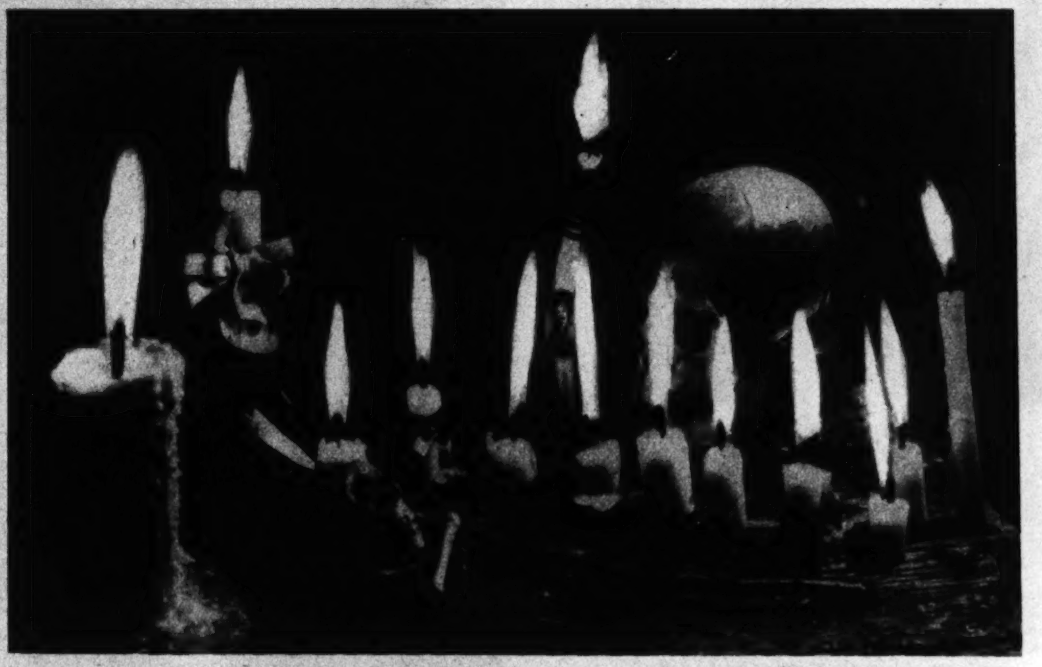


Scissors have been thrust into the photograph at the request of an enemy. The practice of trying to injure through images was recorded in Egypt 4000 years ago.



The witch jabs the heart of a photograph of an unfaithful lover, assuring a woman client the lover will return to her.

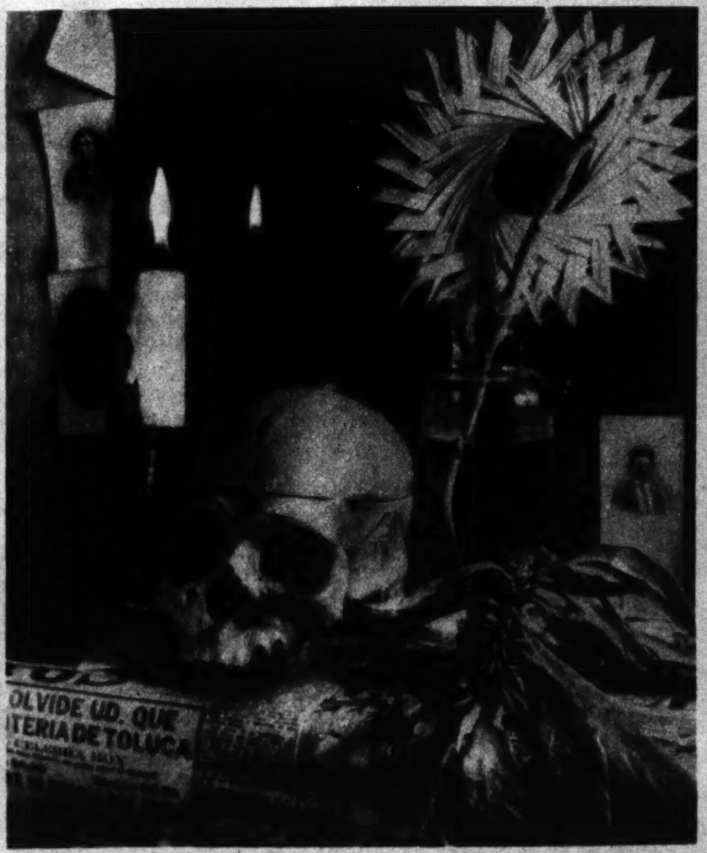
A hairpin is placed in the eyes of the photograph of a missing lover, to bring him back. A doll is made of his handkerchief and pierced with seven pins in the region of the heart.



Another arrangement of the skull and candles, designed to reconcile two lovers whose pictures are attached to candles.

Superstitious clients often remain for hours in this posture before articles arranged by the witch.

This clay figure, with a picture of the intended victim placed on the head, has been pierced with pins to cause horrible diseases and, finally, death.



The person whose photograph is at the right has asked vengeance on the three whose photographs are at left. All this is designed to give it to him.

Don't let excess fat steal your charm . . . try this easy plan to lose 7 pounds a month

Don't be discouraged if your figure isn't as slender as you want it to be. Now there's an easy, pleasant way to reduce—without starvation diets or strenuous exercise. Just eat sensibly, exercise moderately and eat 2 or 3 Ry-Krisp Wafers at each meal as your exclusive bread. Hundreds, following this plan, have lost up to 50 pounds—safely, easily.

Ry-Krisp is that delicious whole rye wafer you see served everywhere with soups, salads, sandwich spreads. It's very important in reducing because each crisp wafer has only 20 calories yet contains minerals and needed bulk often lacking in reducing diets. Order RY-KRISP from your grocer today—and follow the Ry-Krisp way to new, youthful slenderness.

OUT of the SHOPS TO STAGE FAME

Ruth Rubenstein never went from daisy chain to "chain-store daisy," as she sings (above) in "Pins and Needles." Actually she sewed brassieres (right) in a New York underwear factory before footlights claimed her.

Dance that stopped the show, by two former garment workers as Mussolini and Hitler.

Lillian Rosenthal stitched in a garment factory, belonged to Local No. 22. She's in the front row of the chorus.

BY EVERY established tradition of the Broadway stage, it should have been a colossal flop. Instead New York critics and, more profitably, sophisticated theatergoers greeted "Pins and Needles" with an enthusiasm that caused chagrin to several Broadway producers, who had rejected Harold J. Rome's music and lyrics. Stage successes such as "Of Thee I Sing," and "First Lady," had established that American dignitaries would take a joke on themselves. It remained for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union successfully to kid themselves and folks on the other side of the fence at the same time in a musical comedy. More remarkable, the smash hit was produced by amateurs of I. L. G. W. Labor Stage, with every member of two large casts a working member of the union. They were taken from sewing machine or workbench and transferred behind the footlights to make labor's points with song and laughter. The original Broadway company is scheduled to open tonight at the American Theater. Another is still playing in New York.

"Something different, something new—" The chorus gives out, truthfully, "All of us from the shops."

"It's not cricket to picket," Lynne Jaffee sings in a satirical sketch. She admits she didn't think so when she was a dressmaker.

AS SCIENTISTS REVEAL THIAMIN (VITAMIN B_1) IS ABSOLUTELY ESSENTIAL FOR PERFECT HEALTH

NATION HEARS NEWS OF VITAL HEALTH FOOD, THIAMIN. Readers of leading national magazines recently had their attention drawn to the dramatic story of Thiamin, nerve-nourishing food element. Thiamin is now known to be absolutely essential to the health of all, young and old. Oatmeal is the richest thrifty source of Thiamin.

THIAMIN IS NEEDED DAILY BY EVERYBODY. While Thiamin is absolutely essential to health, it cannot be stored up in the body. New supplies should constantly be obtained from the daily diet. Since Thiamin nourishes nerves, which in turn control most bodily functions, it is of prime importance to include Thiamin-rich foods such as Quaker Oats in meals every day.

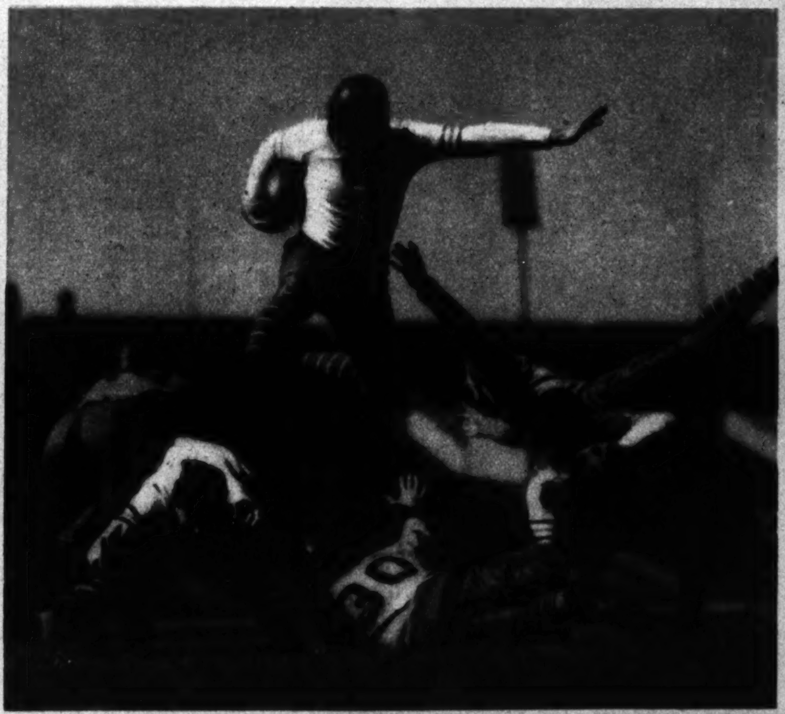
"WHAT A BLESSING THAT DELICIOUS QUAKER OATS IS SO RICH IN THIAMIN." These words might well be echoed by millions. For without Thiamin, this young lady would lose her glowing health, clear complexion and shapely figure.

A DELIGHTFUL WAY TO CUT FOOD COSTS !

OATMEAL IS RICHEST ECONOMICAL SOURCE OF THIAMIN. Your penny buys more Thiamin—also the biggest money's worth among all whole-grain foods of important elements: protein, food-energy, iron and phosphorus. For a real bargain in nutrition, buy Quaker Oats.

AMERICA WANTS TRIM LINES, NOT FAT. No nation in the world is so beauty conscious as America. Quaker Oats is a food par excellence for modern people who want to build firm, shapely bodies, sparkling vitality. Oatmeal's proteins are famous for building the right kind of firm, clean flesh and muscles. Energy—vitality—sound nerves. All are important and all are contributed to by the valuable proteins, minerals and Thiamin in Quaker Oats.

IRON FOR VITALITY AND RESISTANCE. Iron is essential for rich, red blood, to build vitality and resistance. But not everyone knows that oatmeal is a rich source of iron. Now with the approach of winter it is especially important to build body resistance.



OATMEAL LEADS WHOLE-GRAIN CEREALS IN PROTEINS FOR STRENGTH AND MUSCLES. First among all whole-grain cereals in protein content, oatmeal is a breakfast table favorite of athletes. For proteins are the muscle-building food. Together with generous food-energy they give lasting strength. Children need them to develop sturdy bodies. Another reason why nutrition-wise mothers serve Quaker Oats every day!

Engineer Reat Schofield of the Wood River Branch Railroad has mounted to the cabin with his orders in his hand.

In the Presidential Special, Roy Rawlings, railroad chief executive, is set for the bump that occurs when the engine couples on to push his car over the 5.6 miles from Wood River Junction to his grain firm at Hope Valley.

Bought a Railroad For $301

Pulling out of the junction.

LAST year, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad was ready to close its Wood River Branch after operating the line at a substantial deficit for 60 years. Roy Rawlings' grain business, the line's principal patron, would be injured, so he asked the New Haven people how much they wanted for the road.

The price was $300 for 336 out of 600 outstanding shares. He paid it. Then he paid an additional $1 for bonds with a face value of $56,500.

That made him the owner and president of a railroad 5.6 miles long with .7 mile of siding. The rolling stock is a gasoline engine, leased from the New Haven road, and an old caboose. The railroad makes four round trips a week between its home base, Hope Valley, Rhode Island, and Wood River Junction.

Engineer Reat Schofield acts as baggageman and conductor. En route, he has to stop to shoo cows, sheep and dogs from the track. Sometimes he stops by the brook to see if trout are biting, picks berries growing along the rails, or stops at a cow "watering hole" to fill up the radiator. A new piece of rolling stock—THE PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL—was added this year. The car, painted bright red, is not unlike a roller coaster car. Engineer Schofield places it in front of the locomotive to keep smoke from the passenger's eyes. The little railroad issues passes.

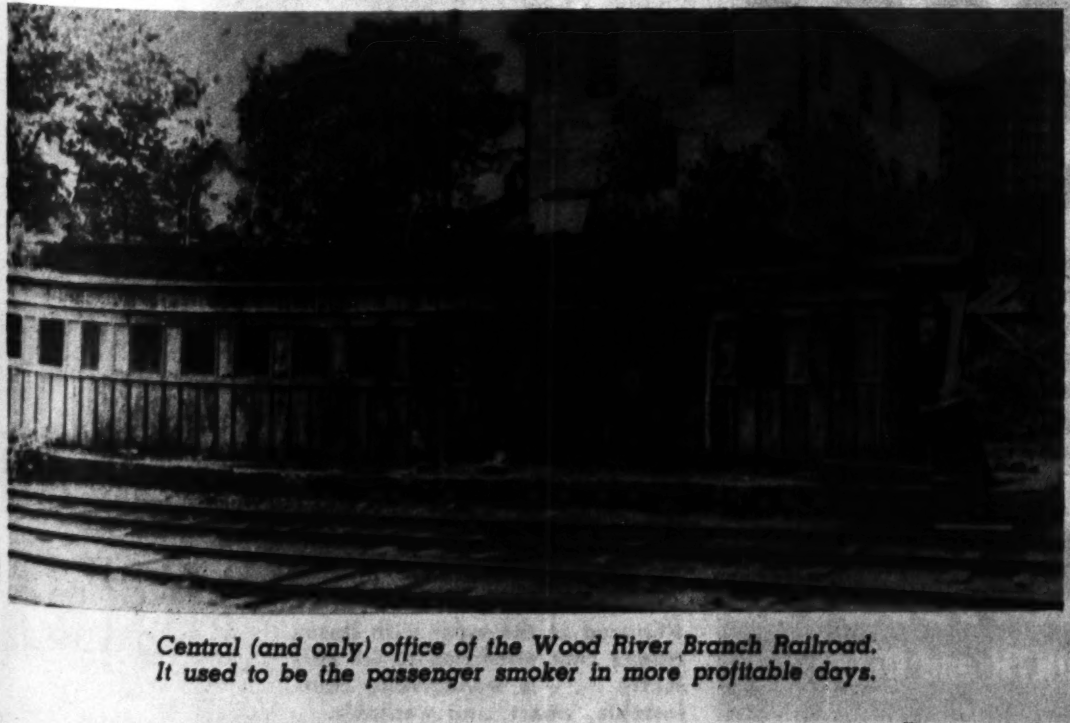
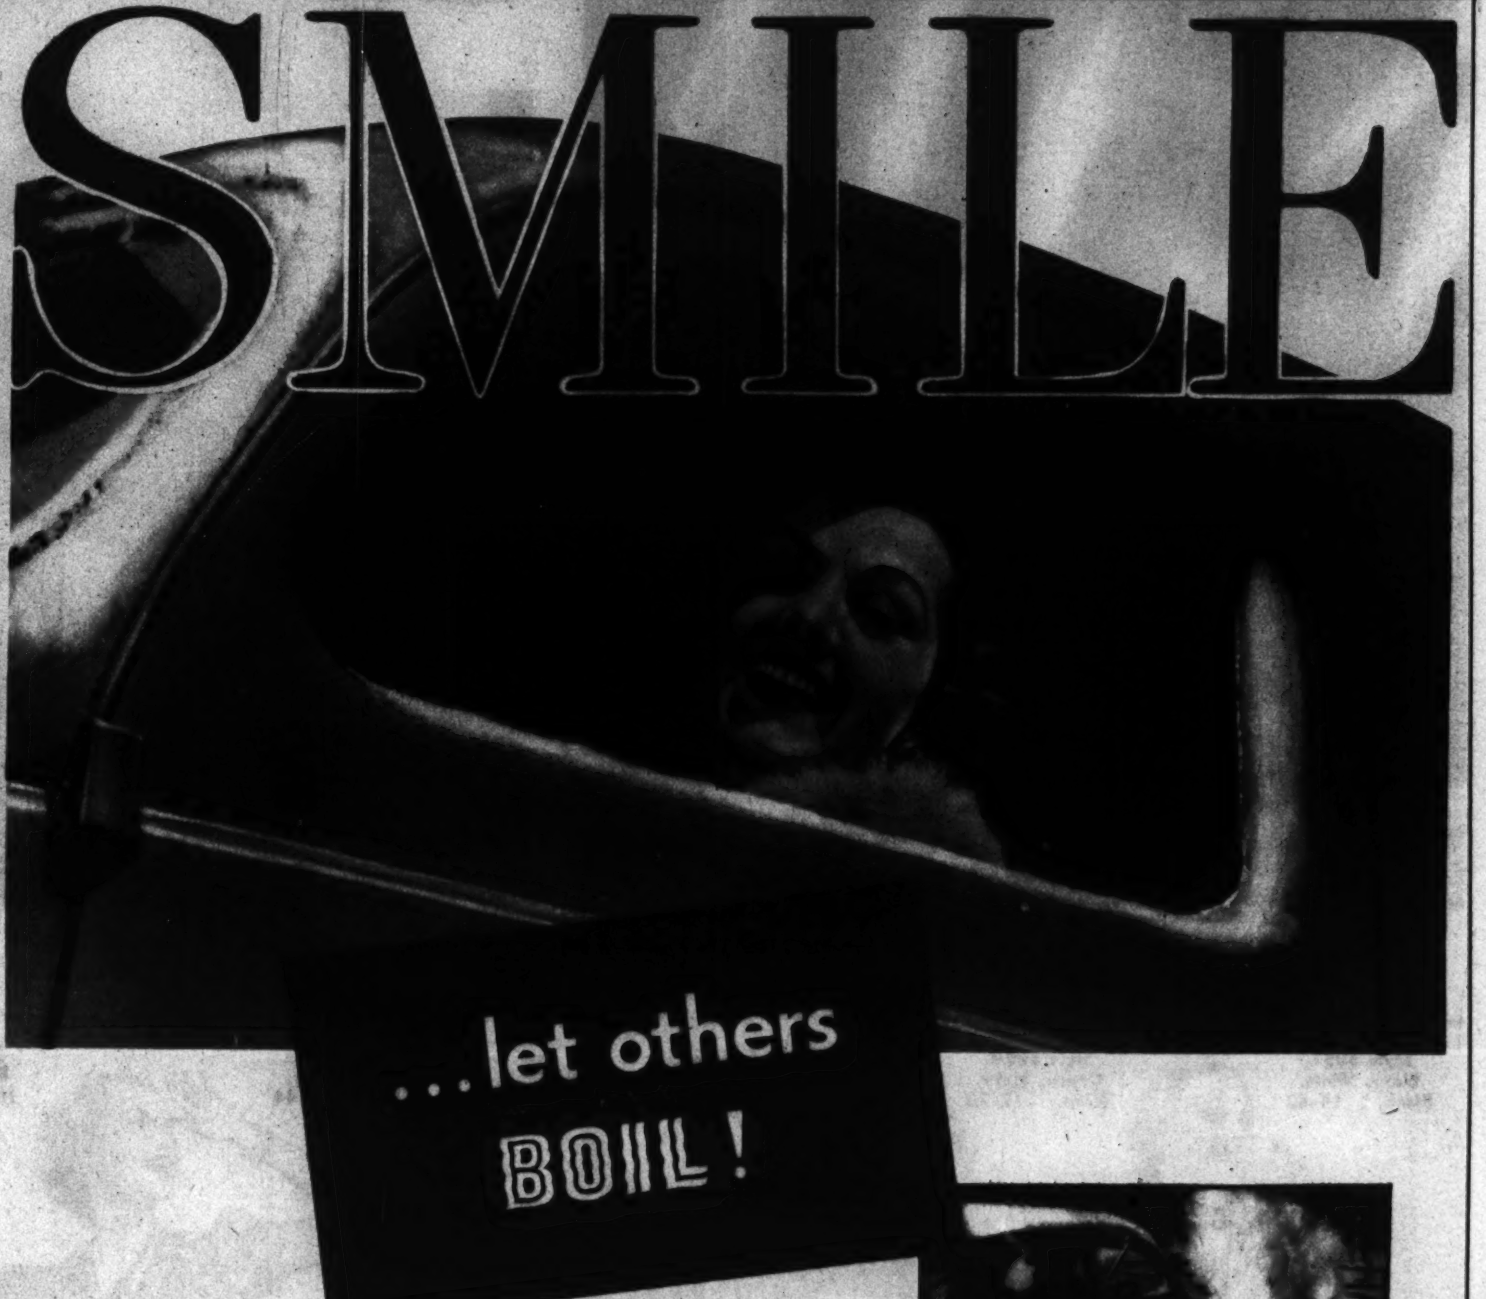
The old caboose is the freight car. Engineer Schofield is the official baggage handler.



Central (and only) office of the Wood River Branch Railroad. It used to be the passenger smoker in more profitable days.



WHEN you buy "Eveready" "Prestone" anti-freeze, you buy all winter protection for your car. "Prestone" anti-freeze is more than just anti-freeze.

Most any other kind of anti-freeze will guard against freezing . . . until it boils away. But "Prestone" anti-freeze protects your car against engine heat . . . the thief that steals volatile anti-freeze.

Have fun this winter. Cut driving worries. Protect your family, as well as yourself, from freeze-up caused by boil-away. Smile with "Prestone" anti-freeze . . . let others boil!

YEAR AFTER YEAR, more and more "Prestone" anti-freeze has been made and sold, yet demand has outrun production. This winter, we expect there will be enough for everyone, for early in the year tremendous new production facilities went into full-time operation. Still, to be sure, get yours EARLY!

Anti-freeze that boils away on warm days leaves you unprotected for the next cold wave.

Loss of radiator solution causes freezing, stops circulation. This in turn causes overheating which costs motorists millions every year.

WORLD'S END

As Depicted by a Planetarium Artist

THOUSANDS and thousands of years from now, the end of the world may come about in any one of several ways, according to the staff of Hayden Planetarium in New York City. The five most probable ways are the subjects of lectures being given by the Hayden staff as a part of its campaign to popularize astronomy. Walter Favreau, staff artist of the planetarium, here depicts the ways in which catastrophe may strike.

He pictures the end of all earthly life by the cooling of the sun, or by explosion in a burst of heat, or tidal disruption emanating from the moon, or impact of a large asteroid or meteor.

Tidal waves, volcanic eruptions, earthquakes follow explosion of the moon by tidal pull with fragments bombarding the earth.

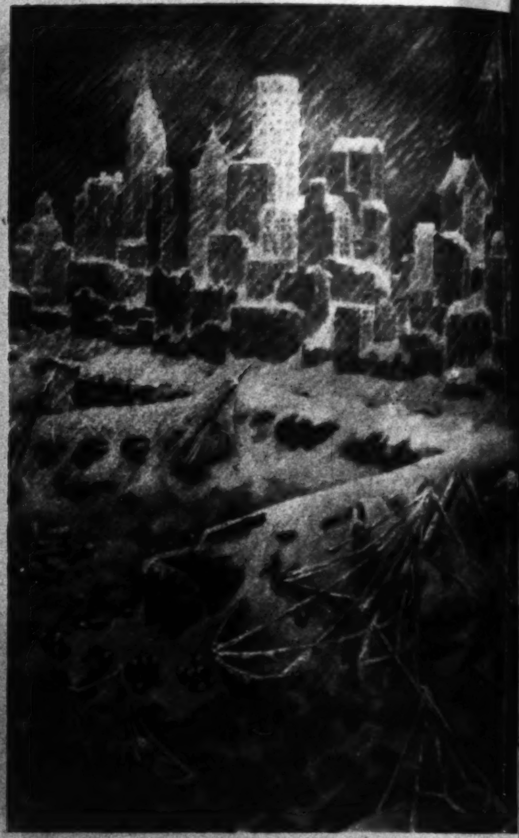
A meteor plunges into the ocean while stars shine over the city.



The sun cools and all the world is frozen, lifeless, drifted over.

I HEARD THAT CRACK ABOUT MY KID, AND YOU'RE GOING TO TAKE IT BACK OR ELSE....
HERBERT! HERBERT! DON'T! HE DIDN'T MEAN IT THAT WAY!
YOU'D DRAW A BETTER CROWD AT THE FAIR GROUNDS. WHAT'S WRONG?
OH, UNCLE DAN, HERBERT HEARD HIM SAY OUR BABY LOOKED PUNY....
I'LL SHOW THAT BUTTINSKI WHO'S PUNY!!
LOOK, HERB, GETTING IN A FIGHT NEVER YET CHANGED AN UNPLEASANT TRUTH INTO A PLEASANT ONE. LET'S HASH THIS OVER.
SURE ENOUGH, WHAT'S CALLED ADVICE WHEN IT COMES FROM A FRIEND IS USUALLY AN INSULT FROM A STRANGER. NOW, ABOUT YOUNG BILLY...
GOOD FOR YOU, UNCLE DAN. THE BABY HASN'T BEEN DOING WELL. I'VE BEEN WORRIED ABOUT HIS GETTING THOSE AWFUL RICKETS.
ARE YOU DOING WHAT MOST DOCTORS ADVISE? GIVING THE BABY COD LIVER OIL? THERE'S NOTHING LIKE IT TO HELP BUILD SOUND BONES AND GUARD AGAINST RICKETS!
BUT THE BABY DIDN'T SEEM TO BE ABLE TO DIGEST COD LIVER OIL. IT UPSET HIM.
THEN WHY NOT GIVE THE LITTLE TIKE THE FORM OF COD LIVER OIL THAT IS MORE EASILY DIGESTED?.... GIVE HIM SCOTT'S EMULSION.
SCOTT'S EMULSION IS SELECTED COD LIVER OIL THAT'S EMULSIFIED. CLINICAL TESTS SHOW IT'S MORE THAN FOUR TIMES AS EASY TO DIGEST AS PLAIN COD LIVER OIL. WHAT'S MORE, IT'S PLEASANT-TASTING.
SOUNDS LIKE MIGHTY GOOD SENSE COMING FROM SOMEONE WHO'S HELPED AS MANY FOLKS AS YOU HAVE, DAN
I'LL START BILLY ON SCOTT'S EMULSION RIGHT AWAY!
WHAT A DARLING!
SEE HOW HE'S GROWN!
SO GOOD-LOOKING!
FUNNY THING. HERB HASN'T OFFERED TO SCRAP WITH ONE OF THEM FOR TALKING ABOUT HIS BABY.
HE'S PROUD AS PUNCH! AND I CAN'T BLAME HIM WHEN I SEE WHAT SCOTT'S EMULSION HAS DONE FOR BILLY!
SCOTT'S EMULSION'S A FINE THING FOR GROWN-UPS, TOO. THOSE COD LIVER OIL VITAMINS HELP BUILD RESISTANCE AGAINST COLDS AND HELP KEEP A PERSON FROM GETTING RUN-DOWN IF THERE'S A DEFICIENCY OF VITAMINS A AND D
AND DON'T FORGET THAT SCOTT'S EMULSION IS SELECTED COD LIVER OIL EMULSIFIED TO MAKE IT FOUR TIMES EASIER TO DIGEST THAN PLAIN COD LIVER OIL... AND PLEASANT-TASTING, TOO!

THERE GOES YOUR OLD BALL GAME, CARTER!
COME ON, GUYS —NEVER TOO LATE!
ONLY A MINUTE OR SO TO PLAY, WITH CALUMET LEADING 7 TO 6,— CALUMET PROBABLY WILL KICK DOWNFIELD OUT OF DANGER
CALUMET IS STALLING! CARTER IS HELPLESS IN THE FACE OF THAT!
THEY'RE NOT TRYING TO GAIN—THEY'RE JUST RUNNING PLAYS SLOWLY TO KEEP THE BALL!
THIRD DOWN— THEY'LL PUNT THIS TIME SURE!
LET'S GET IN THERE AND BLOCK THAT KICK!
THE CALUMET CENTER UNCORKS A BAD PASS—AS THE BALL SAILS OVER THE KICKER'S HEAD, EAGER CARTER PLAYERS SMASH THROUGH CALUMET'S FORWARD WALL—
CARTER'S BALL! FIRST AND TEN ON CALUMET'S FIFTEEN!
WOLF, CARTER'S SPECTACULAR INDIAN HALF-BACK, DIVES THREE TIMES HIS LENGTH AND BEATS CALUMET'S KICKER TO THE BALL!
BUT, I TELL YOU THAT PLAY IS SO OLD IT HAS WHISKERS A YARD LONG, NED
I'M CALLING SIGNALS, BUD! IF WE FAIL I'LL TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY KNOCK DOWN THAT PASS!
THERE GOES THE GUN!

MISS GIRARD, I IMAGINE YOU MUST KNOW OF LOTS OF CASES WHERE JIU-JITSU CAME IN MIGHTY HANDY IN EVERYDAY LIFE
I CERTAINLY DO. HERE'S AN EXPERIENCE THAT COULD HAPPEN TO ANY OF US—AND DID!
HERE'S THE STORY OF HOW A FRAIL GIRL SUBDUED A THUG BY JIU-JITSU
"IT WAS EARLY IN THE EVENING—I HAD JUST LEFT THE HOUSE AND WAS WALKING ON A NEW YORK STREET. SOMETHING TOLD ME I WAS BEING FOLLOWED. SURE ENOUGH, WHEN I TURNED, THERE HE WAS... A BIG, UGLY-LOOKING BRUTE OF A MAN—"
"SUDDENLY HE LUNGED FOR MY HANDBAG"
"BEFORE HE COULD STRIKE ME, I BLOCKED HIS ARM ASIDE—" HEY, WHAT THE—
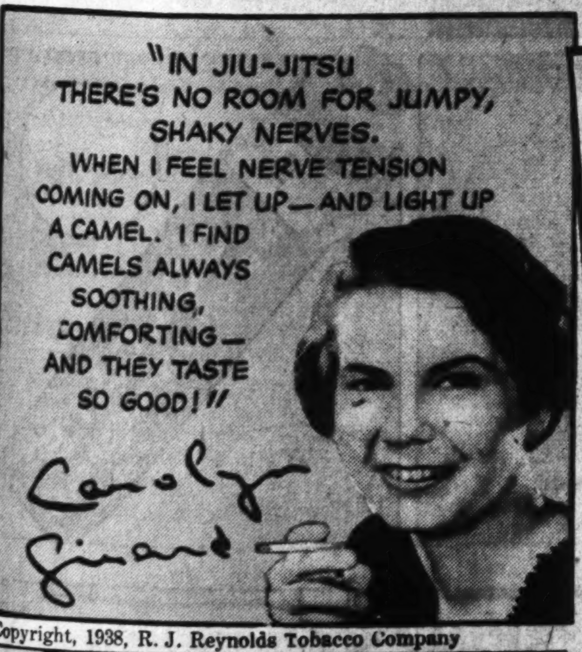
"THEN I TRIPPED HIM BACKWARDS, STRAIGHT-ARMING HIS SHOULDER—"
UGH!
"COMPLETELY OFF BALANCE, HE CRASHED TO THE SIDEWALK, AS I QUICKLY PUT A WRIST-TWIST ON HIM"
EASY, LADY, I WON'T MOVE!
"AND THAT HELD HIM UNTIL A POLICEMAN CAME UP"
"THE WRIST-TWIST, APPLIED LIKE THIS, IS ONE OF THE SIMPLEST, BUT MOST EFFECTIVE JIU-JITSU METHODS OF SUBDUING A STRONG OPPONENT—"
MY, THAT MUST HAVE BEEN EXCITING! WILL YOU HAVE A CAMEL, MISS GIRARD?
I CERTAINLY WILL. CAMEL IS MY FAVORITE CIGARETTE



"IN JIU-JITSU THERE'S NO ROOM FOR JUMPY, SHAKY NERVES. WHEN I FEEL NERVE TENSION COMING ON, I LET UP—AND LIGHT UP A CAMEL. I FIND CAMELS ALWAYS SOOTHING, COMFORTING—AND THEY TASTE SO GOOD!"

WHY BETTY! WHAT ARE YOU DOING OUT HERE? I THOUGHT YOU'D BE DANCING WITH THAT BOY I'VE HEARD YOU SPEAK OF SO OFTEN!
NO SUCH LUCK, AUNTIE! I'M CRAZY ABOUT JIMMY--BUT HE DOESN'T EVEN KNOW I'M ON EARTH!
THERE'S SOMETHING WRONG WHEN A BOY IGNORES AN ATTRACTIVE GIRL LIKE YOU, BETTY. IF I WERE YOU, DEAR, I'D--WELL, I'D SPEAK TO OUR DENTIST ABOUT BAD BREATH!
TESTS SHOW THAT MOST BAD BREATH COMES FROM DECAYING FOOD DEPOSITS IN HIDDEN CREVICES BETWEEN TEETH THAT AREN'T CLEANED PROPERLY. I RECOMMEND COLGATE DENTAL CREAM. ITS SPECIAL PENETRATING FOAM REMOVES THESE ODOR-BREEDING DEPOSITS. AND THAT'S WHY...
LATER – THANKS TO COLGATE'S – NO BAD BREATH BEHIND HER SPARKLING SMILE!
IT'S A BEAUTIFUL RING, BETTY--BUT I'M AFRAID JIM'S BEEN VERY EXTRAVAGANT!
NOTHING BUT THE BEST IS GOOD ENOUGH FOR BETTY!
...AND NO TOOTHPASTE EVER MADE MY TEETH AS BRIGHT AND CLEAN AS COLGATE'S!

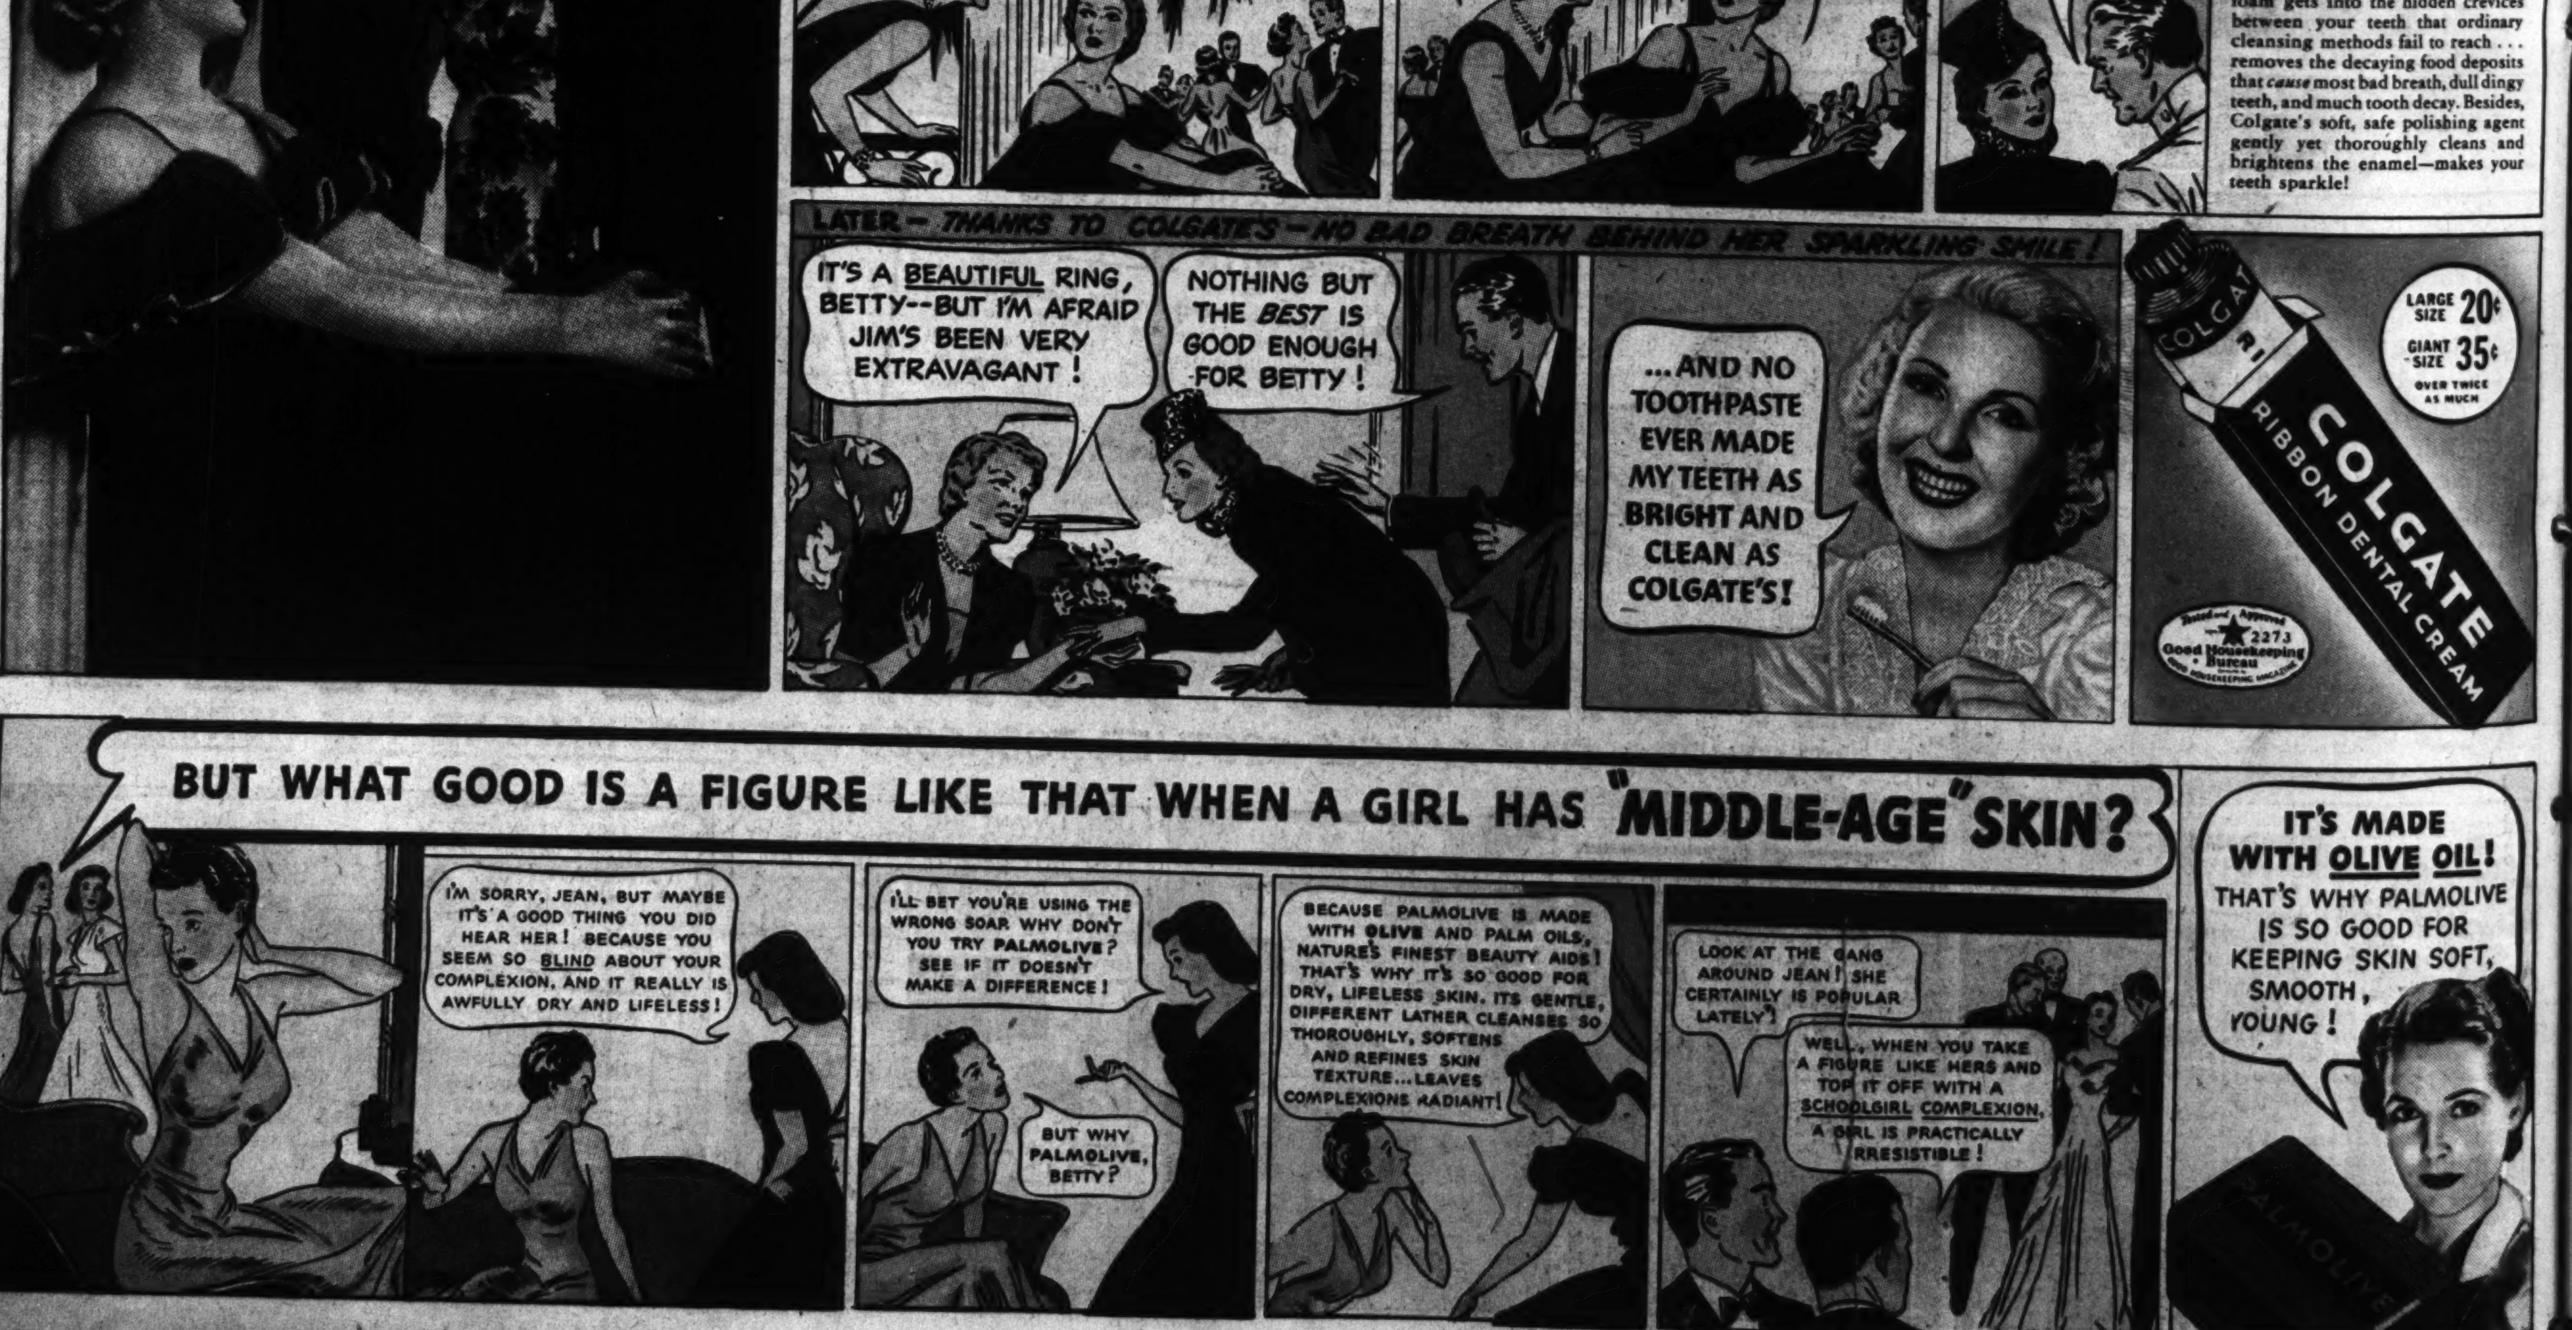
COLGATE DENTAL CREAM combats bad breath. Its special penetrating foam gets into the hidden crevices between your teeth that ordinary cleansing methods fail to reach . . . removes the decaying food deposits that cause most bad breath, dull dingy teeth, and much tooth decay. Besides, Colgate's soft, safe polishing agent gently yet thoroughly cleans and brightens the enamel—makes your teeth sparkle!



BUT WHAT GOOD IS A FIGURE LIKE THAT WHEN A GIRL HAS "MIDDLE-AGE" SKIN?
I'M SORRY, JEAN, BUT MAYBE IT'S A GOOD THING YOU DID HEAR HER! BECAUSE YOU SEEM SO BLIND ABOUT YOUR COMPLEXION, AND IT REALLY IS AWFULLY DRY AND LIFELESS!
I'LL BET YOU'RE USING THE WRONG SOAP. WHY DON'T YOU TRY PALMOLIVE? SEE IF IT DOESN'T MAKE A DIFFERENCE!
BUT WHY PALMOLIVE, BETTY?
BECAUSE PALMOLIVE IS MADE WITH OLIVE AND PALM OILS, NATURE'S FINEST BEAUTY AIDS! THAT'S WHY IT'S SO GOOD FOR DRY, LIFELESS SKIN. ITS GENTLE, DIFFERENT LATHER CLEANSES SO THOROUGHLY, SOFTENS AND REFINES SKIN TEXTURE...LEAVES COMPLEXIONS RADIANT!
LOOK AT THE GANG AROUND JEAN! SHE CERTAINLY IS POPULAR LATELY!
WELL, WHEN YOU TAKE A FIGURE LIKE HERS AND TOP IT OFF WITH A SCHOOLGIRL COMPLEXION, A GIRL IS PRACTICALLY IRRESISTIBLE!
IT'S MADE WITH OLIVE OIL! THAT'S WHY PALMOLIVE IS SO GOOD FOR KEEPING SKIN SOFT, SMOOTH, YOUNG!

G. G. Rumirch, Who H Pleaded Guilty, Tak Stand for Government New York Trial of Thr Persons.

WROTE FOR JOB AND OBTAINED

Says His First Assignme Was to Get Numbers Coast Artillery Regimen — For This He Receiv $40.

By SPENCER R. McCULLOCH
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The tr of three alleged underlings in German espionage ring charg with conspiracy to violate the pionage Act got under way tod before United States District Jud John C. Knox in a crowded cou room.

One defendant, Guenther Gust Rumrich, a United States army serter, who pleaded guilty wh the jury was chosen Friday, to the stand today, after the openi statements of counsel, as one of t Government's principal witnesses.

The other defendants are Eri Glaser, a former United Stat Army private; Johanna Hofman former hairdresser on the Nor German Lloyd liner Europa, and Otto Herman Voss.

Rumrich Is Witness.

Slim, sallow, with a black pom padour, Rumrich was neatly dress in a gray double-breasted suit a kept his hands folded in his la Preliminary questions brought o he was born in Chicago in 1911 b went to Germany when he was and lived abroad until 1929, wh he returned to this country. H father wa sin the Austrian Co sular Service.

Rumrich told his United Stat army career, during which he ro to a sergeantcy, serving in t Panama Canal Zone and then Montana. He committed irreg larities there in connection with mess fund in his charge, he sa and deserted Jan. 2, 1936, flei to New York by bus and leavi his wife, whom he had secre married.

He said he became friendly w the defendant Glaser while bo were serving in the Canal Zo After his desertion, he said, worked at odd jobs in New Yo finally landing a part-time positi in a language school.

Application for Job.

Rumrich disclosed that he beca interested in the National Sociali movement in Germany and af reading a book in the New Yo Public Library by Col. Nicol World War head of the Germ Intelligence Service, decided to ply for a job as an intellige agent. So in 1936 he wrote the ficer, inclosing his letter in one a German newspaper, giving a pa ly false military record, asserti he had been an aviation lieutena

In accordance with a prearrang plan, Rumrich said, a classif advertisement appeared in the N York Times, informing him w whom to communicate and givi a postoffice box number in G many. Rumrich wrote as direct reoutlining his army experience a educational qualifications.

Fianlly, he testified, the Germ contact man directed him by ter to find out the numbers of co artillery regiments in this ar Rumrich said he did so.

His letters of instruction w dated at Hamburg, he said, mailed in New York. One let inclosed $40 and said his inform tion about the artillery regime had been correct and sought furth military information.

Outline of U. S. Case.

Lamar Hardy, United States torney for the Southern District New York, outlined the Gove ment's case today in his openi statement to the jury.

The jurors indicated, in repl to questions at the time of th selection Friday, that they wo not be affected by the fact that defendants are relatively "sm fry." Fourteen co-defendants, cluding several alleged "mas minds," left the United States time to avoid arrest.

Hardy asserted the defendants trial conspired to obtain infor tion about our national defense transmit it to Germany in acco ance with a plan conceived by ficials of the War Ministry of t country.
